RELAX AND REMOVE THE WRINKLES.

TULLULAH BANKHEAD.

By MARIAN HALE.

Tullulah Bankhead is considered one of the most beautiful blondes on Broadway.

In her new play, "The Exciters," she excites as much admiration for her beauty as for her acting.

By TULLULAH BANKHEAD.

Women don't expect to be artists or musicians without practice and study, but they apparently see nothing illogical about becoming beauties without effort.

Now beauty is just as much an art as painting. Some women have more talent for it than others, but everyone is capable of a normal development.

The old misstatement that beauties are born, not made, should no longer be credited.

I believe that facial massage is one of the greatest aids to beauty, and that it does more than any one thing to give a woman a well-groomed, youthful appearance.

Some nice, sunny day take your hand-mirror where a strong light will be reflected on it and look carefully for any young lines that seem to be getting a start.

You'll be most apt to find them around the corner of your eyes. To remove these, dip your fingers in massage cream and rub the surface very gently, working outward from the corners with a rotary motion.

Then see if a tale line seems to be making a path from the nostrils to the corners of the lips.

If you are splendidly even-tempered, and have your emotions nicely under control, you may find nothing here, but if you aren't, get ready to do some work here. Begin at the corners of the mouth and massage upward with your finger tips to the point where the lines end. Use more pressure than when working about the eyes.

The forehead usually needs attention. It collects both vertical and horizontal lines if left to its own devices.

Press out the vertical lines between the lines by rotary movements toward the temples, and the diagonal ones by a rotary motion over the entire surface.

If the lines between your eyes are deep, try putting a strip of adhesive tape across the forehead at night. This will correct the sagging muscles.

Then take care of your neck. Massage it, too, working upward toward the hair.

And while you are massaging, relax. What really causes wrinkles is nervous strain and tension. Your mind gets wrinkled too.

After the massage, remove the excess cream and rub on a mild astringent and follow with an application of ice or very cold water.

See if you can't add beauty and subtract years by following this very simple program.

While Switzerland is importing "Swiss" cheese from the United States, it'll be a long time before the folks up around the Arctic Circle will be asking us for a consignment of "Eskimo pie."

POSSIBILITY OF ELECTION SOON LATEST RUMOR

MANY CANDIDATES.

LONDON, Sept. 15. —(Canadian Press.)— Discussing the rumors of the possibility of a general election being held this autumn, and the intention of the Labor Party in connection therewith, Egerton Wake, the national agent of the party, said the Labor Party and its affiliated bodies had conserved their political funds, despite the economic pressure from the trade depression, and was ready for the election, whenever it came. Wake denied that the Executive of the Labor Party was considering the question of reducing the number of Labor candidates in order to afford opportunities to candidates of another party.

The policy of the Labor Party, Wake said, was an extended front and encouragement to every constituency where the organization's resources were available and the promotion of the candidates' interests. There were at present, he said, 400 endorsed Labor candidates, and another fifty constituencies were negotiating for candidates. Still other constituencies were developing their organiztaions with a view to securing Labor candidates.

Half the Labor candidates, Wake said, were nominees of Trade Unions, fifty were nominees of the Independent Labor Party, while 150 were nominees of the local Labor parties. The candidates included so-called intellectuals, such, for instance, as army and navy officers, literary men, doctors, ministers, university professors and school teachers.

MONTREAL, Sept. 15 — (Canadian Press).—A one day armistice was agreed upon yesterday between Montreal daily newspaper publishers and their printers on the wage dispute. Good Turnout in Spite of Showers—Sunshine Will Make Last Two Days a Big Success.

THE AWARDS

The weatherman's scattered showers on the first two days of Peterborough's Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition left the directors just two more chances of sunshine, and one of these was regarded as extremely doubtful when the probabilities on Thursday evening threatened rain for Friday. The best possible percentage of sunshine was a fifty-fifty split, and the heavy skies that closed upon the second day when the gates were locked last night were interpreted by the pessimists as a sign of more gloom for Friday with the further reduction of the percentage of light and brightness and gate receipts to one-third. It was even suggested that this year's Exhibition seemed doomed to four wet days.

"There's no use getting downhearted about it," President Denne consoled his fellow directors last night. "The weather is one element we can't control. We've done our best and the people have shown a fine willingness to co-operate with us, and if we get an even break on the weather we will consider ourselves lucky. One bright spot so far has been the way the people have turned out in spite of the unfavorable and uncomfortable conditions. They have demonstrated that we not only have their sympathy, but also their support, and since we didn't get the expected or the usual crowds on Wednesday and Thursday, I feel certain the people will make up for it on Friday and Saturday if they get half a chance."

Two of the melancholy days of the year evidently strayed into mid-September, although they should not be due for another month, and intermittent rain struck the Fair at its most vulnerable spot. The sun came up early Thursday morning with a fine romise of presiding for the rest of the week, but by ten o'clock the scene at the Exhibition Grounds was turned to gloom by clouds that spread all across the sky, and as the day wore on the big park presented a dismal aspect that seemed to be heightened by the feeble colors of the pennants and bunting and the futile attempts to enliven the proceedings and even to carry on as usual.

The Peterborough Exhibition has had its share of rainy days in its long and checkered history, and this week's experience again emphasized the fact that the best laid plans of willing and enthusiastic directors sometimes are upset by merciless mischance.

NEW FIGURES FOR TORONTO ABATTOIR

Effort Will Be Made to Show That the Deficit Reported Last Year Was Not Right.

OTTAWA, Sept. 15.— (Canadian Press.)— Figures from the Toronto civic abattoir—frequently pointed to locally as an example of the impracticability of such a venture—are being prepared by Ald. P. J. Nolan, Ald. Rupert Broadfoot and Controller Cameron to show city council that the Toronto situation has been greatly misunderstood.

Last year a loss of $57,000 was reported from the Toronto abattoir. Ald. Nolan has analysis to prove the amount unfair. In taxes, he states, $14,476 was charged against the abattoir. The other commercial abattoirs were exempt from taxation, the Swift, Harris, Gunn and Union Stock Yards. The Swift and Union plants had exemption for 20 years and there remains eight years' exemption to each. The others have longer future exemption. In addition the Harris plant at least had free water while the city paid $7,483 on its plant.

Depreciation amounting to $24,449.94, and $17,635 interest were charged against the plant, both of which were considered unfair. The interest charge covered all previous losses and debentures. On account of a mistake in the city treasurer's department in 1919, $2,852.94 was added to the loss.

The manager, W. R. Cornell told the Ottawa delegation that he dropped $13,838 on operating expenses last year, but he pointed out that it was a poor year for by-products. From inventories made in May he estimated he would have a full $15,000 over operating expenses in 1922.

The report of the committee comes before the city council Monday night.

U.S. EMBARGO WILL NOT AFFECT POLICY OF CANADIAN RAILS

FOR COAL AND FOOD.

OTTAWA, Sept. 15.—(Canadian Press.)—The fact that many of the largest American railroads, including the New York Central, have placed an embargo on the transportation of certain commodities, with the exception of coal and food for human consumption, will have no effect on the future policy of Canadian railways, according to prominent railroaders here. The responsibility for the action of the American railway rests on the congestion in freight circles, around cetrain centres as a result of the sudden rush to carry coal, arising from the settlement of the miners' strike, recently effected.

There is no likelihood of a similar action as far, as the Canadian National-Grand Trunk is concerned, according to Mr. E. L. Lamplough, superintendent for the Ottawa district. Freight conditions of the Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railway are such that all the coal obtained can be handled quite efficiently, without interfering with the transportation of other products, states Mr. Lamplough. The same applies to the C.P.R. in the opinion of their representatives here. Nor will the policy of the New York Central have any effect on their Canadian branches. Their agencies here are sufficiently organized to handle easily any coal that may fall to their lot without undue interference with the regular schedules.

SEPARATE SCHOOLS IN VICTORIA FOR CHINESE.

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 15.—(Canadian Press).—Segregation of Chinese school children in this city is being undertaken from purely an educational rather than a racial standpoint, according to a resolution passed by the school board, and announced yesterday. The question of the segregation of Chinese childden was considered in camera.

The resolution made no mention of Chinese, but states that certain school accommodation will be set aside for the teaching of classes of all pupils whose limited knowledge of the English language is causing retardation to themselves as well as interfering with satisfactory progress of other pupils in the same class.

SIR MONTAGU ALLAN'S TRIAL ON SEPT. 21.

MONTREAL, Sept. 15—(Canadian Press).—The trial of Sir H. Montagu Allan, former president of the Merchants Bank of Canada, was yesterday fixed pro forma for September 21, but that is only a temporary date to enable counsel for both sides to consult with the chief judge of sessions as to when the trial shall proceed.

Sir Montagu was released on his personal parole, Chief Judge Decarie remarking "some people may well afford to lose even a big amount of money and could not afford to lose their word."

UNIVERSITIES MUST DEVELOP LEADERS.

EDMONTON, Sept. 15.—(Canadian Press).—"If this dominion is ever to be what we all think and hope it will be, a great respoonsibility rests upon the universities to develop leadership," said Lord Byng in replying to the presentation of an honorary degree of L.L. D. at a special convention in the University of Alberta Assembly Hall yesterday

With this as the burden of his remarks Lord Byng accepted the Alberta doctorate signed his name to the roll and expressed his appreciation of the distinction thus conferred upon him.

FORMER ALDERMAN HAS DISAPPEARED.

PORT WILLIAM, Ont., Sept. 15.—(Canadian Press).—Considerable anxiety is felt by the friends of former Alderman S. J. Robb, who has not been seen since ten o'clock on Tuesday morning. He had given no intimation that he was going away and there is no trace of his having purchased a railway ticket or steamship ticket. He was formerly in the mineral water business and is comfortably off financially.

WELSH COAL PRICES.

OTTAWA, Sept. 15.—(Canadian Press.) — Douglas S. Cole, acting trade commissioner in Glasgow, has notified the department of trade and commerce that towards the end of August best selected Welsh anthracite was quoted at from 57 to 62 shillings f.o.b. Swansea dependent upon quality, size and quantity. The ocean freight rate would total approximately 14s to Montreal which, says Mr. Cole, would make an average price of 74 shillings Montreal, $16.65 in Canadian funds at $4.50 to the pound.

SPECIAL DUTY IS IMPOSED AGAINST ONTARIO LEATHER

U.S. Will Enforce Anti-Dumping Regulations Against Sole Leather and Oxide of Iron.

HOW IT WORKS.

OTTAWA, Sept. 15.— (Canadian Press.)— Sole leather from Ontario and oxide of iron from Quebec have been placed on the list of articles coming within the provisions of the United States anti-dumping regulations, the department of trade and commerce is informed by Frederic Hudd, Canadian trade commissioner at New York. This is pursuant to the latest decision affecting Canada of the division of customs of the United States treasury department. The anti-dumping legislation provides that in case of imported merchandise, whether dutiable or free if the purchase price or the exporter's sale price is less than the foreign market value (or, in the absence of such value, then the cost of production) there shall be levied, in addition to the duties already imposed, a special dumping duty in an amount equal to the difference.

MANY APPLICATIONS FOR VICTORY BONDS.

OTTAWA, Sept. 15.— (Canadian Press.)— Heavy shipments of 1922 Victory bonds are daily being received by the finance department for conversion into new bonds bearing 5 1-2 per cent. interest and running for a further period of five or ten years as desired. Many holders have expressed a wish to take up considerably more of the new bonds than they have of the maturing loan, but this is not permitted as cash subscriptions are not being invited at the present time. It is pointed out at the finance department that such persons may add to their holdings of 1922 bonds by purchasing them in the market or from holders who require the cash. The bonds so purchased may then be surrendered for the new bonds.

CROP SITUATION MUCH IMPROVED.

EDMONTON, Alta., Sept. 15. — (Canadian Press.)— The crop situation throughout Alberta has improved to such an extent that officials of the department of agriculture are now of the opinion that the estimate of thirteen bushels of wheat to the acre as recently announced from Ottawa is on the low rather than the high side. Wheat harvesting is now practically completed and threshing is well under way in all parts of the province.

It is believed that the wheat crop when gathered, will be found to be the best for at least two years. Oats, however, are lighter than usual, largely for the reason that this crop does not withstand the dry weather as well as wheat.

JAIL AWAITS THE SELLER OF BEER.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 15.—(Canadian Press).—Sale of strong beer in Winnipeg hotels must be stopped, it is announced by provincial police and henceforth offenders who have been once convicted will be charged under the second offence clause of the act which carries a jail sentence without any alternative Many hotels have been selling beer freely during the past few months and paying heavy fines at frequent intervals.

THE WEATHER

In yesterday's Examiner there was an item on the last page in which a mild winter was predicted by a Belleville man, because there were he said, few beechnuts, or other nuts. An Ashburnham gentleman, who is much in the surrounding woods, has told me he never saw such a crop of beechnuts as there is this fall; and butter nuts and the buds on the cedars are unusually plentiful. You may take your choice. Another gentleman told me yesterday that the beech tree was a poor weather prophet, as a year ago this fall beechnuts were plentiful, and a particularly mild winter followed. A George street butcher, whose reputation as a weather prophet, is winning him fame, foretells the coming weather on a different plan. He claims that the weather on the first Thursday in Dec., Feb., June and Sept., dominates the weather for the following three months, and that the wind on that particular day will be the prevalent wind for the next three months. The first Thursday in the present month was warm with southerly winds, hence the outlook for the next three months is favorable. My own candid opinion is that nature signs and man-made forecasts for a coming season are to be little trusted. — W. P.

GERMANY REFUSES TO PAY GOLD DEMANDED BY BELGIUM AND THE SITUATION IS BECOMING GRAVE

Smyrna Burning and Fire Beyond Control

ROME, Sept. 15. — (Canadian Press).—Italian ships are attempting to take off the Italian colony of Smyrna due to the fire which is reported raging in that city. The Italian Government has despatched several vessels to Smyrna with provisions and medical stores. It has also issued instructions that all Italian warships must concentrate at Smyrna waters to provide shelter for Italian residents.

Scores of buildings in the European section of the city are destroyed, including the United States Consulate. Allied soldiers formed a fire brigade but the conflagration is beyond their control. The property damage is estimated into millions. The fire originated in the Armenian quarter and spread rapidly.

GERMANS ARE OPTIMISTIC.

PARIS, Sept. 15. — (Canadian Press.)—The newly developed crisis in the reparations question became so acute last night upon receipt of Berlin advices that Germany had categorically refused to give up the 100,000,000 gold marks demanded by Belgium as a guarantee of the six months' note issue on account of reparations, that the members of the commission decided the situation has gone beyond their control and requires the immediate attention of the allied premiers.

Sir John Bradbury, British member of the commission, is proceeding to London to lay the matter in detail before Premier Lloyd George, while M. Poincare has assumed command of the French side of the negotiations. The Italian and Belgian Premiers also are handling the situation for their countries.

Belgium's request for gold deposit not later than to-day instead of being of merely a diplomatic manoeuvre to permit discussion as at first indicated, now appears to be a stern demand with the full backing of the French and Belgian Governments.

The meeting yesterday of the French cabinet it was authoritatively stated that official notification of Germany's refusal to deliver the gold will be followed by the laying of the matter before the Reparations committee by Belgian and a French demand for a declaration of Germany's voluntary default.

An official communique issued by the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs respecting the meeting between M. Poincare and M. Dubois of the Reparations Committee at Rambouiliet, says: "The Cabinet Council, through the premier, gave definite instructions to M. Dubois concerning the French attitude in the event of Germany's failure to comply with the reparations committee's decision of August 31."

M. Dubois, who is president of the commission will exercise his right to cast the deciding vote in the event that Great Britain and Italy oppose declaration, as is probable. The members of the cabinet took a very critical view of the situation and gave explicit instructions to M. Dubois to demand action by the commission unless the gold is deposited.

The refusal of Germany to pay the £1,500,000 due to-day as part payment of her private pre-war debts to allied nationals, has served to stiffen the atttiude of the cabinet. The recent London conference reduced the payments due in August and Septmbr from £4,000,000 to £2,000,000. Germany has paid £500,000 and was required to pay the balance today.

French policy is being directed toward a formal assertion from the commission of Germany's voluntary default; it is reliably stated that France will then request an immeditae conference of the allied powers to consider the reparations situation and an effort will be made to reach an agreement with Great Britain on the French debt and also a definite settlement of the reparations question. No military measures would be taken unless the conference broke down.

The British differ strongly with the French in the present crisis, and believe that Germany's offer should be accepted. They contend that the commission never contemplated that Belgium would actually demand gold, such provision being put into the decision simply for use as a last resort.

Despite the very serious turn of events, the German delegation in Paris remains calm and optimistic. When informed that the cabinet had decided upon a stern policy, one German official said:

"They always decide on stern measures. However, we have refused the gold, and shall continue to refuse it. But I think that some compromise will be effected, as the allies do not wish to precipitate trouble at this time."

SOME PROSPECT OF RECIPROCITY

Hon. A. B. Hudson, M.P., Says Advances Will Be Made in Near Future For Trade Agreement.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 15.—(Canadian Press).—Hon. A. B. Hudson, M. P. Independent Liberal member for South Winnipeg, told members of the Canadian Creditmen's Trust Association yesterday at luncheon that he had no doubt that within a reasonably short time some advances would be made in the direction of a reciprocal trade arrangement between Canada and the U S

It was quite apparent he said, from discussion during the last session of parliament, that all Progressive members and nearly all Liberals were in favor of such an arrangement, and he believed the swing of public feeling was very marked in some sections of Canada where reciprocity formerly was opposed.

THE WIDER HIGHWAY.

Some criticism has been heard because the Provincial Government has seen fit to widen the Port Hope-Peterborough Highway to a width of 86 feet, instead of the 66 feet allowance as originally intended.

The complaints are based on the idea that the wider road is an extravagance.

The benefits that will be derived, however, will more than compensate for the increased cost.

In the first place the widening of the highway should mean that the road will be a twelve-month-in-a-year one, inasmuch as the possibilities of the middle of the road being blocked with snow-drifts will be materially lessened. That is a most important matter, as the highway will be redoubled in value if it can be used during the winter months by motorists.

Again, the broader road means that footpaths for pedestrians can more easily be provided. Those who have to walk along the highway with its ever-increasing motor traffic will appreciate the added safety afforded by the wide road allowance.

The highway may cost more, but it will be worth it.

OUR LIGHTING SYSTEM.

Suggestions tending to improve Peterborough's Industrial Exhibition were asked for last week.

Here is one that while only indirectly affecting the Exhibition, is valuable because it calls attention to a crying need in Peterborough—the need of an improved lighting system:

Peterborough, 14th Sept., 1922.

To the Editor.

Adverting to your editorial of last week, in which you asked for suggestions to improve our Exhibition, I think George Street South should be lighted up a whole lot better so as to show the thousands of people who walk the way to the Exhibition, also to keep them from stepping in mud puddles, etc., otherwise they will have to purchase searchlights. Let Peterborough show its many visitors that it really is "An Electric City."

Hoping this suggestion is treated in the spirit in which it is given.

Yours very truly,
LET-THERE-BE-LIGHT.

Our correspondent has touched a sort spot.

There is nothing about our system of street lighting that suggests an "Electric City."

The first impressions of Peterborough to a traveller coming in at night, as afforded by a few dim incandescent lamps, are not the kind we would like to create.

And the lighting of our business section does nothing to drive away the first impressions.

PETERBOROUGH'S MANUFACTURES.

Peterborough people who visit the Industrial Exhibition cannot possibly pass through the Manufacturers' Building and view the exhibits there without a glow of pride in the manufacturing concerns of this city.

Many of the manufacturers have grasped the opportunity offered by the Exhibition to drive home the lesson that made-in-Peterborough products do not fear competition with similar goods made anywhere on the map.

The result is a series of exhibits that alone repay one for a visit to the Exhibition.

The manufacturers of Stratford, during the Toronto Exhibition, put over the biggest publicity scheme for the benefit of themselves and their home city than any Ontario manufacturing centre has ever before succeeded in doing.

They organized a made-in-Stratford exhibition, in which practically every manufacturing concern in the classic city co-operated. It was shown first at Stratford under most successful conditions. Then the whole display was sent to the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto, where it was a feature, visited by literally hundreds of thousands of people during the two weeks of the Exhibition. The value of this advertising to Stratford cannot be over-estimated.

WHO PAYS FOR STRIKES?

The worst of strikes is that the public always pays for them. The public settles the final bill, not only in the inconvenience suffered by being deprived of the product involved, but also settles in money, afterward, says the Detroit News. Business contends that it must live somehow—by which it means that its sacred profits must remain undisturbed—and hence the natural sequel of a protracted and costly strike is an increase in prices to consumers. That is, it is natural unless the public, through the public's government, intervenes to prevent the cost of an unnecessary struggle being saddled on it, or, better still, prevents the unnecessary struglge.

The governor of Iowa, N.E. Kendall, speaking in his home town at Albia, Iowa, protested against this practice of making the public pay for strikes. He took up specifically the statement of the head of a big coal company that his concern would increase prices this winter to make up the $75,000 it estimates it has lost in five months of private war with its workers.

"A more brazen announcement of a piratical purpose was never recorded in the annals of industry," said the governor. "If that policy is to be generally adopted, an entirely new equation will be introduced into business and the common people will underwrite the hazard of every enterprise."

It is rather naive to assume that the policy is new. All that is new is the blunt statement of it. Does anyone imagine that the coal operators have been paying out of their own pockets either for this war or for the many which have preceded it? Always the public pays. If the battle is won, the people who buy coal pay for the winning of it. If it is lost and an increase in wages is given, the people pay for the advance. No business can operate at a loss and continue to live. Losses must somehow be taken care of, either by an increase in price, greater economy in operatin or by some other method. The most convenient way, in the case of an industry handling an absolutely essential product, is to increase the price. The people must have coal and the people must pay whatever it costs to mine coal, plus a profit.

If this is true then the people have a right to say that the cost of mining coal shall not be inflated by the extravagance of [illegible] private wars in the coal regions. An industrial conference between capital and labor, would eliminate a huge unnecessary item of expense from the bill that the public ultimately pays.

THE AMERICAN TARIFF

The new American tariff, in its final form, remains, in most of its items, at the highest level that it has touched during its varied vicissitudes in both Houses of Congress. The Emergency Tariff, which was hurried into force immediately after President Harding's inauguration—that is to say, in May, 1921—has been considerably exceeded, though it looked large enough when enacted. Where the Senate schedules surpassed the House figures, the Senate schedules usually stand. Wheat is to be 30 cents a bushel; oats, 15 cents a bushel; hay, $4 a ton; milk, 2½ cents a gallon; cream, 20 cents a gallon; butter, 8 cents a pound; eggs, 8 cents a dozen; and so forth.

It is a high tariff directed in its agricultural sections squarely against the Canadian competitor. This is a real compliment to the Canadian farmer. He is stamped as a rival to be feared. In this regard, the tariff has been written by the American agricultural bloc. The groans of the Eastern manufacturer—the man who made the Republican Party—and the loud screams of the Eastern consumer, have not served to avert the imposition of these direct food taxes which will take heavy toll out of many a domestic purse, none to plethoric, and must considerably increase the cost of manufacture.

It seemed for a while as if the protests of the East might be heeded. But the Republican strategists have apparently come to the conclusion that the East is more likely to stand without hitching than the West. At any rate, the present representation of these two sections of the country in Congress betray such tendencies. The Eastern Senator will not go into revolt, while the Western Senator will. So the more lusty "kicker" again gains the most attention.

"The last bill of this pattern—the Payne-Aldrich act—did not live long enough to test its economic possibilities fairly. But its political value was promptly tested, with results highly disastrous to the party responsible for it. The past frequently repeats itself. It may not do so this year. But should it not—should political disaster be averted—there will till remain little economic excuse for the passage of a bill, premature and speculative in character, whose work could be done far better by the existing emergency tariff law. The Republican party and the country would both be lucky if the permanent revision, now in its advanced form, should somehow fail."

The Republicans are clearly apprehensive lest a tariff that is so undeniably a tax may again lose them control of Congress on the immediate morrow of a great party victory. In 1918, an unparalleled tidal wave swept them into power, and the Wilsonian Democracy into the ditch. Mighty majorities were piled up for Harding and his candidates, even in usually Democratic States. But what will be the reckoning next November? That is the disturbing question.

They will enjoy, however, one very real advantage—the effects of the new tariff are not unlikely to be felt very severely until the party lines for the November elections have been pretty tightly drawn. Another distinct gain will be the absorption of the people in the fuel problem. They will be so cold that they will forget that their "food is costing them more. As for the manufacturers, the continued disturbances in Europe will enable them to wait a while for reduced costs of production. So it is quite on the cards that the Republicans will tide over the more immediate trouble and get this autumn a Congress which can relieve the pressure somewhat before the crucial Presidential elections of 1924.

As for Canada, we have nothing to do but to seek new markets for our products—which we are already doing most successfully—and calmly to fix our tariff schedules to suit our commercial and economic needs, and not in the smallest degree to satisfy any sentimental or temperal play of the emotions. Tariffs are purely business propositions. By common consent, they are the exclusive concern of the nation which makes them. Our neighbors can patch up any sort of tariff they please without the smallest risk that Canada will think of it as "hostile" in any improper sense. We do not imagine for a moment that Congress means to hurt Canada—it merely means to achieve the best political compromise it can, with a view to keeping the Western bronchos from stampeding without driving the patient Eastern wheelhorses into revolt.—Montreal Star.

CHAPELS IN HOMES.

We have received from Mr. Joseph A. Wilson, of Philadelphia, a copy of his Appeal to the World for a Chapel in Every Home, with the request that we lend our assistance in the effort to bring about its "realization and adoption by the world," says The Hamilton Spectator. Believing that there is much of value in the idea, and that it is capable of practical adoption in many individual cases, we gladly respond to this appeal. There is no suggestion, it is explained, for an elaborate addition to the house, but to take a room, however small, and set it aside as an "audience chamber for the King of Kings," after consecration and dedication by a minister. "It would be a potent influence on the child life and a 'witness' and a reminder to the parents and to every visitor." That the plan for a "consecrated room" is not at present practicable in many homes is recognized; but the time will come, it is hoped, when every Christian home will be "looked upon as an unfit habitation for a human being" which does not contain such a sanctuary.

No one will deny that family worship has become almost obsolete so far as themajoritw of homes on this continent are concerned, and there is no disputing the fact either that the setting apart of a special place in the home for such worship would exercise a wholesome influence over the entire household. In this age of excitement and "jazz," it has been considered not merely appropriate but essential that the campaign should be renewed for the intensification of the spiritual life of the home. The appeal has been made on three former occasions, as Mr. Wilson explains in this book. First, when he conceived the idea in 1898, and published his plea in two leading American newspapers. Following on this, in 1909, a volume was sent out broadcast, at the author's personal expense—as is the case in the present reissue—explaining the plan. The endorsement of many eminent men in religion and in the public walks of life was secured, among the commendations being one from the late Bishop DuMoulin, of Niagara. Cardinals, primates, metropolitans, archbishops, bishops, the late General William Booth of the Salvation Army, ministers of the Episcopal, Presbyterian, Baptist, Methodist, Congregational, Lutheran, Hebrew and other churches wrote in praise of the plan, but beyond this epistolary support, there seems to have been little headway accomplished in the direction of carrying the project into actual execution. In 1913 a further effort was made, and now comes this fourth call to the Christian people of all lands and every denomination. "It is timely that we should make provision for a sanctuary for prayer in every home throughout the land, and by this means strive to build a new spiritual foundation for the world in the home, in the life of the child, by the gradual introduction of the 'consecrated room,' so that there shall ultimately be a chapel in every home, of the rich and the poor," declares Mr. Wilson.

Reference is made to the ancient homes of the old nobility, with their private chapels, which are contrasted with the "godless homes" of today. These same nobles, however, could be very cruel and despotic and unchristianlike on occasion, and, take it all round, it is debatable whether there was more real religion then than there is today, in spite of appearances. No modern home, however, would be the worse for a little more spirituality, and even if the special chapel does not appeal as a practicable proposition, there is no bar whatever to the restoration of family prayer and worship, which makes no demands except the acquiescence of one's will. That would be a start in the right direction—the chapels might come later.

THE MYSTERY MIND

Arthur B. Reeve and John W. Grey

From the center of the dance floor the jazz band intruded upon the relative silence of the casino with a fearful din. There were five pieces ensconced upon a raised platform decorated with American and Irish flags. Electric lights in the drum and banjo impressed upon the specta or the importance of those instruments. The saxaphone and cornet players seemed locked in a contest of life and-death magnitude.

Immediately tables were deserted. Jake hastened to sweep Lil into the melee of dancers. The other detective leaned over to Dupont.

"Jake'll get a lot of dope from her. She's known as the 'Gun Moll,' and has been the Strangler's girl for years; was a member of that Brooklyn gang when he was. Jake got all she knew when he was hanging around her before."

As near as he could see, the Portola was like any one of a hundred shore resorts. While looking about in every direction for a sign of Violet or some member of the gang, vainly, he studied those upon the dance floor and at the tables. The men,boys mostly, erew of the working classes, many coatless and collarless, without even clean shirts. The girls were from the shops, apparently, aping in their cheap dresses the styles of Fifth Avenue, in a way making the most of whatever plump and rounded freshness they possessed, yet invariably affecting the layer upon layer of powder which to Dupont was the unmistakable earmark of their calling.

On two sides of the casino were the marshes of Jamaica Bay. Toward the clear water was a row of bathhouses, from a dozen to fifteen, but closed, falling to pieces, and covered with dirt and cobwebs. Near by was the bar and pantry and kitchen; also a corridor leading to the private rooms. Investigating as far as he dared, he detected nothing suspicious. Then the music stopped. He hurried back toward his table.

The two detectives were along. Jake leaned foreard wagerly.

"She's sore on the Strangler" he exclaimed. "Back in the private rooms there's another woman, a beauty; been hiding here for weeks, and the Strangler's getting sweet on her. Now this new dame and the Strangler went in to Brooklyn this afternoon together and they've come back, bringing another skirt with them. It's Miss Bronson, no question of it, because the Gun Moll described her to me. The Strangler's raving about her, and the Gun Moll's going to make trouble, big trouble, just as soon as the music stops and the crowd gets away."

"Then—" Suddenly Dupont rose. Violet was here She was in danger She, was in the hands of this notorious gangster—

His companions pulled him to his seat, cautioning him.

"I'm fixing it with the Gun Moll," protested Jake, earnestly. "We can't do anything now. There are only three of us and the Strangler always has a dozen or so of his henchmen hanging around here. But I told Lil that—well, I strung her along a bit and told her you two were my friends and would stick with me and that we'd get rid of both dames for her. It'll be full tide by midnight and there's a boat back of the bathhouses—"

Dupont bit his lips until they bled. His reason told him that the plan of the detective was the most sensible and most feasible way to rescue Violet. Yet it seemed impossible to wait. Several times he started to urge that the police be called at once. He knew that in case of a spectacular raid Vera and Violet would probably escape by boat, that in the vast spread of the bay with its concealing marshes pursuit would be fruitless, especially on a night without the moon. Nevertheless, anything seemed better than inaction. Only by the greatest effort of will could he control himself.

When the music struck up again, he rose to stroll about, ignoring the protests of the detectives. His steps, almost in spite of him, took him back into the corridor leading past the private rooms. Alone, unmolested, he listened at the door of each. Though something warned him of danger hovering close, he yielded to the fascination of the near presence of Violet. It was not only his belief that she was here; he knew it.

HAPPINESS AND HEALTH

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

Happiness and health have been found to be pretty good friends. They work together wonderfully. So remember, in your search for happiness, that its good friend, helath probably is just around the corner.

A happy state of mind permits the expansion of small blood vessels, allowing fresh blood to flow easily throuhg them. It also affects the nerves that control the lungs. They inhale more air, which means that they get more oxygen, and this in turn, means that the blood is more completely purified in the lungs. It makes the heart beat more evenly and this forces fresh blood rapidly through the expanded blood vessels. Rapidly moving blood gives rich nourishment to nerve cell and muscle, making it possible for them to do good, energetic work. Lastly, a happy state of mind makes the stomach churn better and at the same time more gastric juice pours in to aid in digestion.

This explains why we do better work when we are happy.

Happiness means that every organ is doing its best work and the brain gets the benefit of this through an improved blood supply.

The human machine is so delicately balanced that, when the smallest part of it fails, the entire workings may halt. It is like an engine, no matter how perfect every other part of it may be, if one little detail is broken, it cannot go.

Many people have found that they must be calm and serene at mealtime if they would retain their good health. Thousands of cases have proved that bad digestion comes from bad disposition and not a bad disposition from a bad digestion, as so many imagine.

About six o'clock 22 ladies (men were taboo) sat down to a bountiful repast of "goodies" that would tempt even the daintiest palate. After supper a number of the ladies were called on for impromptu speeches and responded nobly.

If You Suffer from Constipation
Read this Message Immediately!

About 90% of ills can be blamed on constipation—one of the greatest enemies of the human race! Pills and cathartics aggravate dangerous conditions in the delicate intestinal tract while affording but temporary relief!

The great, natural cleanser is bran—KELLOGG'S BRAN, cooked and krumbled! If you eat bran regularly it will give relief permanently! Its work is wonderful!

Physicians indorse the use of Kellogg's Bran for constipation because it is a desirable way of correcting constipation through food. It is food—not a ... relief ... sweeps the bowels naturally, cleansing and purifying the intestinal tract without irritation or discomfort! Realize, too, that the regular use of Kellogg's Bran will clear up a pimply complexion and it will free the breath from disagreeable stomach odors. At least two tablespoonfuls should be eaten daily, and as much more as needed for relief of chronic cases.

...stinct to put aside or preserve the surplus of fruit and vegetables is strong in every housewife. And if she has such surplus in her own garden, which would be wasted unless she saved it in some way—well and good.

But often one buys fruit, sugar and jars, then spends hours in a hot kitchen canning and preserving. Often the result is not as good as one could buy.

Under such conditions there seems to be no virtue in canning—and money spent might better have been used for fresh fruit or a good quality commercial product.

Canning, however is a delightful work, and is simple and successful if one follows a few rules. These are: Sound ripe fruit, clean utensils, sterilize jars and a good place for storing the product.

Do a little each day, as one has the fruit, and do not try to do a great deal at once, thus feeling too tired.

Vegetables are more difficult to can than fruit. Sugar is a preservative, and bacteria do not like a sirup. The most successful method today is the "cold pack" method. The product keeps its color this way, also shape and flavor, and there is far less danger of spoilage than when done by the "open kettle" method.

Tomatoes and fruit done with a large proportion of sugar are safe when done in the open kettle.

There are several expressions in use at present in rules for canning. "Sorting" is grading fruit and vegetables according to size and ripeness If the young and small veegtables are cooked with the older and larger one some are cooked to pieces and others are not tender.

Always choose sound products; there is too much danger of spoiling, and there is no economy in canning over ripe or spotted fruits.

Another word is "blanching" which means dipping the fruit, which is first placed in a piece of cheesecloth, in boiling water. When the product is to be handled, as in cutting corn from cob, or peeling tomatos, it is taken from the boiling water and plunged for a moment in very cold water. This also will set the color in green vegetables.

Another important word is "processing" meaning the length of time cooked in the jars before sealing.

HOW MEN CAN IMPROVE THEIR APPEARANCE

By Choosing Cloth and Clothes That Will Give a Their Individuality

The Chief Designer of Semiready clothes is more than a mere student of anatomy and of physical conformation. In a recent newspaper article he said:

"In the army you can tell an officer from a private by his clothes. An officer's uniform is well-tailored and fits him, whilst the uniform of a private is frankly ready-made in the cheapest way by careless workmen.

"In our workshops we made thousands of uniforms for officers in the Canadian army, and some few for American officers, but our organization did not permit of cheap construction.

"One can see the difference on any street of the officer type of clothing and that of the private.

"There is class and distinction woven into a suit of clothes—an individuality which expresses the attitude of the wearer. Few men fail to live up to their environment. A cheaply-constructed and ill-fitting suit must of necessity have a mental effect on the wearer—and make him feel cheap and untidy.

"In the Semi-ready tailor shops any man who works and who fails to grasp the idea that we want the minutest details of the model garment sewn into each garment—that man is released from our service. Each tailor must combine skill with efficiency.

Expert Work, Yet Price Is Held Down.

"Our wages are the highest paid in any shop in Canada—and yet we keep the price down.

"A finished salesman in a fashion shop could readily get twice the price of a ready-made suit for one that is 'Semi-ready tailored,' but the price label on the pocket, based on the cost of the cloth, keeps the price uniform and fair.

"Any man who buys a Semi-ready suit can look for himself and see the actual value of the suit, placed there by the men who bought the cloth and made the garment.

"The man who sells Semi-ready suits must know more about cloth materials, workmanship and color suitability than the ordinary clever talking salesman. He usually does, for in the Semi-ready store one meets the men who are particular about their dress and appearance.

Complete Tailor Service.

"There is no garment for men which we cannot make—from the scarlet golf coat to the business professional or wedding suit.

"In our fashion portfolio we often show thirty different styles in a season.

"We still make frock coats for ministers, and we make clerical garb of all kinds.

"Morning coats have replaced the frock coats for wedding and for other ceremonial or social affairs. These are usually made in black or dark grey cheviots, with vests to match.

"This season we made thousands of suits of homespun—both Canadian Donegals and pure Scotch homespuns—in style suits for business and play. With each suit of long trousers we tailored a pair of golf knickers. Six times during the season we had to cable repeat orders for the hand-loom homespuns—a cloth that looks quite ordinary and plain in the web, but which is quite distinguished and pleasing when tailored into a well-fitting garment.

"In fact, the new outdoor designs in suits are so attractive that the fancy patterns and weaves are not now the whole thing in the tailoring world.

"I know men, big men of affairs, who always prefer the neat and plain cloth, and who depend altogether upon the skill of our tailors for that air of distinction and neatness which is the mark of the well-dressed man.

Many Business Suits.

"It is attention to detail which marks the good tailor. Now, we make twenty different styles in business suits, yet there may be only a trifling difference in some. One may have a shorter lapel, the other a different shaped notch in the collar, or perhaps a different curve in the front of the shirt.

An Overcoat Is Important.

"It was in the making of overcoats that the Semi-ready Company achieved their first big triumph.

"Making clothes on the scientific physique type system, the Semi-ready overcoat was found to have perfect shoulder-fitting, combined with graceful draping, and today it is only the older man who lingers in the past who would think it necessary to order an overcoat from the retail tailor. The Semi-ready shops can show so many styles—in both winter overcoats and fall top coats —that their system is invariably chosen.

Cheaper Than In England.

"One can buy a Crombie overcoat in a Semi-ready shop for $75 which costs 15 guineas in England. In other words, the wholesale system of tailoring to measure overcomes both duty and sales tax on the imported overcoatings.

"It has been said that Canadian apples can be bought in Liverpool cheaper than in Canada, where they are grown. In our shops we make and sell 'King's Own' Serge—a pure Botany wool yarn and a fast indigo dye cloth of fine, soft texture—at a price less than it can be bought in England, where the cloth is woven.

"It is just as easy for us to tailor clothes on exact English lines, just as we do with our English Raglan [illegible] and do, insert Daylight Saving Time) [illegible] ad more tailoring. For both men and women we tailor ski breeches. This winter sport has taken a firm hold in Canada—the Land of Hills, Lakes and Dales—where we have ten months of perfect weather, and no cyclones, earthquakes or abnormal upheavals.

"We can make any coat that any man can describe—that is our idea of Semi-ready Service—and we aim to make our label a real seal of satisfaction."

VIENNA WITHOUT STAMPS

Printers' Strike Also Hampers Business by Causing Currency Shortage.

VIENNA, Sept. 15.—The strike of the printers, which has been in progress for some time, has begun gravely to affect business. The supply of postage and revenue stamps is virtually exhausted, and blank forms and other business papers are unobtainable. While the money presses are still running, the sudden shortage in currency is adding to the difficulty of the situation.

The strikers have succeeded in stopping the public sale of foreign newspapers.

PREMIER KING GAVE A NUMBER ADDRESSES

KITCHENER, Sept. 15.—(Canadian Press:)—With day given over to renewal of friendship throughout the length and breadth of his former constituency of North Waterloo, day devoted to travel from town to town over muddy roads and through torrents of rain, Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, concluded his two day visit to his old home last night. Boys and girls everywhere greeted Premier with bouquets of asters, songs and wild cheers. Leaving Kitchener early in the morning, Premier and party motored to Bloomington, Conestego, Elmira, St. Jacobs, St. Clement, Wellesley, Heidelberg and Linwood. At each place the Premier addressed large crowds and urged srongly for good will and unity, stressing, especially to children, the vital necessity of having faith in their native land, in Canadian form of government and in being good Canadians.

CROWNING COMES—SOMEWHERE.

By Mrs. Frank A. Breck.

Scatter seed,—"go forth with weeping,"
All your labors Christ will share;
There is promise of glad reaping,
And the crowning-time somewhere.

Work, though skies are smiling, frowning;

Disappointment, toil and sorrow
Come for every heart to bear;
But there is a glad to-morrow.—

Never sink beneath despair;
Bear the cross a little longer,—

PONTIAC WILL CLOSE $600,000 FILTER PLANT

PONTIAC, Mich., Sept. 15.—Because the people objected to drinking lake water filtered in the most modern manner, the city commission has decided to close its $600,000 filter plant built in 1920. The doors are to be locked on Oct. 1. As long as the city is able to supply its needs from deep wells this method will be pursued. If the city ever reached the point where the wells are inadequate it has the filter plant to fall back on. Additional wells are being sunk. The filter plant has not been operated since Feb. 28.

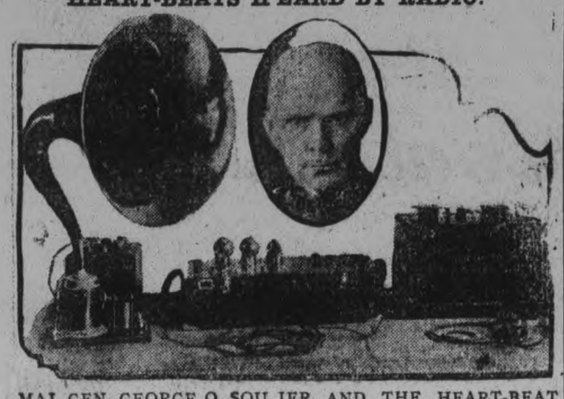
HEART-BEATS HEARD BY RADIO.



MAJ. GEN. GEORGE O. SQUIER AND THE HEART-BEAT AMPLIFIER.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The modern physician need no longer put his ear against the body of his patient to hear the heart or lungs perform. Nor need he use the stethoscope for this purpose.

Instead, he may place a small instrument on the patient's body and listen to the breathing and heart-beats from a distance!

This unusual performance is made possible by the use of the audion or vacuum tube amplifier, similar to the one being used in radio reception today.

The heart of the new instrument that makes heart-throbs audible from a distance is the vacuum tube. It is exactly the same tube which amplifies the weak sound waves in a radio receiving set.

Among the first to demonstrate the instrument, in its application to breathing and heart-beats, was Maj. General George O. Squier of the United States Signal Corps. It is only one of the many uses to which General Squier has put the radio vacuum tube.

With General Squier's apparatus to start, experts of the Bureau of Standards went to work and perfected a process for recording breathing sounds and heart-beats. The instrument is much more complex than the original, but through it better results have been obtained. The new apparatus consists mainly of an ordinary telephone transmitter, adapted into a stethoscope, and a vacuum tube amplifier. The sounds are recorded on a steel wire and when the amplifier is connected the sounds can be heard in all parts of a room.

If need be, the instrument can be connected to a telephone line so that a physician in his office can listen to the heart throbs of a patient in his home.

By Stuart P. West.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—(Special.)—The main point of interest in financial affairs to-day was the market's reception of Germany's final refusal to grant the Belgian demand for a 100,000,000 gold mark security against the six months notes taken in lieu of immediate cash payments.

Undeniably this brought reparations matters to a crisis. It foreshadowed another conference of the Allied Premiers and with it another occasion for exposing to the world the wide difference in the British and French points of view regarding the German indemnity problem. It suggested that the French threat to occupy the Ruhr would be renewed, and this time, supported as it would be by the Brussels Government, would assume a more formidable character.

Now even, however, in the foreign exchanges, which are ordinarily the most sensitive quarter, was there any sign of uneasiness over the news. Sterling went slightly lower, Francs a trifle higher, while Marks stood still. The action of Mark exchange was particularly interesting as illustrating a certain approach to stabilization in these rates. At all events, the German Mark for the time being has become hardened both to the reparations imbroglio and and to the tremendous outpour of new paper money.

With the exception of French bonds, which were down a bit, the German attitude and its possible consequences had no effect upon the security markets. Even at times when the continental exchanges have been plunging down, our security dealings have professed complete indifference to the European crisis. Therefore, it was not to be expected that they would pay any attention to the exchange market, itself not disturbed over the latest developments.

Both in bonds and stocks the upward movement was more general. The day began with another series of operations devoted mainly to stocks of the specialty class, such as the Department and Chain Store issues, and the Gas and other public utilities. But as the session went on the group movement became more numerous, in fact, they extended over the greater part of the list.

A rather unexpected advance of 25 cents a barrel by one of the oil companies in the mid-continent field stimulated the speculation in the oil shares. Otherwise there was no news that bore in any way to warrant buying of special stocks. Rumors of mergers—always a favorite material for the trading element to work upon, was heard again in explanation for the strength in some of the industrial stocks. None of these stories had anything fresh about it.

In other instances where there was no merger gossip the incentive was found in anticipated dividend increases. This was the principal argument back of the advance of the Gas shares. Elsewhere most of the inspiration for the upbuilding of prices came from pools, which feel securely entrenched in their position owing to the almost precedented easy condition promised for the money market during the autumn crop moving season.

"Opinion is becoming more general that wheat prices have almost touched bottom," said Broomhall in reviewing the wheat situation.

The Baldwin Locomotive Works has slightly better than $50,000,000 unfilled orders, including the 50 engines from St. Louis and San Francisco. The company's pay-roll has reached the highest point of the year with close to 10,000 men working.

The Anthracite Roads.

A contest of speed in the delivery of anthracite coal to New York was predicted in railway quarters upon the announcement of the Lehigh Valley's accomplishment in hauling thirty cars of freshly mined domestic coal the first day that the miners returned to work. The Lehigh Valley plant had been "groomed" for several days for this test and everything was lined up for prompt movement over the lines. It was stated yesterday that all the hard coal roads were planning to adopt as ruthless an embargo programme as is necessary to guarantee the immediate delivery of anthracite coal to New York and other points.

AT THE GRAND.

"Love and Kisses" is the sentimental title of the offering of Jimmie Evans' Revue for the week end, which opened at the Opera House last evening, with the usual excellent principal and chorus work which distinguish this bright organization. The comedy end is sufficient to keep the audence laughing from start to finish, and the solo work is as novel and entertaining as usual. Grace Gould's light, high soprano is heard to excellent advantage in "Why Should I Cry Over You". Kittens Fraser and girls have a pretty number in "I'm Glad my Heart's My Ain"; and Jimmy Evans sings "Kathleen" in fine voice. Florence Pippen's violin numbers received the usual repeated encores and Roy Ellis with Dolly Jollymore have a fetching number in "La Valse Derniere" . . .

HON. MANNING DOHERTY AT OTTAWA EXHIBITION.

OTTAWA, September 15 (Canadian Press). — The importance of establishing the reputation of Canadian products in every possible market of the world by means of the organisation of co-operative commodity companies on a sound business basis, properly financed and sanely managed, was the theme of a vigorous address given by the Hon. Manning Doherty, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, at the luncheon of the directors of the Central Canada Exhibition yesterday.

Mr. Doherty spoke of the effect of the United States tariff on the Canadian live stock industry. He prophesied that the American farmers are going to be disappointed in the results of their proposed tariff, which, he said, they will find to restrict but will not protect.

There was a great war on among the nations for the world's markets, he said, and in order that the Dominion may hold its own in this competition for trade, it is necessary to establish the reputation of Canadian products in those markets.

"Hugo, First" Adds Special Ships To Huge Fleet To Steal Russian Trade

(BY MILTON BRONNER)

BERLIN, September 15. — One day the captain of a Swedish passenger vessel plying between Sweden and Germany said to a German passenger:

"Who is that poor seasick fellow? He looks as if he might die before he landed in Sweden."

"He may be very ill," said the passenger, "but he won't die of it. What's more, he will probably buy a hunk of Sweden as soon as he lands and has had a reviving cup of black coffee. And, by the way, he is a shipowner himself."

"He may be a shipowner," said the captain, "but he looks like a landsman and he is certainly a bad seaman."

The hero of this little anecdote is Germany's greatest business man—Hugo Stinnes. The Swede was absolutely accurate. Stinnes is a landsman and a bad sailor, but the thirst for ships is in his blood and he is rapidly coming to the fore as a new force in Germany's once more expanding and reviving mercantile marine.

Owns River Craft.

Long ago he was one of the chief owners of German river craft. In fact, the Stinnes family has been associated with this business for about two centuries. And, however widespread have become the interests of Hugo Stinnes, he has never forgotten the family fortunes were started by transporting things on German rivers.

If you sit on a fine May morning on the terrace of a Dresden hotel and glance at the Elbe River below, your attention will soon be attracted to a big sturdy tug pulling upstream a long line of barges, each heavily laden with coal. Somewhere you will see the magic name "Stinnes."

Or go over to Coblenz where a few of our doughboys are still keeping watch on the Rhine and the Moselle Rivers, and once more you will see steamers, tugs, and barges bearing the Stinnes name. This, in spite of the fact that under the peace treaty a large number of German river craft were surrendered to France and Belgium.

Buys Ocean Shipping

But important and money-making as these river lines are for Stinnes he long ago began to turn his attention to the greater possibilities of ocean traffic. During the first half of the war he bought a large block of stock in the German East African and the Woermann lines. Later he obtained a big interest in the Deutsche Werft, a concern of Hamburg, which builds ships. Another which fell into his all-embracing net was the Hamburg Verkehr's Corporation, which is not only interested in shipping but owns hotels in Hamburg, Berlin and Frankfurt on the Main. Furthermore it is interested in German seaside resorts like Travemunde and has vessels that carry excursionists there. At Flensburg Stinnes has a company whose swift small ships ply the Baltic.

Within the past two years he formed the Hugo Stinnes lines and this new concern was the cause of one of the deepest humiliations of his business career. Stinnes owned a considerable block of stock in the once great Hamburg-American Steamship Company and was made a director. The concern, beginning to recuperate from the paralysis caused by the war and the loss of its biggest and best ships, was preparing to resume active steamshipservice between Hamburg and South America. The latter has always been a favorite field for German exploitation and German business firms have many friends there.

Stinnes is Humiliated

Imagine the surprise of the managing directors, therefore, when one fine morning as they sipped their coffee and perused the Hamburg papers, their eyes were claimed by a flaring advertisement in which the Hugo Stinnes lines announced the inauguration of a regular service between Hamburg and Buenos Aires.

For a fellow director to steal a march on them like that wasn't considered "clubby." There was an immediate conclave and Stinnes, the billionaire in German marks, was flung out on his ear. Not, of course literally and physically. But his name ceased to adorn the board of directors of the Hapag as the great shipping company is known all over Germany. Stinnes' retort was twofold—he advertised and pushed his South American lines more than ever and he immediately took some of his ever-ready cash and invested it in the North German Lloyd, the great Bremen rival of Hamburg.

It was in connection with his shipping interest that Stinnes got some of the publicity he so much shuns and hates.

There were built for him three new 12,000-ton ships. Stinnes decided to name them Ludendorff, Hindenburg and Tirpitz. As representatives of Germany were then conferring with the allies, the latter took this action of Stinnes as a good sign that Germany was still kaiserist, militarist and unrepentant. Inside Germany many of the Socialist leaders went after Stinnes with a sharp stick.

The whole furore surprised him immensely. A total misreader of popular and political psychology, he had chosen the offensive names for his ships thinking of the men who bore them as persons whom Germany once idolized and imagining the people still did so. When he realized his error, it was too late.

But that is about the only mistake that can be charged up to Stinnes in the shipping game. One of his greatest strokes has been to plan two fleets of ships. One is to consist of 12,000-tonners and the other of 3000-tonners. His experts have advised him that 12,000-ton ships are not only much cheaper than the titantic vessels, are not only run more economically, but ton for ton will perhaps earn more money and give better service than the huge floating hotels.

Has Eye on Russia

The Stinnes 3000-ton ships are being built for a specific purpose. Stinnes, like every wideawake German business man has his eyes on Russia. Some day and not very long o he expects that immense countrp to be opened once more to the commerce of the world. With the almost complete breakdown and ruin of the Russian railways the main means of transport of goods to and from Russia for some years will be by sea. Stinnes has an entire department of his executive branch here in Berlin devoted to the study of Russia. They are experts on Russia.

Only recently the director of the department returned from a personal visit and reported to his chief that eight years of war, blockade and neglect have put Russian harbors into terrible state. The big freight ships that America and England have will probably not be able to negotiate those harbors. But where they fail, the Stinnes 3000-tonners will glide in like ducks on a mill pond. So will the Stinnes tankers built at Kiel.

Already Stinnes' ships are busy at work feeding other branches of the Stinnes business. They bring iron ore from Sweden and timber from Finland. Thus they fetch raw material for Stinnes blast furnaces and Stinnes' paper, pulp and cellulose mills. And they carry back to Sweden and Finland, from Stinnes' mills some of the manufactured materials those countries so badly need. As they ply back and forth, these vessels also pass another interesting set of Stinnes' ships. These are mere smacks but they carry the Stinnes house flag and they are engaged in the very important job of helping to feed Germany. They are the Stinnes herring fleets.

(Copyright, 1922, Nea Service, Inc.)

Stinnes' control of many German newspapers and his successful combinations even in this field are told by Bronner in his next article.

King's Wharf Road Over Emily Swamp Cost Nearly $150,000 So County Decided to Go Around

The County of Victoria has decided to delete the present road No. 5A through the Emily Creek swamp to King's Wharf and are now awaiting the Government sanction of the move. The place has been carefully inspected and examined by Engineer Miles and the report that he has prepared shows clearly the whole situation.

The swamp consists of very soft muck to a depth of 25 feet. The report shows clearly that this muck will not support a road of standard type and the anticipated traffic unless the filling is made to reach the clay at the bottom. To do this 270,000 cu. yds. of filling would be required and it would have to be drawn from a distance. Mr. Miles estimates for the improvement of the swamp to ultimately bring it to the standard of a county road, an appropriation of $142,350 would be required.

To make up for the deletion of this road, No. 4A would be extended by a circuitous route through the townships of Emily and Verulam. Some four miles would be added to the system and the two townships would benefit about equally. This addition might be balanced by the deletion of some little used road in the south of the township of Emily.

SUCCEEDS WHERE DOCTORS FAIL

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Often Does That. Read Mrs. Miner's Testimony

Churubusco, N.Y.—"I was under the doctor's care for over five years for backache and had no relief from his medicine. One day a neighbor told me about your Vegetable Compound and I took it. It helped me so much that I wish to advise all women to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles and backache. It is a great help in carrying a child, as I have noticed a difference when I didn't take it. I thank you for this medicine and if I ever come to this point again I do not want to be without the Vegetable Compound. I give you permission to publish this letter so that all women can take my advice."—Mrs. FRED MINER, Box 102, Churubusco, N. Y.

It's the same story over again. Women suffer from ailments for years. They try doctors and different medicines, but feel no better. Finally they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you can see its value in the case of Mrs. Miner.

All ailing women ought to try this medicine. It can be taken in safety by young or old, as it contains no harmful drugs.

Ironized Yeast Brings Marvelous Beauty to Skin

Science Now Proves How Complexion Is Quickly Beautified Through the Blood

There is nothing in the world today which is producing such a sensation as this simple discovery! Pick out anyone who has healthy rosy cheeks and a ravishingly beautiful complexion, and you have picked out an individual whose blood is rich with vitamines-and-iron. This recipe of Nature, "Ironized Yeast," is now being used by thousands of men and women with startling, yet perfectly natural, results. It gives you yeast-vitamines-ironized, containing iron in the form in which it exists in the human body. It is not a mere mixture of yeast and iron, but is yeast ironized, which is a substance all by itself. Muddiness, that great beauty robber, gives way to a lily-purity which nothing else on earth can produce. Pimples, blackheads, spots, eruptions? They become practically an impossibility! Rosy cheeks, firmer and younger looking skin, rose-petal purity, velvety softness,—all natural! Imagine such a skin further beautified by your favorite cream and powder. To think of it is lovely. To have it, a modern miracle! Begin taking Ironized Yeast today. There is only one Ironized Yeast in the world, sold by all druggists at $1.00 a package. Each package contains 60 tablets, each tablet is sealed. They never lose their power. Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., Toronto, Sales Agents. Get ready to be supremely happy.

"Ironized Yeast Has Cleared My Skin Quickly and Gloriously!"

SPECIAL EXHIBITS AT FAIR

RADIO AT J M GREENE MUSIC CO'S EXHIBIT

Picking up vocal and instrumenal music out of the air, broad casted by radio from the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N.Y., and transmitted to the wondering ears of visitors in the manufacturers' building at the local Exhibition, was the distinctive feature of the J. M. Greene Music Co's exhibit yesterday afternoon. This formed the initial introduction to the public of the fact the J. M. Greene Music Co., Charlotte street, are to be, it is expected, district distributors for the Northern Electric Co's. (Toronto) Standard Radio equipment which is second to none; in any event they will in future carry this equipment, and its distribution in a large portion of Central Ontario could not be placed in better hands than those of the J. M. Greene musical corporation, which enjoys substantial business association in a wide area centering upon Peterborough City.

And here the announcement is made that to-night and Saturday at the J. M. Greene Co's section in the Manufacturer's Building and Saturday night after 7 o'clock in the company's music store on Charlotte street, demonstrations of the Northern Electric Co's Radio equipment will be given and the public are cordially invited to attend. These demonstrations are and will be in the capable charge of J. J. McWatters, sales managers of the radio department of the Northern Electric Co., Toronto, and who enjoys the distinction of having been one of the first amateur radio operators in Canada. After 11 years experience Mr. McWatters is now recognized as one of the most skilful radio experts on the continent, and the J. M. Greene Music Co., and the Peterborough public are fortunate in having his services at their disposal until after Saturday night. His knowledge of wireless has been acquired to a large extent at sea where an operator must contend with, perhaps, more atmosphere vagaries than on land, and where his skill is oftimes severely tested. He served as wireless operator on Norwegian boats sailing to the Bermudas, South American ports, Egypt, France, Salonica; also on the Canadian Pacific steamer, Empress of Asia to Japan, China, the Philippines; India and the Antipodes. And so, we have with us to-day at the Exhibition, and on Saturday night at the J. M. Grene Music Co's Store for radio demonstration one whose acquaintance with this latest marvel of a scientific age has been acquired in many parts of the world and under all atmosphere conditions.

This equipment Mr. McWatters is demonstrating is the Northern Electhric Standard radio apparatus R 1000. It consists of a detector, tuner, and two stages of amplification, using the Northern Electric power amplifier which makes it possible to hear quite distinctly in all parts of a large hall; in fact its messages can be amplified so fully that they can be heard under proper conditions at least half a mile away. This equipment has a remarkable range of from 1,000 to 2,000 miles after sunset and 150 to 500 miles during the day. A strong feature is that it employs the peanut vacuum tribe for detecting and amplifying, which requires only one dry cell of 1 1-2 rolls to operate and consumes only one quarter of an ampere. All other types of vacuum tubes call for a large battery of 6 volts, consuming from one to one and a half amperes. Then the peanut tribe will operate 100 hours on a dry cell. The tuning equipment of this outfit is very selective and simple of operation, enabling the layman to operate without any technical knowledge of radio or trouble whatever.

The general public is becoming more or less conversant with radio of late and many householders are installing a radio set. Therefore it is here timely to point out that when installing this Northern Electric exclusive radio equipment in the ordinary home use a single aerial wire 75 to 150 in length and 25 to 50 feet high, insulated at both ends and the lead taken into the building, together with the ground wire connected with either a water pipe or radiator—and that is all that is necessary for picking up music or news out of the heavens above.

And above all, you are asked to remember that this radio outfit in its entirely is made in Canada and cannot be excelled for efficiency, economy in upkeep and simplicity of manipulation.

The other exhibits by the J. M. Greene Music Co., Limited consist of the New Scale Williams pianos the Greene piano in fumed oak finish, the Gulhrausen player piano, wind instruments, Edison and Bruns wick phonographs and a white Rotary Sewing Machine the whole combining to present a display of number one quality products which attracted a small army of interested visitors to this inviting section.

Mr. McWatters is of a genial and accommodating disposition and takes pleasure in explaining radio to all enquirers. Cultivate his acquaintance.

HALL'S FASHION SHOW.

A corner of the Main Building at the Exhibition that attracts constant and attentive crowds during every afternoon and evening is the one devoted to the fashion show arranged by Richard Hall and Son. Here, against a cleverly-arranged living-room setting, with luxurious appointments in soft rugs, large Chesterfield, simulated fireplace and prettily-draped windows, two slender, graceful models parade in the most up-to-date creations in suits, coats and dresses. "These are lovely things to model in," declared one of the professional mannequins, whose experience in this line is extensive, and their large audiences' silent appreciation of the different beautiful garments on view was sufficient endorsement of the expressed opinion.

Moderately long skirts, slender, draped effects, dark colorings, offset by glistening metallic embroideries, were features of the show. Dignity might be considered the keynote of this season's styles, in every section.

The dresses were lovely, the majority of the afternoon order. One, a black matelasse crepe, with its bell sleeves and irregular-hem left side panel lined with silver grey, was worn with a large black velvet hat, the brim and large single velvet flower edged with silver braid. A black canton crepe with flowing side panels had wide flaring sleeves that were piped with white and ornamented with large white raised flowers in heavy wool and silk embroidery.

A kitten's ear crepe, also in black, had wide insets of silver and blue embroidery on the full, pointed sleeves, and was accompanied by a small hat with wide silver bandeau and spray feathers. A navy tricotine with slashed sleeves had a collar of grey lamb, and a brown canton crepe, with sleeves outlined by tiny brown buttons, had heavy gold embroidery on the left blouse front. The large brown velvet hat worn with this was trimmed with brown ostrich tips and gold cloth facing.

In the suit showing, rather conservative styles predominated, with narrow skirts, long coats and the same slender lines that marked the costumes. A brown velour, with braiding in self color, narrow belt and collar of brown beaver, was worn with an overblouse of sunset crepe, the lower front embroidered in dull greens and blues, the small brown velvet hat with it having a facing of gold cloth.

A black tricotine suit in narrow box style had a collar of black lamb and heavy black embroidery on back and sleeves. A row of bone buttons made the fastening. The small hat with it was of black panne velvet, with small insets of dull red and gold, and busby trimming. Another neat little suit of brown and taupe check with flat revers and slashed sides was set off by a swagger stick, small gold-cloth hat with flowing lace veil, and brown kid gauntlet gloves.

Brown was strong in the coats, which also showed the wide, loose sleeves and narrow belts. One plush velour had a large sable collar and cuffs, with sleeves covered in parallel lines from shoulder to wrist in narrow self-color silk braid. Another brown velour model with fur collar of dark beaver had narrow, loose back panels edged with long silk fringe and odd sleeves, the fullness caught at the wrist into small, pointed cuffs. The hat with this was of wood-color velvet, with limp right side bow.

With the entire showing were worn black, one-strap suede slippers. The majority of the suits, with their flowing sleeves, were set off by long white kid gloves and a black velvet hand-bag with long silk tassel.

THE CRESSMAN COMPANY.

A Barnet refrigerator, Barnet kitchen cabinet, chair, porcelain-topped table, Radiant electric range, sink and boiler, with linoleum-covered floor makes up the exhibit. The furniture is all white and the blue and white color scheme is carried out by linoleum and walls both bearing a blue and white pattern.

The kitchen is the last word in modernity of appointments, from electric range to refrigerator, which is porcelain lined and guaranteed not to taint.

The Barnet kitchen cabinet, made in white enamel with porcelain sliding top and nickel plated trimmings and glass knobs, is a feature of the exhibit.

As a model of time and step-saving as well as beauty in kitchens, the Cressman exhibit is excellent.

THE J. T. TURNBULL COMPANY

In its exhibit in the Main Building, the Turnbull Company is featuring fine Wilton rugs, reproductions in design of Oriental rugs and made exclusively for the Turnbull Company by the best English mills. Beautiful reproductions of Persian, Bokhara, Hamadan and Serebend rugs are being shown, faithful copies in every detail of color and workmanship of these famous Oriental models. This exhibit is easily one of the most striking in the building.

In a tent adjoining the Main Building Turnbull's are exhibiting the White Cap electric washer, the Laundryette washer and the Eureka vacuum cleaner, for all of which they are sole agents for Peterborough. It is an interesting exhibit of household labor-saving devices.

SPLENDID DISPLAY OF KNITTED GOODS

The Cornell Knitting Co., Ltd., of Peterborough, present an exhibit in the Manufacturers' Building at the Exhibition which will not be denied attention. The display impels a visualization of bodily comfort and warmth during freezingly cold weather so far as attainable by wearing superior graded knitted garments built on stylish models and of wool which carries the stamp of unsurpassed purity. This section offers a striking galaxy of shades, combining to produce an acceptably colorful picture, pleasing to the eye of both sexes. The whole product presentation is tasteful in effect and forms a charming and bold relief to scenic back drops furnished by Grafton & Co., with handsome drapings from the J. C. Turnbull Co., Limited. The whole decoration scheme and arrangements of goods is the work of Lorne Conway, who has displayed no inconsiderable adeptness in the art of exhibit designing and dressing.

An outstanding feature of this exhibit is found in the operating by a young damoiselle of a patent hand-knitting machine for special lines of knitted goods. The company are showing splendid samples of all their many lines of manufacture, which include knitted sweater coats and sweaters, and bathing suits for men, women, boys and girls, while they specialize on high grade Jersey garments and handsome ladies' shawls. Among several outstanding features in this section one finds a well-built myrtle green pull-over, all in one piece; a Scotch heather racked ladies' coat of exceptional durability. Also a handsome brushed wool ladies' coat in positively new creation, designed by Mrs. Leach, a member of the firm; this garment is of blue heather throughout, with ample collar, kimona sleeves and fringe trimmed, and is an exceptionally fine, warm and comfy coat for the particular woman. Another feature which arrests attention is an altogether charming combination of skirt and coat, the skirt being of plain, silver-knitted material, the sweater coat of pure wool, carrying a broad band and collar in color silver grey.

These are all home-made goods, from wool to the finished article, the woollen yarn being the product of Canadian Woollens, Ltd., this city. The Cornell Knitting Co., although comparatively a new industry in Peterborough, have a substantial and increasing business, and their excellent and reliable products find ready demand in Peterborough city. Their admirably equipped factory is situated at 176 Simcoe street.

BRINTON CARPET CO'S RUG ARTISTRY.

It is difficult, if not impossible, to do justice in a word picture to the remarkable exhibit so ingeniously produced by The Brinton Carpet Co. of Canada (and of Peterboro), in their interest-holding section in the Manufacturers' building at the local exhibition. Whatever was the intention in mind, to the writer their exhibit offers an Oriental touch which charms. It presents the interior of an old-time tapestry walled room, with wall hangings and floor coverings ecstatically rich and warm and seductively inviting, suggestive, perhaps, of Persia. The background setting is created by costly Wilton rugs—one in tapestry effect, one in blue background, another with a deep blue background with conventional facing design, while the floor furnishing is of beautifully soft, yet durable Axminster rugs, which are companionably reflected in a top wall bordering of what is known as hall runners in the same Axminster weave to match. A centre embellishment consists of an abbreviated pyramid gracefully draped with a costly Persian rug, showing a charming design constructed of a black background faced with no less than 14 harmonizing colors woven into a pattern which captivates one's eye. Rolls of Wilton rugs crowned with Axminster mats in fan-shaped effect constitute dividing pillars for the two back wall rug-pannelling. Then the whole is more or less dominated by two wings—one each side—both Chinese seamless Axminster rugs, nine feet in width, and reproduced by the Brinton Carpet Co., in any length required. One has a blue, the other a taupe background, and both are embellished here and there with floral and other ornamentation — not overdone, however—of an exclusive Chinese character. These rugs are exquisitely beautiful in artistic creation and desirably durable in texture. And they are manufactured here in Peterborough by this enterprising company (as are, of course all the rugs shown), to sell retail at $175, less than their price in the home of their origin, China. A few Canadian ferns tastefully placed here and there complete a rug picture which it would be difficult to excel.

The Brinton Carpet Co., of Canada, manufacturers of first quality Axminster, Brussels and Wilton rugs, located here in 1907, since which time their production has doubled—and their products are sold in up-town city stores. It is also extremely gratifying to note that they passed through the re-construction period after the war with practically no factory loss of time. A Peterboro industry of indomitable expansive energy, they enjoy a far-flung reputation as Canadian manufacturers of dependable Canadian rugs for discriminating Canadian people.

DUFFUS MOTOR SALES EXHIBIT.

In about the largest tent on the Exhibition grounds this live firm of Ford dealers are showing a complete line of Ford models, including a Sedan, Coupe, Touring Car, Roadster, a Speed Truck and also a Heavy Duty One Ton Truck with a lot of body on it.

In addition to the above they are showing several Fordson Tractors. In fact, no matter where you go on the grounds there seems to be a Fordson doing duty on some kind of a machine or other.

They are also showing an Oliver Plow, a Quack Grass Harrow and a Stiff-Tooth Cultivator, built expressly for the use for the Fordson Tractor and possibly no exhibit on the grounds is attracting the attention of the farming public as much as this full line of Ford goods.

It was learned that one only Ford touring car constituted the only automobile show at Peterborough Exhibition several years ago, and the fact that the Ford Exhibit now requires more space than any other single exhibit on the grounds shows marked progress and demand for these popular and economic machines.

Displayed outside the tent are signs advertising the use of only "Genuine Ford Parts" and the usual slogan of "Buy a Ford and Leave the Balance in the Bank," which everyone admits is extremely appropriate, at this time when economy should be uppermost in the minds of all people. 1d-1w

RADIO IN AVIATION.

Radio is included in the course of aviation schools throughout the country. Government schools, as well as private, make this an essential study for coming pilots. The future, it is predicted, will see every airplane equiped with a radio set. In fact England is planning to make this compulsory.

Radio News

NEW YORK, Sept. 15. —It took John Hays Hammond, Jr., 14 years to perfect his device which he says will permit secret radio communication.

Only after years of testing and research has he succeeded in producing an apparatus which has been found practical in tests by the war and navy departments and by officials of one of the largest American radio companies.

1. It affords absolutely private communication, since no other station can pick up the private message, unless specially equipped.
2. It will allow a large number of stations to communicate over a limited number of wave lengths.
3. Accidental interference from other stations is reduced.
4. Static troubles are diminshed.

Any station trying to listen in on a message broadcast by the Hammond system, says the inventor, would receive only a jumble of sounds that could not be translated Several code and phone conversations can be carried on at the same time through this instrument, and no intereference is noticed.

ENGLAND TO AFRICA EASY FOR SWALLOW

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The sixth swallow ringed and released in this country to be ultimately recaptured in South Africa has been reported to H. F. Witherby, ornithologist and student of bird migration. The wonders of migration become the more fascinating when these concrete proofs are forthcoming of the bare textbook statements that swallows and other birds do undertake these gigantic journeys.

The swallow in question, says The Daily Mail, was ringed as a nestling near Windsor, Berkshire, Aug. 20, 1921. Jan. 8, 1922, the bird was caught by Mr. Egbert Greef in the kitchen window of his house at Bradnek, Jansenville, in the Cape Province.

The journeys made by the five others which have been recaptured were from Staffordshire to Natal, Ayrshire to the Orange Free State, Lancasnire to Cape Province, Yorkshire to East Griqualand and Stirlingshire to the Transvaal.

Mr. Witherby's ringing scheme embraces also starlings and various other birds and he is anxious for the public to understand the meaning of the rings and to communicate with him in the case of marked birds being found, the place of finding, the date and the number which is on either the outside or inside of the ring.

A GIRL CAPTURED A ROBBER AT MIDNIGHT

KIRKLAND LAKE, Sept. 15. —(Canadian Press.)—Edith Atkinson, aged 20, alone and at midnight, captured Joseph Edwards, alias "Frenchy," when he attempted to loot Kaptin Store at Kirkland Lake. Edwards had entered the rear window when he was discovered by Miss Atkinson, who pounced upon him and held him until assistance arrived.

Laxative Syrup Pepsin Helps Nature Give Relief

Try it when a Laxative is needed and see the wonderful results

IT is not necessary to take a violent physic for so simple an ailment as constipation. Yet many thoughtless parents give mercury in the form of calomel, and coal-tar in the form of phenol when a natural vegetable compound like Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin will do the work equally well and without danger. People should realize that mercury may salivate and in certain conditions loosen the teeth; that phenolphthalein, by whatever name known and however disguised in candy, may cause dermatitis and other skin eruptions; that salt waters and powders may concentrate the blood, dry up the skin and cause lassitude.

You can take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin yourself or give it to a babe in arms, as thousands of mothers do every day, with the confidence that it is the safest and best medicine you can use for constipation and such complaints. A teaspoonful will relieve you over night even if the constipation has been chronic for years. Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics, and does not cramp or gripe. Every druggist handles it, and bottles are so generous that the cost amounts to only a cent a dose. You buy it with the understanding that if it does not do as claimed your money will be refunded. The names of all the ingredients are on the package.

Mrs. Geo. Reeve, of Galt, Ont., uses Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin with good results and is greatly pleased with it; and Mrs. K. Jennings, of Toronto, Ont., finds it very satisfactory. Bring a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin into your own home and let the family use it for constipation, biliousness, wind, gas, headaches, flatulency, and to break up fevers and colds.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try my Laxative Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 23 Caldwell Building, Toronto, Ont. Do it now!

BEWARE OF RADIO PARASITES

Stockjobbing—parasite of booming inventions—has struck radio.

Wildcat investments have sprung up with the rise in popularity of wireless. And with these has come a countless number of questionable inventions to be sold to radio fans at any cost.

This epidemic of "pirate radio parts" as they are called, has struck this business so terrifically that it has caused a turmoil in the ranks of the established manufacturers and amateurs. Radio companies have sprung up like mushrooms after a storm. And with them have come all sorts of radio apparatus—good, bad and indifferent.

Unscrupulous brokers have taken advantage of the sudden popularity of radio. They have "organized" companies of large souding names and high paper value only to fleece the gullible public of its money. Blue sky laws have been no hindrance to them aparently, for they have gone on gathering in their dollars from the "one-a-minute" class just as though there were no law to check them.

Warnings.

The Better Business Bureau of New York City, in co-operation with the National Vigilance Commmittee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, has taken steps to break up these wildcat schemes. But they can only go so far as to expose their methods and warn the public against them.

Among the many that have been brought to the attention of investors there is one company that capitalized itself at $4,000,000 and offered its stock at a par value of $1! It has already taken in many thousands of dollars from the credulous, say officials of the Better Business Bureau, although it has not one cent of security or any promise back of it.

All these companies run true to form. Immense profit, association with highly successful financiers, examples of success made by old established radio firms—these are some of the inducements laid before the prospects.

Pirate Parts.

Almost the same is true of companies that actually produce parts. Many of them never knew what radio was until the craze came along. Many know just enough to produce something that looks like something it ought to be. But it isn't The parts are put up to sell more than to serve.

The result is an overstocked competitive market which confuses the buyer. He cannot know what product will give the service he demands. He pays out exhorbitant sums for materials that fail to prove their worth.

This situation has brought about the oragnization of the National Redio Chamber of Commerce and of local branches, the chief purpose of which will be to protect the radio fan from unscrupulous manufacturers. The National Retail Dry Goods Association, of which the department stores of the country are members, has also decided to guard its clientele from such producers.

At the request of these organizations, the U.S. Bureau of Standards and the Electrical Testing Laboratories of New York have arranged to inspect all radio appartus that is submitted for sale in the department and other stores. Other associations also have adopted some scheme by which the proven products of their members may survive the competition of the mushroom products.

OLD HOUSE TO CROSS SEA.

Yorkshire Homestead Being Shipped in Sections to San Francisco.

LONDON, Sept 15.—Norland Hall, an ancient English homestead near Halifax, Yorkshire, is being dismantled and prepared for removal to San Francisco, where it will be re-erected. The stone and timber comprising Norland Hall are being packed into big crates. More than 100 of these crates were taken on motor wagons to Liverpool last week, and they are now at sea. It has been decided to remove the fine old barn to its new site in sections.

Antiquarians lament the loss of Norland Hall, but admit it would have been allowed to fall into decay.

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Says a glass of hot water and phosphate prevents illness and keeps us fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind incombustible ashes, so the food and drink taken dav after day leaves in the alimentary canal indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each dav, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and ptomainelike poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before breakfast each morning drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the bowels the previous day's poisons and toxins, and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

IS AMERICA ADRIFT FROM ANCHOR IN SEA?

German Geologist Says Continent Is Leaving Europe.

LONDON, Sept 15.—Is the American continent drifting westward and slowly leaving Europe behind?

It is, if the theory propounded to savants of the British Association at Hull by the German geologist, Wegener is correct.

Dr. Wegener declares that the various continents originally were joined at the poles, but that now they are slowly drifting away from the poles and from the east to west. America is moving westward faster than Europe, he said, and Greenland still faster than America. He added that this movement has been proven by experiments at observatories in Europe and at Washington.

In the discussion which followed Prof. Turner of Oxford said there was no astronomical observation worthy of serious consideration in support of Wegener's theory. Greenland, he admitted, had an apparent drift, showing a change of three-quarters of a mile in position between 1823 and 1907. All other evidence, however was against the existence of changes in latitude and longitude.

ONCE RICH, DIES UNKNOWN.

Wilson Classmate at Princeton to Be Buried Under Assumed Name.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 14.—A classmate of ex-President Woodrow Wilson in Princeton University, and believed to have been at one time a man of wealth in the Middle West is to be buried here tomororw under the name of Edwin S. McCarthy, although that is not his real name. He was about 73 years of age.

Five years ago he came to Worcester under the influence of the officials of the Bethel Help Mission, and work was obtained for him as sweeper at the plant of the Wickshire-Spencer Steel Corporation. He followed this occupation until stricken with paralysis last week and taken to City Hospital where he died Sunday night.

The officers of the corporation today located his lodging in the rear of a small fruit store, where they found a few books which showed the unknown had high literary tastes. Papers were also found to indicate he had owned large sugar refineries in the Middle West, but there was nothing among the papers to show anything more tangible concerning his family.

McCarthy's connections with Princeton became known through stories he told fellow workers.

Thousands are lured into all sorts of food experiments—trying this new one and that new one—only to come back to

Seems like coming "home again" after wandering around in the wilderness of Dietetic Doubt. There is no doubt or uncertainty about Shredded Wheat. It is 100 per cent whole wheat, always the same high quality—pure, clean, wholesome, nourishing. Eaten every day by millions of people in all climes. There is no substitute for it. Made in Canada.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MOUNT JULIAN

MOUNT JULIAN, Sept. 15.—One of the prettiest and most extended views of Stoney Lake is to be had from the broad and airy verandah of the Mount Julian hotel, one of the oldest, if not the oldest hostelry on the lake.

The guests at this commodious inn linger on, loath to depart leaving behind the glory of the autumnal woods and the benefits in both health and pleasure to be derived from the exceptional fine September weather.

A camping party, consisting of Miss Ethel Hughes of Jersey City, Miss Bessie Thompson of Mount Julian and Cecil Shewen also of Mt Julian hotel went to Jack's Lake Tuesday of last week, returning Friday evening bringing with them a fine string of bass and trout.

Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson and Miss Harriette Caskins will spend the week end at Apsley the guest of the Apsley House.

Miss Harriette Calkins, an American, who is registered at Mount Julian hotel has been coming to Canada for the last 13 years finding the location at Mount Julian a fotal relief for the dread disease, hayfever.

The annual Thanksgiving festival was held at the Holy Trinity Church, Mount Julian, Sunday at 3 3.m. The beautiful service being conducted by Arch-deacon Ingles assisted by the present incumbent rector, the Rev. J. L. Hughes, the music ably supervised by Mrs. Hughes. The inspiring and helpful sermon delivered by Archdeacon Ingles was appreciated by a goodly congregation. Previously, the church had been attractively decorated with fruit and flowers and vegetables by the parishioners from the choicest of their farms and gardens which following the service was generously distributed among those less fortunate of the settlement.

This quaint little Anglican church picturesquely situated by the wayside at the junction of the Apsley and Mount Julian road has much interest for the average tourist. Planned after the English style of architecture with Gothic windows of unstained glass, the soft grey tones of the unpainted wood blends harmoniously with the woodland tints of its background.

The following guest were recent registered guests at the Mount Julian Hotel. —W. A. Green and Mrs. Greene, Toronto, D. C. Youngson and Miss M. Rae of Peterboro, Ethel M. Hughes of Jersey City, N.Y., Harriette Calkins, Vanpburg, N.Y., Mr. E. Rishor, Mr. and Mrs. Watte, Mr. Max Rishor, Mr. Stuart and Miss Betty MacDonald all of Peterboro; W. R. THE HOME OF HEALTH

At the corner of Delight and Reindeer street—you'll find the exact locality if you walk around the manufacturers' building at the Peterborough Exhibition—there stands a novelty in the building art which stands apart in its exclusiveness. It consists of an old-style thatch roofed cottage antedating the brick and mortar period and presenting an ample expanse of picturesque diamond-paned windows on three fronts. But this faithful replica of the somewhat crude but comfy dwellings occupied by many of our great-great-grandfathers, rejoices in an outer clothing of unique modernity in that its main strucural walls and entire roof are built of Reindeer and Delight Wheat in the sheaf. And further a glimpse of its interior reveals a startling contrast to the antiquated exterior design, for therein one finds revealed, not a model but a real practical and present-day kitchen fully equipped for action. Nothing here is lacking to satisfy the modern housewife, who finds ready to hand an approved electric stove, white enamel sink and hot and cold water attachments with indispensable cooking utensils clean as a new pin, flanking a pure white enamel kitchen cabinet, the whole reflecting the fullest measure of sanitation and nothing wanting for meal-making utility.

And such comprises the commendable exhibit by the Peterborough Cereal Co., who are in this way demonstrating the efficiency of their Reindeer flour for bread, tea cakes and buns, and Delight flour for creating pastry which, synonymous with its name, positively "delights" the lover of good wholesome confection.

In a word, "This home of health was made of Canadian wheat", the structural foundation upon which has been erected a Peterborough flour and cereal industry marked by continued substantial expansion and a spirit of manufacturing enterprise commendably keeping apace with this progressive manufacturing city. c

MILKERS AND SEPARATORS.

The Continent-known De Laval Company, Limited, Peterborough, are to be congratulated on their strikingly effective display in the Manufacturers' Building of Milkers and Cream Separators, which for durability and time and money-saving service, coupled with last-word efficiency, stand without a peer. They are featuring their two-unit milker, together with a commanding array of separators in varied sizes ,and all carrying the latest bowl design in structure; some separators have power (electric or gasoline engine) attachments, while all reveal advantages which no modern farmer or dairyman can really afford to ignore. As for the De Laval milkers, thousands of men who are using these simple devices— super-durable and low in cost of maintenance—recommend them as the most practical and most sanitary means of realizing, without discomfort to the cow, the maximum of daily milk supply.

There are now over 2,500,000 De Laval Separators in use in every country where dairying is practised the world over, while the number of their milkers operated in many countries reaches an equally large figure.

This company is one of Peterborough's most important and aggressive industries, in support of which characterization it is only necessary to add that there are more than 50,000 local De Laval agents and more than 1,000 De Laval travelling employes—half of these respective representatives in Canada and the United States alone— giving their constant time and attention to the selling of the company's machines and to the care and best use of those which have already been sold.

To-day, despite unfavorable trade conditions generally experienced of late, the sales of their products the world over, and especially in Peterborough district, are exceptionally good. And it seems that these exemplary made-in-Peterborough dairy dairy appliances have an enviable home market, in which the Peterborough De Laval Company, Ltd., are firmly entrenched, with business always showing gratifying expansion, as it should for home-manufactured products which excel in meeting these requirements for which they are produced.

THE ROY STUDIO.

The exhibit of the Roy Studio bears out the slogan prominently displayed there, "We photograph anything any time, any place, and do it right."

The exhibit covers naturalistic, portrait, airplane and commercial photography, finishing for amateurs, in fact every branch of modern photography.

A special feature is the oil colors, a process combining an oil portrait over a photographic base, giving the beauty of oils with the faithfulness of photography.

The Roy Studio has been exhibiting at the Fair consistently for over 20 years and this year's exhibit is one of the most striking of the long series.

SYSTEM IN ALL OFFICE EQUIPMENT

An Exhibition Worth While to Modern Business Men.

"Proof of the pudding is in the eating" is a time-worn axiom which may, however, be consistently applied to the exhibits in the Manufacturers' Building by the Office Specialty Mfg. Co., of Newmarket, Ontario. This exhibit is attracting considerable attention from business men, and is in charge of D. A. Costello, the company's energetic representative for Eastern and Northern Ontario, in company with George Morning, of the head office staff. Mr. Costello may be connected with by letter to P. O. Box 816, Peterborough, or by 'phone 1122W. Enquiry into the advantages of the Office Specialty Mfg. Co.'s office systems is invited by Mr. Costello, either at the Fair or afterwards, who will cheerfully furnish all explanatory details.

A new feature shown this year is this company's fire-wall filing cabinet, steel in structure, asbestos lined, and proved to be of remarkable heat-resisting build. In practical proof of this cabinet's wonderful fire-resisting quality, it is only necessary to say that one of the "Office Specialty" "Firewall" filing cabinets protected the valuable records housed in them in the disastrous fire that completely destroyed the Montreal City Hall.

Mr. Business Man, would your records survive a fire of a similar intensity or even a smaller fire?

No business manager could view this display without hankering after some of the time-saving and admirably adapted desk and filing specialties. The efficiency of the modern office can only be acquired through the use of system that have been carefully and intelligently planned to handle the work expeditiously, and with the minimum of effort. With an experience of over thirty years this Newmarket company have produced office furniture designs that have proved highly desirable and applicable to all classes of business utility.

In workmanship and material the lines shown would seem to cover every desired taste, while the designs are pleasingly simple, cleverly planned and handy. Another feature of this "Office Specialty" line that makes for time-saving and economy is the standardization of the various units that have proved most adaptable for office work in all kinds of business. No better evidence of the value of these lines to the modern business man could be afforded than the constant appreciation shown by the large attendance of merchants and others around this section.

The central combination in this exhibit is an Office Specialty efficiency desk. Visitors called and seemingly envied this splendid office combination. It answers for a filing cabinet and desk combined. Its drawers are arranged in letter size divisions to hold correspondence files and sales reports; in cap size divisions for cost charts and factory reports; other divisions hold sets of car records. So that statistics regarding every phase of business are intantly accessible. In a word, this desk enables you to do more work in less time.

Samples of Vertical Filing is also shown. Alphabetical or numerical guides are used to divide the drawer and each folder has a specific place with all related papers filed in the same folder.

Another new feature for office equipment is a combination Record Safe for the keeping and preserving safely of all kinds of valuable business records. This ingenious design can be filled with any combination of official or business filing cabinets for separate records and valuables. The drawers run with steel frictionless suspension, and work as easily when loaded as when empty. It is made in two sizes—the small size is intended for retail or professional business offices, and the large one to accommodate the records of any ordinary size office. The representatives will be glad to furnish any information to visitors regarding office systems, no matter of what nature.

To all who find the lack of system in their office or who need their present system revised the "Office Specialty" system service should prove a great boon.

This interesting display also shows samples of the Steel Vertical Files, Shannon Filing, Card Index Systems, Counterweight verticals, Card Record Desk, Technical Book Cases, etc.

Mr. Costello, who has charge of this exhibit, was kept constantly busy explaining the merits of each specialty, and it is safe to say that he will have a bookful of orders before the Fair is over. Mr. Costello is a live Peterborough boy and is making good in the wide field to which he has been appointed.

FORD TO WAR ON 'WETS' IN TWO BIG PLANTS

Will Discharge Workmen Using or Having Liquor in Shops or in Homes

DETROIT, Sept. 15.—Beginning last Monday, the Ford Motor Company will wage an aggressive war against the use of all forms of intoxicants among its tens of thousands of employees. Information obtained by company officials shows that Federal and State authorities have been only partly successful in enforcing prohibition and restricting the production of intoxicants in Highland Park and Springwells, where the principal Ford plants are located.

The odor of intoxicants in a workman's breath, the presence of any form of intoxicant on his person or in his home will be cause for summary discharge.

"This has got to stop," Mr. Ford said tonight, "and we're going to end it in short order. Starting Monday it will cost a man his job without any excuse or appeal being considered to have the odor of beer, wine or liquor on his breath of to have any of these intoxicants on his person or in his home.

"The Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution is a part of the fundamental law of this country. It was meant to be enforced. Politics has interfered with enforcement of this law, but, so far as our organization is concerned, it is going to be enforced to the letter. I have always been opposed to all forms of intoxicants. Beer, wine and liquor never did anybody any good—and they have caused incalculable suffering and misery in the world."

LET'S PRETEND

By Anne Campbell

He hasn't much to play with,
His wagon's old and worn,
His faded clothes are shabby,
His little blouse is torn.
He never has a penny
To cherish or to spend,
But all the time he's playing
A game called "Let's pretend"

His wagon has a motor,
It's paint is red and new,
He owns a world of playthings,
And lots of money, too.
He even has a mother,
A daddy who's his friend,
And he can hear them talking
When he plays "Let's pretend"

Sometimes when it is evening,
And he is in his bed,
Perhaps his angel mother
Stands guard above his head.
Perhaps 'tis she who whispers
That troubles always mend,
And we can all be happy
If we'll play "Let's pretend."

Washing only makes them prettier

Whoever thought that the time would come when silks, satins, chiffons and laces could actually be washed in soap and water!

And that this washing not only wouldn't harm them but would renew them, keeping both color and fabric as fresh and attractive as the day they came from the shop.

Introducing Palmolive Princess Flakes

This superfine soap is as pure and mild as the finest toilet soap.

It is snowy white soap, flaked into crisp wafers.

These soft suds in turn gently dissolve all soil from fragile georgette frocks and blouses, delicate crepe and silk underwear and all the laces and chiffons of your wardrobe. Sheer voiles and batistes, frail in fabric, delicate in color, need as careful handling as silk.

Brilliant ginghams, dazzling cretonnes—everything that is in the least likely to fade—wash all these fancy cottons with Palmolive Princess Flakes and protect their beauty.

For everything of wool

Palmolive Princess Flakes are the ideal soap for washing all woolen things. It doesn't shrink them, it keeps them soft. No danger of boardlike sweaters or underwear, or little caps and leggings stiff and hard.

The dirt just falls out of blankets washed with Palmolive Princess Flakes. And how soft and warm they seem!

Cheaper than buying new clothes

If you used Palmolive Princess Flakes for all laundry work you would be practising real economy. First, because they are all soap and go much farther. Next, because it is cheaper to buy pure fine soap than it is to be continually replacing worn-out clothes.

For you mustn't blame broken threads and thin places which dissolve into holes to poor material. This is due to the rotting of the fabric by the destructive ingredients of average laundry soap.

Convenience and economy

Palmolive Princess Flakes come in handy pound packages, and once you use them you will agree that they are superior and save money. Ask your dealer today for one or two packages.

Importance of Water

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP

Count up how many uses there are for water in the human. And then judge from this number how important a part water plays in our life. It's astonishing.

The human body is built up of countless millions of cells, each one surrounded by a fluid medium—the blood—and the cells themselves are largely composed of water, too. In fact, about 60 per cent of the human body consists of this element. The cells get their nutrition from the blood and cast off their matter into it. So, when too little fluid is supplied, the blood maintains a higher specific gravity and the poisonous waste products of tissue or cell are cast off very imperfectly. Thus the body is poisoned by its own excretions.

The uses of water in the body have been summmarized as follows.

1. It is incorporated in the tissues.
2. It is the chief ingredient of all fluids of the body—insuring their proper degree of dilution.
3. It prevents friction by moistening the membranes.
4. It distributes the food to the tissues and removes waste matters, through the work of the blood.
5. It regulates the temperature by absorption and evaporation.
6. It distributes the body heat.

The quantity of water required by each individual will vary according to his size and the nature of his work ,but a safe estimate if from two and a half to three pints a day.

The deprivation of water means death to every living thing. One may live without eating for weeks, but without water he would die in a few days. However excessive consumption also has its bad effects, so care should be taken to take enough but not too much.

ON SATURDAY NIGHT

BY BERTON BRALEY

Saturday Night! Saturday Night!
All over the country the lights twinkle bright,
And down in the village or up in the city
The girls look uncommonly charming and pretty;
Their escorts are manicured, shaved and arrayed
Is quite the best clothes they can buy ready-made.
They're living each moment with fervor intense,
They're out for a frolic—and darn the expense,
On Monday their pockets will surely be light
But then they can plan for next Saturday Night!

Saturday Night! Saturday Night
Throughout all our week-days we keep it in sight.
The night we can play with no thought of the morning
(On Sunday no strident alarm rings a warning);
The night that the family piles in the car
And goes to the place were frivolers are;
The night after payday—the night when we dance,
And blow in our surplus—and next week's, perchance;
Oh, night of all nights to the hard-working wight,
Saturday Night! Saturday Night!

First Steel Store in Canada at Goderich, Ont.

L. R. Steel Company, Limited

PROGRESS IN CANADA

The great aim of Steel Stores in Canada is to give every Customer the greatest Service and Value for every Dollar—to earn Dividends for every Shareholder—to develop Canadian Raw Materials and to use Canadian Labor wherever possible—to help Canada prosper by providing Employment for Thousands and by putting in Circulation Millions of Dollars every Year. Canada is developing rapidly, and we are looking ahead and equipping Steel Stores to serve the Millions of To-day and the greater Millions of To-morrow.

Over Eight Million Dollars Distributed in Canada by L. R. Steel Organization in Two Years

ON August 7th, 1920, the first L. R. Steel store in Canada opened its doors at Goderich, Ontario. In two years' time 12 Steel Stores have been opened in Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba. High-class retail sites have been purchased for the erection of 10 more Steel Stores in Canada. This is but the preliminary work of a great building campaign that calls for a Steel Store in every point of 5,000 people and over in Canada and the United States.

Over $8,000,000 HAS BEEN PAID OUT IN CANADA for store sites, construction, labor, merchandise and equipment by the L. R. Steel organization during a period of about two years' operation in Canada. The building division of Steel Stores, the Steel Realty Development Corporation, Limited, has distributed in Canada $3,494,253.18 for store sites, buildings and improvements up to August 1st, 1922, Steel Stores in Canada in about two years have paid out $5,147,244.16 to fit out stores, to pay Canadian labor, wages and salaries, to pay Canadian factories for merchandise, to pay operating expenses of stores that have been increasingly successful in operation, returning dividends to Canadian shareholders. About 90% of all merchandise handled in the Canadian Steel Stores is made in Canada. In two years, and ever increasing, the L. R. Steel organization has developed into one of the permanent and progressive institutions that are helping to build a greater Canada.

STEEL STORES STIMULATE BUSINESS CENTRES.

The first L. R. Steel Store opened in Goderich, a town of about 3,000 population, with a record attendance on opening day of many more than that number of people. Steel Service and Steel values draw business from a great distance, which is a benefit to other merchants in the same town. In Oshawa, Ontario, the Steel Store was the pathfinder in creating a new business district. That Steel Store trade attraction makes business better and increases values in the retail section of the town has been demonstrated in several cities and towns in Canada where Steel Chain Stores are in operation. For example, on St. John Street in Quebec City, in the vicinity of the Steel Chain Store, realty values are reported increased and business better since the operation of the Steel Store in that locality. Steel Chain Stores are in operation in Goderich, Owen Sound, Sault Ste. Marie, Oshawa, Toronto, Ottawa and Brantford, in the Province of Ontario; in Montreal, Sherbrooke and two stores in Quebec City, Province of Quebec; in Brandon, Province of Manitoba.

VALUABLE SITES FOR NEW STORES.

The L. R. Steel organization owns some of the best retail sites in cities of Canada, upon which it is planned to build large and most modernly equipped Chain Stores. The Hamilton Store is scheduled to open for business this year, occupying the site of the old McKay Building, 55-59 King Street East, Hamilton, Ontario. A store has been opened recently on Rosser Avenue, Brandon, Manitoba. Excellent building sites have been secured in Three Rivers, Quebec; on St. Catherine Street West, Montreal; on Scarth Street, near the post-office, in Regina; at 161-171 Second Avenue, Saskatoon. What is conceded to be one of the finest retail store sites in Edmonton, the corner of 101st and Jasper Avenue, is owned by the L. R. Steel organization, and also a rare retail corner in Calgary, the corner of Eighth Avenue and First Street, West. In Vancouver the L. R. Steel organization owns two of the best retail corners in the city, the corner of Granville and Dunsmuir Streets and the corner of Hastings and Homer Streets.

FUTURE DEVELOPMENT IN CANADA.

Steel Stores are paying dividends to shareholders. L. R. Steel has shown his faith in Canada by always crediting Canadian money with par value in all the Steel enterprises in the United States. It is estimated that at least 2,000 people, employes and their families, in Canada, are being supported by the L. R. Steel organization. The plan of operation of Steel Stores has met with such favor in Canada that frequently Steel Stores have been opened by mayors.

The plan of Steel Store development in Canada is exceedingly great. Plans call for Steel Department Stores, retailing merchandise from 5c to $20.00, in all points of population of 5,000 people and over, in Canada. Wherever the store has a frontage of 50 feet or more, plans call for a market, which will distribute among the people fresh farm products at the minimum of cost. It is also planned to open up in the future factories in Canadian towns to supply wares to Steel Stores in Canada, utilizing Canadian material and labor. Steel Stores will develop farm products and other natural resources to a very large extent. To man these enterprises in Canada, thousands of capable, dependable and efficient men and women will be required. Hundreds of managers and assistant managers of stores will be needed. An army of salesmen and saleswomen will be required to operate the stores and the farm products market run in connection with the stores. Numerous men will be needed to man the delivery wagons that bring in the farm products to the stores and deliver merchandise to the farmers. Employment will be provided for thousands, Canadian industry will be stimulated and millions of dollars put in circulation annually. Canada is growing rapidly, and the L. R. Steel organization is preparing to serve the millions that are here and the millions that are coming, to make this Canada's great century.

NEW MERCHANDISING POLICY.

The L. R. Steel Company, Limited, is establishing Steel Chain Stores in groups of seven. One of these stores, located within easy access to the other six, will act as a central distributing store for the rest of the group. By means of this Group System the sub-stores will be so situated that they will need to carry only enough stock to meet their requirements from week to week. Being so close to the central distributing store, sub-stores can renew their stocks easily by requisitions. Besides being an advanced modern merchandising idea, the Group System reduces the problem of Chain Stores which find rents too high to permit enough space to be devoted to reserve stocks of merchandise. The Group System also reduces long hauls of freight to short hauls.

In the earlier years of 5, 10 and 15 cent stores, rents were low enough to allow considerable space for the storing of reserve stocks of goods; but, with the coming of high rents, as in vogue to-day, storage space becomes a problem. L. R. Steel has originated the Group System of operating Chain Stores to solve this problem.

Steel Chain Stores in Canada sell lines of merchandise to completely equip the home for the average family and supply the needs of the individual, at prices ranging from 5c to $20.

HAMILTON STORE.

On this page is shown the architect's sketch of the Hamilton store, now being completed on the site of the old McKay Building, 55-59 King Street East, Hamilton. It is a good example of the up-to-date Steel Chain Department Store, retailing merchandise from 5c up to $20. When operating, it will have four floors with a Steel Cafeteria in the basement.

First Floor: Soda fountain, electrical department, hardware and smallware departments. Balcony off first floor: Men's furnishings, Men's Clothes, Men's Shoes and Ladies' Beauty Parlor. Second Floor: Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Department. Third Floor: Market, Furniture, Candy Manufacturing, Bakery and Toyland. Fourth Floor: Stock room. When operating, this will be one of the finest and most modern stores in Hamilton, and one of the best in the Steel international chain.

Canadian money has always been credited with par value in all those Links of the International Steel Chain operating in the United States. Through the depression, and ever since the inception of the Steel Enterprises, about two and a half years ago, Canadian money has not lost a cent in value through Exchange. This is but one of many ways in which L. R. Steel is showing his faith in Canada.

Same as Game Played on Links With a Club

(By Dudley Siddall.)

AKRON, O., Sept. 14.—Horseshoe pitching is a science in Akron.

It's so blooming scientific that Akronites have doped out a way to spend $60 on a court, which is a lot of money for setting two stakes in the ground.

And inventions!

Akron stakes are cushioned in rubbed They're surrounded by doughlike fire-clay to make the shoes stop with a "plunk" just where they strike Around the fire-clay areas are wooden pitching platforms which fold over the fire-clay when not in use—and lock—as protection against weather and unauthorized players.

E. M. Twynham, president of the Akron Horseshoe Pitchers' Club, is one of the moving spirits in the development of the game from its humble origin of two stakes and four horseshoes borrowed from the village smithy. He has a faculty for teaching form. No golf pro has a keener eye for feet, knees, hands, wrists, heels, chins, toes, and other parts of the human anatomy.

"How should a beginner start?" he was asked.

"I'll show you," said he. "Oh, Snyder!" he called to one of the players.

Charles Snyder came over and was introduced. A year ago he simply threw shoes. Today, by constant practice, he shows a form approximating that of George May, Akron club star and one of the world's leading horseshoe pitchers.

"The first thing a beginner should do," said Twynham, "is to learn to throw a regulation shoe exactly 40 feet. He can hold it any way that seems natural. But he should practice until he throws it 40 feet, no more and no less.

"For most pitchers the best style is the 'cradle rock' and the 'pendulum swing.'"

Feet together. Right arm hanging directly over the stake. Eye on the peg 40 feet away That was first position.

Then Snyder's arm swept straight back, with no crook in the elbow. With the downward swing of the "swooping toss" his left foot advanced in straight line. His right foot rocked from heel to toe, but otherwise kept its position on the pitching platform. A peculiar wobbling movement was applied to the shoe with a twist of the wrist. As he released the shoe his hand and arm "followed through."

The 2½-pound iron almost floated through the air, wobbling as it went, in an arc about nine feet above the ground at the highest point.

Then, just the force of the throw was spent, the shoe "plunked" into the fire-clay around the stake with heel calks away from the pitcher—"open," as they say. It was a perfect ringer.

"Beginners needn't worry about holding the shoe," said Twynham. "After they learn to throw 40 feet and acquire the form of the pendulum swing and swooping toss they can easily shift their grips around the shoe until they find the right place to make it land 'open.'

"This may be a 'three-quarters turn,' a 'one and three-quarters,' or even as much as a 'two and a half' turn.

"Shoes that whirl around more than two and a half times are out of control.

"The 'wobble' is difficult, but worth mastering, because a wobbly shoe has twice as much chance to ring as a flat sailing shoe."

George May, whom everyone in Akron hopes to emulate, can regularly ring 25 out of 28 or 30 pitches. Clark Wallis, an Akron pitcher who uses the "sturdy oak" stance instead of the cradle rock, recently made 1,356 ringers in 55 games.

WHY TY IS STRONG FOR COLLEGE MEN.

Brain is a great asset on the ball field. Most college players are intelligent.

College players are quick to take advice. It is easy to correct their faults and mould their style.

Collegians bring to the majors a desire to win. The college spirit is the thing with them. It is good for professional ball.

There is never a desire on the part of the collegian to pull individual stuff. He always plays for the team, ever ready to put himself into the background.

Most college players come to the majors well coached in the rudiments of the game.

Four seasons of college preparation under proper supervision fit a player better for the majors than a year or two in the minors.

College players as a rule are not easily discouraged. The spirit of never quitting is instilled into them.

Seldom does a college player sulk at proper criticism. He has been taught to regard his coach as the last word.

Proper methods of conditioning and a realization of the value of taking the best of care of himself is another excellent qualification possessed by every collegian.

SLUGGER WAS SOLD BECAUSE HE COULD NOT HIT THE BALL

"Reb" Russell Fanned So Frequently in Minneapolis That He Was Sold to Pittsburgh.

HITTING NOW.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 15.—Here's one for the record of queer things in baseball.

"Reb" Russell, Pittsburgh's new slugging demon, was sold to the Pirates by the Minneapolis Americans because he couldn't hit Association pitchers any more.

Let that sink in. Then go on with the story told by Sherwood Magee, former National champion batter, to a bunch of National Leaguers one day when the Minneapolis club had an off day and he visited the Cincinnati park.

There's plenty of libretto to back up Sherry's song. He simply furnished the music.

On June 24 Russell clouted four hits in five swings against Indianapolis. His output that day included two doubles, a triple and a homer. Thus he boosted his season's average in the association to .355.

However, it was his last big day at bat in that league. The association pitchers seemed to get wise to what he couldn't hit and fed him nothing else. In the next six games he made just one hit in 13 swings. He hit safely in seven of his next eight games, but totalled only nine blows in 25 swings in the eight. After that he seemed to lose his grip again, and in his last six games with the Millers made only one hit in 16 times at bat.

That slump decided Cantillon on what to do about the offer Pittsburgh had made to him for Russell.

According to Magee, old Joe sized up the situation like this:

" 'Red' doesn't seem able to hit in this league any more. If I don't sell him the Pirates will withdraw their offer and I'll be left with a player on my hands who isn't much use to my club. If I do sell I'll be money ahead, and so will Russell. And he might hit in the Nationals for the pitchers won't know his weak spot."

So Russell was sold, and he was no sooner in a Pittsburgh uniform, than he began batting harder than he'd done in his best days in the association.

And all because he couldn't hit association pitchers any more.

Now that the picture postcards have stopped coming from your vacation friends, we can all get down to work.

He is being coached by T. W. Burgess, the English swimmer, who was successful in swimming the Channel.

WEST VIRGINIA BANS WRESTLING SPORTS.

The West Virginia Board of Education has eliminated wrestling from the state university's list of sports.

Why? That's what the students want to know. The board didn't give any definite reason. It's thought the members consider the sport beneath the university's dignity.

With the student body, it's highly popular and the summer classes ask, if it's permissible at Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Cornell and other universities, why not West Virginia.

DOVER, England, Setember 15 (Canadian Press). — Charles Toth, of Boston, who was forced to quit recently in his attempt to swim the English Channel, but is anxious to try it again, said yesterday that he expected to make his second effort to-day. He plans to start this time at three p.m.

Manager Frank Navin Is Going to Take 'em Young and Train 'em.

Whereas other major league managers wait until a phenom has been more or less developed in the minors and then pay $50,000 to $100,000 for him, Frank Navin is going to send a tracker right out into the jungle where such creatures roam wild, to catch the finest specimens he sees and bring 'em in, after which Navin aims to train e'm himself.

Walter McCredie's the tracker he's engaged.

McCredie, former manager of the Portland club in the Pacific Coast League, is the greatest hunter of Navins kind of game the West has ever known. Three of his captures—Pillette, Blue and Sylvester Johnson—are valued performers in the Detroit menagerie already, and Navin wants more, so he's signed up the man who caught that trio—three years ago McCredie was offered the job of managing the Detroit club—to go after them.

Class AA circuits won't see much of McCredie. His Scotch blood chills at the thought of paying out fabulous sums for players—considering the reasonable terms on which the secured George Maisel, Harry Heilmann, Charlie Hollocher, Louie Guisto and other whom he worked up from the raw—so this time will be spent mostly in Class C and D circuit towns.

VERSES TO HELP RUGBY PLAYERS

Lehigh Physical Director Says Poetry Makes For Victory on the Gridiron.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 15.—Having had pretty much of everything else tried on them to make them win games, football players are receiving doses of poetry now with that end in view.

The treatment is recommended by Professor Howard R. Reiter, athletic director at Lehigh University and instructor in football psychology at the Harvard Summer School of Physical Education.

Verse should be administered freely both before and after games, and between halves as well, the professor asserted in his closing lecture to his class.

"I've seen a football team that had been outplayed, outfought, and reduced to a state of panic at the end of the first half, pulled together during intermission" Professor Reiter says "by the leader...ip of a strong personality and by the focusing of the men's energies upon teamwork. I've seen a beaten team literally sweep their opponents before them and pull victory out of defeat.

"Choice poems, on such occasions, not only are uplifting, but they put the fighting spirit into the men. ?

"Success is failure turned inside out.
"The silver tint of the cloud of doubt,
"And you can never tell how close you are,
"It may be near when it seems afar;
"So stick to the fight when you're hardest hit,
"It's when things seem worst that you mustn't quit.

Sir John Ball's "The Torch of Life" and Robert W. Service's "The Quitter" serve as the right sort of tonic between halves and after the game an excellent selection is Charles Van Housen's 'On the Square.'

"When, during the World War, they found Sammy Reid, ex-captain of the Princeton football team, dead in No Man's Land, with his gun pointing toward the enemy, he had in his pocket an unnamed poem—

"When trouble slaps you in the face, don't run away and hide,
"For soon he'll find your hiding place and stick right by your side.
"Slap back and when he sees your grit, he'll leave without delay;
"But he can whip the man who'll quit, to-fight some other day.

"For most of us life in an uphill struggle, and many of us lose simply because we haven't been students in the school of adversity.

"The hard knocks help.
"It's the bumps you get and the jolts you get.
"And the shocks that your courage stands.
"The hours of sorrow and vain regret.
"The prize that escapes your hands,
"That test your metal and prove your worth.
"It's not the blows you deal, but the blows you take "That count on this good old earth."

FOOTWORK IMPORTANT.

When you hear of footwork the first thought is boxing. But the feet happen to be portant adjuncts to other pastimes. When Bill Tilden was playing a hard match recently, a certain expert stepped up with this remark, "Just keep your eyes on Tilden's feet. You'll see some of the greatest footwork in tennis. He knows how to have his feet ready for any return and at times they work faster than the eye can follow." So we watched Tilden's feet, and they kept both eyes busy. The shift came at remarkable speed when needed and they could start in any direction with amazing swiftness.

UNADULTERATED SPEED IS BIG PITCHING ASSET

How a Pitcher Can and Did Win By Hurling Nothing But a Plain Fast Ball — Walter Johnson Didn't Have a Curve.

BY BILLY EVANS.

A fast ball is a pitcher's greatest asset, an asset which nearly every famous hurler has possessed at the height of his career.

There were two reasons why he did this. He hadn't a curve in his repertory. Better yet, his fast ball was almost unhittable.

"Why throw anything else when they can't see or hit the fast ones?" was the logic on which Charley Sweet, who caught Johnson, played the game.

Not until recently have I seen a pitcher work an entire major league game in whic he used a fast ball exclusively.

I refer to Sylvester Johnson of Detroit, who did this in the final series at Boston between the two clubs.

Detroit won, 16 to 3.

Johnson, it will be recalled, is the pitcher Detroit paid $40,000 for. In the same deal came Herman Pillette. It was Johnson the Tigers wanted. Pillette merely was included. He was figured on little as a regular. Yet he has developed into the most consistent winner on Detroit's staff. He is certain of 20 games for the Tigers and may make 25.

Johnson was picked as a standby from the very start. Struck by a batted ball in the spring he suffered a broken wrist that has handicapped him all year. Now that the season is almost over he is just hitting his stride.

When Johnson was announced to oppose the Boston Red Sox I asked Catcher Bassler about his style, as I had never seen him work. Then in confidence. Bassler remarked to me:

"Just keep looking for fast ones. Don't think I will call for a curve all day. A curve ball has a tendency to tire his wrist, which is still weak. His fast one will keep you busy, Bill." It did, also the Boston batters

Johnson has a rather peculiar style. Part of the time he is down low, much like Carl Mays. At other times he resorts to a side-arm motion.

For nine innings Johnson threw nothing but fast balls to the Red Sox Boston made only five hits, I belive.

All of which proves that Johnson has a prety good fast ball. It is the first time I have ever seen a pitcher get away with the stunt since the early days of Walter Johnson's regime. Another Johnson.

Johnson should go big next year. He has every asset of a great pitcher, lacking only confidence and experience at the present time.

"THE LOVES Of PHARAOH"

Now is the Era of Swat But Can It Be Overdone

BY BILLY EVANS.

This certainly is the era of swat in baseball.

Those experts who cling to the belief that brawn has not supplanted brains, to a certain extent, as a factor in baseball need only to consult the batting records.

Saturday, July 29, 1922, will live long in the baseball annals as a mute testimonial to the part that slugging now plays in the modern game.

On that date 21 home runs were made in the American and National Leagues, thereby piling up a new home-run record for one day in the majors or any other league, for that matter.

The National League played the more prominent part in the home-run festivities, making 14 circuit drives, of which five were to the credit of the Pittsburgh team and an equal number to the Phillies.

The American League was responsible for seven four-sackers.

No single player in the American League contributed more than one home run. In the National, Henline of the Phillies and Carey of Pittsburgh chalked up a pair.

Fifteen or 20 years ago 21 home runs would have been the supply for a couple of weeks.

For that number of home runs to be made in a day simply means that the ball is lively and that the pitchers are not quite so good. However, one must not forget that the lively ball takes considerable stuff from the pitcher.

Delving into the dope, some interesting datum is uncovered, which tends to show the strides that batting has made in the last five years.

At the close of the 1917 season the average team batting average of the American League was .247 in 1921 it was .292. In the National League it was .249 five years ago, while it 1921 it was .289.

Five years ago there were 13 batsmen in the American League batting for percentages of .300 or better. In this list of 13 batsmen were seven players that had gone to bat less than 100 times. So in reality there were really only six regular .300 or better hitters.

Last season 54 American League players batted .300 or better. At the present time there are about 40 in the .300 class.

The lively ball is of course partly to blame, although the pitchers must bear some of the burden for the free hitting that is now featuring major league baseball.

Slugging appears to have struck a popular chord with the fans. The atendance records prove they like it. The big fear is that it will be overdone and react.

BRITISH WINGED DESTROYER TO BE TERROR OF THE AIR

LONDON, Sept. 15.—There has been built for the Air Ministry a new type of machine shortly to be tested which it is believed will place an entirely new aspect on the aircraft versus battleship controversy.

Known as the Cubaroo, this new craft is a winged destroyer intended to be used, at least at the outset, for coastal defense purposes. It is fitted with a very high-powered engine. It will have a range, when fully loaded with bombs or torpedoes, of more than 1,000 miles.

The Cubaroo is a three-seater machine and will be a most effective weapon when operating in large numbers to repel not only invading seacraft but also aircraft. Against such a machine a Zeppelin would stand very little chance, for a feature of this new design is ability to climb at a tremendous rate.

The cruising speed of the craft will be about three miles a minute. Four machine-guns will be fitted into the coastal defense plane. Great things are expected of it by the air authorities.

WOMAN FLOGGED BY "LADY KLUXERS"

Lured Away, Given 100 Lashes for "Ruining Daughter."

FT. WORTH, TEXAS, Sept. 14.—Mrs. I. C. Tatum, 44 years old, was reported in a serious condition to-day as the result of a flogging administered last night by four women, one of them masked, who described themselves as a committee of the "Ladies of the Invisible Eye," Mrs. Tatum, who received 100 lashes, it was said, was accused by the four of "ruining her daughter."

The women, who announced themselves as members of a secret society, enticed Mrs. Tatum into an automobile by promising to take her to her daughter. The car was then driven six miles from her home, where her assailants, she said, applied straps with balls fastened to the ends.

County officers were requested not to disturb Mrs. Tatum until morning because of her condition.

Capitol Entertainment

The Capitol Theatre has a good programme for Fair week. Dorothy Dalton in an unusul feature, "The Crimson Challenge"; a second long reel production entitled "Mother O'Mine", and Larry Semon in a brand-new comedy, "Golf", making an exceptionally good evening's entertainment.

"The Crimson Challenge" adapted from Vingie Roe's novel, "Tharon of Lost Valley", is an unusual picture, with the popular star, Dorothy Dalton in the stellar role, as Tharon Last who acts as leader in struggle by honest ranchers in Lost Valley against the power of the unscrupulous Buck Courtrey. An out of the ordinary theme is developed in a picture that glows with out-of-door vitality, the setting cast in a lonely ranch amongst the mountains, with one exit to the outside world, a spot where Buck, the cattle rustler and suspected murderer, rules with an iron hand. Jim Last, the fair and open fighter, is shot in the back by Buck, who wishes to divorce his brow-beaten wife and marry Tharon Organizing the ranchers, the girl institutes a campaign against Courtrey, which ends in final victory for the men, after a long, bitter fight, in which there are night raids dynamiting expeditions a wild stampede of stolen cattle, and a fight in the county town. Action, vigorous and alert and splendid acting characterize an interesting feature. . . . .

"Mother o' Mine" is a short reel, heart interest picture on the "mother" theme with a wayward son who circumvents the man who aims to rob his mother, and then rides away over the hills, and an imperturable Chinese servant who helps to save him.

Larry Semon does some new stunts in "Golf", acting in this as the brother of a black-haired flapper who is pursued by a heavy-browed suitor, favored by her father, while her heart rests with a fat youth who serenades her with a small ukulele. Larry's passion for golf, which he pursues indoors with the aid of holes through the ceiling, and water hazards in large buckets, leads to some peculiar adventures, and his outdoor game is complicated by the presence of the villain, with nitro-glycerine golf balls and a heavy fist. Larry's principal part in this comedy is an escaping one, most of his exits being flying ones while pursued by his wrathful father or the rejected suitor.

AT THE CAPITOL, TO-NIGHT

AT THE GRAND.

Theatregoers who see the name of Charles S. Gilpin blazoned forth in large letters in the advertising for "The Emperor Jones" Eugene O'Neill's much talked of play, which comes to the Grand, Thursday, Sept. 21st, wonder who this actor is and in what they have seen him before. Well, theatregoer, unless you are a frequenter of the vaudeville theatres, or unless you were fortunate enough to see the Drinkwater play "Abraham Lincoln," during the New York run, you have never seen Gilpin. His first appearance in a Broadway theatre was as the slave in "Abraham Lincoln," and shortly afterward New Yorkers were discussing his merits as an actor. The talk about Gilpin attracted the attention of Mr. O'Neill, who at the time was searching the list of available players to find one who would measure up to the requirements of the lead in "The Emperor Jones." O'Neill went to see the Drinkwater play and came away thrilled and satisfied that at last he had found the very actor for the difficult role of the "Emperor." At the end of the run of "Abraham Lincoln" Gilpin was signed and "The Emperor Jones," was produced.

The success of both Gilpin and the play is now theatrical history an entire season was played at the Princess Theatre, New York, followed by long runs in Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston.

National magazines devoted pages to praise of Gilpin's art, and newspapers in the four cities mentioned, vied with each other extolling his work. Gilpin's career reads like a chapter from fiction, in which merit reaps its just reward when opportunity presents itself.

Gilpin was born in Richmond, Va., and learned the art of elocution from the Sisters in a Parochial school which he attended. Later his parents moved to Philadelphia and he got a job with a newspaper there.

His splendid singing and speaking voice enabled him to earn some money at local entertainments and finally he became a vaudeville performer. Later he joined a small stock company in Chicago, which gave him the necessary experience for the legitimate stage. His opportunity came when he was given a part in "Abraham Lincoln." How he embraced that opportunity is best exemplified by the fact that Mr. O'Neill selected him to play the lead in "The Emperor Jones," and the world fame he gained by playing it.

GIRLS' GAME AT THE EX.

An exhibition day feature for tomorrow will be the Girls' Soft Ball game between the Quakers and Bonner Worth. The game is scheduled for 2.30 and one of the best games of the season is expected. Vernon Morphet and W. Jackson are slated for the umpires.

A meeting of the executive committee of the league has been called for Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

ADANACS AND C.G.E. TO PLAY

Ball fans will be able to compare the quality of ball played by the local intermediates and seniors tomorrow afternoon at Riverside Park when the C.E.G. team, intermediate champions, will clash with the Adanacs, the junior winners. Both teams are waiting for the next round in their respective O.B.A. series, and they should put up a good exhibition.

Shaughnessey, who will likely pitch for the Adanacs, has a lot of stuff and should give the C. G. E. a good battle. The admission charge will be 25c with no charge for the stands. The game will be called at 2:30.

Little Lessons For the Golfer

Watch good players make practice swings the next time you have a chance to see some par golfers in action. You will never see such players carelessly throw their club through the air. In every practice swing a spot of air is carefully determined and the clubhead is made to pass straight through that spot on the ground. If the player will do that in all practice swings, he can pass on to the next helpful step in the practice swing. The golfer, by the way, should never take a practice swing in the direction of the green he is playing for. The rules provide that such swings shall be made in a direction away from the hole to be played and not less than a club's length from the ball. Be careful about such points as these. The player who observes them shows a knowledge of the game and a nice courtesy to other players.

Golf is rapidly becoming the great international game, and it is the only sport that ever has taken hold in so many different countries. Here we have Jack May, of Buenos Aires, and in this brassie swing he must have tried to drive across the wide pampas in Argentina.

THUNDERCLAP

The Greatest Race Track Drama Ever Staged

Scenario by PAUL H. SLOANE — Directed by RICHARD STANTON

At the ROYAL—To-night and To-morrow.

The great sporting drama, the story of the race track and the underworlds of gambling intrigue, "Thunderclap", is the feature at the Royal Theatre for this week end. Love, romance, intrigue and thrills alternate in a picture that has for its central figure a paralyzed woman, dominating the changing scenes in her silent chair, and for its thrilling moments the horse race when "Thunderclap" races Silver King for a girl's future, and where the mighty horse goes over the foaming falls in a frail wooden box. At least, he is supposed to go over them, which is just the same, as far as the spectators are concerned.

There are throbs in this picture and some touching incidents. The old, forlorn horseman, with his small nigger adherent and the horse to which he has pinned his last hopes, the man who has skill and pluck enough to forsee his enemy's plans: the youth from the orphanage, browbeaten but steadfast, and the frail convent girl; these pit their puny strength against the hardened gambler, the man of the world who uses his brute force against a crippled woman, and his coadjutor, the wily Chinaman. "Thunderclap" is a picture that, once seen, is never forgotten. It is one of those productions that are absolutely satisfying from start to finish, baffled and triumphant, humorous and pathetic, with heart interest and thrills intermingled, it keeps an audience keyed up from the first to the last moment, when the crippled woman rises from her chair at last, and the boy and girl, faithful to the last, are released from the spell of a hard and cruel man.

There is a special Sunshine comedy "Splitting Hairs", with this programme, a Mutt and Jeff cartoon, and a hilarious Torchy episode with Torchy in a barber shop, treating his customers to new ideas in shaves.

MAMMOTH SUNFLOWER IN GEORGE STREET WINDOW.

A mammoth sunflower head that requires a second glance to convince the spectator that it is really true, such is its size, is on view in the north window of Mr. R. Denne's George Street store. This specimen measures 16 inches across, and weighs 10 pounds, and, when in full bloom, must have lighted up a considerable corner in its owner's garden. Mr. Frank Neary, Perry Street, was the grower of this monstrous sunflower, and, so it is rumoured, accomplished it by means of planting chicken feed very rightly named "Full o' Pep." It is said that Mr. Neary has a rival in the city who possesses a sunflower head surpassing this specimen, but so far the gentleman has not yet come forward to lay claim to the championship of the sunflower-owning world.

WEDDING BELLS

FOSTER--DOWNER.

A pretty and quiet wedding was solemnized by the Rev. J. F. Chapman on Thursday afternoon, at the home of Mr. George T. Downer, 149 George street, when his youngest daughter, Julia Hannah, was united in the bonds of matrimony to Mr. Thomas Foster. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white satin and a bridal veil, with wreath of Sweetheart roses, and carried a bouquet of white asters. The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. P. Moloney of Hamilton, and entered the parlour on his arm to the strains of a wedding march played by Mr. Thos. Ball. The bridesmaid was Miss Lillian Downer. She was in white satin and carried a bouquet of pink asters. Mr. William Clarke, cousin of the bride, was the best man. The little flower girl was Dorothy McIlmoy, her bouquet was pink asters. Beautiful and useful presents were received from a host of friends. The out of town guests were Mr. P. Moloney and Miss Lillian Downer of Hamilton. Mr. and Mrs. Foster will reside in Peterboro.

ARMOUR—HORTON

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Thursday, Sept. 7th, at high noon at "Rothmere," the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson A. Horton, North Augusta road, Brockville, when their daughter, Miss Gertrude May, was united in marriage by Rev. G. W. McCall, to Mr. J. Arthur Armour, of Campbellford, Ont.

Miss Marion Horton, Toronto, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, wearing orchid taffeta, black picture hat, and carrying roses. Miss Muriel Brown, Toronto, the maid of honour, wore a gown of jade canton crepe, with black picture hat and carried roses. Little Miss Susie Horton, cousin of the bride, dressed in blue satin and carrying sweetheart roses, made a charming flower girl. Mr. Wilfred Armour, brother of the groom, was best man. The wedding music was played by Miss Enid Manhard, and following the ceremony a reception was tendered the bridal couple, who later left to spend their honeymoon at Montreal and points east. Going away the bride wore a navy blue three-piece suit and French hat of black velvet.

The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl necklace, and to the bridesmaid and maid of honour amethyst pins.

The popularity of the bridal couple was attested by the many handsome and serviceable wedding gifts received.

The groom is one of our popular young men and his many friends will join us in extending felicitations. Mr. and Mrs. Armour have taken up residence on Centre street.

ARMOUR—STEPHENS

St. Andrew's Church, Campbellford, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday forenoon, when Mary Gertrude, younger daughter of Mr. Thomas Stephens, of Seymour East, was united in marriage to Wilfred Johnstone Armour, of Percy township, the Rev. C. F. McIntosh officiating.

The bride entered the church to the joyous strain of Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus, very becomingly dressed in her travelling suit of navy blue broadcloth, moleskin tie, and grey velour hat, and wearing a corsage bouquet of sweetheart roses and lily-of-the-valley. She was attended by Miss Bertha Haig, also prettily dressed in blue and having a corsage bouquet of roses. The groom was supported by Mr. Leslie Shillinglaw. The church organist, Miss C. Hawley, who presided at the organ, played during the signing of the register.

After the church ceremony the bridal party and the invited guests were served a delightful repast at the bride's home. Shortly afterward the happy couple left for a wedding trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls and other points. Many beautiful gifts testified to the popularity of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Armour will reside in Percy township.

The lazier a man is the harder it is to discourage him.

The most complete evidence of a return to normalcy is the report that a lot of good cooks are said to be looking for jobs.

HORDES TURKS

held this month, unless Europe goes to war against Kemal. Its original purpose to re-shuffle affairs in the Near East, has been overshadowed by the menace of the Ottoman threat against the Straits, Russia intervention and the collapse of Greece.

Surrender of the Greek fleet, and payment of reparation were two of Mustapha Kemal's peace terms, according to the Daily Mail.

LONDON, September 15. — Mustapha Kemal, whose hordes of Turks are ravaging Smyrna, has demanded unconditional surrender of all Asia Minor, including Constantinople and Thrace, according to a statement published by the Daily Mail.

The Turk declares he will send his Moslems to storm and capture Constantinople unless the allies hand over the city to him.

"And I cannot wait indefinitely," the statement said.

What was once known as "Turkey in Europe," which the allies affirmed should never again exist, is demanded by Kemal in his ultimatum. The Turk wants most of Thrace and a great piece of Europe stretching 150 miles east of Constantinople.

MURDERED OFFICIAL

A United States destroyer which has arrived at Piraeus, Greece, reports that the Turks entered the British consulate at Smyrna, and murdered an official there who was assembling the archives, says Reuter's despatch from Athens. Postmaster Wilkinson is also stated to have been murdered as well as other British Nationals. Sir Harry Lamb, Consul General, is believed to have escaped on board a warship. The admiral commanding the British squadron at Smyrna has warned Turkish authorities in the city that if the massacres are continued the Turkish quarters will be bombarded, says an Exchange Telegraph from Athens

LONDON, September 15. — British cabinet will discuss the Near Eastern tangle this afternoon, when all the members with the exception of Lord Balfour and H. A. L. Fisher, who are in Geneva, are expected to attend. It is believed that the meeting will have before it definite statements from French and Italian governments indicating their respective attitudes towards the problem, the solution of which continues to be the subject of eager and anxious speculation. Opinions here are divided regarding the Turkish claims. One view strongly supported by the press is that Britain's only interest lies in the freedom of the straits of Dardanelles and that if this is assured she need not worry over the future position of Thrace and the Dardanelles. Other regard the restoration of Thrace and Constantinople to the former owners with great disfavor.

PORTS CHOKED.

The ports on the Sea of Marmora are choked with refugees who are arriving by tens of thousands in an appalling state of misery. Hundreds are dying before they can be landed.

The fire which started in the Armenian quarter of the city has now spread this morning to the Turkish sections and is making rapid headway. The entire European section is in ashes and thousands are homeless. There were hundreds of casualties among persons who were caught in sections where the flames spread.

The Turkih Nationalist army is now within 35 miles of Constantiple. The population is in a state of nervous tension and the city is rife with rumors about Kemal Pasha's designs upon the city.

GENEVA, September 15. — The League of Nations was called upon to-day to take steps to prevent the Turkish invasion of Georgia, a republic in Trans-Caucasia. This movement came in a resolution introduced by Belgium.

BOSTON FISHERMEN THINK MAYFLOWER SHOULD BE IN RACE

WAS RULED OUT.

BOSTON, Mass. Sept. 16.—(Canadian Press)—The Boston Transcript says the decision of the trustees of the International Fishermans Cup at Halifax to debarr the Boston schooner Mayflower from entering the race to be held in October between the deep sea fishermen of Nova Scotia and Gloucester, although more or less expected, will nevertheless prove widely disappoinnting.

"Although the Halifax authorities have granted readily enough that the Mayflower is a bon fide fisherman and have conceded that she had braved the deep with other American fishermen" continues the Transcript "the nevertheless contend in defending their decree that the factor of speed has been emphasized at the expense of net carrying capacity, the true guerdon for the biulder of a fisherman. The trustees believe that Mayflower is a racer first and a fisherman only secondarily, and they have acted accordingly.

"There the matter must rest. Like thorough-going sportsmen born and bred to the ideals of sportsmanship Americans must abide by the decision of the trustees and cheerfully accept the ban against the Mayflower.

"A race there must be to decide the relative merits of Gloucester and Nova Scotia. To find a worthy substitute for the disbarred Mayflower is now Gloucester's task, nor should it be a difficult one."

The Boston Post says

"Logically we admit the position of the trustees is sound, but we had hoped along with a good many others who had not believed the Mayflower eligible last year, that logic might be stretched a bit this season and that the schooner's genuine and practical work as a fishing boat would clear off the disability connected with her building but the last word has been spoken and we can only say that we rely upon some other craft to get that cup back from Nova Scotia."

NO ELECTRIFICATION.

Ford Takes Steps To Close Factory

DETROIT, Sept. 16.— (Canadian Press.)—Henry Ford late yesterday took steps to close his Detroit automobile plants, beginning last night, thereby throwing upwards of 100,000 workmen in the Detroit district out of employment for an indefinite period. He asked officials of the Detroit Street Railway to re-arrange its schedules to care for the night forces at his various factories, who will be dismissed at 11 o'clock it was announced.

PASSENGER TRAIN LEFT THE TRACK

Several Injured in Accident Near Belleville

BELLEVILLE, September 16 (Canadian Press). — When the Grand Trunk passenger train, No. 28, due here at 5.15 yesterday evening, left the rails at Sydney Crossing, seven miles west of this city, Conductor William Johnson, Toronto, received cuts about his head, Express Messenger Bert Moorman, Belleville, suffered injuries to his back and head, and V. Squires, the brakeman, suffered minor injuries.

Moorman and Johnson are seriously injured.

The cause of the accident is not definitely known, but it was thought to be due to the tender of the engine forcing a switch near the crossing.

The tender tore up the track, and the baggage and express cars, with all the passenger coaches, left the rails, with the exception of the parlour car.

The express car was smashed to pieces at one end, and Moorman was thrown out of the door, the car landing finally in a field south of the track and clear of the right-of-way. Against it was piled the baggage car.

None of the passenger coaches overturned, and the engine stood on the track, which was blocked for several hours.

An auxiliary car of the Grand Trunk was sent from Belleville to transfer the passengers to their train for the East, while accommodation was made for the injured, who were placed in the hospital.

THE EASTERN PROBLEM MAY DISTURB PEACE

LONDON, Sept. 16.—(Canadian Press).— With utter collapse of Greek army in Asia minor before Turks, long smouldering near Eastern problem again has suddenly been brought up and in some quarters is considered as constituting threat against peace and well being of Europe, owing to conflicting views of principal allied governments. It is now considered to have developed into direct conflict between Turkey and Allied powers.

TURKISH QUESTION TO BE SUBJECT OF A BIG CONFERENCE

Both the Big and Little Powers of Europe Will Meet to Discuss Situation in the East.

TO SEND NOTES.

LONDON, Sept. 16.— (Canadian Press.)—It was announced that the British Government considers the whole Turkish question should be the subject of a general conference of the powers, including the minor powers such as Rumania and Jugo Slavia.

It has not been decided whether the United States shall be invited.

Italy, France and Great Britain will send a note to Mustapha Kemal Pasha, head of the Turkish Nationalist Government intimating that pending a permanent arrangement, the neutral zones must be respected.

Besides the instructions to the fleet not to allow a Turkish crossing of the straits the British are making preparations to send reinforcements to the neutral zones.

It is learned that Roumania and Jugo Slavia both view with the greatest concern the prospects of the Turks entering Thrace.

Italian Residents Ask For Just "One Exciting Night"

Present Holidays Do Not Dispel the Drabness of Everyday Life, So New York Italians Ask For a Special Night to Make Merry.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—A plan to have "one exciting night" in which the people of the city may enjoy themselves "in an old-fashioned way" has been suggested to Mayor Hylan of New York, in the form of a petition by George Sirico, Chairman of the Italian Branch of the Associated Committees, formed to carry the idea into effect. Each borough has its own committee, and one general committee will be formed to direct the activities of the lesser committees.

"We believe it would add materially to the pleasure, the joy and the happiness of the people of New York City if Your Honor would set aside a night in the more serene season of the Fall when all our citizens could live themselves up to gaiety," wrote Mr. Sirico in his petition. "When we could lose the burdens of our everyday worries, forget for one night the most recent and least popular of our national reforms, release the spirit of holiday-making that is in all of us, dance, parade, sing, cheer and play with that radiant abandon which renews life, which dispels drabness and which dispels vitality of this greatest city in the young nation.

Mr Sirico explained that the present holidays do not carry out his idea of real holiday-making and added:

"We do not seek the ponderous formality of fete, carnival, festival or Mardi Gras. We ask simply for a night when we can all play, a night such as the life-loving Italians have, and called plainly by them "One Exciting Night" a night to enjoy life. This thought has been discussed by many important interests of which you will be informally informed within a few days. We shall later present to our Honor a petition signed by many tens of thousands of names."

Plaintiff Was a Stenographer — Governor Russell Denies Accusations.

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 16 — (Canadian Press).—Another chapter in the administration of Lee M. Russell, governor of Mississipi, is expected to be written at the term of the Hinds county circuit court, which met on Sept. 15, with the hearing of a suit for $100,000 damages filed by Miss Francis Cleveland Birkhead, of New Orlans, La., stenographer and former secretary to Mr. Russell, charging the governor with seduction, breach of promise and responsibility for a criminal operation.

The charges made by Miss Birkhead have thus far resulted in a legislature investigation of allegations made by Mr. Russell that the suit was inspired by agents of what he termed "outlawed" fire insurance concerns; transfer of the suit from the federal court here in which it was originally filed when attorneys for Governor Russell challenged the jurisdiction of that federal court, and a recent re-filing of the suit in the United States district court at Oxford, the governor's home.

As the case stands it is pending on the dockets of both the Hinds county court here and the federal court for the northern district of Mississipi at Oxford.

Miss Birkenhead charges in her complaint that she was betrayed while acting as a stenographer at the state capitol, assigned to the office of Mr. Russell, then lieutenant-governor; that she was promised that Mr. Russell would obtain a divorce and marry her and that an operation performed there had resulted in a permanent injury.

Governor Russell has vigorously denied all the allegations made by Miss Birkenhead; charged that an attempt had been made to "blackmail" him; declared that the suit was fostered by outside influences and that the complaint was filed at the particular time it was, early this year in an effort to discredit him before the legislature, then in session.

Hearing of the suit has been set for the December term of the Oxford Federal Court.

SEARCH IS BEING MADE FOR SUNKEN TREASURE.

Tobermory Bay is Scene of Latest Treasure-Seeking Operations.

LONDON, Sept., 16.—(By Canadian Press).—Search is being made for supposed sunken treasure in Tobermory Bay, where the Spanish ship Almirante de Florencia was sunk after the defeat of the Spanish Armada as the result of an explosion. The Almirante de Florencia ran into Tobermory Bay to reprovision. It was thought that she contained specie and jewels to the value of a about £300,000, and orders were given to prevent her escape. An explosion however, occurred on board, and after taking fire, she went to the bottom of the bay in sixty feet of water.

Several attempts have been made to discover whether the wreck contains treasure that may be recovered, but there have not been carried to a successful conclusion. The present operations are being carried out by a syndicate with the best available machinery and at a big expense. So far actual timbers of the ship have been encountered. Recently a heavy piece of timber which is supposed to have formed part of a mast was taken up.

The operation consists chiefly of cutting down with a circular saw everything in the oldl ship that may be cut, and bringing it all to the surface by means of a suction pump. The spoil is then run into a large box with sluices in the stern of the salvage steamer Lincoln, where men with rakes take all solids to one side for careful examination. The work is in charge of Captain Irons, Harbormaster of Dover, assisted by Commander Strickwood, R. N., and all the officials engaged are men skilled in salvage enterprises. Three expert divers are engaged in the work.

By virtue of an old law the Duke of Argyll has the claim of the treasure, if there is any treasure brought to the surface and his representative examines everything that comes up.

Now that the timbers of the Almirante de Florencia have been cut into great care is being taken in the inspection of all that comes to the surface as it is thought that the cutting machine may damage boxes with contents of value. The work is being carried on with a good deal of energy, so that the question of whether the wreck contains bullion may not be far from being solved. Two bronze cannons have been brought up by the divers and important discoveries are anticipated at any moment.

RESIDENTS OF SMYRNA MURDERED BY THE TURKS

LONDON, Sept. 16.—(Canadian Press).—Despatch from Constantinople states that it is reported there that M. Lacheris leading Greek in Smyrna has been murdered. British battleship iron duke which has reached Dardenelle's reports that Octogenarian Irish physician Dr. Murphy was among those killed in Smyrna. It is also reported that Greek Metropolitan Charysostom was court martialed and shot. It is asserted that Archbishop was tortured before being murdered.

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 16.—(Canadian Press.)—Inspector T. V. Sandys-Wunsch, R.C.M.P., suffered severe injury to his right eye yesterday when a defective rifle backfired during the practice on the barrack ranges. Reports from the mounties hospital late this afternoon said the effect will not be permanent. Inspector Wunsch lost the sight in his other eye some years ago.

He holds the indoor revolver championship of the world and was chosen as a member of Canadian team to the 1923 Bisley at the Dominion Rije meeting last month.

IMPROVEMENT IN UNEMPLOYMENT NOT ENCOURAGING

Figures For the Month of August Do Not Show Progress at the Same Rate As the Previous Months.

SLIGHT GAIN.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—(Canadian Press.)— It is officially announced that the unemployment figures for August are disappointing. The improvement which had been in progress since the beginning of the year was not maintained at the same rate as previously.

There was a marked improvement, however, in the coal mining industry, some improvement in the pig iron industry and also the iron and steel manufacture but a moderate decline was noted in the cotton spinning, jute, pottery and glass trades.

The percentage of unemployment among members of the trade unions whereifrom returns have been received was 14.4 at the end of August compared with 14.6 at the end of July and 16.3 at the end of August 1921. The registered unemployment at the end of August totalled approximately 1,378,000 including 1,121,000 men and 173,000 women compared with 1,400,000 at the end of July.

The fall of wages continued last month when the reduction aggregated about £450,000 in the weekly full-time wages of over two million work people. There was an increase of £15,000 in the weekly wages of 90,000 persons.

Daring the month of August the cost of living fell two points to 79 per cent. above the pre-war level.

TWO DUCK HUNTERS SHOT ON FIRST DAY.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 16.—(Canadian Press.)—The Manitoba Duck hunting season opened yesterday and by noon two victims of shotgun wounds were reoprted. E. L. Alsip and A. Johnson, both of Winnipeg, were injured at Oak Point when one of their party became excited, missed his aim and scattered shot among the occupants of a boat. Alsip received the most serious injuries, shot lodging in his head and near his eye. Johnson was wounded in the hand.

To Discuss Project For a New Province

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Sept. 16.—(Canadian Press.)—A special meeting of the Port Arthur board of trade has been called for Tuesday evening next to discuss the project of creating a new province of north-western Ontario.

MAGISTRATE SETTLES OLD TIME QUESTION.

LONDON, Sept. 16.— Canadian Press3).—The old question, when is a man drunk, has been settled by Magistrate Hay Halkett, at Lambeth Police Court,—at least, settled so far as this particular magistrate is concerned. A taxi-cab driver was charged with being drunk during his employment. His counsel contended that the prisoner "was not what one would call drunk and incapable."

The magistrate: The law is perfectly plain. "Drunk during employment' and "drunk in charge" means drunk, and not any intermediate stage.

The Divisional Surgeon who examined prisoner at the police station said he had come to the conclusion that the man was not quite sober, though not drunk in the Police Court sense.

The magistrate—The definition of drunkenness, is failure through alcohol, to co-ordinate one or more facualties. Having heard that definition of drunkenness, was he drunk or not?

Divisional Surgeon—Yes.

The prisoner was fined £3.

SICK FROM CHEESE FOUND NO POISON.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—(Canadian Press.)—Dr. Bruce Low, medical inspector for the ministry of health, who has been enquiring into the cases of cheese poisoning at Dover and Warrington, made a chemical test of the Dover cheese and failed to find any trace of poison and then made bacteriological and microscopical tests which also failed to detect any harmful bacillus. Dr. Low then ate some of the cheese himself and immediately became ill. He carried out the same programme with cheese from Warrington with exactly similar results.

LEAGUE EXPENSES TO BE APPORTIONED BY A NEW SYSTEM

Devastations and Difficulties of Small States to Be Considered — Great Britain's Share is Increased.

OTHER COUNTRIES.

LONDON, Sept. 16.— Canadian Press)—Under a new scheme for the apportionment of the expense of the League of Nations, which takes into account factors like devastations and the difficulties of certain small states Great Britain's share will be 2,100, fold francs; Australia's 576,000, India's 1,440,000, South Africa's 332,000, New Zealand's 221,000 and Canada's 775,000 gold francs.

The Earl of Balfour told the committee that Great Britain and the Dominions agreed to the extra levy on them provided it was provisional but reserved the right to divide their aggregate between them as they thought fit.

LONG SENTENCE FOR EX-BANK MANAGER.

SASKATOON, Sask., Sept. 16.—(Canadian Press.)—Maurice Duncan former manager of the Bank of Toronto, was sentenced in Yorkton yesterday to three years in the penitentiary on each of nine charges of uttering and two years on each of six charges of theft, the terms to run concurrently. Long sentence was unnecessary to a person of Duncan's education, said Judge Taylor, of the Court of King's Bench, but in the interests of the community it was impossible to impose a punishment altogethr disproportionate to the offences committed.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 16TH, 1922

A NEW PARLIAMENT.

A moving picture company has been busy, at Ottawa, filming a screen version of a session of Canada's Parliament.

A motion picture House of Commons has many advantages over the real thing.

There will be no long speeches, no back benchers busy filling up the pages of Hansard for the benefit of the folks back home, no three weeks' useless debate over the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, and no talk about the tariff or the railways.

The members of this imitation Parliament will not vote away millions of the people's money in profitless activities.

They will not even be able to vote themselves a sessional indemnity.

They won't talk about the Civil Service Commission or patronage or broken promises or reciprocity.

Indeed, they won't talk at all. Action will take the place of oratory.

But the very fact that there are to be no words shows that it is to be a make-believe Parliament; a House of Commons without words could not possibly be real.

CONGRATULATIONS!

While the unfavourable weather prevented the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition from reaching the expected high level in point of attendance, the Exhibition Board are to be congratulated upon the success of their efforts.

The number and quality of the exhibits demonstrated beyond a doubt that the reputation of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition is firmly established, and the number of new exhibitors proved that that reputaton is going further and further afield.

The entry list is the real barometer of success.

There can be no doubt, therefore, that a new record was reached by Peterborough's big fair this year.

The growth in all departments of live stock has been astounding.

The judge on duty and other visitors from out of town have expressed their surprise at the showing made by the various departments, and their opinion is of value.

It has been a hard year's work for the directors. The rain of the first two days of the Fair was disheartening, but there is consolation in the wonderful exhibits of cattle, horses, sheep, swine, and poultry—exhibits that have never been equalled here, and standing the test of comparison with any shown anywhere in the Province.

The Peterborough Industrial Exhibition of 1922 has set a new mark in that respect, and congratulations are due President Denne and every member of his Board.

ARMOUR'S HILL.

One of the matters that is to be taken up by the Chamber of Commerce this year is the acquisition by the city for park purposes of Armour's Hill.

It is true that when a by-law was submitted to the ratepayers for the securing of the property at a very low figure the citizens defeated the measure.

There is every reason, however, to believe, that if the proposition were placed before the people in the right light it would be carried by a large majority.

The first by-law was submitted at the wrong time, and little care was taken to point out its advantages, partly due to the beliefe that they were so apparent as to necessitate no special publicity.

The possibilities of this splendid park site are manifold, and it is to be hoped that before long Armour's Hill will come into the hands of the people of Peterborough. The opportunity of acquiring the property is still available, and it would be a pity if it were allowed to vanish.

The Chamber of Commerce will be doing a real community service if they revive this matter and delegate to themselves the duty of seeing that the citizens understand the desirability or adding the Armour Hill property to the city's list of parks.

THE COAL SITUATION.

Many Peterborough families have little or no fuel for the coming winter.

Some of them, born optimists, are waiting, hoping that by some miracle or other there will be plenty of coal available when it is needed.

Others who realise that there is little hope of the arrival of much anthracite in the early part of the winter would like to buy substitutes, but are not in a position to make the outlay necessary to secure fuel at present.

Meanwhile the dealers are hastily disposing of everything that will burn, and the city's Fuel Committee seem to be adopting their policy inasmuch as they are hurrying the sale of the fuel they have been able to secure.

That means that later on the families who buy small quantities at a time are going to find themselves up against a very unpleasant and distressful situation, unless the city authorities take the very essential step of setting up a reserve supply of fuel to take care of the emergency cases that are bound to arise when the cold weather comes.

The Examiner has referred to this angle of the problem frequently because it is felt that the chief distress caused by the unusual conditions o the fuel situation is bound to be felt by those least fitted to bear it.

THE KING'S PILGRIMAGE

In May last the King accompanied by Field Marshal Earl Haig, the Vice Chairman of the Imperial War Graves Commission, Sir Fabian Ware, and a small staff, paid a private visit to the war cemeteries of Belgium and France. The story of the pilgrimage, told in simple and beautiful language and illustrated with photographs, has been published by Hodder & Stoughton, the profits to go by his Majesty's desire, to those philanthropic organizations which for some time have been assisting relatives to visit the cemeteries abroad.

Beginning with the churchyard at Zeebrugge it extended through Belgium and France, and ended with the cemetery of Terlincthun. It seems a far cry from the battle of St. George's day, 1918. A few years ago, Captain Carpenter related to an Ottawa audience the details of that imperishable epic of British naval history. Anyone who heard the slow but clear phrases of Carpenter will never be likely to forget them. The landing from the "Vindictive" the ramming of the submarine, the sinking of the blockships, and the rapid-leave-taking of the Mole, were incidents in a wild brave hour's work that was one of the astounding feats of naval history.

It is proposed by the Imperial War Graves Commission that at the Menin Gate there shall be a memorial to those of the Empire's armies who fell in this area but have no known graves. It will crown these ramparts with a great double arch, enclosing a vaulted hall, in which will be recorded the names of all those lost in the neighboring battlefields whose bodies have not been recovered and identified. Ypres of to-day is no longer a mass of shell-shattered ruins, for the work of reconstruction has been carried on for the past four years and thousands of new houses have been built. No building of to-day can, however, ever restore the "medieval beauty of the city which grew like a noble wood in carved stone on the Flanders plain."

Speaking of reconstruction, one wonders if the happy-hearted painter, Bogle by name, of Ian Hay's "All in it," had a part in the work. It will be recalled that viewing the desolation he remarked frequently that "you country would be a fine place to get a job after the war." As we recall it, he seems to be one of the few left alive by the author, or the war, so perhaps he has had his wish granted since 1918.

Through the cemeteries of France, stretched in row after row are the tombs of the French who lost almost a complete generation of their glorious youth in defence of their country. This is true of other lands than France. In Barrie's little volume "Courage" he says, "The war has done at least one big thing, it has taken the spring out of the year. And, this accomplished, our leading people are amazed to find that the other seasons are not conducting themselves as usual. The spring of the year lies buried in the fields of France and elsewhere."

When A. F. McKenzie ("Chester") lectured in Ottawa some years ago, one of the most heartrending pictures he showed was not, as one might expect, a picture of a battlefield or an attack or a group of burning homes, but a photograph of the cemetery at Etaples. Hillside after hillside of tiny wooden crosses, shining whate in the sunlight, made one realize the utter desolation of war. To-day the crosses are replaced by stone monuments, but the pictures of the miles of graves seem even more compelling than before.

The last cemetery in France which the King visited was that of Terlincthun. Set at the foot of Napoleon's Column, where rested the right wing of the "Grand Army" when its face was turned toward England, no cemetery is more nobly planned. From its wind-swept cliff over the English Channel, on a clear day the white shores of England shine out in the distance. On the Stone of Remembrance with its simple inscription, "Their name liveth forevermore" the Queen placed a wreath of rosemary and carnations and at the foot of the Cross of Sacrifice the King placed a chaplet of roses, palms, and bay.

Standing at the foot of the Cross of Sacrifice, the King delivered a short message to his people over all the seas, a message that for noble simplicity of language and heartfelt sympathy, has few equals in literature. The one thing to which it can be compared is Lincoln's Gettysburg address, which is, all being said, a most fitting comparison. "—Com passed by these sternly simple headstones, we remember and must charge our children to remember, that as our dead were equal in sacrifice, so are they equal in honor for the greatest and the least of them have proved that sacrifice and honor are no vain things, but truths by which the world lives . . . I fervently pary that, both as nations and individuals, we may so order our lives after the ideals for which our brethren died, that we may be able to meet their gallant souls once more, humbly but unashamed."

All that they had they gave—they gave
In sure and single faith
There can no knowledge reach the grave
To make them grudge their death
Save only if they
Save only if they understood
That, after all was done
We they redeemed denied their blood,
And mocked the gains it won.

CIVIC CO-OPERATION

The following from the London Advertiser man causes a responsive echo in other places than the Forest City.

When one of the committees of the London city council was in session a day or so ago, the question of a firm coming to locate in London was discussed. The remark was made that the matter had been referred to the chamber of commerce, whereupon one of the city council members made the answer that that would be the end of it.

It so happened that the chamber of commerce had attended to this case to the very best of the means at its disposal, and in fact there was probably nothing else that could have been done for the sake of giving information to the firm in question.

The incident illustrates a point that can hardly be overlooked by Londoners in general, viz., that there is a crying need for a greater co-operation and a broader sympathy between the various public bodies in this city.

There is no need for more machinery, or for better machinery but there is a ndee for the better operation and co-operation of the machinery we have.

The board of education and the city council fail to understand each other. As a result, we have seen too much small talk from member to member. The rea point in the whole deliberation between these two bodies is that the children of London shall have decent places in which to attend school, and enough of them, and also the more immediate task of the board of education is to make sure that there is proper instruction for the scholars after they get the school.

The fact that members of the city council think the members of the board of education should resign, and that the city as a whole would be better off as a result, or that members of the board of education think the city cluncil would be conferring a great favor on the community by ceasing to exist, is really not the most important matter of the day.

It indicates that these two bodies have not come together in a reasonable way, as the ratepayers have a right to expect that they will.

But someone is sure to say: "Why, then, do the papers publish this back talk of what the aldermen say of the school board, or what the school board say of aldermen?"

In the first place, because it is news. In the second place, because it gives the ratepayers a correct idea of the state of mind of the men who are running their business for them. This matter was discussed at a recent meeting of women in the city, and there was a strong desire on the part of some of them to pass a resolution of censure on the press for using this them to pass a resolution of censure on the press for using this sort of material, claiming it belittled men in public office. The reason stated above, viz., that the publication of such material gives the ratepayers a correct idea of the state of mind of these officials is the answer to such a movement.

Right now, it is very essential that the chamber of commerce should have the backing of every citizen. The movement for industrial expansion has once more started, and London does not want to be in the position of standing bexide the road and watching the procession go past.

This city has a wonderful proposition to offer to intending investors. Seated as we are in the heart of the garden of Canada, with power, shipping facilities and a city of homes, and a city of unexcelled educational facilities, we have something to offer that no sane manufacturer can afford to overlook. But in the offering of these things, we must get together.

What would be the effect on a prospective manufacturer were he to find out afterward that his visit of inspection had been the cause for a flare-up between the city council and the chamber of commerce?

Men in official places in this city have a very grave responsibility on them, and they must be big men if they are going to measure up to their responsibilities and their opportunities. Citizens look to them to keep a few paces in the lead all the time, and this they must do if London is going to be the place it ought to be.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENTS.

TheExhibition of 1922, with the finest showing of live stock ever made in Peterborough, has not been in vain, in spite of the unfavourable weather conditions.

Fine service was rendered at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition by the city's policemen and firemen. Both departments have been always on duty there.

Now that the Exhibition is over, how about the fuel problem.

People are beginning to wonder whether it was not the Turks who really won the war.

THE MYSTERY MIND

Suddenly there was a muffled scream. Without thought he opened the door to the room from which he believed it to come, dashing in fool-hardily. Once inside, he glanced about in haste to discover that the room was bare, completely unfurnished, and that there was no one in it. At the same instant the scream came again, through the thin board partition. It was the adjoining room. He turned. As he did so the door slammed shut, gently. It was a heavy door, on a spring lock. There was no inside knob. He was a prisoner, thanks to his own precipitousness.

While he poudered, frantically, upon what to do next, the scream came a third time. Now he was sure—with sudden crushing realiziation—that it was not Violet, but some other woman. Waking, to action, determined to get himself out of this situation, he went to the door prepared to apply his weight, quietly if possible; but with sufficient force to break out. As he did so he heard approaching steps and the muffled shriek once more; then some one seized the knob of the door, opening it abruptly and angrily.

"In with you In with you in a hurry Dupont drew back. Stumbling into the room, failing to knees and elbows and unable to catch herself because her hands were tied, was Vera Collins. A gag in her mouth accounted for the muffling of her screams. In her eyes was a great wide fright. Her face was as white as the handkerchief wedged between her jaws.

Following her was the Gun Moll. In the face and attitude of the larger woman a black consuming jealousy had reached the point of desperation. She did not notice Dupont; she had no eyes for anything but Vera, no attention for anything but her own grim purpose. Striding past the girl, still on knees and elbows, the Gun Moll lifted a huge trap door, allowing it to fall back to the floor with a bang.

"Will you jump?" she muttered, "or shall I push you?"

Dupont started to steal out the door, taking advantage of his opportunity. He had waited too long. Without looking at him, without being aware of his presence except to push him back into the room, a man of huge bulk, very evidently the Strangler himself, strode in.

"What's this, Lil? What's the big idea?"

The Gun Moll drew back in abject fear. In a moment the Strangler understood. First he stooped, taking a penknife, cutting the ropes which bound Vera. Then without a word he advanced upon the woman who for years had been his companion. With no expression but a sort of brutish grim amusement in his face, he slipped his fingers to her throat, watching her as he increased the pressure gradually.

Vera fled. She did not notice Dupont. He stole to the door after her, pausing to see if the way was clear. Just outside stood a man nearly as large as the Strangler. This henchman of the gangster, grinning, saw Dupont and collared him. Dupont was helpless in his grasp, though he struggled desperately.

Held finally so he could not move, he witnessed the throttling of the Gun Moll. He saw the Strangler, without a shade of compunction, fling her lifeless body through the hole in the floor. He heard a splash. Then he realized that the gangster was looking at him for the first time.

A salesman's legs will not carry him fast enough to keep up with competition. Business is labelled RUSH, now-a-days, and a salesman needs an automobile to hurry him from customer to customer. The object is to save time, but, if his car runs on poor tires, he will waste as much time "taking off" and "putting on" as it would take to "foot it." Where motors are used to save time, how inconsistent to equip them with tires that waste time. Time is the essence of the automobile in business—ergo—put your salesmen's cars on "Gutta Percha" Tires.

First Compounded This Newer Form of Iron For My Own Neighbors

Their Praise of This Remarkable Remedy Has Spread So Rapidly That Now Over 4,000,000 People Use It Annually

Years ago I began to wonder at the great number of my own friends and neighbors whowere always ailing, complaining and doctoring, without ever seeming to get any better. Both working men and their wives were frequently all tired out in the evening, and a great many were weak, nervous and run-down. One had pains in the back and thought he had kidney trouble. Another had pains around heart, palpitations and dizziness, and was sure he was suffering from heart disease. Still others had severe headaches, floating spots before the eyes, tender spots along the spine and a great variety of alarming symptoms.

For years I made a special study of this condition, consulting a great number of physicians and chemists. An immense number of investigations by physicians all over the country showed that three people out of every four you meet lack 100% iron in their blood. Lack of iron in the blood is the greatest of all devitalizing weaknesses. It is the iron in your blood that enables you to get the nourishment out of your food. Without iron, nothing you eat does you any good. Your heart, lungs and kidneys and all your vital organs get their nourishment from the blood stream, and when the blood lacks iron and is thin, pale and watery, you may suffer from the symptoms of a great number of diseases when the real and true cause of all your trouble is a lack of iron in the blood.

In the old days people often took metallic iron, which some physicians claim is not absorbed at all. In compounding this newer form of iron which I call Nuxated Iron, I employed a special form of iron, which is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. Unlike the older forms of iron, it will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach, and it is ready for almost immediate absorption and assimilation by the blood. It is the people whose blood is rich in iron who possess great strength, force and energy. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test:

See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two 5-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times a day after meals for two weeks, then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. An astonishing number of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while, have greatly improved their health and increased their strength, energy and endurance simply by taking this newer form of iron. For sale by all druggists.

GENERAL ELECTION IS STILL SUBJECT RUMOR

LONDON, Sept. 16.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—There has been a revival this week of rumors that a general election will take place in October, although it is difficult to find any solid basis for reports. In Manchester it is stated that Laborite officials have received instructions to prepare for an immediate contest. Labor chiefs deny the report, but Evening Chronicle persists that it is correct Times' Parliamentary correspondent, thinks much depends on production of popular budget next spring.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir, At the Exhibition on Thursday I was impressed with two things—the development of the show to one of the best in the country, and the small attendance from this city.

Ladies and gentlemen, your absence at the opening can never be made up later. Psychologically the swing to greater things comes through a big crowd especially on a dull day.

Go to-night and go to-morrow, for it takes long to see the fine exhibits of horses, cattle, etc., such as the West cannot excel.

The officers and directors deserve our support for their courage and enterprise. Give them loyal unstinted support.

AT STONEY LAKE AND THE VICINITY

JUNIPER ISLAND, Sept. 16.—There has been a movement on foot this season to widen out the so-called Stoney Lake cottagers association, both in membership and scope. The association of the past has not been representative and those who are deeply interested in the matter are making an effort along the lines of expansion. The motive behind this is not selfish and not intended to wipe out the smaller cottagers associations but is an effort for a confederation of all, leaving the smaller associations with full rights in their own locality. The Confederation of Provinces which has made a united Dominion of Canada, without removing any of the rights of the provinces or their importance, is really the idea of these men and women at Stoney Lake. But, of course, the term Stoney Lake Cottager's Association leaves Kawartha Park, which is a thriving community and extremely well organized, out in the cold as they are not on Stoney Lake. Also there is a summer colony which is growing year by year on Lovesick Lake, which probably could be included with mutual profit, so a name which could include the three lakes would be an inducement to join up with the association. It would not eliminate the smaller regattas but probably increase the number of them. The idea of a real community appeals to most people and the seed sown this summer will no doubt bear fruit in a future season.

COTTAGES CLOSING

The cottages are closing at last and each day brings its toll on the down boat nearly all reluctantly turning their faces city-ward. When the time for closing comes, the cargo on the boats is large and varied, and includes pets of all sorts. The family pussy taken hom in an empty egg crate was observed on one occasion and bird cages and dogs on chains are common sights, and excite no special comment. The lady who travelles home with a soap box carefully watched and with one or more live occupants, was the cynosure of all eyes about two weeks ago, as she travelled down. Was it a cat that the box contained? No one knows but the owner and she remained happily oblivious of the curiosity.

STONEY LAKE

The Peterboro Canoe Co. are erecting a large boat-house on Juniper Island just west of the Pavilion. The work is being rushed along and will be completed before navigation closes.

"Gladhalken" the happy home of the "Y" girls this summer is being repainted and as its new coat is a darker shade, with a brilliant scarlet chimney, the effect is unique.

St. Peter's Church at the lake has been in charge of Rev. A. W. Mackenzie of Lakefield, for the past two Sundays.

Mr. J. D. Collins who for considerably over 60 years has been one of Stoney Lake's summer colony has the record of the oldest inhabitant. Messrs. Cochrane and Shortly and Sheriff Hall are "runners up" and all four men are still strong boosters of Stoney Lake and enjoy the delights of the resort, which they have seen grow year by year, just as much as any school boy.

The death of John A. Cameron left a vacancy among the prominent cottagers of the late Mr. Cameron enjoyed the same respect and popularity at the lake that his sterling virtue had earned for him in the business world. "Lochiel Lodge," his cottage a Boschiok, which was closed all season, bore mute testimony that the owner was too ill to be there and was waiting the call home.

STONEY LAKE

Miss Irene Anderson and Miss Gertrude Harper of New York are spending a few weeks at "Kalpie," Mrs. Morrisons' cottage.

George McLeod has closed "Mannawawa" and returned with his family to Toronto.

Sheriff Hall closed his cottage on Monday and returned to Peterboro.

Mrs. W. A. Campbell returned to "Argyle Lodge" last week after spending a few days at his home in Port Hope.

Mr. George Cochrane and Miss Cochrane closed "Crown Point Cottage" on Thursday last and returned to Peterboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris and Master T. R. were guests at Mount Julian last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Keefe of Belleville, are guests at "Viamede."

Mr. and Mrs. Shortly closed their cottage at Boschink last week and returned to Peterboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Piper of Toronto were at "Kimo" last week.

Mrs. Gnaedinger of Montreal was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. K. G. Lech last week at "Kenmore" and Mr. and Mrs. E. Walter at "Pompadour."

Radio News

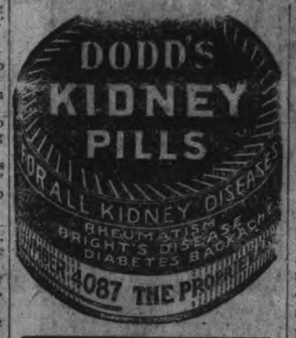
WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—High-class broadcasting entertainments will be assured if the plans of the Department of Commerce are included in the contemplated radio laws.

These plans are that radio broadcasting stations which come up to certain specified requirements may transmit on a higher wave length than is now accorded them. The requirements are such that many of the 400-odd broadcasters of to-day would be automatically eliminated from this class.

According to the latest plans, a special 400-meter wave length would be assigned to those stations with from 500 to 100 watts power, special modulation and other required features, a studio and a supervised program. The matter of daily program would be under the special supervision of the local wireless inspector to insure only the best concerts and lectures obtainable.

This new arrangement is being planned so that at first there will be only one broadcasting station of this type in each city or section of the United States. Licenses will be issued to those that qualify as soon after the new law is passed as possible.

Where two or more stations in a single district qualify a schedule will be arranged dividing the time for broadcasting, so as to eliminate intereference.



MONEY TO DEVELOP NORTHERN ONTARIO

NORTH BAY, Sept. 16.— (Canadian Press.)—On their return to seat of government in Ontario Toronto Board of Trade will recommend to Cabinet that an allotment of as high as ten million dollars be made annually for a period of five years to be spent in Northern Ontario, according to a statement made by R. A. Stappells, Vice-President of the Board. Recommendation will be accompanied by advice that money be placed in the hands of people of Northern Ontario to do with it as they consider wise in development of territory.

A HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE AT SMYRNA

Upwards of 2000 Persons Perished in the Fire--Reports Conflicting.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 16.—(Canadian Press).—Upwards of two thousand persons perished in the great fire at Smyrna, and twenty-five hundred buildings were destroyed. The catastrophe, says advices received here, is of much greater proportions than the conflagration at Saloniki in 1917, which caused one hundred million dollars damage and left two hundred thousand people homeless.

Many people who rushed to the waterfront to escape on ships, jumped into the water and were drowned.

The city is without adequate food and water, and a deplorable lack of sanitary conditions is giving rise to pestilence. Despatches from Greek sources tell of horrible massacres, wholesale executions, tortures and mutilations. Estimates of the number killed vary greatly, but the latest Athens despatch quotes a relief worker as declaring that up to Thursday morning there has been one hundred and twenty thousand victims, but it is thought the number includes the wounded.

Fancy Work Department of Fair Was Attractive Section This Year

The Public Schools Had An Interesting Exhibit—In the Red Cross Rest and Emergency Tent.

A well-patronized section of the Exhibition was the upstair room devoted to display of women's work in fancy articles of all sorts, and hand-painted pictures. The usual good showing was made in the fancy-work department, with wonderful and intricate designs in quilts, embroidered things of all varietes in colored silks, crochet, tatting and knitted goods. A collar of beads in gold and red was a new departure, and there was a good deal of the Nu-Art work on view. Oriental chenille patterns in attractive designs, a cushion with raised bulrushes, another with a pretty grey and blue butterfly and an Indian head in colors. The examples of filet lace this year were exquisite, there were a couple of pieces of Honiton braid work and there was a crocheted centre-piece in dark brown thread, each small section a separate wheel. Cushions in bright silk flanked a section devoted to the daintiest of baby's wear. Mr. G. E. Curtis' two cushions were there in full glory, one an impressive Masonic emblem, beautifully executed, the other a vainglorious peacock in colors, with proudly-spreading tail.

There were oils and water colors, wash drawings, pastels and crayons in the paintings that covered one wall. An attractive piece was done in oils on velvet of two small kiddies lost in a wood; an old man with hat and cane showed good workmanship; there was a pretty sunset in water-medium, and a good drawing of a fisherman casting a fly in trout stream.

Bread, cookies and jellies made another exhibit of housewifely skill in this section.

The Public schools had an interesting exhibit of children's art work, manual training and domestic science classes. Here were pen and pencil sketches of still life, carved-out dogs and horses with enquiring expressions and a sample of the renowned Mr. Jiggs done excellently in wood by some small craftsman; while the girls had a splendid display of finely-stitched articles—little doll clothes, small towels and aprons and prettily-embroidered bags.

There were a couple of exhibits of fine wicker work, with H. Lord, returned veteran, in charge of one; the other, a showing of the trays and baskets and flower stands made by the nimble fingers of the sightless worker, J. R. Brownlee, who gave an exhibition of his skill and deftness in his own booth. Miss Katie McLean also, the blind girl in whom many local people are interested, was at the Fair this year, giving a remarkable exhibition of pluck and skill under extraordinary difficulties in her exposition of mastery of typing and shorthand. Miss McLean does stenographic work just as rapidly and reliably as any "sighted" person, and would be glad of work of this sort at any time.

Down along the main way the Red Cross rest and emergency tent had a busy time of it. This tent was well patronized, and here many mothers brought their babies to be weighed and considered. Literature of all sorts, educational posters and carefully-constructed and dainty layettes made by the Thursday Club were on view; with Mrs. G. McCartney, the Well Babies' Clinic nurse, and Miss E. Davidson assisting the lady in charge, Miss A. W. Pike, the new public health nurse.

Flowers Made a Splendid Showing

Gladioli Were Present in Large Numbers—Other Well-Known Varieties.

The flowers seemed brighter and nicer than ever this year at the Exhibition. Their gay faces stayed fresh and open much longer this year, on account of a lack of dry hot weather, and fragrance filled the little enclosure from beginning to end of the four days.

The gladioli were present in brave array, the flower which has been suggested as Canada's national emblem. The Dominion could hardly have a lovelier one than these varihued stately beauties, with their pure color tones and lasting radiance. There weer some new tints in the gladioli this year; the Rev. Ewebank, a mauve and white specimen, and the Rose Valley, with an orchid resemblance in its peculiar strainig of rose-backed mauve brown The Evelyn Kirtland is as pretty as ever, with its faintly ruffled petals, the Willy Wigman is a carmine-shaded flower, with strong white splashes, and the war variety is a wonderful wine red, glowing amongst the pure white of the Glory of Holland, the faint pink of the Panama, and the waxen pale yellow of the Sunset blossoms.

A particular item in the central masses was the "lillum rubrum" the lily with turned-back petals, splashed thickly with red on a pale pink surface, the long stamens touched with red at the tips. The Comet or 'mum asters received many glowing tributes these double-petaled crinkly-edged mauve and pink beauties that look so like chysanthemums.

There were old-fashioned flowers here in profusion! star phloxes in mauve and red catctus dahlias in red and brown and yellow; pale green live for ever; the pretty purple Michaelmas daisy; salpiglosis, resembling mottled morning-glories; balls of flame in the lemon and orange glow of the African marigolds; feverfew; the 'poor man's or chid' the butterfly flower, with its delicate white and mauve tints. There were many new varities of foliage, one a rose pink variety, with faint, tiny green lines and crinkled brown edges, anothe a pure cinnabar gree, while the satin-ribbon effect of the water ovewy, or as it is variously called, the Wandering Sailor or the Wandering Jew, made a pretty striped green and white foil for the weird-looking cactus, with their curious, alive-looking forms, the tall 'old man' with his silvery beard dominating the background.

RECIPES

By Bertha E. Shapleigh
Of Columbia University

At this season of the year when vegetables are plentiful in gardens and markets, a soup in which many different vegetables appear is attractive and good. It may be made quite thick and be a vegetable stew.

This, with bread and butter and a good desert made with eggs and milk, is sufficient for a dinner. It offers an excellent way of giving the family the valuable mineral salts and vitamines so much needed for health. The following combination of vegetables will be found good:

4 tomatoes
1 cucumber
1 green pepper
4 small carrots
4 small white turnips
2 cups chopped cabbage
1 cup celery
2 potatoes
½ cup butter
3 quarts boiling water
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon paprika
1-8 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon sugar

Peel tomatoes and cut in pieces. Wash pare turnips and scrape carrots, and cut both vegetables into cubes.

Pare cucumber, remove seeds and cut in pieces. Cut celery in thin slices. Pare and cut potatoes into eighths. Cook all the vegetables except potatoes in the butter 20 minutes, being careful they do not burn or even b come browned.

Add water and seasonings; cover kettle closely, and cook slowly one hour. Add potatoes, and cook until potatoes are soft. Season more if necessary. Add chopped parsley and serve. Any one of these vegetables may be omitted and others added.

Nothing Jazzy on The Merry-Go-Round

The Conveyance Rolled Around to the Strains of "Il Trovatore" and Others.

Speaking about jazz music, there wasn't anything jazzy about the merry-go-round at the Peterborough Fair this week. Whether they realized it or not, the patrons of this gay red and green-lighted circular conveyance rolled dizzily around the stationary drive to the dignified melody of operatic selections. "Il Trovatore" was evidently popular with the maker of this machine. "Home to Our Mountains" and "The Farewell to Leonora" resounded on the air in cadences strong and stirring, and, later on, "La donna e mobile" mingled its foreign strains with the appeals of the gentleman across the way to buy a "Smile" for a nickel, with the muffled, megaphone-clouded utterances of the "hot dog" man, and the weary tones of the pessimistic vendor of "beer, beer, beer."

Girls' Work Board Held Meeting

The annual meeting of the National Girls' Work Board was held on Monday of this week in Toronto. About twenty members of the Board, including representatives from the Maritime Provinces, Hamilton and Niagara Falls, gathered for two days of fellowship and discussion.

Reports from Ontario, Saskatchewan, Alberta and the Maritime Provinces showed an enrolment of 227 in Leaders' Camps this summer and 1,519 registered groups of graded Sunday school classes in the Protestant churches, who are carrying out the Canadian Girls in training programme. Every province has a Provincial Girls' Work Board, and all, except one, an executive girls' secretary. Most of the larger cities and many towns and districts have local Girls' Work Boards, the four provinces reporting having a total of 58.

In leadership, programme and spirit the camps this year, it is stated, came nearer than ever before the organizers' ideal of what a camp should be.

Progress this year is also indicated by the publishing of the "Canadian Girl in Training" handbook, the establishment of a supply depot at 87 King Street East, Toronto, and the sharing with the National Boys' Work Board in the publication of The Canadian Mentor.

The National Girls' Work Board, for the promotion of the C. G. I. T. programme, with its four-fold ideal of advancement along the lines of service and of spiritual, mental and physical development, has strong affiliations in Peterborough in the evangelical churches. A large number of the girls interested in the work spent a pleasant and profitable week at the training camp held at the Y.W.C.A. cottage at Stoney Lake this summer.

FIRST DANCE WAS DECIDED SUCCESS

Large Crowd Turned Out to Open the Season at the Brock Street Rink Last Evening.

The first dance of the season was celebrated last night at the Brock Stree Rink by one of the largest crowds seen on the floor. Everything was in the best of shape with an excellent floor, good music and decorations and light that left but little to be desired.

The crowd came early and stayed late and in numbers that promise well for the success of the dancing season. Paul Gliddon's orchestra was in attendance and rendered excellent music. The dancing started promptly at 8.30 and ended at 11.30 though many of those who were enjoying it expressed a wish that it could go on a little longer.

The management are exerting themselves to keep the standard of the dancing high as was evidenced by the conduct of those who were enjoying the music last evening.

Home and School Associations

At the convention of Home and School Associations recently held in Toronto, a new burden was suggested for the State, whose paternal authority is already severely taxed in its constant endeavor to make up the deficiencies in modern home life. Miss Alma Binzell of Cornell University gave an eloquet address on "Prevention or Cure in Child Training," concluding by advocating the establishment of departments of parenthood in colleges, with nursery schools and kindergartens, where children can be observed, studied and managed along the lines which physicians, psychologists and educators agree, are fundamentally sound for the welfare of children and society.

"Home," declared Miss Binzell, "is the most important educational institution in the country and the most important thing in home life is the training of the child, yet the young girls of today are taught everything from cooking to the making of an Easter hat, but nothing of child nature or training. Many so-called defects in child character could be prevented if children had scientifically trained parents and teachers." Miss Binzell described how students were trained for this responsibility at Cornell University, where babies and children were secured from the orphanage. She said "the women of today are not satisfied with their training when they embark on the matrimonial voyage," and declared that home and school societies would bring mothers in contact with trained teachers who would advise and co-operate with them to train children for a better Canada. Members of the associations might educate themselves by reading so as to be able to give talks on child training and give young parents new ideas.

So, according to this bright thought, young women should be taught in school how to take care of children in the home, so that, when they start in to teach classes, they may advise their pupils' parents how to care for their offspring. This might be described as the theory that the best way to know how to do a thing is by book-learning, and not by actual experience. The vague idea might occur to some critics that parents themselves might get busy and learn how to bring up their own children, so that the next generation might not bring forward the reproach that seems to be all too applicable in this day, that of neglect on the part of fathers and mothers towards their homes, their children and their duties as forbears of a new race. One can imagine the disgust of a mother of the Victorian era if a prophet were to reveal to her the state of affairs in this generation, when governments and schools are advised to step in and take the place of parents in the home, to guard against an appalling lack of knowledge in a future generation.

However, the convention of associations got the right idea out of the discussion which followed the address, deciding to do all in their power to educate the public to have a higher ideal of home life and that parents be impressed with the idea that their greatest duty is the wise training and care of the children entrusted to them.

contributions reached the total $1,016,118. The total funds raised for all purposes have increased from $6,535,296 in 1918 to $9,303,323 in the year just ended.

The salaries paid the ministers in the Methodist church have increased from $1,782,880 in 1917 to $2,575,801 in 1921-22. This is partly due to the minimum salary having been increased as a result of the efforts of the Ministerial Commission.

The present value of the churches, parsonages and other buildings and cemetery properties owned by the Methodist church in Canada and Newfoundland is close to $50,000,000.

In the national campaign of 1920-21 to raise funds for the Methodist church $4,837,517 was subscribed. Of this amount $4,005,154 has been paid, the Christian Guardian states. This special fund has been expended chiefly on the church's missionary enterprises and in putting the Superannuation Fund on a more satisfactory basis, about $1,410,000 of each, and $705,000 has been given to needy educational institutions in the Methodist denomination.

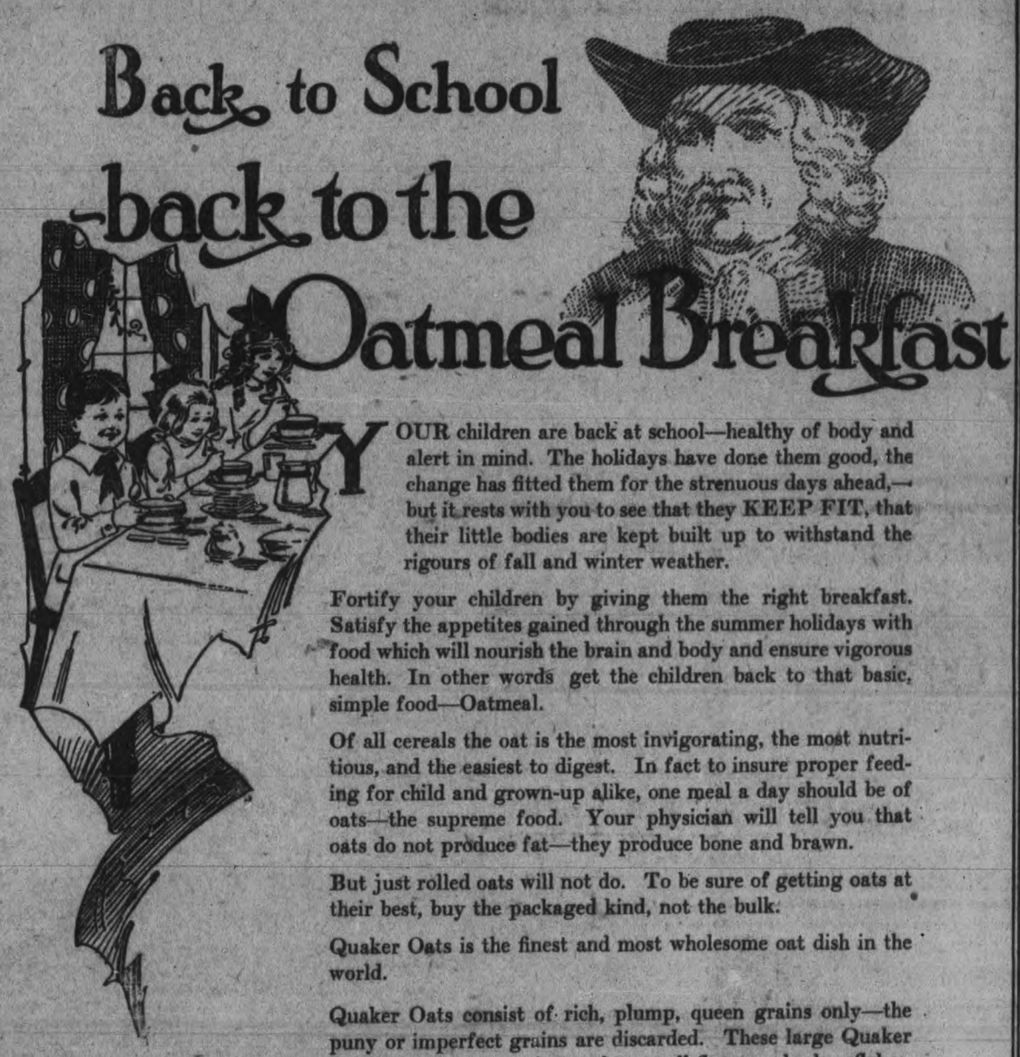
Back to School back to the Oatmeal Breakfast



YOUR children are back at school—healthy of body and alert in mind. The holidays have done them good, the change has fitted them for the strenuous days ahead,—but it rests with you to see that they KEEP FIT, that their little bodies are kept built up to withstand the rigours of fall and winter weather.

Fortify your children by giving them the right breakfast. Satisfy the appetites gained through the summer holidays with food which will nourish the brain and body and ensure vigorous health. In other words get the children back to that basic, simple food—Oatmeal.

Of all cereals the oat is the most invigorating, the most nutritious, and the easiest to digest. In fact to insure proper feeding for child and grown-up alike, one meal a day should be of oats—the supreme food. Your physician will tell you that oats do not produce fat—they produce bone and brawn.

But just rolled oats will not do. To be sure of getting oats at their best, buy the packaged kind, not the bulk.

Quaker Oats consist of rich, plump, queen grains only—the puny or imperfect grains are discarded. These large Quaker flakes absorb more moisture than small floury or broken flakes. That is why Quaker Oats makes the most, as well as the best, porridge. The most economical breakfast food too,—it costs less than one cent per dish.

You will be ordering groceries to-day. Remember to include Quaker Oats on your list.

FRANCE FINISHES RADIO CHAIN

PARIS, Sept. 16.—France is following Great Britain in the establishment of a wireless chain that will link all colonies and other dependenceis to the mother country.

A "military chain," planned since the armistice, will soon see its completion with the inauguration of radio communication at the world's greatest station at Sainte Assize. With this as its headquarters, French radio will cover the Sudan, the Congo, Madagascar, Cochin, China and Pondicherry, India.

Each link of this vast chain will extend a distance of 200 miles or less. The only link that will flash messages beyond this distance will be that between Pondicherry and the Antananarivo station in Madagascar. This covers a stretch of 3100 miles.

Italy also has been contemplating connecting its possessions to the mainland by radio, and has already built two stations in North East Africa to communicate with the main station at Rome.

The war ended Germany's plans for a wireless chain. In this scheme three stations were contemplated—one in Africa, one in Java seas and one in Yap.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS AT FAIR

EXCEPTIONAL EXHIBIT OF McLAUGHLIN-BUICK CARS

A marked centre of attraction in the automobile area at the local exhibition was found in A. Brown & Co's mammoth section, where comfort, refinement, beauty, durability and the last word in motor car construction and equipment caught the eye at every turn. Efficiency of service luxurious accommodation in interior furnishings, refined elegance in body structure and finish, powerful and dependable motors, all combined in this company's altogether exclusive exhibit to attract and hold the enquiring interest of no inconsiderable number of Peterborough's motor car-loving citizens yesterday afternoon. The exhibit was a McLaughlin-Buick one, which cars A. Brown & Co., have handled in this district with gratifying success. And as a visitor was heard to remark, "when better automobiles are built McLaughlin-Buick will build them."

There were shown six different makes of McLaughlin-Buick products—Master Sixes and Master Fours—all setting a new standard of value for Canadian motorists. But perhaps a special feature of the exhibit was a Master Four cylinder car, owing to its exceptional special distinctiveness in equipment, together wth an exceedingly sturdy, yet graceful body construction which assures a maximum of real automobile value at the exceptionally moderate price of $1395, delivered. This car is a five passenger touring one, extra roomy, specially equipped with modern bumper, drum type of head lights, and parking lights. It has an exclusively designed dumbbell type radiator cap, rear vision mirror, wind-shield, wiper and patent stop light; the scuff plates are aluminum and rubber. The interior is finished in McLaughlin blue and black combination and affords comfort de luxe. The radiator is specially equipped with a new McLaughlin carboretor system which heats the intake manifold and assures economy in the consumption of gasoline. There is a special primer for winter use, allowing of quick starting also an exclusively designed bumper. In fact, this car is absolutely complete in equipment and appointments, as much so as models selling at hundreds of dollars higher.

Another feature exhibit was a Master Four Touring Sedan, a roomy five passenger car, carrying a new equipment at the rear consisting of a good-sized weather-proof baggage trunk. With many special features in build and appointments and a luxurious interior upholstered in beautiful durable striped plush, to say nothng of a body finish of maroon with black fenders, here is a sedan which brings refined comfort heretofore only found in costly cars.

Two other Master Six Sedans, one five and the other seven passengers, are built with great care and skill embodying every car detail of convenience refinement and appointments, anticipating every desire of the motorst who takes pride in a finely built and completely equipped closed car.

The Master Six Special Five Passenger Touring Car at $1885 reveals many radical improvements in keeping with the principle followed in all McLaughlin-Buick vehicles that nothing must be lacking in up-to-the-hour automobile invention. For travelling in absolute comfort and with motor car dependability this conveyance cannot be excelled.

And last, but not least, the visitor was strikingly impressed by a Master Six Cylinder new Sport Roadster which certainly appeals to the man or woman, who wants an outstanding Roadster. Nickel and bevelled plate glass are liberally used to set off this car combination to the best advantage. The radiator shell is full nickel-plated, the combination leather top binding is finished with nickel tips, there are aluminum nickel-plated scuff plates, the running boards are bound in nickel, the wide rear curtain light is in a nickel frame and door handles hood catches, deck rails hub cups and other small parts are also of plated metal with the same high polish.

The foregoing gives but a faint conception of the substantial outstanding car completeness characterizing all McLaughlin-Buick products, and an inspection of their varied makes at A. Brown & Co's garage, 383 Water street, will repay the discriminating automobile enthusiast.

THE ALFRED McDONALD LUMBER COMPANY.

The Alfred McDonald Lumber Company's section in the Manufacturers' Building stands well in the foreground of attractive exhibits, showing manufactured specimens from their factory here, such as oak doors, birch, maple, oak and quarter-cut oak flooring, British Columbia fir products and exceedingly creditable turned work. They are specializing in white pine from their own limits north of Peterborough, which they recommend for permanence and economy. An appealingly compact and admirably manufactured white pine kitchen cabinet stands in bold relief among their several exhibits. With readily accessible and spacious glass-protected many-shelved cabinet above, four drawers and a flour bin flanking a serviceably deep cupboard below the work-stand, this piece of furniture, finished ready for enamelling, offers that time-saving and general utility which gladdens the heart of the average housewife.

This firm also handles the Brantford asphalt slates for roofing, which come highly recommended as affording complete and permanent protection at a surprisingly minimum expenditure for upkeep. They are guaranteed fire-resistant and immune from special insurance regulations.

MOORE & BREWER'S AUTOMOBILE EXHIBIT

From Moore & Brewer's garage, corner of Hunter and Queen streets one finds an exhibit which offers food for thought to those who affect motor cars, and their number is legion these days. They are displaying a Reo Five Sedan with patent Reo motor, graceful in body build and lacking nothing in modern equipment and comfort. Also a larger Reo Five or family of seven passenger car fully equipped with latest automobile devices and capable of negotiating the steepest grade on high speed. Then there are the comfy speed—model Essex automobile, capable of any mileage from 5 to 75 miles an hour, and the well and favorably known Hudson, medium in price and high class in comfort equipment and body structure.

But the feature of their exhibit is the Dodge Bros' highly recommended general service car sturdy yet elegantly built, noted for long-life and economy in upkeep. In support of this contention it is interesting to note that one satisfied owner claims he only spent $5 on replacements in five years. The Dodge Bros' cars embody many exclusive structural and equipment features and at the price of $1400 they give quality unsurpassed as a host of users are cheerfuly testifying to.

Altogether, Moore & Brewer are carrying lines of automobiles which bespeak continued growth in business here.

AN INTERESTING DISPLAY

One of the most interesting displays in the Manufacturers' Building especially now that the season of driving rain and snow is approaching, is the exhibit of Vulcanite Roofing and Hexagon Asphalt Shingles which is being demonstrated by the Peterborough Lumber Company. The policy of this company has always been to secure the best article on the market for their large trade, and they are pleased to inform the public that they have secured the exclusive sale of the products of the Beaver Company, Limited, who manufacture the Vulcanite, Hexagon and 4-in-1 Slate Surfaced Shingles and Rolled roofings, which are made from start to finish in Canada. The best materials that can be secured are used in their manufacture, with the result that these Shingles and Rolled Roofings are of the highest class. When you are in the market for a guaranteed and artistic roof call at the office of the Peterborough Lumber Company, Hunter street, and they will be pleased to give you all the information you request. Be safe by buying a roof you can put on and forget.

Mr. F. Kent president of the Seaman Kent Co., Ltd., Toronto paid a visit to our Exhibition in the interests of The Peterboro Lumber Co., who are featuring "Beaver Brand" Hardwood flooring as a leader for their building material exhibit, in this section. With their usual keen business foresight the Peterborough Lumber Co., have chosen Beaver Brand as the one hardwood flooring which they consider properly manufactured. The manufacturers of this celebrated hardwood flooring are the largest exclusive hardwood flooring organization under the British flag, and being the pioneer manufacturers of End Matched Kiln Dried hardwood floorings, they of course, "know how". The big secret in hard wood flooring lies in the kiln drying and the Seaman Kent Co., at present have dry kilns, and cooling sheds which carry practically one and one half million feet of lumber at all times, which insures Beaver Brand being properly cared for before it goes into well equipped factories.

Don't experiment with any other, but insist on Beaver Brand, is the advice of the Peterborough Lumber Company.

Many a visitor to this exhibit section yesterday had the novel experience of carrying around in his pocket a 6 inch length of Beaver Brand hardwood flooring, for such constituted the Peterborough Lumber Co's rather unique souvenir of our exhibition of 1922.

CHEAPER LIGHT.

"Let there be light, cheap, efficient light, and more of it," was the slogan put into brilliant and appreciable effect at one of J. J. Turner & Sons' attractively decorated sections in the Manufacturers' Building. This display consisted of Coleman, Quick-Lite table lamps, Quick-Lite lanterns, Quick-Lite chandeliers, Quick-Lite bracket lamps and Coleman cookers, for all of which J. J. Turner & Sons are the energetic agents. The illumination from these lamps and lanterns is 300 candle-power of pure white light, brighter than 20 old style oil lamps or lanterns, and is soft and restful to the eye. They make their own gas from common gasoline and are fire-proof. They cost to use less than three-quarters of a cent per hour. The cookers, which also make their own gas, fill a long-felt want, as they give their owners the clean convenience of natural gas. They produce the quickest and hottest fire needed by the housewife, and are ideal for all family cooking. The flame regulation is perfect and an ordinary meal can be cooked at a cost of about two and a half cents for fuel.

J. J. Turner & Sons, this city, report that the demand for these produts is growing.

IN THE SHADOW OF POOR HEALTH

In This Condition Relief Comes Through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

When the shadow of poor health falls upon you; when hope fades and life itself seems scarcely worth living, then is the time you should remember that thousands just as hopeless as you feel, have been restored to the sunshine of health through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The rich red blood which these pills actually make, strengthens the whole system. The nerves are strengthened, headaches vanish, the appetite improves, and once again there is joy in life. Among the thousands benefited by the use of this medicine is Mrs. Jos. Robinson, Oshawa, who says: "Some time ago I was in an anaemic condition and so weak I would faint away at times. I had no appetite, could not do my housework; in fact life seemed scarcely worth living. I was exceedingly pale and tried doctor's medicine with no good result. Then one day I saw Dr. Williams' Pink Pills recommended for a similar condition and I got a supply. I continued taking the pills until I had used about a dozen boxes, and they have made me a well woman. I can now do a good day's work about the house, have no more fainting spells and can go about more actively than I did before. I believe these pills just the thing for pale, weak girls and women, and if given a fair trial will do for them what they have done for me."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GOLD COIN SHIPPED TO CANADIAN BANK.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(Canadian Press)—First gold to move to Canada since signing of armistice has been shipped from New York. Formal announcement was made today by New York Trust Company it had shipped $500,00 in gold coin to Canadian Bank of Commerce at Montreal. This shipment follows recent strength of Canadian exchange and fact that it had touched par after long depreciation as expressed in premiums offered on dollars amounting to as much as 18 p.c. at one time. Movement of gold to Canada is considered particularly significant at this time.

If the bootlegging business is good to-day, it is a sure sign that the undertaking trade will be lively in the near future.

PADEREWSKI TURNS FROM POLITICS TO THE TUNEFUL PIANO

Announces in Paris He Has Retired Definitely From the Turmoil of Political Life.

WARSAW, Sept. 16.—(Associated Press).—The announcement given out in Paris by Ingace Jan Paderewski, the world-known pianist and former Premier of Poland, that he had retired definitely from the political life of Poland, has caused varied comment here. The Radicals are relieved, as politically they feared his return, the Nationalists hope it is not true.

They argue that Paderewski is too great a patriot to stand aloof from Poland during the very important elections of November, on the 5th, of members of the Diat and of the 12th, of members of the Senate. Even should he return to music at the present time, they say, sooner or later he will have to resume his career as a Polish statesman Paderewski has been away from Poland for two years; but in spite of this absence he still has great prestige here, and many faithful and loyal followers. The Nationalists are still trying to persuade him to return to Poland for the election campaign.

The Radicals, it is believed, will advance General Pilsudski, the present chief of State, as their candidate for the presidency of the republic. The Nationists have not yet any candidate in sight; if Paderewski returned he undoubtedly would have their support.

In the meantime, reports from Switzerland, where Paderewski has been staying recently at Morjes, describe the former Premier as devoting himself to his music and convinced in his own mind that, for the present, he has decided upon a course of action which is the best for his country and himself.

At Morjes Paderewski practised many hours a day in preparation for his concert tour in the United States which is set to begin in November. He has played little during the past five years. Once was on the occasion of his wife's birthday, in 1919, at his hotel in Warsaw, and another when he was in California last spring. On the latter occasion he played without notes. His memory has not failed him, and in Switzerland also he played much without notes, waiting until his music could be collected. His favorite hours for practice were in the early morning, and again late at night. His idle time he spent in reading or in feeding his prize chickens, of which he has a large number.

WOMAN CANDIDATE FOR LABOR PARTY.

Miss Edith Picton-Tubervill Will Run For British Parliament.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—(Associated Press).—That the political party which above all parties stands for the hard-fisted sons of toil should put forward as one of its parliamentary candidates a member of the social elect and a woman at that, may be regarded as one of the significant signs of the times. It is not because of any dearth of good parliamentary material among its own ranks and file that the Labor Party has adopted Miss Edith Picton-Turbervill as its candidate for North Islington at the next general election.

Miss Picton-Turbervill is the daughter of Colonel Picton-Turbervill of Ewenny Priory, Glamorganshire. Among the many claims of long de cent, there are few among the British aristocracy who can trace their lineage so far back as can Miss Picton-Tubervill and find such a notable beginnine of it. One of her ancestors was Sir Richard Tubervill, one of the 12 knights of William the Conqueror who settled in Wales soon after the conquest.

Miss Picton-Turbervill is the author of "Christ and International Life," to which Lord Robert Cecil contributed a preface. Her social work abroad has given her an international reputation. She spent some years in India on behalf of the Young Women's Christian Association, and travelled for it in America and other countries.

In stating her reasons for allying herself with the Labor Party, Miss Picton-Turbervill said:

"The Party has a definite, practical program. It's policy is founded on Christian principles. I has been the chief champion of woman's entry into politics."

If Miss Picton-Turbervil gets into Parliament she will not be on the same side as Lady Astor or Mrs. Wintringham.

"My politics are not the same as their's," she said, "but I am sure that on all things affecting the welfare of women and children we should find ourselves on common ground, although in many cases I would go further than they for the betterment of the working women. For example, I stand definitely for widow's pensions."

Little Lessons For the Golfer

By George O'Neil.

When the player has progressed down the fairway to the point where he calls for irons the practice swing may be made to serve a double purpose. The player may true his aim, swinging a couple of times, at a precise spot on the ground, and at the same time he may measure the pressure needed on the stroke for the execution of the distance ahead. If the ball is in tall grass he may also measure the resistance of this grass against his club-head together with the yardage called for to the green. If he swings a couple of practice strokes at about the speed he thinks the approach shot calls for the muscles, possessed of a wonderful sense of coordination with the mind, have a way of repeating the practice swings in the actual shot. Thus the practice swings must be rightly made.

The great difficulty with most amateur golfers is that they cannot learn that the golf swing is a matter of touch, not force. I have never seen the true golf touch better pictured than it is in this action picture of Walter Fovargue, the fine Chicago star. The reader can see for himself how the club-head has been snapped through the ball in the swing which Fovargue has completed. The average player can, I think, derive a lot of help from carefully studying this very finest of golf style.

LINDSAY MIDGETS HERE NEXT WEEK

Maple Leafs Likely to Get First Game at Home.

Maple Leafs will likely get a game with Lindsay Midgets here at the latter part of next week, and if Saturday is not available, the game may be played on Friday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock. As both teams are made up largely of players who attend school, this arrangement would not interfere with studies. If the afternoon game can be arranged, a small admission fee will be charged with a view to giving school pupils an opportunity to witness the game. The Leafs have players from six of the local schools, including the Collegiate.

Advices from Lindsay are to the effect that an earlier date cannot be arranged, because some of the players have not yet secured their birth certificates. A home game for Lindsay later in the week is not favored, because the Lindsay Exhibition will require the baseball field.

Diamond Dust

New York's defeat at the hands of Chicago while St. Louis was winning from Boston has brought the Browns within half a game of the league leaders. It is probable that whichever team wins this league will only do so by a game and a half or two games, and the three-game series which New York and St. Louis enter today on St. Louis' grounds may prove the deciding factor.

* * *

After the series with New York St. Louis will have eight games to play, all on the home grounds—three with Washington, two with Philadelphia and three with Chicago. New York will have nine more games, all on the road—three at Detroit, two at Cleveland, three at Boston and one at Washington.

The showing of the Hillcrest team, Ontario champions, in the play-off games for the T.A.B.A. title is causing other leagues to cast their eyes enviously towards them when considering the outlook for the O.B.A.A. finals. The mighty Hillcrests who smothered Classics and then Oslers, are again picked to win the Ontario title, and it must be admitted that the odds are in their favor. Should Belleville go up against the T.A.B.A. winners, it is believed locally that the O.B.A.A. title will be more likely to come to the C.O.B.L. The Petes have been put in the running for the Central League title by Al. Heckman, and if Belleville is eliminated it will be purely a case of too much Heckman. It is conceded that the Trunks have the smoothest working machine. But no matter which team wins the right to stop the Hillcrest crew Central League fans throughout the circuit will be pulling for them to win.—Oshawa Ontario.

The Hillcrests of Toronto and Sudbury, the Northern titleholders, will meet in home and home games, the first to be played in Sudbury today. The return game will be played in Toronto September 23.

The management of the Adanacs has been advised that the players are not required to hold amateur cards to compete in the Ontario junior games, birth certificates being necessary.

* * *

Maple Leafs will practice at Riverside Park this afternoon after the C.G.E.-Adanacs exhibition game. A full turn-out of players is requested.

* * *

Lakefield and Keene will play the second game of the league championship series at Keene on Monday. The East Peterborough League champs will meet Canadian Generals next week.

* * *

McCormicks of Toronto and Mimico are playing a junior O.B.A.A. series, and the winner will meet Adanacs. The locals hope to get a home and home series.

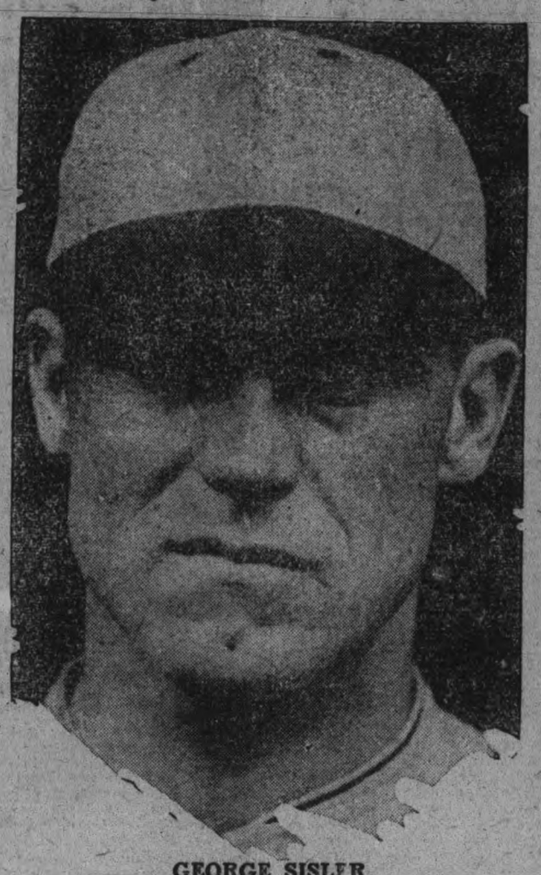
Canadian General players are no longer being served with soft stuff in their work-outs. The order has gone forth to the pitching squad to put everything they have on the ball.

SAYS BUNKO

Some promoter ought to grab off the two Jackson boys while they are on the floor and put on a wrestling match.

Worthy Successor to Ty Cobb



GEORGE SISLER

Ty Cobb generally has been considered the greatest player in the history of baseball, but Cobb is nearing the end of his wonderful career. George Sisler of the St. Louis Browns now stands out as the player best fitted to bear the laurels which Cobb must soon lay down.

Sisler is by far the best and most valuable player on the St. Louis roster, and St. Louis is now faced with the tremendous task of meeting New York in what will probably be the crucial games of the pennant race with her strongest and best player in the hospital. Sisler's injury to his shoulder will probably keep him out of all three of these games, and yet these are the games when he will be most needed.

With Sisler showing the most remarkably consistent batting in the history of baseball and the Yankees' pitching staff wavering on the verge of demoralization for the past few weeks, this three-game series might have been turned into a decisive defeat for New York and a consequent pennant for St. Louis. But now, with New York half a game in the lead, St. Louis must win two of the three games to force her from that position, and it may prove too difficult a task.

Sisler came to the American League in 1915 direct from the University of Michigan. He made his debut as a southpaw pitcher, and before the year was out was rated as one of the best portside twirlers in the game.

While the Browns needed him as a pitcher, they needed him even more for his wonderful hitting ability, and it was felt that he should play in a position where he could be used regularly rather than every fourth day.

He was tried out in the outfield and there met with fair success and showed great promise of developing into a great fielder. Then it was decided to try him on first. It took only a few games for him to show that first basing was his forte.

Aside from his remarkable hitting he has played a wonderful game in the field. The St. Louis infielders never worry about their throws, if they are able to get them within striking distance of the bag. Sisler goes into the air, digs them out of the ground, or spears them with his gloved hand with equal ease.

On the bases, in a year in which base running has been a negative quantity, Sisler has had a big season.

In batting in runs with timely hits, and scoring them himself, he has played a big part in the success of the Browns.

Sisler during the season of 1922 has featured in every department of play. He is easily the outstanding figure of the American League in a season of unusual happenings.

Jack Lewis to Aid Coach Shaughnessey.

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 16. — (Canadian Press.)—Jack Lewis, who was a prominent member of the McGill intercollegiate championship rugby squads in the years immediately preceding the war, has consented to act as honorary assistant coach of the McGill squad and will be out next week to assist Coach Frank Shaughnessy in developing players for the red and white.

Lewis with George Laing, comprised one of the best and fastest pair of outside wings seen in the intercollegiate in years and formed part of the mainstay of the McGill team at the time when Billington was wont to give the outsides a long chase down the field to get under his lengthy punts.

South Africa Wants Some Canadian Ideas.

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 16.—(Canadian Press.)—W. S. Skillicorn of Johannesburg, Union of South Africa, representing the South African Government, is in Port Arthur visiting grain handling and elevator plants. He is seeking information in behalf of his government in the method of handling grain in the United States and Canada. In South Africa, he says, the sack system is in vogue and with the advent of a policy to go into the business extensively, the government has decided to locate at harbor and interior towns grain elevators and to adopt the Canadian method of handling.

Little Town in Mountains Of Pennsylvania Sends Out Many Great Ball Players

New York or St. Louis or Cleveland or Chicago, or any of the other larger centres can have their world's series and be blamed so far as the little town of Minooka, buried in the mountains of Pennsylvania, is concerned. Let 'em cheer till the cows come home for all Minooka cares. Let 'em cheer, they haven't half so much to cheer about as Minooka has, but the world doesn't know it. The world doesn't even know that there is a Minooka.

The fact of the whole matter is that pennants are not won by the towns that cheer them. I should say not. When Cleveland won a world's championship, she stuck out her chest till she busted all the buttons off her vest, but Hubbard City, Tex., and Shamokin, Pa., are the little villages that should have been standing up and cheering their municipal heads off on account of having been responsible for Tris Speaker and Stanley Coveleskie. The big towns do all the cheering, and horn in and grab off all the honors, but it is the little "hick" towns who are really responsible for the "big doin's" that the other cities go daffy about.

With a population of but 3,000, Minooka, Pa., has sent six of her sons, (four of whom were brothers) for the big league fans of larger cities to cheer, or an average of one big league player to every 500 of her population. The sons of Minooka who have made their marks in the big leagues are: Steve O'Neill, the star catcher of the Cleveland Indians; Mike McNally, of the New York Yankees; "Chick" Shorten, outfielder of the Detroit Americans and St. Louis Browns; Jimmy O'Neill, shortstop of the Washington Americans, who was put out of the game last season due to an attack of pneumonia; Jack O'Neill, (an old New York State leaguer), former Chicago, Boston and St. Louis catcher, and Mike O'Neill, a former St. Louis pitcher, who had to quit the game on account of an injury to his eye, and who is now in the oil business in Shreveport, Louisiana.

With this record to back up her claims, the little town of Minooka issues an open challenge to meet all comers for the baseball incubator championship.

It was also on the lots of Minooka that Hughey Jennings first began to play baseball, Hughey having spent his boyhood days in that town, and this same village has also sent three others to the minor leagues.

Other former famous players like Sam Crawford, Chief Bender, Mordical Brown, Frank Chance, Larry Doyle, Johnny Evers, Larry Lajoie, Sam Leever, Sherwood Magee, "Deacon" Phillippe, Eddie Plank, Billy Sullivan, Fred Terry, Joe Tinker, "Cy" Young, Garry Cravath, Tommy Leach, Frank Schulte, Terry Turner and numerous others, all came from little back lot towns.

So you see it is some little unheard of place that yearly provides of the newest world's series hero, although the bigger burgs really get all the credit.—From an article, "Stolen Sweets," in the Sporting Life.

Little Lessons For the Golfer

(By George O'Neil.)

I have found the hints from my experience concerning the playing of the niblick particularly illuminating, and I pass them on. Sort of pinch the grip with the tips of the fingers of your right hand. Point your left toe out towards the hole. If you follow through more you will get a low flight. Be sure to make the hands act as moving-centre of a circle; don't top one! The blow must be crisp.

Note the ease expressed in this action picture of perfect golfing form. The illustration shows Walter Fovargue, a fine Chicago golfer, at the top of the swing. There is no effort, no tenseness of muscles, no lack of balance. Strive for this ease and part-relaxation in all your shots. You maintain a complete mastery over the club—all else is muscular ease.

At The Theatres

AT THE GRAND.

After more than a year of reading in almost every magazine and metropolitan newspaper of the amazing performance of Charles S. Gilpin the astonishing actor, in Eugene O'Neill's unusual drama "The Emperor Jones" the announcement that Adolph Klauber will offer this extraordinary attraction at the Grand one night only, Thurs. Sept. 21st is welcome news. "The Emperor Jones" is a genuine success, one of the biggest successes of recent years, and local theatregoers are fortunate in having an opportunity to see it acted by Mr. Gilpin exactly as it was played for an entire season at the Princess Theatre, New York, and during its runs in Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago. For twenty years Gilpin pursued a stage career in practical obscurity. Miistrel shows, musical comedy and stock companies were his only avenue of exploitation. In 1920 he attracted attention in the part of the slave in "Abraham Lincoln," and when the production of "The Emperor Jones" was in preparation, someone suggested Gilpin for the part. The rest is theatrical history, his success was instantaneous, his fame spread everywhere and he became the most tolked of actor in years.

"THE DICTATOR" I S REAL DRAMA.

WALLACE REID HAS THE ST[illegible] ROLE

The international disturbances of certain romantic and ebullient South American republics which have for years furnished the American press and humorous writers with material for exciting dispatches or clever, humorous discussions, were placed in the hall of fame by the plays of the late Richard Harding Davis, who was virtually their literarly spokes man.

As a Paramount offering with Wallace Reid in the star role, it is one of this type by this author. It is the play which Willie Collier made famous on the stage and one in which Mr. Davis paints an exciting picture ol volcanic life in the Latin-American continent.

Walter Woods, and experienced scenarits, translated the play to screen terms, which meant modifying it somewhat, bringing certain incidents down to date and generally applying the modern brush to the canvas, which is, however, still fresh and alluring.

Lila Lee, leading woman, has the role of Juanita, dainty daughter of Dr. Rivas, a self-styled "liberator" played by Theodore Kosloff. Mr Reid, as Brooke Travers, falls in love with her and then the trouble begins. From Los Angeles the scene shifts to a tiny Latin-America republic where a bitter war between rebels and regulars is waged. James Cruze, a veteran Paramount director, handled the megaphone.

Two of the Greatest First Basemen Will Be Seen in the World's Series

(By Henry L. Farrell.)

No matter which team wins the American League pennant, two of the greatest first basemen in the business will work in the world's series.

It is taken for granted that the New York Giants will carry the National League colors into the classic o fthe diamond, and that either New York Yankees or the St. Louis Browns will represent the American League.

George Sisler, the perfect ballplayer and Brown star, is the greatest first baseman since the days of "Prince" Hal Chase. He is one of the greatest all-round stars, excelling in fielding, batting and base running. It is unnecessary to recount the ability of a player who leads the league in practically every department of the game. If the Browns get into the series and Sisler is prevented from playing by his bad shoulder, it will be a terrific loss to the thousands attending the games.

George Kelly, first baseman of the Giants, and Wally Pipp, Yankee first sacker, are two of the most under-estimated players in baseball. Both are of a modest, retiring disposition with an inclination to dodge the spotlight and play baseball.

Both are good, long hitters. Since mid-season, when he started to do the stick work that Babe Ruth is supposed to do, Pipp has been the most valuable man on the Yankee team, and he has been playing better than Kelly.

On unassisted plays at first, Pipp is faster getting to the bag than Kelly. He also can go better to his right than Kelly, and he is much more uncanny as a foul chaser. Pipp is perhaps the best first baseman in baseball going over to the stands and almost back to the plate for foul balls.

Kelly's greatest assets are his long reach, which permits him to get all kinds of throws, and his throwing arm, which is, outside of Bob Meausel's, the finest in baseball. No one who saw the last play of the world's series in 1921 will forget Kelly's throw to third base.

Kelly is some times accused of slipping mentally in a tight place, but in the long run, it seems, he makes as many smart plays as boners.

For a good, steady worker, always there and always willing and ever dangerous in a pinch, Wally Pipp is a great first baseman. Urban Shocker, the great Brown pitcher, says that Pipp is the hardest man on the Yankee team to pitch to.

Sisler, of course, is the greatest; Pipp comes next, and just a shade behind is Kelly.

TOY WAGON AUTO AS IMPORTANT AS A CAR

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 16.—(Canadian Press).—A boy's toy wagon is just as important in the eyes of the law as an automobile. That is Magistrate Robert's opinion, and he put it into practice in a recent court ruling.

Samuel Stern's machine run over and smashed little Richard Keating's wagon. Richard took down Stern's number on a board, went to the police station and had he motorist arrested.

When the case was called, the boy stepped up to plead his own case. Stern was amused and showed it, which was an unwise m ve, for he Magistrate saw nothing unny about it. Stern's amusement fi d, however, when the Magistrate offered him his choice of being held for court or paying for the wagon. Stern paid.

FAMINE FLOUR IN NEW YORK CITY.

First Sample Reaches America From Russia.

NEW YORK, Seps. 16—(Canadian Press.)—The first sample to reach this continent of the now famous "famine flour" of the Russians has just been received at the offices of the National Lutheran Council, which has a number of representatives doing relief work in Russia. It was sent by a Canadian minister who left his home in Alberta to investigate conditions in Russia and aid in relieving the sufferings of th unfortunate people of that country.

Gritty, dark brown in color, and smelling like new earth from the garden, this substance of which the starving Russians bake their bread appears unpalatable, unwholesome, and totally unfit to be eaten. No substance like it is used for food, not would be tolerated, by the people of any portion of Canada. The "flour" is composed of the ground up seed of Lebeda, with clay mixed in for adhesiveness. It has been used for eighteen months throughout the Volga region, and is now in use in the Ukraine and the Black Sea area, where the famine is still raging.

The particular sample received by the National Lutheran Council left Russia by way of Poland, being carried along by the cholera refugees who streamed across the border to the west last spring. I was no taken ou of Russia as a curiosity to be exhibited, but as the only food to be carri d along on the weary journey of several hundred miles on foot. The little box was sent by Rev. Rudolph Kersten, Canadian pastor from Bashaw, Alberta, who volunteered last year to go to Poland to take care of a vacant Lutheran parish which inclu es four citi s and 140 villages.

JAPAN TAKES TO RADIO.

The radio bee has stung Japan. The first big wireless station has just been completed and communicates between Fukuoka, in Kyushu, and Fusan, Morea. This radio line will be connected with land lines so that it can be of use to all parts of the country. More radio lines are being planned to connect the others islands of Japan.

RADIO BOOSTS MINING

Greater demands are being made on mining industries due to the increased popularity of radio. Galena which is a form of lead ore, is one of the most widely used crystal detectors in the country. There is also an iron and copper ore form of crystal. Use of a great deal of copper wire has raised the demand for this ore considerably.

LAZINESS

To harness the ocean's waves and make them do man's work, the Stod der Wave Power Corporation is formed at White [illegible]ains, N.Y.

Floats, rising on waves, will pull chains that will run compressed air engines. So claim the organizers. Whether the scheme works or not it is only a question of years until part of the gigantic power of ocean waves and tides will become [illegible]n's slave.

Human laziness will find a way to harness tremendous power now going to waste in nature.

"DR. FOWLER'S"

Saved the Lives of Four Children

Diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera infantum and summer complaint are responsible for more deaths, especially among children, during the summer months than any other form of disease. According to statistics, in the City of Toronto alone, in the past five years out of 1008 deaths of children, from diarrhoea, 757 died during the four summer months. It therefore behooves every mother to look after her children on the first sign of any looseness of the bowels by using Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, a remedy that has been on the market for the past 77 years, and has been proven to be the best there is.

Mrs. Harold Sellers, Pennfield, N.B., writes: "Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry saved the lives of four of my children when all other remedies failed. It stopped the vomiting and terrible diarrhoea with which they were troubled. I will always recommend it, and now always have a bottle on hand in case of emergency."

Home At Last.

"Home at last" on heavenly mountains,
Heard thee "come and enter in";
Saved by life's fair flowing fountain,
Saved from earthly taint and sin.
Free at last from all temptation,
No more need of watchful care;
Joyful in complete salvation,
Given the victor's crown to wear.
Welcome at the pearly portal,
Welcome by the angel band,
Welcome to the life immortal
In the blessed kingdom land.
"Home, sweet home," his home forever,
Welcome home to wander never,
Saved thro' Jesus—"Home at last."

PRICES DECLINE TO-DAY.

(By Stuart P. West).

NEW YORK, September 16 Prices went lower for the most part in to-day's two-hour trading. Among the stocks which have recently had the most extensive rise the declines were quite sharp. They ran from a point and a half to three points. Inasmuch as Wall Street always prefers an outside to an inside reason, it professed to ascribe the decline to the crisis in the Near East. As a matter of fact the Turkish threat to advance on Constantinople had been known just as well on Friday, and the market had ignored it completely. This morning the news was distinctly better, in that the European Allies had adopted a united front in dealing with the Turkish commander, and had taken measures for meeting the situation which it was confidently felt would be effected.

Had there been any serious concern over the Near Eastern development, it would have shown first in the foreign exchanges. As it happened, the exchange market displayed the same indifference today as it had on Friday. Rates on sterling, francs and marks were slightly lower, but they were not below where they stood on Thursday when the Turkish question first became a factor. The commodity markets, too, did not show the uneasiness they had on the previous day.

As a matter of fact, such selling as occurred in the stock market was partly week-end realising, and in part the clearing up of speculative accounts on the idea that in some directions at least the upward movement had for the time being culminated. Mexican Petroleum was off 10 points from its top. Baldwin Locomotive five points, Studebaker five, Pullman six points, and American Locomotive four points. These were small reactions compared with the preceding advance, still in themselves they were fairly substantial. Railroad stocks came off in some instances a point. But outside of the few high prices favourites and two of three of the recent pool selections there was no weakness of consequence.

SPECULATIVE-INVESTMENT. COMMENT.

In financial circles of the first magnitude it is held that the fact that business has steadily grown throughout the duration of the great strike constitute proof that condition underlying current revival are not only exceptionally sound but are in shape to promote further expansion in essesntial industries.

These factors are chiefly responsible, according to well-informed interest, for the $1,600,000,000 brokerage loan account, which is held to be perfectly natural growth: (1) Wall street is now the financial center of the world as well as the richest country; (2) investment in securities during the past 18 months has been on record-breaking scales; (3) the New York Stock Exchange has listed new securities since 1914 amounting to $40,0000,0000,000, including Liberty Bonds and many foreign issues. It is declared that the ratio of business loans to brokerage loans proves the latter to be at a comparatively low level.

"It may be conservatively stated" says a prominent source "that so far as banking strength and efficiency are concerned the havoc wrought by the liquidation and deflation following the postwar boom has been completely off-set by developments in the financial and investmet situations during the last 18 months. The change has come about through the rise of investment security values accentuated by constantly increasing holdings of such securities by the banks."

Predictions are being made in prominent banking circles that the gross receipts of the railroads will show large monthly increases during the remainder of the year. It is expected however, that the necessity for increasing maintenance will expand expenses to a point where net may not keep the pace with gross. The carriers have ordered large supplies around the low... prices and will not have to pay high figures for some time to come.

JOHN J. BALL HAS WIDE REPERTOIRE

Mr John Ball, who sang at Peterboro's Industrial Exhibition this week for the Heintzman Company, is a singer of comparative recent residence in Peterboro, whose citizens have not yet had very much oportunity of hearing the extensive repertoire which is at the command of his fine voice.

Mr. Ball has a concert baritone of rich quality, with a high range that lends itself to tenor roles with facility and ease. He has sung in opera with great success, appearing in "Aida", "Lohengrin", "Caren," and "Tannhauser" but it is perhaps as a concert singer that he excels, his refined style, splendid diction and outstanding interpretative gifts making him an artist whose work is eminently satisfactory. His voice, with a reverential delivery and dramatic intensity adapted for oratorio renditions. Clipings from New York, Chicago and Buffalo papers during the term of Mr. Ball's residence in these three cities contain the most complimentary references to his musicianship. The new York Musical Courier says: "John J. Ball, Buffalo's well-known baritone has returned home after several weeks stay in this city. Mr. Ball sang at several musicales. He has a beautiful voice of considerable range and great charm. He sings with admirable diction and sound musical feeling."

From the Musical Leader and Concert Goer (Chicago): "John J. Ball, Buffalo's gifted baritone and vocal and piano teacher is forging ahead perceptibly. Mr. Ball is already engaged for a number of concerts and musicales in and out of the city. Besides his concert work, Mr. Ball has a very large class of pupils showing great advancement." Numerous Buffalo papers unite in praise of Mr. Ball's voice and work.

Mr. Ball, while in New York, studied with Oscar Seagel, of Paris, with Eliabeth Sherman Clarke Fielding, two of the foremost exponents of the methods of the great singing teacher, Jean de Reske; with Madame Gaudenza, of Bolgona, Italy, who studied with the teacher of Caruso, with Dr. Marafiote and with Albert Bimbone, outstanding leaders in New York vocal teaching circles.

Including with his experiences in church work were terms as organist of the Church of Our Lady of Sorrows, and with the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, under Hans Merx, in New York City.

Mr. Ball's announcement with regard to studio and winter coursese of instruction appears on another page.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE.

White is the accepted color for the wedding gown in most countries but in parts of Finland it is customary for different families to adopt certain colors and all the daughters of that house wear that particular color on their wedding day.

To violate the family tradition in this respect would be considered unpardonable on the part of any bride.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED.

You remember that while a man should pay all the fares and expenses of transportation while he acts as escort, he is under no obligation to do so if he merely meets a lady on the street car or bus.

When entering a car the man permits the woman to precede him. If a stranger gives his seat to the woman her escort should acknowledge this courtesy by lifting his hat.

ROADS.

Some big national movements go doggedly head, indifferent to temporaly industrial setbacks. For instance the good roads program.

Around 600 miles of highway a month are being built with the aid of the national government.

Good roads, however, involve something more than mileage. The biggest good roads problem is the motor truck as large as a box car, destroyer of pavements.

THE SECRET OF GOOD HEALTH

is in the possession of a normal spine. From the spinal cord radiates the nerve trunks which supply the different tissues of the body. These nerve trunks leave the spinal cord through openings between the vertebrae. When in normal alignment the spinal bones serve to protect these nerves, but if a spinal segment gets out of normal position it pinches the nerve and shuts off the flow of vital energy to the tissues. No tissue or organ can be healthy if its nerve supply is interfered with.

Chiropractic Spinal Adjustments

restore the vertebrae to normal position and relieve nerve pressure, thereby restoring 100 per cent. of life energy to inactive tissues. This means health. Spinal Adjustments do get sick folks well, keep them well and protect them against the dangers of any disease.

THE DOMINIONS NOT ASKED TO DESPATCH MEN TO FAR EAST

Premier Lloyd George Merely Enquired if Canada Desired to Be Associated With Any Military Steps That Might Be Necessary.

OTTAWA CABINET DISCUSS SITUATION

LONDON, September 18 (Canadian Press). — It was learned authoritatively this evening that Prime Minister Lloyd-George has not actually asked the Dominions to supply contingents for the Near East. The Premier merely explained the urgency of the situation, and asked the Dominion Governments whether they desired to be associated with any military steps that might become necessary.

With regard to the despatch of the British reinforcements to the Dardanelles, the only forces actually ordered to move, it is stated, are the Gordon Highlanders and the Sussex Regiment, aggregating about 1,000 men.

MET AT NOON.

OTTAWA, September 18 (Canadian Press). — A special meeting of the Cabinet Council called to consider the situation in the Near East opened at noon.

It is probable that the deliberations will last throughout the day.

NO DECISION REACHED.

The Cabinet adjourned just before two o'clock this afternoon without reaching any decision regarding the British Government's invitation to send troops for the defence of the Dardanelles.

The members will reassemble later this afternoon to further consider the situation.

Premier King told newspapermen after adjournment that there was nothing he could announce at present. As the message from the British Government was marked confidential, he could not make it public without permission from that Government, and he would not say whether or not it had been correctly interpreted by the newspapers.

He added that the official message did not contain sufficient information to form a basis for a decision by the Government, and that additional information had been cabled for.

AIR FORCE READY

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—(Canadian Press).—Canada's air force is quite ready for service overseas in case of a contingent being sent from the Dominion, it was stated at headquarters to-day.

QUEBEC FREE FROM TROUBLE WITH WORKERS

Ontario's Industrial Supremacy Threatened Declares Rotarian Dobbin.

TO-DAY'S LUNCHEON

Members of the Peterborough Rotary Club had the pleasure at their luncheon to-day of accompanying Rotarian F. H. Dobbin upon "A Towpath Pilgrimage." In other words, they listened with much interest to the speaker's description of a sojourn in the Chambley-Richelieu district in Quebec, and were impressed by the information given by Rotarian Dobbin.

Rotarian V. J. McElderry presided, and there was a large attendance of members. Among the guests were Police Magistrate O. A. Langley, Mr. W. A. Ackerman and Mr. Seels, son of Rotarian J. H. Seels.

That Ontario is having very serious opposition from Quebec, so far as attracting new industries is concerned, was the contention of Rotarian Dobbin in his address. He assigned as the principal reason for the steady industrial growth of the lower province the fact that manufacturers were assured of a plentiful supply of contented labor. There were no strikes, no quarrels, no disturbances of any kind. Workers were satisfied to have continuity of labor, realizing that steady employment at reasonable wages was better than losing months in attempts to secure higher wages. There was no use in advancing the argument that Ontario would hold the whip hand because of her water power. Rotarian Dobbin dissipated that idea effectively by showing that Quebec had vast power resources ready to be developed as required.

Rotarian Dobbin's description of the Chambley-Richelieu county and its people was thoroughly enjoyed, and his suggestion that Peterborough should see that the advantages of the Trent Waterway, from a tourist standpoint, should be placed before the hordes of motor-boat owners whose craft pass through the Chambley Canal impressed his hearers as one worthy of consideration and action.

McLaren-Stevenson Nuptials

St. John's Church, where for many years the bride's grandfather, Reverend Canon Beck, officiated as rector, was the scene on Saturday, at seven o'clock in the evening, of one of the prettiest weddings of the season, when Emma Georgina, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stevenson, became the bride of Lennox McLaren, of Peterboro, son of Wm. McLaren and the late Mrs. McLaren, of Perth, Ontario. Rev. Dr. Blagrave performed the ceremony, afterwards presenting the bride with a prayer-book from which he read the service. The old stone church, with its ivy-covered walls, made a lovely setting for the rainbow-hued bridal party. the bright dresses of her attendants making an excellent foil for the pure white of the bride's central figure. The interior of the church was decorated lavishly with flowers and ferns, asters and gladioli banking the chancel and decorating the aisles. This was done by the many friends of the bride.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding-march, played by Mr. Wm. C. Thompson (in the absence of Mr. Devey) was exquisitely gowned in oyster white crepe charmeuse, the bodice and sleeves inset with real lace, an heir-loom from her great-grandmother's wedding day; this this lace with the conventional orange blossoms, appeared also on the cap which held the long tulle veil in place. A bouquet of pure white Bermuda lilies completed a charming costume.

The brides's attendants were: her sister, Miss Margaret Stevenson, wearing a rose-colored French voile with black velvet hat and bouquet of vari-colored asters; and the Misses Robina Cumming and Seaborne Hamilton in dresses of blue canton crepe with black velvet hats and carrying orchid asters. Little Louise Beck and Romeyn Beck of Toronto, cousins of the bride, were charming as flower-girl and page, the small maiden wearing a frock of point-d'esprit over white satin, with silver wreath and small basket of single asters, the little boy dressed in white sailor suit. Mrs. H. J. C. Ireton, of Toronto, supported the groom. The ushers were: Messrs. Harry Grubbe and Eldred Cumberland, of Toronto; Douglas Lawrie, Frank Bradburn, Walter and Romeyn Stevenson.

Following the ceremony, a reception to a large number of guests was held at the home of the bride's parents, 193 Aylmer street. Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson received with the bridal party. Mrs. Stevenson wore a gown of periwinkle crepe with black hat and corsage boquet of pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. McLaren, who will reside in Peterboro, left later by train for a honeymoon in the Eastern States, the bride travelling in a suit of navy tricotine with small navy hat and fox fur.

Out of two guests were: Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Beck and Mrs. and Mrs. Whiteford Bell of Toronto; Miss McLaren and Miss Elizabeth McLaren of Perth, Miss Bessie McLaren of Ottawa, Mrs. Haultain, Miss Etta Haultain and Mr. Charles Haultain of Port Hope, Miss Isabel Fairbairn and Mr. Jack Fairbairn of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Roxborough and Miss Roxborough of Norwood.

Vets. Ready If War Must Be

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—(Canadian Press). —It is not time for dramatics, and I think every last effort should be exerted to keep peace", said Mr. C. Grant MacNeil, secretary of the Great War Veterans' Association, Dominion command, to-day, declining to comment further until a decision of the Government about sending a Canadian contingent to the Dardanelles should have been reached. "However, most of us will be ready, if war must be."

CAUGHT A FINE 'LUNGE OFF THE ROTARY CAMP

Captured by G. Green and on Display Uptown

Passers by the show window of Dr. W. H. Lacey, 410 George Street, are arrested by an exhibit therein of a good-sized maskinonge, handsomely mounted by E. Elcome, the local taxidermist.

The fish is the trophy of George Green, this city, who caught it last month just off Rotary Camp, Stoney Lake.

It is 54 inches long, weighs 18½ pounds, and represents a very respectable catch when one considers that the average "big 'lunge" hooked tips the scales at 14 pounds or thereabouts.

CHILDREN'S TAG DAY SEPT. 30

An Objective of $2,000 is Set by Local Children's Aid Society.

No doubt this community will again rise to the occasion this year, as heretofore, and that coming occasion is the Children's Tag Day on Saturday, September 30th Last year something over $2,000 was realized, a sum then badly needed by the local Children's Aid Society, and judiciously expended in extending the scope of their Christian work of caring for neglected and parentless little folks of tender years. This year the same objective is set by this commendably philanthropic organization, but the hope is entertained that that amount may even be exceeded. For the calls for care of children are ever increasing with a growing population and in a community and district of Peterborough's advantages and opportunities those calls should be generously responded to.

While the endeavours of the Children's Aid Society are pretty well known, still a reminder as to the nature of their Good Samaritanism might not be out of place. Like the Good Samaritan, they stop by the wayside, so to speak, to tender sustenance and relief to the afflicted. They house and feed, clothe and educate those little ones who are orphans or friendless, until such time as they can be placed in desirable foster homes, from whence their feet are started in that path of life which leads to exemplary citizenship. Their operations are also stimulated by that principle of civilization founded on education—religious and secular—and so, many a poor child has received through the Children's Aid Agency, such needed warm winter clothing without which he or she could not have attended school—rural or urban.

But all of this takes community co-operation—financial and otherwise—and one means taken by the local Children's Aid Society of quickening practical sympathy is the adoption of an annual Tag Day, when even the smallest mite contributed will help to realize a substantial whole. The thought is left with you 'that poor, neglected and fatherless children we have always with us" and that $2000 is not such a large objective to be over-reached the coming Tag Day in a cause high in the category of worthy causes.

SOLLY SEGAL'S SAD STORY OF WHISKY DEAL

Testifies That He Paid $190 For What He Believed Was Good Liquor and Intended to Sell It

ALLEGES FRAUD

Solly Segal's sacks of whiskey bottles full of water were lugged into the court-room at the police station this morning as exhibits in the hearing of the charge against 'Buck' Winch of having obtained from Segal $190 under false pretences.

Telling his story of the deal to Crown Attorney Hatton, the plaintiff said that he had several conversations with Winch about buying some whiskey. They had talked it over on the street, and Winch had also called at Segal's house, 466 Cambridge Street. Finally, in the afternoon of September 7, Segal, who is a junk dealer, but who might easily pass as a business man, called at Winch's house on Crescent Street and proceeded to carry out the purchase he had contemplated. In the cellar he was shown an array of bottles on a shelf. One of the brands he wanted was White Horse whiskey, and the other King George Scotch.

Winch pulled the cork of a bottle of King George, and Segal sampled it to his entire satisfaction. He then asked "How's the White Horse?" and another cork was pulled. He sniffed and found it good stuff.

Accordingly he bought 42 bottles at the price of $60 a case. They were all wrapped in protective cartons, and decked with labels showing the name of the brands and also bearing the guarantee of the Quebec License Commission. The bottles were packed into old brown gunny sacks, the kind junk dealers use in their business, and were tossed up on to the truck of junk which camouflaged them perfectly. Segal paid Winch $190, leaving a balance of $20 which is still due.

When he arrived up town one of the bottles got loose from the bag and also protruded from the carton, and, to Segal's surprise, its fluid content was as clear as water. He quickly discovered, according to his evidence, that it was water, and immediately telephoned Winch's house. A woman's voice informed him that Mr. Winch had left for Montreal. Segal then took the police into his confidence, as a last resort, and Inspector Reid took charge of the sacks. At the police station all the bottles were examined, but instead of the White Horse and King George Scotch, the good stuff Segal had tasted and smelt, he had only so many bottles of water for which he had paid $190.

To Mr. J. A. O'Brien, appearing for Winch, Segal stated that the bottles had remained on his truck for nearly two hours from the time he had made the dismaying discovery until the police took possession of the bags.

"What did you intend to do with the whiskey? Sell it? Mr. O'Brien asked.

"I might have sold it," Segal answered.

"You intended to sell it?"

"I couldn't tell you what I'd do until I got it," said Segal.

"You've sold bootleg around Peterborough?"

"I've sold some."

"And you intended to sell whiskey on this occasion?"

"I didn't have none to sell. It was all water."

"Don't try to joke in court. You know you intended to sell it."

"I did intend to sell it."

Segal affirmed that all the bottles he had seen in Winch's cellar were wrapped like those produced in court and like the two he had sampled after Winch had drawn the corks.

The case was adjourned until Wednesday.

French Government Despatches Courier to Turk Camp in Effort To Avert a War in Near East

Only an Overt Act by the Dirty Turk can Draw Military Action From France—One Hundred and Fifty Thousand Persons Perished in the Smyrna Slaughter--British Government Rushing Reinforcements to the Dardanelles.

BRITISH CABINET MEETS ON THE WAR SITUATION

(By Webb Miller, United Press Correspondent)

PARIS, September 18. — France moved to-day to prevent the threatened clash between the British troops and the army of Mustapha Kemal.

It was authoritatively stated that the French Government has decided to despatch Franklin Bouillon to Kemal's Smyrna camp in an attempt to induce the Turkish leader not to invade the Dardanelles neutral zone and to forego his reported plan of attacking Constantinople.

Bouillon is France's outstanding Near East authority. It was he who negotiated the Franco-Kemalist Treaty.

FRENCH MILITARY ACTION CONSIDERED REMOTE.

Premier Poincare, realising the gravity of the situation in the Near East because of Kemal's threatened invasion of the neutral zone of the Dardanelles and Egypt's military move in the Dardanelles, is hurrying toward Paris from Sampigny, where he has been spending his vacation.

France may intervene on the side of the British if Kemal actually invades the neutral zone, but otherwise military action by France was considered remote. Britain's request for military assistance from France has been met with cool reception in the French press.

It was pointed out in semi-official circles that whenever France considered independent action against Germany, Britain always proved an obstacle.

Britain, by taking independent action, now has only acted, it was stated, to widen the breach in the British-French Near East policies.

It was learned to-day that Premier Poincare conferred secretly for two hours with King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia at a hotel here.

Following this conference, Ferid Bey, Kemalist representative in Paris, conferred with Premier Mintchitch, Jugo-Slavia. Jugo-Slavia was one of the nations from whom Britain requested military aid.

BRITISH RUSH REINFORCEMENTS TO DARDANELLES.

CONSTANTINOPLE, September 18. — The British rushed reinforcements to-day to resist the threatened onslaught of Mustapha Kemal.

British transports from various ports of the Near East were loaded with Britain's soldiers to reinforce the little band of 19,000 Allied troops who stand in the way of the threatened invasion of the 400,000 victory-maddened Turks.

Great Britain, by starting all available troops to the Dardanelles theatre, has acted on her declaration of fighting rather than submit to the Turkish occupation of the neutral zone of the Dardanelles. It was believed here that the cold reception in French and Italian semi-official circles to Great Britain's appeal for help has prompted Premier Lloyd-George to determine to play a lone hand if necessary.

The British transport Derbyshire has been loaded at Malta with 1,000 Gordon Highlanders and 200 special detail troops, accompanied by heavy and field artillery.

THE FIRST REGIMENTS TO LEAVE GIBRALTAR.

From Gibraltar the 1st North Staffordshire Regiment of 1,000 men has been expected eastward. The destination of these regiments and many others known to be under way is without doubt Constantinople and the vicinity.

A surprise attack from the Kemalists near Chanak, which commands the entrance to the Dardanelles is not altogether unexpected.

Meagre forces of Allied troops have been rushed to the region and were reported entrenching themselves to resist, if necessary, Kemal's army.

The Allied soldiers could make but a feeble resistance against the enormous numbers of Turks, and grave consequences were feared.

However, the Allied warships and cruisers in the waters of the Near East gave a feeling of optimism that a Turkish invasion could be stopped for a while at least.

Intelligence agents reported here that the Turks appear to be overawed by the British warning that the invasion of the neutral zone would mean military action.

It was believed that this reaction of the Turks may prevent Kemal from ordering an advance.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 18.—(Canadian Press)—The entire British Atlantic fleet is being sent to reinforce the Mediterrean squadron for the protection of Constantinople and the straits of Dardanelles. This undoubtedly will create most formidable armada of warships ever assembled in an area of like size embracing the most modern dreadnoughts, battle cruisers, destroyers, submarines and air craft carriers. British officials here feel confident that if all allied land forces are not sufficient to check attack on Dardanelles by Turks, combined fleets together with French and Italian war vessels will be more than enough. Allied commanders are meeting today under the chairmanship of General Sir Charles Harrington to discuss the defence of the capital and it is expected to bring out complete unity of action.

"ONLY ONE ANSWER."

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Sept. 18.—(Canadian Press)—Only one answer is possible when the empire calls its loyal citizens declared Premier Massey in a statement with regard to New Zealands decision to send a contingent to the Near East.

"I hope even yet that war will be avoided" he said. "But if peace is to be maintained then present difficulty has to be faced firmly and promptly without delay. "I hae hoped British Empire would have recovered from last war before being called upon to participate in another. We don't want war but duty comes first."

Leader of the Country party in Parliament, W. Page supports Massey's proposal to send a contingent, but the leader of the labor party opposed it unless it be proceeded by a referendum. His opposition is based on ground that Australia has not yet recoverd from late war. Military officers at Melbourne state that good officers and men are ready for proposed campaign.

THE RESCUE CREWS IN ARGONAUT MINE

Search Parties Explore the Mine for Entombed Miners — Use Canary Birds.

AT THE ARGONAUT GOLD MINE, JACKSON, Calif., Sept. 18. —(United Press).—Rescue crews broke through into the Argonaut Mine shortly before 7 a.m. to-day.

Exploration parties immediately entered to take up the search for the forty-seven miners who have been imprisoned there for twenty one days.

A strong air draft rushing through the Argonaut Mine proved that it was clear of cave ins and gave hopes of speedy progress of the search. The rescue men had been at the surface ready to go in as soon as the word came. Four teams, each of four men headed by a captain, entered the Argonaut. Each man wore oxygen respirating apparatus and carried a canary bird and lighted candles. The birds acted as detecters of carbon monoxide and the candles tested the amount of oxygen in the air.

The crew which has been working on the 3,900 foot level has been called off duty. It was announced the $5,000 bonus offered the first crew breaking through had been won by the 3,600 foot level crew. First reports coming to the surface from the exploration crews were encouraging. The canaries whose lives were to be offered to tell whether poison gas filled the mine, were only slightly affected.

Analysis of the air at 7.30 a.m. showed heavy decrease in the amount of carbon monoxide.

The volume of air coming from the Argonaut shaft had increased three fold. The water guage showed a decrease in four hours of nearly an inch.

Each company carried oxygen tanks, to use for resusitation, a vial of spirits of ammonia and a stretcher. The first levels to be explored were the 4,200 and 4,300 in the Argonaut. Water is believed to have risen in the 4,400 feet level.

The rescue crews were also to establish ventilation in the mine. At the 3,600 station were Dr. E. C. Kendall and Dr. C. E. Endicott, surgeons. Hospital equipment sufficient to care for the entire 47 men was ready in case they should be found alive.

An information service resembling that of an army was functioning on the surface and as step by step of progress underground was made it was telephoned to the surface and handed to the Press.

FOUR MEN SHOT IN CLASH WITH STRIKERS

CUMBERLAND, M.D., Sept. 18. —(Canadian Press).—Four men were shot, two of them probably fatally, in a clash between striking miners and non-union miners to-day at Potomas Mine of the Poffa Brothers' Coal Company at Barton W. Va., 25 miles west of Cumberland.

Reports to Cumberland authorities said that about 125 striking miners rode up to Potomac mine in automobiles and motor trucks and attacked the miners at work there with stones. Non-union miners fired on the attacking party and in a clash that followed, two men were killed, three striking miners and one non-union miners were shot.

Fish--Eat More of It and Less Meat

By Bertha E. Shapleigh

Even those housewives who live near the ocean or inland lakes and are used to fresh fish forget to have it on the table except on Fridays.

Most people eat too much meat. Fish is classed with meat, eggs and milk as a protein food, supplying that which is necessary for repairing and building up th body.

Many cooks know but one or two ways for cooking fish; they bake or boil it, and one tires of it when always served n the same way.

There are many ways of reheating or making over fish, and for luncheon or supper the e dishes are especially good. Croquettes, scalloped fish and potatoes, fish salad are some of these methods.

Wide Variety for Choice

Of course those people living on the coast or near the Great Lakes have a large variety from which to make a choice. Many fish are in the market the year round whil others have seasons.

Inland people must depend on fish caught in fresh bodies of w ter—and usually there are one or two good ways of cooking such fish.

Now that we hav such a wonderful system of refrigeration, fish can be shipped from one part of the coun ry to another— lthough it is likely to be frozen and, of course, loses som of its flavor when thawed. Such fish should be cooked as soon as the ice is cut.

Canned Shell Fish

Shell fish uch as lobster, crab, shrimp, clams and oysters are excellent canned. Many prefer canned lobster even though th fresh is obtainable.

Salt and smoked fish are appetizing, and at times nothing is so satisfactory as smoked herring or finan haddi or salt codfish. Finan haddie now comes in cans. Creamed finan haddie and baked potato, or salt doc-fish and creame baked potato, or salt codfish and creamed potatoes make a most satisfying meal.

Always serve a tomato or cucumber salad, or lettuce, with a well-flavored dressing or cole-slaw with fish, if possible. Spinach and green peas or beans are good vegetables to serve hot.

If fish is boiled have the potatoes baked or fried. Often it is well to combine fish and shell fish, as stuffing haddock or cod with oysters.

Planked Fish

White fish, shad, haddock and blue fish are delicious when planked, that is, broiled on a plank and served with a potato border with such vegetables for garnish as would go well with that particular fish.

A good sauce is an improvement to most any fish. Drawn butter with hard-cooked egg or pickles is good with boiled fish and the hot egg and butter sauce is good with b ked fish.

Any left-over boiled or baked fish is excellent for salad. The fish may be combined with a vegetable and served with a mayonnaise or a boiled dressing to which has been added onion, pickles and a little chilli sauce or catsup.

NEW RECORDS ON THE GRAND TRUNK RLY.

TORONTO, Sept. 18.—"Each day is bringing forth fresh evidence of the splendid manner in which the personnel of the Grand Trunk has thrown itself into the work of advancing the interests of Canada's nationally owned railways."

This was one of the striking statements made by Mr. W. D. Robb, Vice-President and General Manager of the Grand Trunk Railway System, in an interview given here to-day.

"In my fifty years of experience through the various grades of the railway's service," continued Mr. Robb, "I have learned to appreciate to the full the efficiency of the Grand Trunk men. They have always worked hard and intelligently, often under difficult circumstances. They are now responding with enthusiasm to the call that we have made to them to support in every way possible the great new national organization of which they are so important a part.

"Heads of departments, and the men under them, have been asked to make every endeavor to create new records in operating efficiency and in obtaining new business for the road. When it is stated that the Grand Trunk Railway System has on its payrolls nearly 40,000 employees it will be readily recognized how powerful their influence may—and will be—in the community. With the workers of the railway putting forth every effort to forward the government owned railways we look with confidence to receive the unstinted support of the public in out labors. The encouragement that they can give us will be invaluable. I desire it to be known that it will be the unvarying policy of the present administration of the Grand Trunk to take the public into its confidence, to tell them of its problems, and to invite their suggestions."

MANY ACCIDENTS MAR KANSAS CITY RACES

Roscoe Sarles Burned to Death and Several Others Injured in Opening Race of Auto Speedway.

PINNED IN WRECK.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 18.—(Canadian Press).—Roscoe Sarles of Indianapolis, veteran automobile racer, was burned to death in the 500-mile race, dedicating the new Kansas City speedway yesterday, when his car crashed into that of Pete De Paolo, and was wrecked.

Sarles' car jumped the top rail at the northeast corner of the speedway and dropped twenty-five feet, pinning him beneath the wreckage. Sarles, known as the "clown of the races," was driving for Cliff Durant of Los Angeles, who decided at the last minute not to drive. Pickup, his mechanician, was injured severely.

Four other drivers were injured severely and two slightly in the race, which was won by Tommy Milton of Los Angeles. Milton's time was 2:46:52;96; Harry Hartz, finished second, time 2:47:10:28; Frank Elliott, Kansas City, third, time 2:49:46:60; Ralph Mulford, fourth, time 2:50:45:38; Jerry Wunderlich, fifth, time 2:55:46:47.

Paolo and his mechanician, Henning, sustained severe injuries when they attempted to dodge a wheel thrown by Eddie Hearne's car. Henning was injured about the head and upper body. The extent of De Paolo's injuries had not been determined last night, but physicians expressed the fear that he might be injured internally.

Joe Thomas suffered an injured leg and his mechanician was slightly injured in an earlier accident in the race. The accident occurred shortly after the fifty-mile mark was reached, when Jimmy Murphy's car threw a wheel and skidded. Thomas, who was close in Murphy's rear, was unable to steer around the disabled machine and crashed into it, splitting the frame of Murphy's car.

Eddie Hearne and his mechanician were slightly injured in the next accident of the race, shortly after Sarles' car went over the rail. The accident was due to the breaking of a front axle on Hearne's car, which swerved and turned turtle several times near the point where the second accident occurred.

ALLIED TROOPS ARE UNABLE TO MAKE LANDING

Kemalist Forces Beat Back Detachment of Marines—Turks Demand Withdrawal of Greeks Immediately.

NEUTRAL ZONES.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(Canadian Press).—Kemalist forces massed on a quay at Smyrna prevented an attempt by detachments of Allied marines to land Saturday morning, according to a despatch to the Sunday Express, from Smyrna by way of Malta.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 18.—(Canadian Press).—The immediate withdrawal of the Greek forces from the Tchatalja region in European Turkey has been insisted upon by Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist leader, in a conversation with Sir Harry Lamb, the British High Commissioner, during a visit of Sir Harry to Kemal in Smyrna.

The visit of Sir Harry to Kemal was to ascertain the attitude of the Nationalist Government toward Great Britain. Kemal informed Sir Harry that Turkey was not fighting against Great Britain, but that Great Britain has interposed every obstacle to the free development of Turkey. He assured the British High Commissioner that the Nationalists would not attack the neutral zones in the Straits of the Dardanelles if the British would recognize the Angora National pact and return Thrace to Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 18.—(Canadian Press). — The Angora Government has informed the Allies that if the remainder of the Greek army in Asia Minor attempts to retreat across the neutral zones of the Dardanelles the Kemalists will disregard the neutrality of the straits and pursue the Greeks in international territory.

The Greek military mission has left Constantinople.

Many Veterans Volunteer For Service In the Near East--A Special Meeting Of the Cabinet Is Called For Today

No official Request Has Been Received From Londo n But Is Expected To-Day. Extraordinary Session of Cabinet Called to Discuss Situation — May Summon Parliament If Necessary—Scores of Offers Reach Department of Militia and Defence.

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—(Canadian Press).—The Near East situation and the question of whether Canada is to be represented there by a contingent of troops will come before the Cabinet Council today at an extraordinary session, which was called by the Prime Minister immediately on his return to Ottawa this morning. With the exception of Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Ernest Lapointe, who are in Europe; Hon. A. B. Copp and Hon. J. H. King, who are in the West, it is expected there will be a full attendance. The Ministers who are within reach of Ottawa were summoned by telegraph yesterday and it is expected that all will attend.

So far no official statement has been issued on the question. It is expected, however, that the official invitation from London will be in the hands of the Cabinet at their meeting today. Should it be decided to send a contingent, it is understood the Imperial Government would indicate the number and composition of the force required, and the Canadian Government would then issue a call for volunteers.

In the meantime scores of offers of services had reached the Department of Militia and Defence, assuring that regardless of the number required there would be no difficulty in raising the various units. Some of the offers volunteer individual services; offer to raise battalions, and one would guarantee the raising of an army corps.

It is unlikely, however, in the opinion of officials here that definite action will be taken without first summoning Parliament.

The members of the Cabinet expected to be present, in addition to the Prime Minister, are: Hon. G. P. Graham, Sir Lomer Gouin, Hon. J. A. Robb, Hon. Charles Stewart, Hon. Charles Murphy, Hon. Jacques Bureau, Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Hon. James Murdock; Hon. H. S. Beland and Hon. D. D. McKenzie. Of the Ministers without Portfolio, Hon. J. E. Sinclair is in Prince Edward Island and Senators Bostock and Dandurand are both out of Ottawa. The latter, it is thought, may be in attendance today.

Cabinet was to have met on Monday in any case, but the regular meeting was not planned until the afternoon.

Now, however, the Ministers will be called together during the forenoon, and it is expected that they will be sitting during most of the day. There is a possibility of an extraordinary session of Parliament being called to decide upon a matter if the Government should feel that the question is one which should properly be decided by Parliament.

So far no official statement has been issued concerning the matter. The official despatch from London conveying the invitation will, it is expected, be in the hands of the Government when the matter comes before Cabinet at today's session. Ordinarily such an invitation would, it is understood, be communicated through His Excellency the Governor-General. In this case, however, the Governor-General at present is in Western Canada and, it is said, plans to continue his tour as scheduled, at least until there is something more definite than has yet been received. In his absence a message of such importance would without doubt be communicated directly from the Governor-General's office to the Prime Minister, for action by himself and his colleagues.

The matter of how many troops would be sent, if it is decided to send a contingent, is one to be decided later.

The probabilities are that the British Government, in its formal invitation, will indicate what size of a force may be thought necessary for the purpose. If it is decided to send a contingent overseas the Government would then issue a call for volunteers as needed. That there will be no lack of these as soon as the call is sent out is evident from the fact that messages from all parts of the Dominion containing offers of service are being received. Individual returned soldiers and officers, as well as organizations of returned men, have telegraphed the Prime Minister's office urging that batalion be raised at their respective points if it is decided to send troops.

HENRY FORD MAKES GOOD HIS THREATS.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 18.—(Canadian Press)—Henry Ford's industrial strike against what he charges are excessive coal prices, was in full swing Saturday night and approximately 73,000 of his workmen in the Detroit district were out of jobs for an indefinite period. Thousands of others in assembling plants throughout the country also were ordered to lay down their tools. In addition, a score or more of small industrial concerns here dependent upon the Ford Motor Company for orders were preparing to close. These employ upwards of 30,000 men.

Canadian Traditions Will Be Maintained

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 18.—(Canadian Press).—"In any position where the honor and integrty or interests of the Empire are concerned, the action of Canada will be in accord with her traditions, her position and her duty as one of the sovereign States of the British Commonwealth."

This statement was made on his arrival here Saturday night by General Sir Arthur Currie, Commander-in-Chief of the Canadians in the war.

CANADIAN SUES FOR BREACH OF CONTRACT

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—(Canadian Press)—Clifford Tabor McAllister, New York financier and a former Canadian who is the Capital arranging for the shipment of 100,000 tons of Welsh coal to meet the present fuel shortage in Ontario and Quebec confirmed on Saturday, reports that he has instituted proceedings in the Supreme Court of New York against J. S. Bache and Company, 42 Broadway, for alleged breach of contract. Upwards of $6,000,000 is said to be involved in the suit.

Mr. McAllister today would not discuss the nature of the case referring newspapermen who waited on him to his New York attorneys. Denis O'L. Cohalan of the legal firm of ex-Senator Edward T. Brackett, Stanchfield and Levy is looking after the case for Mr. McAllister. Messrs. Hardy, Stancliffe and Whitaker, 165 Broadway, are also understood to form part of the battery of legal talent employed in the litigation by the plaintiff.

TORONTO, Sept. 18.—(Canadian Press).—Canada's preparedness for the prompt mobilization and equipment of a force of say five thousand men for early despatch to constantinople, in response to the reported call of Great Britain, was the subject of discussion in many quarters here today.

Although it was known that the Canadian Government had not yet officially had the matter under consideration, it seemed to be generally felt that a contingent would be sent from the Dominion. The late Saturday night papers bore the news of the call to the British Dominions for troops to fight the Turks. It was mentioned from many of the pulpits at the Sunday services, and discussed on the street cars and in the clubs.

At the Military Institute last night there was unusual activity, as officers of various wars, many of them still on the active militia list, as well as regular force officers, gathered in groups to talk over the situation. There seemed to be no doubt that the Dominion could provide a well trained, composite force of veteran troops, have them equipped and on the way to the seat of war within a few weeks.

At the main Armories during the day there were already on hand quite a number of men waiting to offer their services when required. They were nearly all seasoned veterans from the Great War.

In some quarters it was suggested that Canada's contribution might take the form of a large and well equipped air force which, it was said, could be raised and despatched on one week's notice.

ST. CATHERINES, Ont., Sept. 18.—(Canadian Press).—Major Baker of the 10th St. Catherines Field Battery last night wired General Panet, Commander of Military District No. 2, offering the entire battery for service overseas.

The battery is said to have been the first to volunteer when the call came in 1914.

FOUR LARGE MILLS WILL BE MOVED TO BRITISH COLUMBIA

Removal of Tariff Charges on Canadian - Made Shingles Will Cause Change From Oregon to B. C.

LARGE OUTPUT.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 18.—(Canadian Press)—"It is almost impossible to predict our policy relative to the recent reporting out of the senate and the House of the Administration Bill putting shingles on the free list. However, it is almost certain we will dismantle four of our large ship mills ad transport them to British Columbia.

This is the statement made by John McMasters, of the McMasters Shingles manufacturers in Washington and Oregon. "The situation is serious' he continued. "Output in Washington and Oregon last year was approximately seven billions shingles and that of British Columbia about two billion. But the recent inimical action of the conference committee will undoubtedly reverse these outputs."

FORCED TO CARRY CANADIAN WHEAT TO THE U.S. PORTS

Western Paper Says Rates Discriminate Against Shipment Over the Canadian Routes.

ASK SUSPENSION.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 18.—(Canadian Press).—Feeling that unfair and discriminatory lake freight rates are levied by Canadian lake carriers against wheat from the head of the Great Lakes to Georgian Bay as against the rate from the lake-head to Buffalo, Winnipeg exporters are straining every effort to have the Canadian coast-wise regulations suspended so as to admit competition of United States lake boats, according to a news story published in the Winnipeg Tribune Saturday.

The Tribune says in part:

"During the last week representations have been made to the Federal Department of Marine with a view to effecting the suspension of the regulations.

"It is charged by exporters that they alleged discriminatory rates operate gravely to the disadvantage of the shipping of grain by Canadian routes and virtually force it through United States channels by reason of the cheaper lake freights prevailing between Canadian and United States ports. Wheat which is sought to be routed from Fort William to seaboard via Port Colborne, Ontario, is subjected to a lake freight exaction anywhere from half cent to one cent a bushel higher than similar wheat shipped from Fort William to Buffalo.

THE EXHIBITION.

The one condition over which the directors had no control prevented the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition from reaching a new attendance record. The wet weather of Wednesday and Thursday constituted a handicap that could not be overcome in the last two days of the Exhibition, and under the circumstances the fact that counting in the children who were admitted free on Wednesday, the total of this year practically equalled last year's figures, is a matter for congratulation.

The Exhibition Board are already planning for next year's show. The bad weather was a disappointment, but the directors are not of the stuff that weakens under adversity and are looking forward confidently to next year, satisfied that the exhibitors and the public are with them in their efforts to keep the Exhibition steadily marching forward to new levels of success.

A SATISFIED MAJORITY.

Attacks are being made upon the Civil Service Commission because it is charged there is a lack of understanding between the Commission and the various Departments.

It is quite possible that there is not the harmony there should be, and that the scheme is not working as smoothly as might be considered desirable.

That condition of affairs of course should be remedied; yet, after all, it is forms a poor basis for a demand for the abolition of the Commission.

So is the average member of Parliament.

There are, of course, some members who like the thrill of power, who relish the prestige of being able to hand out a plum here and there. They would like to see the old days back again, and they are backed up by the job-hungry camp followers who make a noise at election times, hoping that it will cause an echo when the fighting is over.

But the ward politicians and the plum tree Micawbers are hopelessly in the minority.

The bulk of the Canadian people are quite satisfied with the Civil Service Commission.

THE UNRETURNING BRAVE.

Nearly four years have passed since the signing of the Armistice that ended the World War, and Peterborough is yet without a war memorial, save the cenotaph erected by the Great War Veterans.

Our sense of gratitude and our civic pride should alike demand that the debt we owe to the memory of the heroic dead be paid.

Communities on all sides of us have set Peterborough an example in that respect. Fitting memorials have been erected that testify to the fact that the great sacrifice of the men who gave up everything for the Empire is not forgotten by those for whom they fought.

This city's recruiting record was one of the best in the whole Dominion. Hundreds of Peterborough men went willingly, even gladly, to the great adventure, and scores of them met death.

It is a sad indictment of Peterborough's gratitude that four years after the end of the war no one seems to be worrying over the absence of an appropriate memorial.

Are the unreturning brave only to be remembered in the homes from which they went?

IF WAR COMES.

The world, weary of conflict and bloodshed, will hope that even yet war can be averted in the Near East; yet the situation is of the gravest, and it is difficult to see, unless Kemal Pasha can be brought to realize what he is facing, how peace can be secured.

The Turkish troops, elated over their crushing victory over the Greeks, long for new worlds to conquer, and if they cannot be dissuaded from their apparent intention to invade the neutral zones, Britain cannot remain aloof from the conflict.

It is a tremendous responsibility for the British Empire for action against the Turks will have serious effects upon the Moslem population of India, Mesopotamia and Egypt, to such an extent that revolutions are not beyond the bounds of probability.

If the worst comes to the worst, the response of the Empire will be immediate. The Dominions had hoped that the Great War had put an end to conflict, but if war must come they will be found ready to stand their share of the burden. A new crusade against the Turks, if necessary, would not find the Canadians missing from the ranks of the crusaders.

WHERE PICTURES GO

The public sentiment in England against the sale of famous art treasures to parties outside the British Isles is founded upon a perfectly natural sentiment, and does honor to those who have expressed it, says the Montreal Star. Unfortunately however, the British Constitution, elastic though it is, does not embrace legal machinery for the passage of such a law as exists in Italy, virtually prohibiting the sale of any great art treasure to be removed from that country. All the British public can do is to try and meet the competition of the foreign purchaser—almost always an American millionaire—by public subscription, and to raise money for the purchase of valuable pictures at a time when the financial resources of the nation are being strained to their utmost to meet the tremendous burden of taxation is obviously a task easier to discuss than to achieve. The sentimental regret that followed the famous Gainsborough Blue Boy across the Atlantic to its new home will in all probability be re-echoed fairly often as other owners of great paintings find it necessary to sell them in order to secure the necessary cash to live. The British aristocracy has fallen upon evil times, financially, and it is doing a good thing in raising cash by direct sales rather than by borrowing. The nation loses art treasures, it is true, but that seems to be inevitable.

Let the British public find material consolation in the fact that if their most treasured canvases must leave British shores, there is no country in the world that has greater need of them, from an artistic educational standpoint, than the United States. It ought to be some solace to the British to know that the pictures they have loved so long are giving their cousins overseas a better conception of art than they had before. Art is international, and the British nation can do no better thing for humanity than to aid it to a clearer conception of the highest artistic ideals. This sacrifice is shorn of its bitterness in the knowledge of benefits conferred, and Britain still stands up against the shock of artistic loss.

READJUSTMENT IN THE FILMS

Those who realize the deep and wide influence motion pictures have and will continue to have on the mind and morals of tremendous masses of the public, of tens of millions of people in this and other countries, must be impressed with the aims and efforts of Mr. Will H. Hays, president and plenipotentiary of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, former Postmaster-General of the United States and one time organizer of the Republican Party. Mr. Hayes' conception of the motion picture industry, past, present and future, appeals to reason; his professions of the practical good intentions of himself and the picture producers invite belief in their sincerity.

When people got over their astonishment at the wonder of the motion picture many of them began to be afraid of it, to condemn it as the invention of the devil. It is still being condemned. But it is no longer thought that there is no good in it. It is admitted to be an established agency for the service of the public. The experience of the motion picture was not unique. Mr. Hays recalls that the righteous people of the United States, after being convinced that railroads would actually operate, proclaimed them to be the agencies of wickedness and infidelity, unendorsed of God because they were not spoken of in the Bible. So also were the bicycle and the automobile the tools of the evil one. Even bathtubs were originally proscribed, medical men declaring them a menace to health and some communities in the United States so alarmed by their coming into use that they tried to prohibit by law bathing during the winter. Mr. Hays goes further in his analogy. He reminds us that the pioneers in railroad building, in the employment of automobiles, and in similar innovations, were not too particular about the effect of their enterprises. They were exploiters, playing for the quick stakes in a new game. But just as the boot makers of Boston found that their craft was suffering by poor work and so petitioned the courts for an order permitting them to join themselves one in large company so that "all boots might be alike made well," so the men behind the motion picture industry have come to realize that the days of exploiting a new invention are over and that they must look to the good repute and permanency of their industry. And the association of which Mr. Hayes is head has been created for the purpose of:

"Establishing and maintaining the highest possible moral and artistic standards in motion picture production, and

"Developing the educational as well as the entertainment value and the general usefulness of the motion picture."

This present phase of the motion picture enterprise had to come sooner or later. Says Mr. Hays:

At the end of this period of incredibly compressed physical, mechanical, financial, and artistic development the pioneers have caught their second breath. The picture frontier has become a business thoroughfare, and the picture pioneer a sober business man. Of its own weight the industry has settled down commercially into sanitary and conservatism. It has recognized its responsibility and its duty to the public, and it will fulfil that responsibility and duty.

The readjustment of the motion picture to the proper service of the people is of almost immeasurable significance. Mr. Hayes touches on it when he says:

I approach this subject not merely from the viewpoint of men who have millions of dollars invested in the business, but from the viewpoint of fathers and mothers who have millions of children invested in the business. Ten to twenty millions of people a day see motion pictures. Millions of these are children, and they go with the same open mind. Above everything else, perhaps, is our duty to the youth in the situation. To teachers I do not have to say that this industry must have toward that sacred thing, the mind of a child, toward that clean, virgin thing, that unmarked slate, the same sense of responsibility, the same care about the impressions mdad upon it, that the best clergyman or the most inspired teacher of youth would have.

The picture producers can not succeed by themselves. The public must co-operate. The public must show its preference for right pictures. It must live down the reputation attaching to it in the frequently repeated assertion that objectionable pictures are made and shown because they are what the public wants. Perhaps it has made the turning. Mr. Hays has been advised by one of the big producers that in the industry the outstanding financial success of the last year and a half has been clean pictures. And he adds: "I may not know thoroughly the picture business, but I do know thoroughly the American public, and I know that its manhood and womanhood are sound and will support clean pictures. And the American public is the real censor of the motion picture, just as it is of the press and the pulpit."

He does not err greatly in his estimate of the public. The picture men will best rear their own fortunes and the fortunes of the industry by appealing to the cleanliness of the people. —Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It would perhaps be unwise to refer to the community singing at the Exhibition as a howling success.

At least the Exhibition served to show that despite the popularity of the automobile, there are plenty of good horses left in the Peterborough district.

These frosty nights are beginning to make people realize what a fuel shortage will really mean to Canadians. It was difficult to get excited over the situation in the dog days.

The trouble with the fuel problem is that necessity is often the mother of profiteering.

The members of the Ontario Government's Hotel Commission doubtless by this time can sing with truth and sincerity, "I Know Where the Flies Go."

So far as Mr. Morrison is concerned, the Sun continues to shine.

Fireless cookers have proven their usefulness, but a fireless heater does not imress one as a desirable protection against the cold of a Canadian winter.

Exerts are beginning to quarrel as to whether or not the approaching winter will be colder than usual. A policy of watchful waiting seems the only one to adopt under the circumstances.

The very thought of coal at $20.00 a ton is liable to make a lot of people hot.

The Kipling interview provides the Hearst papers with another opportunity to attack England. It does not make any difference whether Kipling denies that he said the things he is charged with or not.

The United States Government shipbuilding enterprise does not seem to have been any more profitable than our own. A fleet of 226 wooden ships has been sold for $750,000. As it cost $700,000 to build one of them, the whole fleet virtually sold for the cost of one vessel.

Rates for electrical service are varied and the schedule is intricate. On different classes of power supply under restricted or unrestricted use there are different discounts, and in addition the service-charge and the prompt-payment discount apply on every bill. The Municipal auditing department of the Hydro-Electric System has adopted a simple and clear method of ascertaining the incidence of rates as applied in each municipality. It takes the recorded number of kilowatt-hours sold for domestic lighting, and divides it into the actual domestic collections to find the average net cost per kilowatt hour. Similarly the average commercial rate and the average industrial horse-power rate are arrived at. This process which has been continued since the beginning of the System gives a useful comparative study of the growth of the "Hydro" in each municipality and of the decline of the average rates.

Take the case of Guelph. The rate schedules for domestic lighting charge 3c for every 100 square feet of floor area; 2c for each of the first three kilowatt hours per 100 sq. feet, and 1c per kilowatt-hour for all additional energy used. The minimum monthly bill is 50c, and there is a discount of 10 per cent. for prompt payment. The Municipal Auditor's calculation shows that the average domestic rate in Guelph is 2.6c per kilowatt hour, and the average monthly bill for domestic lighting service is 83c. Nothing could be more definite or more easily understood. Frequently men interested in private Companies doing an electrical distributing business have declared that their rates are lower than those of the Hydro-Electric System and have cited some specific case in apparent proof. Isolated special rates prove nothing, particularly when private Companies are in the habit of discriminating in favor of the large user and to the disadvantage of other customers. Not a single private Company can quote an average-rate calculated on the "Hydro" basis which can even approach in cheapness the "Hydro" rates.

An interesting feature of this Municipal Auditor's table is found in the column showing the average monthly consumption for each customer. In 1913 the householder of Guelph used on an average 17 kilowatt hours of energy per month. Gradually that amount has increased until the present average is 32 kilowatt hours. The explanation is found in the use of more domestic appliances, such as washing machines, vacuum cleaners, and all other devices for easing the labor of the housewife. Throughout the System that condition exists. The customer is using more energy than ever before. Now consider the comparative table for domestic lighting in Guelph.

On behalf of the Board of Directors of the Peterborough Exhibition, President Denne has requested the Examiner to convey their sincere thanks to the people of Peterborough and the outlying district for their support in making this year's fair a real success. In acknowledging this loyal co-operation, the President said it would be impossible to particularize those whose services proved so helpful, but they were so numerous that individual mention was out of the question. In that class were all the members of the Peterborough Male Voice Chorus for their assistance in the Friday evening programme, and also Mr. Douglas Loomis of the Y.M.C.A. and Mr. Walter Smaill for taking charge of the children's races on Saturday. To all the exhibitors for the splendid displays that comprised the big feature of this year's Exhibition, and to the public whose patronage was invaluable. Mr. Denne tendered the deep gratitude of the Directorate.

THE MYSTERY MIND

"This guy saw it." murmured the henchman, explaining.

"Oh " The Strangler's hands started for the throat of Dupont.

"That'll make two bodies the same night," remarked the other gangster.

Dupont, utterly helpless in the hands of these men, was tied hand and foot and left, trussed, in the corner. It was sheer perversity of fate that he was unable to catch the glance of either and so bring his power to bear. At the same time his two paid detectives sat outside in the casino, without any idea of his plight. Strains of music came from the dance floor. Under cover of the revelry one murder had been committeed. He could have no idea of wha might follow.

The Strangler waited. Not once did he turn his eyes toward Dupont. After some little time Violet was brought in. Then he rose.

"Now, little girl," the gangster began, "you want to listen to me. You see that hole there?"

Violet nodded. She was so placed that she could not see Dupont. He grasped, however, that she was different. There was a sort of fearlessness about her now. In her fight with Vera she had found a new side to her character. She had discovered the primitive woman within herself. She might face peril, she might sense apprehension, she might know weakness of body or fatigue of mind. But fear she had lost forever.

The Strangler watched her. "Down there in the water is a woman who crossed me," he told her. "Now, I'm good to those who do as I want 'em. See? I'm supposed to put you where I put Lil a few moments ago, but—with a leer, he moved over, as though to slip his arms about her—"you're too young and too pretty to snuff out," he remarked. "What do you say?"

"This " Summoning her strength she slapped his face smartly.

In an instant he started for her. She ran around to the other side of the open trap. There they faced each other. Dupont strained at his bonds, beads of perspiration on his face. If only he could spring to her assistance

"I'll give you one more chance " the Strangler muttered. "You're a spunky—

"If you come one step nearer to me," she exclaimed, eyes blazing into his fearlessly, "I'll jump down there of my own accord "

Laughing, he strode atound the hole. Without a moment's hesitation she leaped as she had threatened. Dupont, in silent agony of effort, heard the splash.

XXVI

THE MASTER OF THE MAP

Violet felt herself sink deep in the waters of Jamaica Bay. She knew she would be swept out from under the old pavilion, toward the open ocean. For the moment she did not care. Anything, even death, was preferable to the fate offered by the man who had carried her from the quarters of Mesma, the medium to this resort; who seemingly was the newest associate of Vera, the most recent acquisition of the gang.

But as her feet struck the soft loam of the bottom she realized she had a chance for escape. After all, she had eluded her captor. She could swim and it was unlikely he would follow; that he would be prepared to strike out after her in the darkness. With renewed determination she straightened as she shot upward again, directing her course. Reaching the surface, she held herself low in the water, kicking off her slippers and padling softly away from the lighted structure of the dance pavilion.

The night was warm and the embrace of the bay soothing to the tired muscles and worn nerves of the girl. Already the tide had turned and she felt the slight receding movement away from the shore. By a few strokes now and then she found she could keep herself in the channel and out of the grass; more, the effort was so slight that she realized no hampering effort from her skirts, she saw no necessity for discarding anything but her slippers, already sacrificed.

From the casino, now some distance away, there came a sudden burst of music as the band struck up. Echoing across the water, there was a strange change in the effect of the melody. The strident tones of the jazz instruments failed to carry. The whole was softened. The low-pitched supporting notes were augmented and made prominent until there was something Oriental, fascinating about the air.

In the distance she caught the lights of Rockaway. Behind her and beyond the outlined Portola was Canarsie, the sheen of its illumination coming to her over a bit of the bay quite free from weeds. In the far distance was a glow. That she knew was Coney Island, cut off by the flatlands of Brooklyn.

As she began to chill, she realized she must wake to definite action. Canarsie seemed an easy goal, but not against the tide. Rather it would be better to attempt to swim enough to make the Brooklyn shore before she was carried out to sea. Conserving her strength now arranging her skirts so as to free her movements, she struck out with an easy and moderatley powerful stroke.

For perhaps twenty minutes she kept ahead, knowing she was good for at least an hour of consistent effort. But now, all at once, silhouetted between the lights of Carnarsie and herself, as she glance back she detected an unusually large row-boat containing two men. It was fairly close to her. It seemed headed for one of the islands lying out in the bay from Kelso Beach, and so had no probable connection with the Portola or her enemies.

Y.W.C.A. IS FORTUNATE

The local Y.W.C.A. is particularly fortunate in being able to secure as gymnasium and swimming teacher, Miss Littlefield, who it will be remembered, has already done splendid work in building up the physical department. Miss Littlefield had her early physical training in Mrs. Summer's School of Toronto, and the Margaret Eaton School, later taking special work in the New York School, the Chalif School of Dancing, Special Military Training besides courses every summer at Chautauqua.

Holding many diplomas in swimming Miss Littlefield has the unique distinction of having organized Life Saving in Quebec and St. John. In St. John she found a mere handful of girls in the Physical Department and at the termination of her engagement left a membership of nearly five hundred. It is interesting to know that this class in St. John staged a three days exhibition in the largest theatre in the city.

With a leader of Miss Littlefield's attainment the Peterborough Association feels that this should be the biggest year in the history of the Physical Department.

HEAVY SHIPMENTS OF CATTLE

TORONTO, Sept. 18—Since August first the movement of live stock from Western Canada to the Eastern markets has been unusually heavy, and shipments consist almost entirely of beef cattle. The character of this business is such that fast service by the railways is an essential and in this respect Can. National Railways are making records between Winnipeg and Toronto Yards. Trains of from forty to fifty cars of stock are quite usual, and fast time is made possible by the splendid tangents and the lack of curves by this route. A train of 72 cars of cattle was received early this morning at Union Stock Yards, West Toronto, making the trip from Winnipeg in 75 hours, it having left Winnipeg on Sept. 13th. This probably is the longest train of live stock ever received at Toronto from the west.

THE SAME RADIO SIGNALS TRAVEL EAST AND WEST.

BY PAUL F. GODLEY

What happens at a receiving station at the opposite side of the globe? Do the messages come from the east or the west?

Radio circles have been speculating about this problem of reception at the antipodes of a transmitting station for many years. Now comes H. H. Beverage, an American engineer, from extended research in southern Brazil and tells us what happens.

During his experimenting, Beverage found it possible to make observations on many signals from a U.S. government station in Hawaii. He could receive them either from the west across the Pacific and the continent of South America, or from the east across the western Pacific, Africa and the Atlantic

The French government sent out an expedition last year to get observations on this subject. An Englishman in his travels across the Pacific endeavored to carry on similar experiments. As far as known at present, he observations of Beverage were made about two weeks before those of Tremelen, the Britisher.

In Theory

Theoretically, when the receiving station is at a point on the earth's surface exactly opposite the transmitter, the waves coming from both directions around the earth should reinforce each other. Having traveled the same distance, they should still be in step, or in phase.

As a matter of fact, due to varying meteorological and daylight conditions existing over the two paths, and due to the variation in absorption which may take place over the land, even at the antipodes, waves from both ways could scarcely be expected to arrive exactly on time to the ten-thousandth part of a second.

In Beverage's observations, signals from Hawaii received from the west were stronger during one part of the day. Those from the east were stronger at another time. Only for short times were they equal in strength.

Interference

At these times, if both were received simultaneously, an interference took place between them. First their energies would add. A fraction of a second later they would be neutralizing each other. The result was an undecipherable series of signals.

Had it been possible to move the station a few hundreds of miles further east this effect would have been absent, and the energies from both ways around would actually have fully reinforced each other during certain periods in the day.

Another very interesting phenomenon which Beverage relates is that signals received from two stations quite near each other in Germany chose entirely different paths in reaching southern Brazil. The signal from the station at Nauen came to Brazil over the South Pole, while that from Elivese chose the path over the North Pole. It is difficult to account for this phenomenon, though several theories have been offered.

THE GOVERNMENT LOAN.

Returns received to date by the Department of Finance indicate a very general acceptance of the proposals for the conversion of 1922 Victory Bonds into new bonds bearing 5½ per cent. interest and running for a further period of five or ten years as desired. Many holders would like to take up considerably more of the new bonds than they have of the maturing issue, but this is not permitted as cash subscriptions are not being invited at this time. It is open, of course, for such persons to add to their holdings of 1922 bonds by purchasing them in the market or from holders who require the cash and then to surrender them for new bonds. It is known that this is being done.

John Davis' Widow Says—

"Without my husband's life insurance my family and myself would have been greatly handicapped. I shall now be able to keep my home together, for which I am truly grateful."

NOT only does the case of John Davis vividly emphasize what a North American Life Insurance policy can mean to a widow, but it illustrates the uncertainty of life.

Within a year of the time the Policy was taken out, the insurance was paid. No man can foretell how soon or how suddenly he may be called away from this world. No matter how robust he may appear, there is always danger of fatal illness or accident.

How long are you going to live? No man knows. Let the North American Life carry your risk—not your wife and kiddies.

NUMBER CHANGES ON GRAND TRUNK RLY.

New Officers Elected—Become Effective Next Month.

MONTREAL, Sept. 18.—A circular issued by Mr. W. D. Robb, Vice-President and Gernal Manager, outlines changes that are to be made in the legal, land, tax and claims departments of the Grand Trunk Railway System effective October 1st.

Following upon the retirement of Mr. R. S. Logan, the office that he held, that of Vice-President in charge of land, tax and claims, will be abolished. Mr. W. C. Chisholm, K.C., General Solicitor, who succeeded the late Mr. W. H. Biggar, K.C., as head of the legal department of the railway, will have his jurisdiction extended over the tax and claims department.

The handling of goverument mail, compensation therefor, etc., will be placed under the jurisdiction of the traffic department. All matters connected with the purchase, sale and leasing of the company's lands will be handled by the Property Commissioner, reporting directly to the office of the Vice-President and General Manager.

In connection with these changes the following appointments are announced:

Mr. J. P. Pratt to be Assistant General Solicitor.

Mr. E. Donald to be Solicitor, Land and Taxation Division.

Mr. H. A. Palmer to be Property Commissioner.

Mr. T. W. R. McRae to continue as Chief Claims Agent.

The officers concerned are men of wide experience. Mr. W. C. Chisholm, K.C. General Solicitor, whose jurisdiction has been extended, was called to the Bar in Toronto 1891 to 1905, and City Solicitor of Toronto 1905 to 1909. From 1909 to 1913 he was a partner in the law firm of Watson, Smoke, Chisholm & Smith, as General Solicitor in 1913 and was made head of the legal department during the present year.

Mr. J. P. Pratt, who is appointed to the office of Assistant General Solicitor, entered the legal department of the Grand Trunk at Belleville in 1986 under the late Mr. John Bell, Q.C., General Council of the railway. He went through the various grades in the department, and in 1910 was made Assistant to the General Counsel. Mr. Pratt has been closely associated for several years with the handling of litigation concerning the Grand Trunk in Ontario, and he is as well known throughout that province as in the city of Montreal, where he has made his home since 1903. He is a member of the Ontario Bar.

Mr. E. Donald, who becomes Solicitor Land and Taxation Division, also began his career in the office of the General Counsel of the railway at Belleville. This was in 1878, and in 1893 he was called to the Ontario Bar. During his service at Belleville, Mr. Donald dealt with the many important transactions concerning the acquisition of land by the Grand Trunk, and in 1902 he came to Montreal as Land and Tax Commissioner of the railway, a position which he has occupied until his present appointment.

Mr. H. A. Palmer, who receives the appointment of Property Commissioner, has been Assistant Land Commissioner of the railway for the past five years. He entered the engineering department of the Rock Island Railroad in 1905, and joined the Grand Trunk as Assistant Engineer, Toronto, in 1910. Mr. T. W. R. McRae, who as Chief Claims Agent will now report to the legal department, was another of the young men trained at Belleville. He joined the Grand Trunk at Montreal in 1898, was appointed Claims Agent in 1910 and Chief Claims Agent in 1911.

Dainty People

Now combat that film on teeth

Have you noted how many people now have whiter, prettier teeth? You see them wherever you look. The reason lies in a new cleaning method which millions now employ. If you don't know it, you should try it now.

Film is dingy

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. You can feel it now. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. That film absorbs stains, then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film.

No ordinary tooth paste can effectively combat film. So, under old methods beautiful teeth were less often seen than today. And tooth troubles, mainly caused by film, became almost universal.

Film holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. So nothing is more important to teeth than combating the film daily.

Two ways found

Dental science, after long research, found two film combatants. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then dentists everywhere began to advise them. Now careful people of some fifty nations employ them, largely by dental advice.

A new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. The name is Pepsodent. These two great film combatants were embodied in it.

Not film alone

But Pepsodent does more than fight film. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

It thus gives manifold effect to Nature's great tooth-protecting agents. The result, the world over, is a fast-coming new dental era.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 18.—The re-opening meeting of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary of the Methodist Church was held on Wednesday, September 13, at the home of Mrs. Offa Williamson, 7th Line, Cavan, with about thirty members and visitors present. The warmth of the welcome extended by the hostess made the guests forget the unpleasant weather out of doors, for although the rain had poured steadily down all day, yet the cars which were provided conveyed them to the place of meeting with but little inconvenience except to the drivers, who had the slippery condition of the roads to contend with. The president, Mrs. S. T. Tucker, was in the chair, and after the opening worship period, Mrs. Hilliard Lang gave a reading, "The Unused Gifts," which was much appreciated, and Miss A. Stewart read an account of the life and work of the late Mrs. (Rev.) W. E. Smith, of China, prepared by two fellow-missionaries, Rev. Kenneth Beaton and Mrs. (Rev.) Sibley. A recitation, 'The Orphanhood of Heathen,' by Miss A. Hampton, and some appropriate music brought this part of the programme to a close. The membership contest resulted as follows: West End (Miss Hampton, captain), members present 12, dues paid 16, new members 1—total 28. East End (Miss S. Hetherington, captain), members present 8, dues 13, new members 2—total 21. West End won by 7 points. Mrs. (Dr.) Mitchell, Dr. Wallace, Mrs. W. Larmer and Mrs. Chester Fee assisted Mrs. Williamson in serving refreshments during the social hour. A hearty vote of thanks to the hostess for her hospitality, and to those who had given the use of their cars, was moved by Miss S. Hetherington, seconded by Mrs. C. W. Richards, and responded to by a vigorous clapping of the hands by all present. Mrs. Williamson made a brief reply, expressing her pleasure in having the Auxiliary meet in her home, and extending an invitation to repeat the visit at some future date. Those who furnished cars were: Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Messrs. G. W. Sayles, O. Williamson, A. J. Brown and A. Johnston.

Those present included: Mrs. Tucker, Mrs. G. Freelove, Mrs. J. Todd, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Elmer, Mrs. Burnham, Mrs. J. Turner, Miss P. Byam, Miss A. Hampton, Mrs. C. W. Richards, Mrs. W. Attended Funeral.

Rev. H. B. Kenny, of Campbellford, was in the village on Tuesday and attended the funeral of the late George Locke, taking part in the service at the church. Mr. Kenny spent four years on the Millbrook circuit, and was able to speak in the highest appreciation of Mr. Locke's faithfulness to the interests of the church during his term as pastor. Rev. Mr. Tucker preached from the text, "For we know that if this earthly house of our tabernacle be dissolved, we have an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens," and both he and Rev. J. Wilks also referred to the loyalty of the deceased, in life and service, to the best interests of the church, and of the Kingdom. The Masonic brethren who acted as pall-bearers were: William Fisher, Peterborough; T. J. Lang, T. H. Bradley, M. Todd, R. Paterson and C. Thorndyke.

COAL.

Whether you will have enough coal this winter depends more on railroads than on mines. The mines can produce enough soft coal. Getting it hauled to consumers will be a bigger job than the railroads have ever done.

The only permanent solution of the fuel power is to put the nation on an electrical basis, power generated by burning coal at the mines A starving man, however, isn't helped by knowledge that food will be plentiful 20 years from now.

LINDSAY MAN DROWNED IN SCUGOG LAKE

Dan Sinclair, Head of Sinclair Carriage Works, Thought to Have Overbalanced From Launch

PROMINENT CITIZEN

LINDSAY, Sept. 18. — His hat found in his stranded motor launch at the mouth of the Scugog River in the early hours of this morning, there seems no doubt that Dan Sinclair, manager of the well-known Sinclair Carriage Works, Lindsay, lost his life by drowning Sunday evening.

On Sunday morning Mr. Sinclair left home in his launch for the purpose of closing up his summer cottage at Scugog Lake for the season. Late in the afternoon he phoned Mrs. Sinclair that he was then leaving for home, and that was the last word heard from the missing man. Not having reached Lindsay by midnight, his family grew alarmed, and a 'phone call was sent in to Janetville C.P.R. Station on the shore of Scugog, asking that enquiries be instituted as to Mr. Sinclair's whereabouts. A search party was at once organized by Janetville people, with the result that his launch was discovered stranded at the mouth of the Scugog River. The missing man's hat was found in the boat, but no other clue as to what had happened its owner was in evidence.

As the water here is choke full of weeds, giving much trouble to launches travelling it, the supposition is entertained that Mr. Sinclair, in reaching over the stern of his motor boat to release its propellor from weedy obstruction, lost his balance, well overboard, and was drowned.

The searching party is still combing both lake and river, expecting to find the body of the missing man every moment, for there seems to be not the shadow of doubt that he has met his death either in the river or the lake.

Dan. Sinclair was the son of the late Dougald Sinclair, of Lindsay, who passed away a few months ago, when he succeeded his father as head of the carriage works of their name. He was 53 years of age, and is survived by his wife and one child. Well-known and highly respected in this town and district, he was a prominent member of fraternal societies, and a former member of Lindsay's baseball team in the eighties. He also enjoyed a large circle of friends and acquaintances in Peterborough city and district.

WOMAN COULD NOT WORK

Made Strong and Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Paul, Minn.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a tired, worn-out feeling and painful periods. I used to get up with a pain in my head and pains in my lower parts and back. Often I was not able to do my work. I read in your little book about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have taken it. I feel so well and strong and can do every bit of my work and not a pain in my back now. I recommend your medicine and you can use this letter as a testimonial." — Mrs. PHIL. MAHER, 801 Winslow St., St. Paul, Minn.

Just another case where a woman found relief by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Many times these tired, worn-out feelings and pains about the body are from troubles many women have. The Vegetable Compound is especially adapted for just this condition. The good results are noted by the disagreeable symptoms passing away—one after another.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a Woman's Medicine for Women's Ailments. Always reliable.

Stinnes Get Cities to Invest Money in His Industrial Schemes

By MILTON BRONNER.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—"Every little pfennig added to what you've got makes just a little bit more," seems to be the favorite motto of Hugo Stinnes, the uncrowned king of German business.

Like some of our own American business men, he early found the formula to convert coal into gas or electric power or set it to pumping water and you will soon have entire communities pouring their money into your coffers. There are syndicates in America which own and control all kinds of public utilities, but it is doubtful whether any of them found such a fat field as Stinnes has discovered.

Ruhr Is Ideal Location.

The coal is right there in the Ruhr. It doesn't have to be hauled for miles before being available. So coal is cheap. In the next place the Ruhr valley and the neighboring country is studded with large busy manufacturing towns in which most of the people are workers either in mines or steel and iron mills. Consequently they are highly paid laborers, live in comfortable homes and want all the conveniences of electric lighting, abundant water supply, and gas for cooking purposes. Furthermore, the entire region is a network of street car systems and of electric narrow gauge railways which haul material from mill to mill.

Twenty-five years ago Stinnes became active in forming several companies to undertake this public utility and as usual with Stinnes concerns they were finally combined into the big Rhenish-Westphalian Electricity Works Corporation.

Its present field is enormous. It covers a region from the Dutch frontiers as far south as Ahrtal and is especially strong around Dusseldorf, Cologne, Dortmund, Essen and Bochum. In several places its electric power plants actually stand at the edge of coal mines, so the fuel goes from pit to boiler.

Gets Cities to Invest.

The electric plants not only supply lights for many cities of the Ruhr and for the illumination of big mines, but also the power used in the street railways, most of which are owned and operated by the municipalities. Stinnes cleverly got the town fathers to invest municipal money in the Rhenish-Westphalian.

Thus the towns have a decided interest in the prosperity of the corporation. As consumers they buy electric current for their street lighting and their street railways. As stockholders they participate in the considerable profits of the company. This is true of big cities like Essen, Mulheim, Ruhrort, Solingen, Gelsenkirchen and all the other steel towns of which one heard so much during the war.

The company has also gone extensively into the gas business. In the past ten years it has erected and still owns the gas plants for about 25 cities in the Ruhr region.

Acquires Lignite.

It also constructed and partly owns a considerable number of water reservoirs. The far-seeing Stinnes also brought into the concern the big lignite company of Bruehl. This not only gave him another immense electric power station, but assured the combine an annual supply of 9,000,000 tons of lignite. The last available report showed that the Rhenish-Westphalian produced the tremendous yearly sum of 626 million kilowatt-hours of energy. Of this 260 millions were used by its own street railways and similar organizations.

Going into southern Germany, Stinnes acquired a big interest in the South German Railway Corporation of Darmstadt. This concern owns street railway systems in 15 German cities.

As the big figure in the Siemens-Rhine-Elbe-Schuckert Union, Stinnes also derives income from still other municipalities. This last named corporation owns power stations in Turingia and the Harz mountains, electric light plants in Mannheim and street railways in Vienna, Elberfeld, Barmen and Wurzburg, besides which it owns a big share in the Berlin underground railway system.

In his next story Bronner tells of Stinnes' great shipping interests and of the "trick ships" he now is building in an effort to corner Russia's trade.

Go To Jungles For Beauty, Woman Nimrod Advises

By MARIAN HALE.

Women are natural born hunters, or are alleged to be, but most of them prefer to stalk their prey within the confines of civilization.

An exception is Mrs. Harry K. Eustace of London, now on a visit to America, who has shot with her camera, as well as her gun, all sorts of interesting wild animals while her husband, an explorer, has been adding to the collection of the Zoological Society of London.

As a place to learn poise, study human nature, and likewise attain beauty, Mrs. Eustace recommends the jungles of Africa, into which she has penetrated further than any other woman.

"When you have looked a rhinoceros, lion or tiger squarely in the face and convinced him that you are a tree or a stationary object instead of a nice, toothsome tidbit, you aren't afraid to face human beings," she says.

* * *

And when you analyze the matter you find animals and humans both respond to the same attributes in others—dignity and fearlessness. If people think you are afraid, they impose on you. If you show fear to an animal, he shows power.

"I believe animals, however, are much more quick to sense fear vibrations than people. I think they are as conscious of them as they are of our particular human odor, which they hate.

"I would teach a child fearlessness above all other characteristics. I believe it is one's best equipment for dealing with all problems with all people as well as facing physical danger.

"While I can face jungle animals without fear, I cannot yet look upon a little crawling earwig without a feeling of repulsion, all because a stupid nurse taught me to be afraid of them.

"Kill or get killed is the law of the jungle, but I have never yet killed any living thing except in self-defense. In the jungle they call me 'Catessi Moya,' meaning 'One Shot.'

* * *

"I can tame any animal, even a snake. There was my favorite black and yellow python, Jehosophat, the only snake I believe that ever had his meals served to him in a hotel in New Zealand.

"I used to sit by his cage and play the mandolin for him. Pretty soon he would coil affectionately about my wrists. I kept him with me for a year and a half until he died from a cold.

"You have no idea how little time or inclination one has for 'nerves' in the jungle. Petty trifles just naturally disappear in the face of the big elemental things you face there.

MRS. HARRY K. EUSTACE AND HER PET PYTHON.

"My skin gets as brown as that of a native, but the outdoor life keeps it smooth and soft, and when we get back to civilization and it bleaches out I find I haven't a wrinkle or a blemish."

Mrs. Eustace has a number of interesting recipes for food. Elephant tail soup is much more tasty than our own ox-tail soup, she says.

She has a country home and a city home in England, a suite at the Hotel Astor in New York, but she is impatient to get back to Africa where she has spent most of her time the last 12 years.

"There's no place so much like home as the jungle," she says.

LIVESTOCK PARADE ON SATURDAY IMPRESSIVE SYMBOL OF EXHIBITION

Prize-Winning Cattle and Horses in Splendid Array Demonstrated to Last Day's Crowd the Progress and Importance of Peterborough's Fair.

ATTENDANCE RECORD

The attendance at the exhibition for the four days made a new record of 25,278, the total for the four days, as compared with 24,678 last year, a gain of 596. The actual paid admission this year weree 21,549, but this number does not include the 3,725 children who were admitted free for the first time. This open house to the young folks was a departure which the Exhibition Board decided upon a few weeks prior to the Fair, and which pleased the directors in its results as much as it did the children.

Saturday's paid admissions numbered 5,696, most of which were for the afternoon the night crowd being negligible .The directors realized after Thursday that with two of the days marred by rain it was almost impossible to make up the loss suffered by the unfavorable weather on Wednesday and Thursday, but when Mr. Fowler's staff announced their total returns Saturday night everybody was highly gratified, and the final opinion was that in spite of the unavoidable handicap imposed by the weather man the 1922 results were in all respects the best yet achieved.

The Livestock Parade

The outstanding feature of Saturday afternoon's program was the parade of beribboned prize-winning cattle and horses. Pedigreed stock led by their owners and attendants filed past the grandstand at 1.30 o'clock symbolizing in the long, impressive array all that the Peterboro Agricultural Exhibition exists for. The animate wealth of the farms of Midland Ontario were represented in that procession. Dairy and beef cattle and the dual purpose classes, heavy draught horses, roadsters and carriage types too, all the stock of which the progressive farmers of this part of Ontario are justly proud, were strung out in a line that demonstrated to the thousands of spectators the chief purpose of the Exhibition, and suggested its actual and potential influence upon the farming community of this section of the province.

The Board's Ideal

During the years of his successful presidency of the Exhibition, Mr. Denne has reiterated that its chief object was as an incentive to farmers to breed better stock, to grow better fruits and grains and vegetables, and, through the spirit of competition and pride in production, steadily to improve their farms and thereby to further their own agricultural and financials interests and to increase the wealth of this country. This has been the ideal of the Exhibition Board. It has been the goal to which the directors have worked, and the lodestar of their unflagging efforts. With the display of livestock poultry, grains and fruits this year Peterboro's show has made good its boast that it had attained a place among the first rank of the Fairs in this country.

Many of the exhibits were not surpassed anywhere, and most of them were of excellent quality while in point of numbers a new high mark was made for 1923 to aim at.

Deficiency Emphasized

The Fair directors have been trying to emphasize to the people of this city and district that the expansion of the Exhibition now depends upon the facilities and accommodation offered to exhibitors. The cattle building with its limited room must convince all those who recognize the benefits of the Fair that this building is inadequate. And so is the horse barn. But new buildings cost considerable money. The people have been loyal in their co-operation, but the revenues have not been sufficient to permit the directors to launch upon the construction programme they have mentally mapped out. Business men and many citizens and farmers have contributed to special funds during the last few years, and it has been largely due to this source and means that the directors have been able to provide the buildings that have been erected. In other words the exhibition plant is deficient accommodation, and this situation was nover more apparent than this year. It was an observation that must have impressed most of the visitors, even as it did the exhibitors, some of whom remarked that proper accommodation is the only need at Peterboro's show. It is referred to now as a reminder to the public of—first the Exhibition Board's accomplishments, and again, of the problem that confronts them for next year, if Peterboro is to maintain its leadership and enlarge its influence throughout Midland Ontario.

The Tug O' War

The tug o' war for the Denne Cup was won by the recently organized South End Garage team who defeated the North Smith, Emily and Fred Jopling's teams, in a great display of brawn and sinew. The Jopling team, winners last year, won the first pull, but were overcome in the next two. The South End Garage crew, who assumed the name from Gene Hurtubise's shop at the corner of Stewart and Townsend street, trotted out as hefty a string of heavers as could be selected from the whole city. Their anchor man was Bill Smyth, ex-policeman who was almost immovable, and the rest of the line up were ene Hurtubise and A. Hurtubise, Bruce Menzies, Jack Murphy, Jim Murphy, Bob Simpson M. James, M. Dubey and R. McKee with Ryan, Smith and M. Coughlin as spares, and Jerry Coughlin coach. There were so satisfied with their performance that they propose to challenge the Toronto Police team.

The Drawing Competition

Director Bob Grandy's special interest was the drawing contest which brought out so many teams that it was twilight before the winners were decided. This test of the pulling power of horses made such a hit with the crowd that the majority of the grandstand and ringside spectators remained to the finish, and cheered loudly the gamest teams.

In the heavy class there were seven entries. The stoneboat was loaded with three tons of iron and the time allotted to each team was four minutes. The winners were as follows:—

1—Wm. White, North Monaghan, 60 feet.

2.—A. Henderson, 27 feet 10 in.

3—George Mcharry, 24 feet 8 in.

The best performance was accomplished by a team driven by "Sandy" McManus which hauled the 6,000 pounds of dead weight 69 feet, 6 in. A little misunderstanding arose over the fact that this team was not owned by one man as required, according to the explanation of several directors. One horse belonged to Mr. McManus and the other to Mr. Jopling However, although this entry might been ruled out on a technicality the directors decided to recognize the work of the team by giving the owners $20, the same amount as the first prize. Other entrants were Ed. Cooney, Peterboro, Wm. Hooten, Cavan and James McManus, Lakefield.

The load in the light class was 5,000 pounds and time was the same four minutes. The winners were:—

1.—W. Simpson, Douro, 164 feet 8 inches.

2.—Ed. Lynch, Claraday, 124 feet 6 inches.

3.—W. Stinson, Harvey street, 115 feet 8 inches.

The other contestants were A. R. White, Wm. Milne, Wm. Harrison, Smith township, John McManus, Smith, R. Manley, city, and Braden Bell, Smith.

This competition was one of the interesting features of the Saturday programme, and was conducted in a manner that was free from objection. No whips were allowed, and apparently the horses were not urged beyond their strength. The winning teams dug their hoofs into the sward and pulled together in a way that suggested a reserve power developed by their daily work, while the other teams evidently were not accustomed to such strenuous labour.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE.

If she tosses out a rose that means she looks on him with favor and he may approach her parents or let the priest be his representative.

If they are agreeable he may call upon her, but never sees her alone. She is chaperoned until the marriage ceremony is over.

WINNERS OF OAT SHEAF CONTEST AT EXHIBITION

Increased Number of Fine Entries This Year

NORTH MONAGHAN, Sept. 18.—A special feature open to farm young ladies at the Peterborough Exhibition was the decorated oat sheaf competition held by W. H. Merrel. That more interest was evinced in this event this year than last, was shown by the increased number of entries. Last year only three competitors entered; this year there were eight.

This display reflected credit on the artistic talent of the young ladies. Flags, flowers, fruit, ribbons and maple leaves were the principal decorations, while one sheaf carried the inscription, "Pet. I. Ex., 1922," worked in rowan berries. Judging, the size and quality of the sheaf had much to do with the final decisions.

Those who won the prizes were: 1st, Miss Grace Kelk, Springville; 2nd, Miss Johnston, Springville; 3rd Miss Eulah Hancock, Smith.

Next year, Mr. Merrel hopes that more will enter the contest, and make it a greater success than ever.

A display which was of much interest to farmers was held in the tent occupied by Mr. Heard, and was under the supervision of W. H. Merrel. At the door representative sheaves of corn from the fields of Rev. Father McColl, East City, and Messrs. John Mortimer, Douro; Wm. Brown, Smith; Goodfellow Bros., North Monaghan, and Wilbert Bell, Smith, all sheaves measuring 12 feet in height. Sudan grass and Huban sweet clover were also on display.

Inside, cowhorn turnips, Canadian Gem turnips, Sludstrip mangles and Early Rose potatoes were shown, and were certainly a credit to the growers, their magnificence dispelling all doubts as to the purity of the seed.

Worthy of comment were the fine samples of oats grown around this district, New Victory, Imperial and Roval Banner being the choicest varieties.

Some fine samples of Soy beans grown by S. Jay attracted some attention, as there are very few of that variety grown around Peterborough. This display reflects great credit on W. H. Merrel, who is doing much to introduce good seeds to local growers.

ST. LOUIS, September 18 (Canadian Press). — Hubert "Shucks" Pruett, phenomenal young pitcher for the St. Louis Browns, held the New York Yankees to five scattered hits, and struck out eight visiting batsmen, and the Browns yesterday climbed back to within half a game of the leading Yanks by defeating them 5 to 1 in the second game of a three-ply series.

His single broke the record created by Ty Cobb of Detroit in 1911, when Cobb hit in forty straight games.

COMRADES FELL TO QUAKER OATS

Fast Football Game at King Edward Park Results in 3 to 1 Victory For the Quakers.

Quaker Oats football team defeated the Comrades, 3 to 1, in a league game played at King Edward Park Saturday afternoon. Comrades started short handed and remained so throughout the game, owing to the fact that some of the players did not get the notices of the game.

The play was interesting all the way, the exchange being very even, and both teams playing well. Comrades scored first, Craig taking up a pass from Hansen and beating Griffin from close in. The Quakers failed to score in the first period.

In the second half the Quakers had the best of the play, and in fifteen minutes Foster put the teams on even terms. A few minutes later G. Logan got a second goal past Fenner with a low shot. The last and best goal of the game also came from G. Logan, the centre forward beating the defence and giving Fenner no chance to save.

The teams were:

Quakers—Griffin, Honour, R. Willshaw, Mahewett, Clark, Henburn, W. Logan, J. Willshaw, G. Logan, Croft and Foster.

Comrades — Fenner, Anderson, Brown, Jackson, Hoggarth, Sayes, Hansen, Shaw, Craig and Abraham.

Referee—J. Clark.

BELLEVILLE ON TOP IN SECOND SECTION OF C.O.B.L. SCHEDULE

Trunks Took First Half of Double-Header and Let Leaside Have the Second

PLAYED AT COBOURG.

Belleville cinched the championship of the second hali of the Central Ontario League race on Saturday when they defeated Leaside in the first game of the double-header at Cobourg by 8 runs to 4, thus setting up a new league record of ten straight wins. They were beaten 8 to 5 in the second game, but the loss did not effect the section honours.

Leaside beat themselves in the first game by dumb work on the bases and one bad fielding innings. Williams, Belleville's Indian southpaw, was wild, hitting four men and passing an equal number, while he slipped in a couple of wild pitches and was guilty of a balk as well, but the Leaside crew refused to wait him out. On top of that they balled up a squeeze play and several hit and run plays just when they were in a good position to score. "Lefty" Maguire, on the rubber for Leaside, pitched a much steadier game than his opponent and deserved to win.

Leaside threw away a chance in the first innings when with two out Mahoney poled a long triple to right. He tried to stretch it into a homer and was out by a block at the plate.

There was no scoring until the third, when Belleville bagged three. With one down Casey singled to left and J. H. Williams was hit. Weirs' solid single to centre sent Casey in and Williams to third. Ross rolled to Lennon, whose throw to the plate was too plate to get Williams. Weir going to third. Mills' sacrifice fly scored Weir, after which Harry Mills flied to right.

Leaside got two back in their half. With one gone Halsey was hit, Maguire sacrificed him to second, Jones walked, Hoose's single to centre scored Halsey, and when Mills let the throw get away Jones also counted. Mahoney struck out.

The Durant gang tied the score in the fourth. Murray beat out a perfect bunt and went to second on a balk. Dillon beat out a slow roller to third, Murray going to third, from which station he scored on a wild pitch. Shaw walked. Williams was up in the air at this stage, but when Lennon failed to hit ou a hit and run play and Dillon was an easy out at third, he came back to earth. Lennon popped to Harry Mills and Halsey fanned, and the Indian was out of a bad hole.

Belleville increased their lead in the fifth. Williams singled through the box, Weir walked and Ross singled to centre, filling the bases. W. Mills angled through short, scoring Williams and Weir. Harry Mills hit into a fast double play, Lennon to Dillon, and Murray tossed out J. K. Williams.

Leaside got one back in their half, and should have had more. Maguire walked to start with and was sacrificed to second by Jones. Hoose was hit. Mahoney doubled over Hagerman's head, scoring Maguire and sending Hoose to third. A squeeze play went wrong at this stage when Murray failed to hit, and Hoose was an easy out at the plate. Murray fanned to retire the side.

There was nothing more doing until the eighth, when Belleville got three runs on one hit. Billy Mills got a life on Maguire's fumble of his bunt, but was caught off first, Hoose to Dillon. H. Mills was safe on Mahoney's miss, and J. K. Williams singled to left. Meagher sacrificed the play along. Hagerman rolled to Murray, who fumbled and then threw badly to first, Mills and Williams scoring. Lennon missed Casey's roller and Hagerman scored. J. H. Williams' fly to centre wounded up the innings.

There was no excitement over the second game. Mallen, who pitched for Belleville, had nothing on the ball but the cover and Leaside combed him hard, Murray leading the way with a home run and a triple. Hines, who pitched the first two innings for Leaside, and Shaw, who finished the game, did not show very much either but Belleville could only collect five hits of their delivery. Shaw caught the first two innings and then finished the game on the rubber.

Belleville gave Billy Mills a rest, using Hagerman as catcher, but Mills got into the game as a pinch hitter before it was over and finished in left field.

Diamond Dust

Belleville's victory over Leaside in the first game Saturday afternoon put the Trunks safely in first place for the second half. They will meet the Petes in Belleville Wednesday afternoon for the first game of the final series to decide the Central League champions.

* * *

The Adanac-C.G.E. game Saturday afternoon nearly proved disastrous for the Intermediate city champions.

The final standing for the second half of the Central League schedule shows Peterborough in third position.

Bowmanville, a newcomer in the league, who was not expected to show at all, finished up in sixth place with six victories.

A sarcastic St. Louis fan writes: "You can say for us out here that we will give the Yanks a good trimming next summer anyway, for there isn't another ball player left in Boston they can use."

C.G.E. WENT TEN FRAMES TO WIN

Intermediates Needed An Extra Inning to Defeat the Junior Champion Adanacs.

The Adanacs threw a great surprise into the C.G.E. nine in the exhibition game at Riverside Park Saturday afternoon, and the Intermediate champions went into the tenth inning to grab the necessary run to give them a 7 to 6 victory.

McElroy started for the electricians and had a very bad start at that, for when the smoke cleared up after the first innings the Junior champions had sent six runs across the plate. McElroy went two more innings, holding his opponents scoreless, and was relieved by Abbie Rose in the fourth. Rose was hit freely, but the Adanacs lacked the necessary punch to send the runs across after the men were on the bases, and did not score for the remainder of the game.

Turner started for the Adanacs and turned in a good game. He was relieved by Shaughnessey at the end of the sixth frame in order to give both twirlers a chance on the rubber. The score was then 6 to 4. Shaughnessey also pitched a good game and in one inning fanned Ross, Rose and Primeau, the three heaviest hitters against him, but he could not overcome the errors committed by his teammates, and in the eighth the C.G.E. sent in the run to tie the score. Both teams went scoreless in the ninth, but in the tenth, after Shaughnessey fielded an easy grounder, Hardill dropped the throw at first and the runner scored later for the winning run when Fanning misjudged a fly to the field.

Both Turner and Shaughnessey pitched good ball, and if the game had gone on their merits only, the Adanacs would have had an easy victory. Numerous errors, however, crept in where they would do the most damage and the hits were not made when they would have done the most good.

Batteries — Adanacs: Turner, Shaughnessey and Wilgar. C.G.E.: McElroy, Rose and Ross.

Umpires—LeBarr and Holyman.

LEAFS TO HAVE NEW MANAGER NEXT YEAR

Eddie Onslow Declines to Accept Duties of Manager Again. His Successor Has Not Been Chosen.

Eddie Onslow will not manage the Toronto Leafs next season—that much is certain. Eddie asked to be relieved from the onerous duties attached to the managerial pay envelope some time ago, and it was only at the very earnest request of President Lol Solomon that he was finally induced to remain. Who will be his successor is a matter for conjecture, but among the names that have been circulating among the bleacherites as possibilities for the position is that of Joe Kelly, now a scout for the Yanks and a former successful manager of Toronto's aspirations in the baseball world. Joe was by far the most popular manager that ever stood at the helm of the Maple Leafs and piloted them to a pennant. Dan Howley, another man who led the Leafs to a pennant victory, has been suggested. Dan is now with the Detroit Tigers seconding the efforts of Ty Cobb, and as the Tigers have an eye on next year's pennant it is doubtful if he will be released.

Others have been mentioned for the job, but these two are the most prominent. One thing is practically certain—a non-player will be the manager next year.

The failure of the Leafs to come out on top or even near the top after the great start they made cannot be blamed entirely to Onslow's work as manager. Misfortune and bad luck dogged his footsteps from the start of the season. He at times did not use the necessary firmness with his players, and there was a weak spot over on the third sack that should have been filled. These are items for which he must shoulder the blame, but the trouble with Devine, the accidents to Gonzales and Jones which kept these players off the diamond for almost one-third of the playing season, the recall of Singleton (his only undefeated twirler at the time) to the Phillies and Sam Vick's failure to deliver the goods were all powerful circumstances in the downward course of the Leafs which were entirely beyond his control.

His own sensational work at first base and the manner in which he wielded the willow did much to keep the Leafs from going even lower than fifth place.

CITY'S BOAST THE COUNTRY'S GLORY

Great Men in Baseball Have Come From the Pasture Lots of the Small Villages.

It is the same in baseball as it is in any other line of endeavor, the cities provide the seeting, the country towns provide the men. While they don't horn into the headlines much to speak of, if it wasn't for the rural villagers, cities would be just an audience with nothing to cheer. So that's that.

Factoryville, Pa., provided a Mathewson for New York to boast about; Humboldt, Kan., gave a Walter Johnston for Washington to go dippy over; Hubbard City, Tex., sent a Tris Speaker to lead Cleveland to baseball glory; Paw Paw, Mich., gave Chicago fans a Bill Killifer to cheer; St. Paul, Neb., gave them an Alexander; Alemda, Cal., shipped the cities a Dutch Reuther; Kingston, Mo., was responsible for Zack Wheat; Royston, Ga., gave Ty Cobb to the baseball world; Limestone, Tenn., gave if Tilly Walker; Trappe, Md., gave the cities Frank Baker to rave about; Mansfield, Mo., contributed a Carl Mays; Auburn, Md., chipped in with an Everett Scott; Winters, Tex., was the birthplace of Rogers Hornsby, in spite of all the St. Louis cheers; and Tipton, Ind., produced Babe Adams.

Millertown, N. Y., sent Eddie Collins to the big leagues for fans to go wild over; Llewellyn, Pa., gave Jake Daubert to Brooklyn and Cincinnati; Larry Gardner hails from Enosburg Falls, Vt., and Santa Clara, Cal., gave the populace Harry Hooper; Linden, Tenn., sent Clyde Milan to Washington, and Fitchburg, Mass., contributed Pat Moran to win pennants for Philadelphia and Cincinnati; Collinsville, Ill., is responsible for Art Fletcher; Ausable, Mich., gave Jack Fourner to St. Louis, and Wilson's Mills, S.C., gave the same city Dixie Davis; Gloucester, Mass., produced "Stuffy" McInnnis and "Si" Perkins; Walhalla, S.C., presented Del Pratt to the baseball community; Harvel, Ill., contributed the wonderful Ray Schalk to Chicago; Wales, N. Y., gave Wally Schang to Philadelphia and New York; Wadena, Ind., sent "Cy" Williams into the National League to make home runs; Cascade, Ia., contributed Urban Faber to Chicago, and in spite of all the gloating that St. Louis is doing over the baseball feats of George Sisler, it was the village of Nimisila, Ohio, that contributed George Sisler to the baseball world.

Long Distance a Saving

Not an Expense

"What is this charge for $21.60 for Long Distance telephoning in your expense account?" said the Sales Manager of the Blank Manufacturing Company to one of their wide-awake salesmen, "Pretty steep, isn't it?"

"Depends on how you look at it. I thought you might raise some question, so I figured out how much actual saving for the firm that Long Distance telephoning represented:—4 days salary, $40.83, Railroad fares $18.70, Hotel $15.00, a total of $74.53. Deducting the $21.60 you have an actual cash saving to the firm of $52.93—to say nothing of the extra sales I made in the time saved."

More and more sales and accounting officials are beginning to realize that instead of being an extra expense, Long Distance actually saves money and valuable time when intelligently used.

"Use the Bell to Sell"—or to buy. Most good salesmen realize that Station-to-Station calls often answer just as well as the more expensive Person-to-Person messages.

HEAVY HITTING HILLCRESTS CLOUT OUT WIN AT SUDBURY

SUDBURY, Sept 18—The Hillcrests, of Toronto, won the first of the series of O.B.A.A. elimination games from Sudbury, champions of the Nickel Belt League, by a score of 13 to 8 here Saturday afternoon. The Toronto champions secured their thirteen run by gathering thirteen hits and being presented with thirteen passes by the local twirlers.

Bill Burroughs, the star southpaw pitcher, had to retire owing to a sore arm in the first inning, and was followed by Duncan, a 17-year-old lad, who pitched for four innings, and had to give way to Dufresne owing to wildness. The latter was almost as ineffective as his predecessors. With good pitching the Northerners would have given Hillcrests a lively battle, as "Cannonball" Scott lacked control, and his support was erratic.

The Nickel Belt champions are confident that both Burroughs and Duncan will be in shape for the return game in Toronto next Saturday when the yexpect to turn the tables on the Hillcrests. The score—

Hillcrests 20233102	0—13	13	3
Sudbury 32020010	0— 8	7	1

Batteries—Scott and Hennessey; Burroughs, Duncan, Dufrense and Flynn. Walmsley.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You are courteous not only to your friends, but to people in general.

If a stranger accidentally stumbles over your feet in the street car, or is pushed against you in a crowd you should politely acknowledge his excuses and not ignore him or give him a stony stare.

No woman is truly polite who cannot be gracious even when she is inconvenienced or annoyed.

GRAND—Evans' Musical Revue in a fine programme. An all star cast cast of 25 artists. Chorus of ten dainty girls.

ROYAL — William Farnum in the thrilling "Stage Romance", Al. St. John in "All Wet" an irresistible comedy. Mutt and Jeff in "The Ghostly Wallop", news of the World; Special Western Picture.

AT THE ROYAL.

WILLIAM FARNUM HERE IN 'A STAGE ROMANCE"

"A Stage Romance", generally conceded to be, from every standpoint, William Farnum's most notable picture, will be seen at the Royal Theatre to-night. Seldom does a single picture have such a combination of interesting elements as "A Stage Romance". The presence of Farnum as the star, of course, is a powerful factor, and the story in which he appears is one of remarkable dramatic possibilities. The picture was adapted from a play by Alexandre Dumas, the elder, and reveals a period in the life of Edmund Kean, the greatest of English actors, when he was at the height of his brilliant though eccentric career.

Another feature of intense interest to students of the drama is the reproduction of the far-famed Drury Lane Theatre, used in some of the scenes. Here Farnum delights his devotees by assuming several of the classic roles associated with his career on the stage.

Several actors and actresses conspicuous in the annals of the stage and motion pictures appear in support of Farnum, Among these are Holmes Herbert, the so-called "aristocrat of the screen", who enacts the role of the Prince of Wales; Paul McAllister, a Broadway matinee idol; Peggy Shaw, as the leading woman; and little Ruth Goodwin niece of Nat Goodwin. Herbert Brenon was the director of "A Stage Romance".

AT THE GRAND.

The patrons of the popular Grand Opera House this week will have the splendid Evans Musical Revue, starting on its third week of fun-making. Jimmie Evans has created a wonderful following to the Grand during the past two weeks, and it is doubtful if anyone who has witnessed the performances in that time have enjoyed a better evening's entertainment. Not only is the performance clean cut in the extreme, but it is snappy and refreshing from start to finish. Up to date every change in the programme has been entirely new from the one preceding it, not one number has been repeated, and Mr. Evans promises there wont be any repeats in anything, scenery, costumes, dancing or musical numbers, during his entire stay in Peterborough.

The Revue for the first 3 nights and Wednesday matinee is entitled "Let's Go," and Mr. Evans considers this revue one of the best in his repertoire. The revue is preceded by a one-act Irish farce, lasting about 25 minutes, in which some of the best songs and dances of Chauncey Olcott, Walter Scanlan and Andrew Mack are introduced, followed by the regular Revue, with all new numbers, costumes and scenery.

On Thursday next, on account of the wonderful dramatic attraction of Mr. Chas. S. Gilpin in "The Emperor Jones" being booked in the Grand, the change of programme of the Evan's Company will take place on Friday night, with the usual children's matinee on Saturday, when Jimmie will have all the school children singing with him again." This is a treat which everyone should see and hear.

Adolph Klauber, notel for the high calibre of his presentations, will offer the dramatic novelty of the season, Eugene O'Neill's startling drama. "The Emperor Jones" with the great actor, Charles S. Gilpin as the Emperor at the Grand, Thursday, September 21st.

"The Emperor Jones" is a new style of play written along original lines, and brings to the theatre a novel method of dramatic construction which probably will be used as a precedent by authors of the future. It ran for an entire season at the Princess Theatre, New York and also had extended runs in Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago. The work of Mr. Gilpin in the leading role, made him famous after the first performance of the play in New York. The play reevals the awfulness of a conscience weighted with sinful deeds, the Emperor passes through every mental and bodily terror that can be imagined, and it is reported that this new star in the theatrical firmament, runs the whole gamut of human emotions, until it seems to the spectator that realism and not acting is before him on thes tage. Mr. Gilpin is acclaimed by America's leading critics as a great actor, and is ranked by the Drama League as one of the 10 greatest actors in the world.

CHARLES S. GILPIN.

IN the visit of CHARLES S. GILPIN, next Thursday, Sept. 21st; Peterboro will get the most outstanding Dramatic Event in the History of the stage of this City, and the performance of Mr. Gilpin, the greatest piece of acting since the days of Edwin Booth. I urge appreciation of this booking by capacity attendance because of the above facts, and to make possible the booking of other notable New York original casts in future.

Wallace Reid Runs Gauntlet of Adventures to Win Revolution and Girl in Romantic Picturization of Richard Harding Davis Story at the Capitol Tonight.

Wallace Reid, Paramount star, supported by Lila Lee, leading woman; Theodore Kosloff, Walter Long, Alan Hale, Kalla Pasha and other screen notables, is giving the public five delicious reels of fun, excitement, romance and revolution in "The Dictator" based on the famous play by the late Richard Harding Davis, in which Willie Collier scored a distict suc ess several years ago.

The story shows how a young American fall in love with the pretty daughter of a South American "liberator" follows her south and there becomes enrolled in a revolution of which her father is the instigator, not knowing that his own father, the baana king, is on the other side for business and political reasons. He win the revolution, the girl ond his father's profound respect after a series of exciting adventures which fairly brim with suspense, mystery, conspiracy, fighting and delightful humor.

When a big motion picture troupe goes on location there is a whirlwind of activity, exemplifying the immense scope of motion picture production as an institution.

For example, see what was done when James Cruze, director, took Wallace Reid, Paramout star; Lila Lee his leading woman, and his company to a Southern California location to film South American scenes for "The Dictator".

It required all the spare rooms of four large hotels to provide accomodatins for the troupe which consisted of more than a hundred people, including staff, cast and extras.

Eleven hundred additional people were engaged by advertisment on the site of the work to play the pseudo-South American rebel and federal armies which has a battle in the story. These men were employed several days.

Large supplies of South American wardrobe and uniforms were taken down from the studio for the players and extras. The chief of the Lasky studio wardrobe and three of his assistants accompanied the unit, to check and take care of the wardrobe supplies.

The property man took along nine hundred guns from the studio prop room for use by the soldier-extras

Twenty carriages of the nobility type were secured in Los Angeles after the city had been scoured by property men and taken south to be used in the scenes. Horses were hired on the spot. More than two thousand spectators congregated every day to watch the filming of the scenes. The appearance of a motion picture troupe of such proportions in their city was an event. ?

The two armies were drilled for hours by former army officers They were kept in strict military formation when going from one location to another.

"THE LOVES OF PHARAOH" MOST GIGANTIC PICTURE PRODUCTION OF DECADE

With 112,000 Man and Women Taking Part in Battle Episodes, It Ranks Foremost Among Pictures to Date.

More persons are said to appear in "The Loves of Pharaoh" than in any other motion picture ever made The spectator sees 112,000 persons in this most tremendous production directed by Ernest Lubitsch, creator of "Passion" and "Deception". When Mr. Lubitsch announced at a luncheon in New York that 112000 persons appeared in "The Loves of Pharoah some of those who heard him were frankly skeptical. That was far more than were used in "Passion", "Deception" and "The Birth of a Nation" combined.

Mr. Lubitsch turned for corroboration to his manager, Paul Davidson, who showed a receipt from a theatrical agency for its commissions for furnishing 112,065 extras during the filming of the Paramount picture "The Loves of Pharaoh", which will be the feature at the Capitol theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

"We'll need 18,000 extras tomorrow," Mr. Lubitsch used to telephone, and the agency delivered them F.O.B. at the steamship landing at Lubitsch city, where the sands of the desert stretched as far as the eye could see between these reconstructed pyramids and sphinx and temples.

The extras were paid every evening at sundown as they filed back to the steamship that transported them from ancient Egypt to modern Europe. The paymaster's record show that he handed out wages to 112,065 persons during the ten months of the filming. Some of these extras, of course, appear more than once in the assembled scenes, now as Egyptian fighting men, again as part of the horde of invading Ethiopians. But members of the mob have so little individuality as they sweep like so many ants, across the vast expanses of sand, that even the director does not know whether a certain swarthy Ethiopian was last week also a less swarthy Egyptian.

The problem of transporting and feeding so many extras would in America have been a tremendous one, because here their pay averages $7.50 a day, with meals provided by the film company. But in Europe each player looks after his own provender.

Director Lubitsch, standing on a conning tower, near the cameramen, of which there were ten, stationed ten lieutenants at strategic points within the camera range. Each extra reported to one of these lieutenants, who, at a signal from the director, started the warriors on their brief fighting careers before the camera.

No one who has seen the results of the masterful Lubitsch direction in "The Loves of Pharaoh" doubts that there are really 112,000 persons in action, or more than live in the largest city of Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Idaho, Kansas, West Virginia, or Wyoming.

Little Lessons For the Golfer

(By George O'Neil.)

Many golfers spoil their chances for good shots by improperly executing the pivot. The pivot is an equal part of the golf trinity—grip, pivot and swing. I put it second because the swing cannot be productive of a far-flying ball unless the pivot is rightly accomplished. The turning of the body must be made at just the right time, when the club is being taken up, and the return swing of the body, on the down stroke of the club, must not get ahead of the clubhead.

Note in this mashie cut shot how Guilford holds back his body even for the short mashie distance. The diagram gives an approximate table of measurement for the stance in the mashie approach, though this table may not fit you exactly. More accuracy is obtained if the stance is opened up on shot iron approaches, the ball being played off the left heel.

The player should, I think, always indulge a few practice swings before starting his game, but he should be careful in this matter not to delay other players either at the tee or on the fairway. However, never rush the practice swing. If others are playing close up omit practice swings. When they are taken the player should strive to swing his clubhead at a fixed point of aim in such manner that the swings seems to be without conscious effort. The moment that effort creeps into the swing, good results are impossible. All that applies to the actual golf stroke applies to the practice swing. Remember that.

W. C. (Bill) Fownes, Jr., of Pittsburgh, one of the country's finest amateur players, was chosen as captain of the All-American team of amateur golfers to meet an All-British team on Long Island this month. Fownes, veteran of many championships and always a willing worker for the sole reward of spreading the popularity of golf, merited this distinction on the All-American team. His golf is of the best this country can produce.

(By Stuart P. West).

NEW YORK, September 18 — Wall Street got down to business this morning to find that a general and rather sharp decline in the security markets abroad and an equally general, although not so pronounced, drop in the foreign exchanges. French Government bonds in Paris and London were off a point to two points. British Consols were lower and sterling down 1 1-2 cents in the pound.

These evidences of concern over the political situation in the Near East, which had not appeared on Saturday, could not be ignored in the markets here. Over Saturday affairs had manifestly become more acute by the sensational British note, calling upon the Allies and the British Dominions to send forces to check the Turkish advance. Along with this were other warlike movements mentioned in to-day's news. Despite this news Wall Street was still inclined to believe that a peaceful settlement would be accomplished. However, that news over the week-end provided some pretty combustible material in a market which had been for a week or more visibly slowing up.

The grain markets—always the most sensitive of any to the suggestion of war—had another violent rise. Wheat options were up over 8 cents a bushel from where they left off on Thursday. The significance of this lay in the expected increase in the export demand should there come another clash with Europe. On the other hand a European war would curtail the foreign buying of cotton as it increased the consumption of foodstuffs. Consequently the further sharp fall in cotton options was quite as suggestive as was the action of the wheat market, of a genuine feeling of uneasiness.

The selling in the security markets bore most heavily upon foreign Government issues and recent favourites of pool speculation on the stock list. French 7 1-2's dealt in in our market went within two points of their extreme low. United Kingdom 5 1-2's of 1919 lost a point. Neither Liberty bonds nor the general run of investment corporation bonds were affected, but in the speculative market the decline was very general. Prices opened down in some instances a full point.

After an hour of uninterrupted selling, the market hardened, and there were a few half-hearted attempts to put up industrial specialties. But in the afternoon, when wheat prices began their violent jump, the selling movement became more precipitate. In stocks like Studebaker, Baldwin Locomotive, and the oils, the losses ran from 3 to 5 points. In the rails they extended from a point to two points.

WAR CLOUDS ONLY AN EXCUSE FOR BEAR RAID

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Renewed selling broke out shortly after noon and prices broke to further lows on reaction. Considerable comment appeared regarding effect of foreign troubles but it was evident from action of prices that situation was merely an excuse for a set back to which professional element believed was entitled because of prolonged advance. Rails as a group had much better support than industrials this was natural in view of fact rails had not participated in recent rise to same extent as industrials.

A BIG RECEPTION FOR DURANT CAR

Local Exhibit at Exhibition Revealed Comfort, Refinement and Durability at Every Turn.

Never before in the history of the automobile industry has a car received so generous and enthusiastic a reception at the local Exhibition as that of the Durant Car, built by W. C. Durant, and the greatest achievement of his thirty five years' experience as a successful maker of over two million motor cars, exhibited by their selected distributor J. E. A. Fitzgerald.

In his exhibit, you could find comfort, refinement and durability at every turn. There were shown Four and Six cylinder models, all setting a new high standard in value, to the Canadian motorist. No matter what it is you most admire in a closed car you could find it completely expressed in the Durant Six Sedan. If its mechanical excellence above all else you want, you would accept the Durant instantly, with its Ansted valves in head motor, noiseless valves, variable rocker arms, oil pressure to all main bearings, impeller type water pump, crank shaft unusually large with large bearings, a three gallon reserve gasoline tank, five pressed steel cross members in frame, Durant Tubular backbone which makes the frame rigid, relieving body and mechanical units from strain, and Alemite lubrication system throughout the chassis.

If its the appointments of a closed car that measures its worth to you, you will admire the Durant in its richly upholstered finish in the finest broadcloth, and its fittings are of platinum finish. The windows are unusually wide, and equipped with mechanical regulators. The seats are deep and roomy with arm rests in the tonneau, and a perfect ventilation system is also provided.

The Six touring has the same special features in chassis construction and body design of unusual distinction, and generous five passenger capacity with hand buffed leather upholstering.

The Four Sedan with its distinctive streamline five passenger body, with low top and broad windows, the interior revealing well upholstered front and rear seats, arm rest, corner lights, door latches and pull to handles, window regulators, curtains, and other refinements, is but an out side view of the real value that you can find in the Durant Sedan. As R. S. Dickson, mechanical superintendent of the C.P.R. Havelock, owner of a Sedan, said, "It is nothing short of a palace on wheels". Another feature in the Durant touring is the new standard set forth in its distinctive body design, its equipment, with seats set at a comfortable angle, and covered with genuine black leather. The chassis has the Dpurant Tubular backbone, which prevents distortion of frame and eliminates all racking and squeaking of body. The motor developes its full power off 35 h.p. at 1800 R.P.M. This motor is built and constructed by the Continental Motor Co., and proving "Just a real good car".

Mr. Fitzgerald was very much disappointed in not being able to obtain one of Mr. Durant's greatest achievements in the small car market. "The Star Car". This car received the attention of many thousands of visitors at the Toronto Exhibition. Mr. Fitzgerald has been promised one of the New Star Cars out of the first number of cars manufactured in Canada.

SUCCESS AT 16--NOT A FLAPPER

By MARIAN HALE.

This is NOT a flapper story, though the heroine, Helen Wills, is just 16 years old, the approved flapper age.

This young person is very un-Scott Fitzgerald. She doesn't wear her hair bobbed, goes to bed early, speaks perfectly understandable English, gives her father credit for being a pretty smart man though she can beat him at tennis, is always chaperoned by her mother, and likes it.

So you see, no chance for a flapper angle.

However, this little girl from Berkeley, Cal., proved to be a sensation at the thirty-fifth annual woman's tennis tournament, recently held in Forest Hills, New York.

She was runner-up to Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, having even won one set from this first lady of tennis. She's being hailed as the coming champion and referred to as the girl wonder.

She took up tennis at the age of 10, as a health measure. Her father, a California surgeon, prescribed it, and even administered it, teaching her the strokes and molding her plays until she became so good she outgrew his lessons.

Now her health is perfect, and she gives the credit to the game.

"I believe every girl ought to get the air and exercise that tennis gives," she said. "I don't see how people live cooped up all the time in little apartments.

"Tennis is the great all-round game for women. It uses all the muscles that get lazy if you don't watch out. But you have to play in earnest.

"Where most women are bothered with superfluous flesh is about the waist. Tennis corrects that. It is a much more interesting way to lose a perfect 36 waistline than by bending to the floor and counting, or rolling aimlessly about the carpet.

"I notice the things I have to do to keep in form are all the things beauty doctors advise for beauty.

"Of course, I have to give up candy and desserts. Sweets don't make muscle. And I have to get lots of sleep. I never go out to parties during the week, only on Saturday nights, when I usually dance.

"This is no great hardship, for the things I like, you do by day—swimming, rowing, hiking and that sort of thing.

"I expect always to have time for tennis, but not to let it interfere with my career. I want to be an artist or a singer. As soon as I finish my last year of high school I hope to go abroad with my mother and study the arts."

Seeing Miss Wills on the court proves the efficacy of her health and beauty schedule. She weighs 135 pounds, and not an ounce is superfluous or flabby. On the court you marvel at the punch in her serves and returns. Real power is back of those strokes.

And she is so wholesome and so natural and unaffected you can't help feeling thankful she isn't a flapper.

HELEN WILLS.

"THE GAS TOO STRONG WE WILL HAVE TO GO" WROTE STRICKEN MEN

Corpses of Forty-Seven Miners Taken From Their "Golden Tomb" Today—Victims Left Two Notes.

GRIM STORY FIGHT BELOW THE SURFACE

ARGONAUT GOLD MINE, Jackson, Cal., Sept. 19. — (United Press.) — Corpses of forty-seven miners were prepared for removal to-day from their 'golden tomb' in the bowels of the Argonaut mine.

Rescue squads, searching through the caverns and tunnels, 4,350 feet under the ground, for the men who were trapped by the explosion, cave-in and fire twenty-two days ago, last night came on a bulkhead rudely constructed against a side drift, its cracks and chinks stuffed with odds and ends of clothing, shirts, jackets, to keep out the deadly gas. Breaking through this they came upon a second barrier, but half finished. Behind this was a third, work on which had just started.

And beyond, in their last trench, lay the bodies of the forty-seven. Driven to the wall by the fingers of lethal gas stealthily stealing after them in steady pursuit, they had died of suffocation within five hours after they were trapped in the depths.

Two notes were found. One, scrawled by William M. Fessel, said: "Three o'clock. Gas coming in strong."

The other said: "Gas too strong. We will have to go."

An effort had been made to scrawl a third, but the figure "4" rudely scribbled, was all the man had been able to accomplish before death numbed his fingers.

RELATIVES GATHER.

Friends and relatives, gathered about the mouth of the mine for tidings heard a message coming up requesting rubber gloves and canvas sacks for handling the bodies.

The squad which found the huddled corpses of the miners in their chamber of death were led by Byron O. Pickard of the State Mine Rescue Service, Ben Sanguinetti, the Argonaut's underground boss and B. F. McDonald.

They were on the point of giving up their hunt on the 4,350 foot level and were considering seeking the miners elsewhere, when they came upon the bulkhead, and tore through it.

Beyond the air was thick with deadly gas. They penetrated the cavern cautiously. Step by step they went forward until their electric flashlights revealed a mass of corpses, piled up before them.

From the traces left behind, the first bulkhead, two partially finished, and the condition of the bodies, the grim story of their fight for life below the surface, was reconstructed.

The forty-seven miners must have been working close together when they were cut off by the fire on Aug. 27. For a while they evidently searched for means of escape and, finding none, coldly decided to block off the gas and hold out as long as possible.

Wm. Fessel, judging from the fact that he scribbled the communiques which were found, acted as leader. They retreated into the tunnel selected for a last stand, and there, in the dim glow of their working lights, set about constructing a barricade against death which came stealing after them down the corridor.

BREATH OF DEATH.

The breath of death, in the form of puffs of lethal fumes, came through the chinks. Sixteen of the miners stripped off their clothes and stuffed these garments into the holes and cracks.

But still the gas trickled in. They retreated from the barricade, deeper into the tunnel, and there started work on a second bulkhead. But the gas crept up on them— they had to leave the job unfinished, and huddle together in the end of their tunnel. Here, hemmed in by rock veined with the gold of Midas, the men waited for the fumes to ovrecome them. The effects of the gas is painless, producing first, profound sleepiness, then unconsciusness followed by death. Last night, three weeks after the last act in this tragedy was played, rescue squads tore through the bulkhead and cast the beams of their lanterns on all that was left of the forty-seven.

H. BOYLE GAVE TALK ON WAR

Entertains the Kiwanians With Account of His Experiences in World Struggle.

There was a good attendance at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club today at the Empress Hotel. President Frank Whitehouse occupied the chair. Several guests at today's affair were visiting salesmen in connection with the convetion of salesmen of the Quaker Oots Compay. J. Findlay, of the McKim advertising Agency, Toronto, spoke on general financial and business conditions, with a distinctly optimistic tone, owing, principally, to the splendid reports from the Western provinces.

Harry Boyle, of the Charlotte street Cash and Carry Grocery, was the speaker for the day, and gave an exceptionally entertaining account of his war experiences, from the day he enlisted until his return. Mr. Boyle, who has had considerable platform experience through his connection with the Chatauqua circuit, was listened to with particular interest. Included with the souvenirs he posesses from the Great War a German helmet and an inkwell taken from a German dugout, with a belt taken by the speaker from a German soldier. Fritz, in this instance, had evidently made a habit of collecting emblems of different British regiments he came in contact with, and the living and dead had contributed to his emblem-studded belt, which was auctioned off in Cleveland on the occasion of a Red Cross drive for funds, for the sum of $600, the owner subsequently returning the belt to Mr. Boyle, whom he looked upon as the rightful owner.

Appointments to the annual district convention which is held in Windsor on the 21st and 22nd of this month were made, five out of the six following members attending: John Allen, Walter Stocker, George Henderson, Alex Dick, J. A. McKone, F. Whitehouse.

The club is still going strong on its new diet, which has already gained it a considerable amount of publicity, one New York paper even containing a recent reference to the milk and whole wheat adjuncts to their luncheons enoyed by the Peterboro Kiwanis organization.

WILL THERE BE A WAR OR NOT?

Great Deal of Doubt in Minds of Canadian Cabinet on Question.

OTTAWA, Sept. 19.—(Canadian Press).—The Cabinet Council again met and adjourned without arriving at any decision regarding the Near East situation. Shortly before two o'clock Premier King stated that the situation remained unchanged in so far as Canada was concerned. No further information had been received from the British Government, he said, and consequently there was nothing upon which to base a decision as to whether Parliament should be summoned or not.

Mr. King was asked if the Government had any information which would indicate that the situation was one of extreme gravity. He repented that the only communication received from the British Government was reassuring in its nature. There was a great deal of doubt as to whether there would be war at all.

Mr. King said that the Cabinet would meet again this afternoon, but intimated that a great deal of business awaited its attention in addition to the Near East situation. Of course, this will take precedence over all ather business should any further communication be received from the British Government.

DEATH.

MORE.—On the 17th September, Margaret Ellen More, baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David J. More, of Toronto.

Available Peat Supply Is Sold

G. N. Gordon, M.P., has received information from the Honourable Charles Stewart, Minister of Interior, to whom he telegraphed as to what supply of peat there was at Alfred, near Ottawa, that the supply of peat manufactured at Alfred, and dried out for shipment, has been already taken up by orders, and that there will be none available for any persons desiring to purchase it now.

BEGGARS MAKE MILLIONS FROM N. Y. CITIZENS

Police Start a Crusade to Drive the "Weepers" Out of New York—Gin Loving Ladies Flee.

LEAVING IN CARS

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Five thousand professional beggars in New York City—3,000 in Manhattan, the Comstock Lode of Beggardom, alone. The daily take of these fakers averages $100,000, which is $700,000 a week, $3,000,000 a month, $36,000,000 a year.

These are the facts as averaged from information obtained from the Charity Organization Society, the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities, the Salvation Army, various business men's associations and the police. The figures given are extremely conservative, since the probability is that there are more than 5,000 professionals imposing daily upon the benevolence of the most charitable city in the world, and that the daily receipts of these frauds average better than $20.

It is this pest of begging against which a crusade is now being made by the magistrates and the police, backed by the big charitable organizations and welfare societies and by the business men's associations. There hasn't been a beggars' clean-up like it since the days or that strange expert in mendicancy, James Forbes, once hanged in effigy by the celebrating mendicants in the back room of Diamond Dan O'Rourke's place in Park Row. Prodded by business and organized charity the police are arresting prosperous beggars right and left, while the magistrates, earnestly co-operating, are sending the fakers to the workhouse in batches or paroling them under strict conditions if they are really badly crippled and really helpless.

A Real Crusade.

The crusade against the beggars has produced exactly the same panic among the assailed as is caused among the crooks when a truly big cleanup is ordered by the powers that be. Professional mendicants are leaving the city in their high-power automobiles or in comfortable Pullmans—not the side door variety by a long shot—most of them for the sunny South.

They won't be back until this trouble has blown over and things have settled back. This, they say, should be along about Christmas time, the richest picking of all for the floppers and the plingers and the throwers.

The Austrian Prince "blew the town" last Thursday. Chi Slim quit the game a week before. The old undertaker and his fiddle haven't been seen on Sixth Avenue since early last week and have gone probably to New Orleans or Los Angeles. Gossip among the Black Hoods, as the old, gin loving women on the fringes of beggardom are called, all points to a hurry and scurry to get away from the danger of a "bit in stir" in the Workhouse. Anything but that.

Very few High Heels, as the often good looking young girls in the game are known (the kind that approach you weepingly with a letter from mother who is sick and near to death and wants her little daughter at her bedside, and daughter hasn't a sou marquee, and so on and so on) are seen around.

London Harry.

London Harry, one of the shrewdest and most successful beggars in the business—for it is a straight business — told a reporter that the cleanup "was on the level" and that it had been impossible to do business with the cops. It was too much for him. He was taking the air—to Baltimore first and then amblingly on South. Harry, who is the most artistic fake sore maker of the whole crew, and who is also an expert "thrower," practicing the knack of throwing arms or legs out of normal use and making them appear hopelessly crippled, takes it on the average $50 a day, but it isn't worth it to stay here now. The most reliable testimony, therefore, is that a sure enough smoking out is going on. The professional beggars say so.

That is also the opinion of Lawson Purdy, head of the Charity Organization Society, and of John B. Godfrey of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities.

"Beggary of the professional, intolerable sorts can be abolished in this city if the police do their duty and if the police have the support of the citizens," Mr. Purdy said. "It will do no good if the police drive the beggars off the streets only to find the people handing out money to the same beggars when they drift back to the street. People must realize the absolute truth that the greatest unkindness you can do to a man in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred is to give him money. Begging had been pretty well eliminated in New York when the war came along. That and a following period of hard times and unemployment caused a revival of begging to unprecedented proportions. Everybody was softhearted and sympathetic. Conditions have changed. War is long over. Unemployment is

WOULD SUPPORT CANADIAN GOVT. IN SENDING TROOPS

William Elliott of South Waterloo Declares Ontario Progressives in Favor of Such a Policy if Need Arises From Near East Crisis

OTTAWA, Sept. 19.—(Canadian Press)—"If there is shown to be necessity for Canada sending a contingent of troops for the near East. I think Ontario Progressives would largely support the Government in so doing" declared William Elliot, Progressive member of Parliament for South Waterloo.

Mr. Elliott said he had discussed the possibilities of sending troops with many people in his constituency during the last few days, and that they were favorable to this course.

WIFE CHARGED WITH SLAYING RIVAL FOR HER HUSBAND'S LOVE

Story of Deliberate Hunt, Tigerish Torture and Mutilation of a 20-Year-Old Widow—Mrs. Clara Phillips Must Defend Herself Against Such Accusations.

TRIAL IS PROCEEDING

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 19.—Modern young womanhood in the grip of Stone Age passions is presented in testimony in Judge F. W. Houser's court here, with the so-called "hammer-slaying" case opened, according to the case as outlined by the district attorney.

She is charged with having killed Mrs. Alberta Meadows, 20-year-old widow, with a hammer, because of fancied rivalry for her husband's love.

Matching the singular savagery of the crime is the amazing poise of the 23-year-old former stage beauty who has been dubbed "the woman with the ice-cold heart." Since her arrest during flight and her formal plea of "not guilty" she has not uttered a dozen words, despite the most cunning traps of officials and interviewers.

Will she talk, as she has intimated, at the trial? And what will she say against the expected revolting testimony of Mrs. Peggy Caffee, her former stage friend, who declares she was an unwilling spectator of the killing on a lonely road near here July 12?

On these questions speculate the courtroom "fans," as they prepare to scramble for seats to see a pretty woman on trial for murder.

Plea May Be Insanity.

The unwritten law apparently has been eliminated by discovery that the gossip, under which Mrs. Phillips is charged with having acted, was without foundation in the linking of the Meadows girl with Armour L. Phillips, dapper Texan oil man. "Will the defense be insanity?" is a question often heard. It is believed that it will.

Phillips, who is said to have first advised his wife to flee and then instigated her arrest, may remain away during the trial. Although professedly eager to aid her, he is said to have expressed doubt as to the value of his presence. He has strenuously denied that there was any reason for Clara's jealousy.

District Attorney Thomas Lee Woolwine intends to conduct the prosecution in person. Both sides admit the trial will be short, probably not more than a week. The state will rely for conviction mainly upon the testimony of Mrs. Caffee, it is believed.

According to the story Mrs. Caffee is said to have told police, she was with Clara the day previous. They had spied on Alberta's deserted apartment. Clara had purchased a hammer at a bargain counter.

Phillips Named Only Once.

Next day the three young matrons were in Alberta Meadows' coupe, ascending Two Tree hill, chatting of fashions and the weather, apparently all friends.

Then, according to the alleged account given by Peggy, the veneer over a million years of savagery cracked. "My husband bought you this and that!" The young widow made startled denial. From under her cape Clara's arm flashed out with the 10-cent hammer as they got out of the car. It crashed into Mrs. Meadows' face. She staggered weakly into flight, Clara in pursuit, as Mrs. Caffee fell back in nausea, she says.

The "bloody sacrifice to clacking tongues" lasted for many minutes there on the lonely hillside—lasted till death came, as the state's witness is expected to tell it.

"Looking back," police say Peggy told them, "I could see her there on her knees over the body—pounding and smashing. Then she drove me back to town, threatening to kill me, too, if I ever told."

After Mrs. Phillips' arrest, Mrs. Meadows' diary was read to her. There was but one mention of her husband's name, simply— "Met Mr. Phillips."

PAGES FROM MRS. MEADOW'S DIARY.

The names of a half dozen men weave in and out of the diary kept by Mrs. Alberta Meadows, victim in the "hammer slaying."

P. BLACK AGAIN ENLARGES STORE

Takes Over Store Next Door to Accommodate New Men's Department.

Mr. P. Black is establishing a men's clothing store next door to his present store at the corner of George and King Streets. During the last five years he has established a large business in ladies' wear in exclusive styles and quality garments, but lack of space handicapped him in working up a similar trade in men's wear. Now, with a new store added, he will go ahead and establish a men's department in which will be carried the newest lines at very low prices.

Ten years ago, when Mr. Black opened his store at the corner of George and King Streets, the prospects were not bright, for the mercantile section had extended little below Charlotte Street. At first progress was slow, but year after year there was an improvement until Mr. Black was encouraged to keep on, to increase his stock and to enlarge his store. Last year he was forced by the increase in business to make extensive alterations to his store, and now he has been compelled to take over the store next door to accommodate his men's department.

Because of the extension to his store, Mr. Black has been forced to start an expansion sale, particulars of which appear on another page of this issue.

During the last ten years Mr. Black has made many friends. Careful attention to customers has rapidly increased his trade, an honest way and satisfactory to all. Mr. Black has brightened his corner since he leased it, and will do the same to his new store.

KNAPP'S CLAIM AGAINST FRED WILSON FAILS

Judge Huycke Disallows Hired Man's Suit for Wages—Counter Claim Also Dismissed.

DIVISION COURT CASE

Both the claim and counterclaim in the Division Court case of Knapp vs. Wilson have been dismissed by Judge Huycke. Fred Knapp, the plaintiff, was employed by Fred Wilson of Springville, as a farm labourer and in this suit asked for $118 wages, which Mr. Wilson balanced in his counter claim.

C. R. Widdifield represented the plaintiff and J. A. O'Brien, the defendant. The judgment follows:—

"This is an action for balance of wages under a contract of hiring, also for damages for breach of contract by defendant Wilson's failure to provide for plaintiff the keeping of fowl and swine. There is in addition to the other defences to be mentioned a large counterclaim as well.

There is no dispute as to the dates of the giving and leaving work by the plaintiff, and also no dispute as to the money part of the compensation, that is $500.00 per annum. Both parties agree that the Contract of Hiring was for a year. It was agreed however, that the defendant should advance to the plaintiff moneys from time to time as might be necessary and convenient. The defendant did advance moneys on various occasions, and there seems to have been no dispute or fault found as to the amount advanced until the 12th of July, 1922. On that morning the plaintiff asked for money and the defendant did not have very much with him. He offered the plaintiff $5.00 and, on that being claimed to be insufficient, said he would get more for him, or if necessary she could go to a neighboring store and get what he wanted and have it charged to the defendant Wilson. This procedure had been adopted before on two occasions. The plaintiff therefore immediately left the defendant's service just at the beginning of haying and the harvesting, the busiest and most important time in the farmers' year, and went to work on the Provincial Highway at $3.00 a day. He had been employed by the defendant from October, 1921 during the slackest period of the year.

Broke the Contract

I find that the plaintiff broke his contract unless he had good reason for leaving on the occasion referred to, and I find that he did not have good reason for so doing. The plaintiff therefore not having completed his contract is not entitled to recover any balance of wages that might be otherwise coming to him. In addition to the advances above referred to the defendant claims a large counter-claim. As to the moneys actually paid there is not a very great deal of difference in the two accounts, although I cannot congratulate either party upon keeping their accounts in proper shape. In the view I take of the case, however it is not necessary for me to go into those figures with any particularity as to the action must be dismissed.

As to the remaining parts of the counter claim, and particularly as to the wood there is a direct conflict of evidence, and the amount in dispute is considerable. As to this the onus of prof is on the defendant. There is a direct and absolute contradiction between them and I must find that the defendant fails as to his counterclaim regarding the wood. The loss of time may be allowed, but in view of my finding that is not important.

Irresponsible Helpers

The defendant charges the plaintiff with the breaking of a plough and of a buggy wheel. The defendant must fail as to these two items as well. There is some evidence which would almost lead me to conclude there was actual negligence on the part of the plaintiff in breaking these articles. If I did so hold I would have to give judgment against him for the loss occasioned. Too many hired men seem to think they are not responsible for negligence in breaking utensils and generally damaging their employers property. This is a mistaken idea, and if the damage is done willfully or negligently the person causing it should pay. In this case there is much to indicate negligence on the part of the plaintiff, but on the whole I prefer to consider it an accident and therefore no liability on the part of the plaintiff.

Very substantial damage is charged by the defendant for injury to his crop occasioned by the plaintiff leaving him at the particular season he did. I have no doubt that some, probably considerable damage, was caused to the defendant by the plaintiq's breach of contract. The defendant has as usual in most counterclaims magnified his injury, but in my opinion the damage may well be put against the balance of wages coming to the plaintiff in this particular case. This will also apply to the use of the house. The plaintiff most unwisely and illegally continued to hold possession of the dwelling. I cannot find in this item the

TURKISH INVASION OF NEUTRAL ZONE WOULD MEAN WAR

The British Government Makes it Clear Britain is Not Bluffing in Announcment to Defend the Dardenelles at All Costs—Says Every Resource of Empire Would Be Pitted Against Kemalists.

ENGLAND ACTING WITHOUT ALLIES

(Special to Examiner.)

To-day's news despatches from Europe and the Near East indicated that the situation created by Mustapha Kemal's threatened invasion of the Dardanelles neutral zone was rapidly approaching a climax.

A Kemalist cavalry was on duty just outside the neutral territory near Chanak entrance to the zone. British reinforcements arrived at Chanak and joined the other Tommies in the trenches.

From Constantinople comes the report that the troops of Kemal are evacuating Smyrna and have started their march to the Dardanelles.

Coincident with the French Cabinet's decision not to participate in military action against Kemal ,the British Cabinet made it clear that a Turkish invasion of the neutral zone would mean war. The statement of Saturday that force would be used if necessary was reiterated and amplified.

That England is acting alone and without the support of her Allies, was further emphasized by the plans of France and Italy to withdraw their troops from the vicinity of Chanak. Italian troops, however, will be stationed in Constantinople.

Despatches show that the rout of the Greek army has been completed, the last detachment of the army of the south has been captured by the Turks and the last Greek warship has left the Sea of Marmora.

Mustapha Kemal is quoted as saying by "Divine will" he hopes to be in Adrianople within a fortnight.

GOVERNMENT DETERMINED.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(Special.)—The British Government is determined to go through with its programme of defending the Dardanelles neutral zone against the Turks, and is not "bluffing" when it says every resource of the Empire will be pitted against the Kemalists.

This was made plain to-day in a communique issued from Downing Street during the meeting of the Cabinet, while word was coming in that France and Italy will not fight.

Meeting insinuations in the press that the Government is only "rattling the sabre,' to-day's communique announced that Saturday's statement of policy —in which the Dominions were called on to help defend the neutral zone—is actually official, representing the Cabinet's views and designed to leave the Empire in no doubt as to the Government's aims.

THOSE ALLEGED ATROCITIES.

GENEVA, Sept. 19.— (Canadian Press.)—A request that the League of Nations send a neutral commission to investigate alleged Turkish atrocities in Asia Minor was presented to the Assembly to-day by the Persian delegation on behalf of the Turkish national parliament. Parliament's request was transmitted to Persian delegates through its representatives in Rome.

The Angora Government also asked that the League assure protection of Moslem minorities in Thrace.

SHIFTS TO FRENCH CAPITAL.

PARIS, Sept. 19. — (Canadian Press.)— With the arrival here of Lord Curzon, British Foreign Secretary, and Premier Nichitch, of Jugo Slavia, the centre of alleged deliberations on the Near East has shifted to the French capital.

Lord Curzon's task is to convince the French Cabinet that the British attitude is not prompted by any selfish motive and that bigger issues than Turkey are at stake. Receipts of further assurances that Turkey has no intention of attacking neutral zones or of crossing into Thrace, has served to strengthen the French attitude.

LONDON, Sept. 19.— (Canadian Press.)—The widely heralded "new war in the East" which followed Lloyd George's political enemies charge him with involving, has not begun and so far as apparent to the public, is no nearer to-day than it was yesterday. There is, however, no diminuition of excitement.

SET BALKANS ABLAZE.

The defence put forward by Government advocates is that, far

A Local Officer Is Ready to Go

Lieut-Col. A. P. Miller, D.S.O., M.C., has all ready offered his services to the Minister of Militia in event of war.

"If we are needed we will be there" he told the Examiner this morning and as part of the British Empire we must hope to do our share.

At present Col. Miller is recruiting up to full strength the machine gun units of Peterborough, Kingston and Ottawa, of of which he is commanding officer.

He further states that while we cannot as yet say we will be needed, we can say we are prepared to go if called upon.

FALL MEETING OF THE BOARD LAST EVENING

Chamber of Commerce Has Been Active During the Summer Months—The Resolutions.

REPORTS RECEIVED

The first meeting for the fall season of the Chamber of Commerce took place last evening in the boardroom, with a fair attendance. President J. J. Duffus, in the chair, welcomed the visitors, including Chief George Gimblett, of the Fire Department, and William Rudkins, president of the Trades and Labor Council.

The secretary of the Chamber, Leon Frazer, reported on the activities during the past four months. As had been the policy of the Board in previous years, ten executive meetings were held during the summer months to conduct the affairs of the Chamber. The report summarized the following activities: Clean-up campaign conducted from April 23rd to 29th. Deputized the Department of Railways and Canals re increasing the capacity of marine railways from 35 to 50 feet, and it is expected that this will be acted upon during the next year. Co-operated with the stock committee. Assisted in support of Western Clock by-law. Recommended the amendment of the Ontario Companies' Act, exempting taxes on dividends derived from shares in mercantile and manufacturing corporations. Entertained the Deputy Minister of the Department of Mines re fish hatchery. Resolution re establishment of freight rates existing in 1918, in place of the re-enactment of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement on July 1st of this year. Recommended to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission the reduction of gas rates and street car fares. In the former, there has been noted a decrease of ten cents per one thousand cubic feet. Complimentary luncheon to Rev. F. E. Malott, chairman of the Social-Welfare Committee of the Chamber. Recommended the substitution of the stamp tax by increased sales tax, and modifications to the stamp tax were made by the Government. In co-operation with the City Council, entertained the Provincial Government's Hotel Commission. Interviewed all owners of foreign motor boats cruising the Trent Waterways system, supplied them with charts, information, etc. Operated information bureau for tourists, and 61 Americans received service thereby. Monthly reports on local conditions forwarded to various publishers, such as Babson's. Furnished information to publications, Chambers of Commerce, etc. Forwarded information to manufacturers contemplating the location of Canadian factories. Co-operated with the Provincial photographer in securing motion pictures of the city of Peterborough. General service to members and visitors.

The Secretary remarked particularly upon the generosity of the local newspaper in supplying space for information of interest to citizens. Recommended to the Postmaster-General the conspicuous marking of all towns and villages, particularly those adjacent to mainly travelled highways.

Others Included.

The Secretary also explained that, besides the activities of the Chamber of Commerce, the activities of five other organizations were included in the work of the staff, each organization paying for such service render-

The Folks Back Home

UNCLE GUS

Uncle Gus chuckled as he emptied and refielded his blackened corncob pipe. "The was a traveling man here while ago," said he, "trying to sell me a bill o' goods an' givin' me his opinion o' small towns. He said he'd rather be a dead than a-livin' here. I didn't say nothin' knowning the futility o' arguin' with them kind. But he kind o' tickled me. In New York, where he stays, the' is lots o' folks, but he don't care nothin' about them. The' is lots o' fine buildings, but he don't notice 'em. The' is big libraries an' picture galleries an' things like that, but he prob'ly ain't been inside 'em. He says he loves New York, but it takes two to do proper lovin', I'll bet New York don't love him none. Now, me, if I was to drop dead, the' would be mo' excitement than a circus. Everybody would feel kind o' sorry an' say what a good feller I was an' how the town will miss me; but if that travelin' man was to drop dead in his town, the most anybody would say would be, 'I wonder who that gink was layin' there.' The' ain't nothin' in the world worth much exceptin' friends, an' the smallest town in the country has got mo' of 'em than the biggest one.'

STANDARDS

Many of the faults of our civilization result from the fact that the standards fixed for the guidance of proper men are not recognized as a minimum of decency, but only as a mark of which to shoot. The standards are but a pretty motto on the wall—an ideal to which none hope fully to attain, and no disgrace attaches to him who falls short of perfection.

Disgrace is society's best weapon. Men who could violate a moral law without hurt of conscience will walk in paths of virtue to avoid public contempt. Standards have lost their authority because publice opinion has become tolerant of rottenness. Mere law cannot keep men decent.

Teach a boy that honesty is the best policy and you but make him prudent; teach him that dishonesty is disgraceful and you make him honest. Neither boy nor man is easily persuaded to do a thing that will earn him scorn of his fellows.

If all men should turn their backs to one who patronizes a bootlegger, how long would bootleggers have patrons? If society should ostracise the man who told a lie back in 1896, who dare to lie? If profiteerin in patriotism caused all mens' doors to close in the profiteer's face, would the world see his like again?

Our standards are pretty things, but they avail little because they are not backed by the threat of public scorn.

HOMES

Of two men, one of whom wears shoes and one of whom goes barefoot winter and summer, which has the greater interest in the price of leather? Of two men one of whom has three children and one of whom has none, which has the greater interest in the selection of efficient teachers for the public schools? Of two men, one of whom owns a house and lot and one of whom has no possession save those carried in his pockets, which is more prone to run after strange political 'isms and join with the mob in crying: "Down with everything a foot high?"

The man who has much to lose is a friend of the established order. The man who has nothing to lose and much to gain by revolution is ripe for harvest by the radicals.

"Let me have men about who are fat." Those who have possessions—who have some bit of property on which to fix their affections—these are the men who think of government as "we"—who resent and punish the extravagance of public servants—who demand order and decency and peace. On these government leans for support, and by these government is maintained.

Wherefore it follows that government could serve itself well and insure its future by encouraging its citizens to build homes—by lending them the money with which to build. For a home-owner and a planter of trees is fixed in his orbit. He is a solid citizen. Without stress and storm, he may lack the fire to produce the work of genius; but he never will make a bomb or counsel reform by means of destruction.

Henry Ford is quoted as declaring that he neither knows nor cares what he is worth. Nevertheless, them who has, gets.

Newspaper Comment

(Winnipeg Tribune).

In any measures necessary to the defence of the neutral zone at Constantinople and the Dardanelles against the advance of the Turks Canada can make no other answer than that she is willing and ready to take part. Deeply detesting war, Canadians have no illusions about glory or material gain, but if Britain needs our aid in a just cause honor permits no other answer.

(The Edmonton Journal).

It should go without saying that if Canada's help against the Turks is required it will be given. We played too large a part in the Great War to be able to sit back and do nothing while there is a danger that ground of importance that was gained in the struggle will be lost. The world is still far from being wrapped in universal peace and we should recognize the fact, keeping ourselves in readiness for the discharging of a plain duty when it confronts us.

(Montreal La Presse).

"The question is not one that can be decided by the Cabinet alone. The decision taken should represent the will of the people as expressed by the vote of the majority of the members of Parliament. The essential necessity of Canadian intervention must be demonstrated by the evidence before our administrators would be justified in plunging the Dominion again into the horrors and expense of another war. No doubt our sympathies go out spontaneously towards Great Britain and our moral support is assured to her. But it is just and reasonable before deciding on the despatch of troops to defend a cause which, everything considered, does not affect the vital interests of the Empire, that our Parliament should first think of the immediate needs of Canada."

(Halifax Herald).

"The appeal of the Mother Country has now gone out to the Dominions to join her in sending forces to defend the Empire's interest. It is truly said that what the men of the Old Land fought for, we in the Dominion also fought for; our interests were in common; and it would be surprising if we should not join hands in protecting those interests against the arrogant revolt of Kemal Pasha. We may not be much interested in the security of the vain glorious Constantine; but we must hold what was dearly won against an enemy that is rearing his head in defiance."

(Halifax Chronicle).

"The Cabinet Council is summoned to meet at Ottawa to-day. It should not act lightly or be stampeded into any hasty course of action. It should have before it complete information of the need for Canadian aid in the proposed operations. That is a pre-requisite to any decision in the matter. If the integrity of the Empire is threatened, Canada will fight, as she has fought before, in its defence. That need not be stated. But Canada will not allow herself to be drawn into war on any side issue that may arise or be used as a pawn in the game of European politics. That is the fixed determination, we believe, of the Canadian people."

Once Wealthy, Blind Octogenarian To End Days in County Poorhouse

WALKERTON, Sept. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Eighty years of age and blind, William Reed, of Greenock Township, has just been admitted to the house of refuge here and will spend the last of his days as the ward of the county that he helped to clear and put on the map.

Mr. Reed is ex-reeve of Greenock and former "lime king" of Brant Township and was at one time one of the largest land owners of the district. His fall from affluence to penury is an interesting story. Coming into Greenock in the early days shortly after that township was opened up for settlement, he took up land and being a Hercules with the axe, he soon cleared up a homestead and by dint of hard labor and business astuteness he got into his possession 350 acres of the finest land in Greenock. He was an ardent politician and his voice rang from the platform of South Bruce in the interest of the national policy and its champion, Sir John A. Macdonald.

Big hearted and a hale fellow well met, Bill Reed spent money like water and his was a household name amongst the sturdy pioneers of the section. His wealth deserting him, he quit the agricultural game and 30 years ago established a large kiln at Dunkeld, where he sought to retrieve his fallen fortunes by burning lime. By his actiivties in this line he became known as the lime king, a title, however, that he earned at the loss of his sight, for the work injured his vision and after being three decades in the business he became totally blind. Mrs. Reed left him a month ago to reside with her sons in the West.

86 YEARS OLD, COMES TO CANADA ON VISIT.

Former Employer Gives Him $125 For Expenses.

QUEBEC, Sept. 19.—An aged passenger on the Canadian Pacific liner Montcalm, was Mr. John McKenzie, 86 years old, who is coming out to visit his daughters, settled in Alberta. Mr. McKenzie, worked for the same firm in England for over fifty years and recently, when he was being superannuated by his emyloyees the latter said, "Well John you are leaving me after fifty years of devoted and honourable service and I mean to put you on a pension what do you de sire."

Mr. McKenzie, according to his own statement, replied anything you wish, and was, given a penson of thirty shillings per week. Later when his boss learned that he was going to Canada, he again called him and said "John, you are now going to Canada, and I wish to help you to meet the expenses of your trip, how much will you require" "Anything you wish, sir.' When his employer handed him twenty five pounds this so surprised Mr. McKenzie, that he thanked him and in the exuberance of his gratitude said, "Sir, we will call the pension off.'

RAIN INTERFERES WITH HARVEST ON THE PRAIRIE

Most of the Grain is Out But Wet Weather Has Stopped the Threshing in Many Places.

ROADS ARE BAD.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 19.—(Canadian Press)—Harvesting over the three prairie provinces has been interfered with to some exten. by wet cool weather according to the weekly crop report issued yesterday by the Canadian Pacific Railway. Recent wet spells have insured a good supply of winter feed in many districts where a month ago a shortage seemed inevitable. Although the live-stock markets have been fairly active during the past t..o weeks prices are not encouraging. Threshing operations in Manitoba have been almost at a standstill on account of wet weather. One farmer in the Carman district states that there are three sheaves on every stook on his farm sprouted. Owing to the condition of the roads there has been some difficulty in hauling grain to cars and elevators, but that wheat that is moving, however, continues to show satisfactory grade. Thirty five to forty per cent of wheat cutting is completed and oarse grains from twenty to thirty per cent.

There has been little sunshine in aSskatchewan during the past seven days, according to the report, so that grain was hard to thresh, but farmers took every opportunity to keep machines moving. Conditions are satisfactory between Weyburn and Assiniboia, where practically every district claims a threshing output of thirty to forty five buhels of wheat per acre.

In Alberta the percentage of uncut rain is practically neglibile. Heavy showers which were experienced last week are helping the feed situation materially and freshing up pastures. Alberta's wheat crop, the report says, is higher than usual. The yield of oats all over is light. Barley averages higher than oats. The hay crop is exceedingly light except in a few places in the northern portion of the province.

On the Edmonton, Duvegan and British Columbia Railway threshing has been delayed on account of showers. It is expected that the wheat yield will be ten bush..ls to the acre.

Apple picking is in full swing in British Columbia. Canneries are working to capacity. Root crops are much improved by recent rains.

GOVERNMENT AWAITS REPLY TO MESSAGES

Canadian Government in Touch With Representatives at League of Nations Regarding the Near East Crisis.

SECRET DESPATCH.

OTTAWA, Sept. 19.—(Canadian Press)—The Canadian Government is in communication with the British Government and its representatives at the League of Nations, Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Ernest Lapointe, with a view to ascertaining whether the Near East crisis is sufficiently serious to warrant the calling of a special session of Parliament as a "necessary preliminary to the despatch of any contingent to participate in the conflict in the Near East"

After an all-day session, which was continued last night, Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King issued the following statement on behalf of the Government:

"As already mentioned the only communication which our Government has thus fa.. received, with respect to the situation in the Near East, from the British Government, is a cable desjatch marked 'Secret' the contents of which, without the sanction of the British Government, we do not feel at liberty to make public.

"The Government is in communication with members of the Cabinet at present in Europe as Canada's representatives at the League of Nations, and with the British Government, with a view to ascertaining whether the situation that exists in the Near East is one which would justify the summoning of a special session of Parliament."

Messages from the Canadian Government to the British Government went forward Sunday asking permission to make public the text of the original message despatched from Downing Street to the different Dominions. A reply together with other information was expected last night or early today. Cabinet discussed the near East crisis again last night and will probably continue today. A high official has intimated that the original message from the British Government was not so much a request for contigents from the Dominions as questioning what the attitude of the Dominions would be toward the sending of troops to Constantinople and the Dardanelles. In the meantime the Prime Minister has stated that the government is in close communication with Mr. Fielding and Mr. Lapoite and that these cabiet members overseas will keep their confreres here fully posted on developments.t

ROUGH COATS

A herringbone on the back is worth half a dozen on the plate this season. Women have taken over all woollen stuffs in this pattern—formerly monopolized by men—and are making fall and winter coats of them.

These coats are of the rough-and-ready variety. Some of them are made with voluminous over-capes to shield one from the "cauld" blasts. Some have sleeves set in several inches below the shoulder. Others have raglan sleeves.

Thy are made with collars that button tight under the chin, are severely notched, tailored fashion, or are slightly draped in the back and roll open in front.

The materials are all herringbone weaves, checked and plaid wool velours, plaid backed coatings, wool tricot and suede.

B. Vachon, and several residences. The loss is estimated at about $500,000.

DEPRECIATES APPEALS TO EMPIRE NATIONS.

LONDON, Sept. 19. — (Canadian Press).—Commenting on the British government appeal to the Dominions to help in the defence of Constantinople and the Straits the Times of India, thinks the allied forces in the near East are adequate to prevent Kemel and the Turkish army from occupying Constantinople. The Times deprecates the "semi-sentimental appeals" to the Dominions.

The pro-Turkish Bombay Chronicle terms the British government's attitude as bellicose and says that war with Nationalist Turkey which seems imminent would be fraught with the greatest imaginable danger to the Empire.

WILL QUIET DOWN IN IRELAND SOON

And Music and Laughter Resound As Of Old.

QUEBEC, Sept. 19.—Among the returned Canadians in the Canadian Pacific liner Montcalm, was Timothy Murphy, aged 87 years, who is home again after a trip to Ireland with his son, and Mr. Murphy, sr., was one of the spryest passengers on board.

Though near the nonegeranian age, he is bright and intelligent and his only defect is that he is slightly deaf. In an interview with Mr. Murphy, he said, he was just returning from visit to Ireland, which he had not seen for over 70 years, and he came to this country when a lad and settled in Montreal. Speaking of his observations in Ireland, he said, the country looked fine, a little disturbed it is true and conditions appeared to him as the aftermath of a spirited election, the same as used to happen when he was in the old country in his boyhood days.

But, said Mr. Murphy, things will quiet down in a short time, there will be a little more ruction as in the days of old when there was an election, but the good humour of the Irish people will once more resound throughout the land, and song and musical laughter will be heard again.

Mr. Murphy said he was a native of Cork, but did not visit the city of his birth. Asked why, he replied, because the railways did not care to carry us until things quieted down.

It was rather interesting to listen to the optimistic and humorous manner in which Mr. Murphy referred to things in Ireland. He said, he spent most of his time in Dublin, being held there on account of the friction between the boys outside its invironments.

But, nevertheless, they seem to visit Dublin now and again to show they were alive, as we could hear the barking of firearms after the people were safely in bed.

80 NEW SETTLERS FOR THE DOMINION.

They Include Farmers, Domestics and Promising Boys and Girls.

QUEBEC, Sept. 19.—The Canadian Pacific liner Montcalm landed a party of 80 new settlers for Canada, 13 of whom are children from the farms, 30 domestics and the rest farmers who came out under the auspices of the Salvation Army.

She also brought 60 young boys and girls from Father Hudson's Home, in Birmingham, who are going to the St. George's Home, Ottawa. These chidren are a splendid aggregation whose ages range from 10 to 16 years. The boys are all healthy, well built and judging by their appearance and conduct aboard ship have had a splendid training in Father Hudson's Home to make splendid citizens of Canada.

CANADA READY.

Whatever may be the developments in the Near East and whatever policy may be decided upon by Canada's Government, one vital fact that stands out clearly already is that Canada would have no difficulty in rising in a few short days an expeditionary force of considerable proportions.

Men who swore they were through for ever with war heard the first rumor of trouble with Turkey, and rushed to the telegraph office to offer their services.

From all over Canada the Government has been in receipt of telegrams from individuals and militia units volunteering for duty.

Great War Veterans, undaunted by their experiences, are in the forefront of the men who are ready to don the khaki and set forth to fight the Turk.

Should the Federal Government call for volunteers there is no doubt of the answer. Canada in 1922 ould be the Canada of 1914. If the Empire needs the Maple Leaf troops they are ready, despite the fact that it is hoped that they will not be needed.

AFTER NEW CANADIANS.

Nice things are being said by the press, both east and west, about the new Canadian Colonization Association, and they seem to be deserved.

The plans announced by the Association indicate that those behind the project are sincere in their effort and that they seem to have secured the support of influential interests to such an extent as to assure success. There is adequate capital at the disposal of the Association, and, with the assistance of the Government, there is apparently no reason why the plan should not result in the securing for Canada of a large number of immigrants of suitable type.

The scheme is not political in any way, and it is all the more likely to succeed on that account. At least it will not be hampered by those undesirable influences that are liable to have their effect upon a Government immigration policy.

The officers of the Association have had to do considerable spade work, and they are to be congratulated upon what they have accomplished.

It is hoped that the functioning of the Association will be as successful as the organization work has proved.

ADVERTISING THE TRENT.

Mr. F. H. Dobbin's suggestion to the Rotary Club that the advantages of the Trent Waterway from a scenic viewpoint be placed before the owners of the many motor boats which reach Canada by the Hudson River—Lake Champlain route seems to be a feasible and desirable one.

Mr. Dobbin says the majority of such motor boat tourists have no definite plans when they leave home. They are out for a summer cruise, and they are willing to go anywhere that is accessible, provided it offers them something new in scenic appeal.

If a booklet telling of the charm of the Trent Waterway could be placed in the hands of each motor boat owner whose craft passes through the Chambley Canal, it seems reasonable to suppose that many of them might be induced to visit this section of Canada.

The Trent Waterway offers a unique cruise through scenery that cannot be surpassed in America, and Mr. Dobbin's plan would bring its advantages before a class of tourist whose visits would be of great benefit to the whole Trent district.

Possibly before the next season rolls around the Trent Waterway Development Association may have an opportunity to consider this suggestion and to act upon it.

TALK THAT IS NOT CHEAP.

There is always considerable comment about the expense of talk in Canada's Parliament.

Everybody agrees that long debates are costly as well as of no avail, but few people realize just what the cost is.

The War Veterans' official publication, 'The Veteran,' has made some inquiries along this line and has discovered that it costs Canada approximately 25c for every word spoken in the House of Commons during a session of Parliament.

And yet they say talk is cheap. The debate upon the report of the Parliamentary Committee on Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment towards the end of the last session prompted the venture in the realm of statistics. In this and other debates the large amount of time and wordage devoted by the members to getting "on record" impressed itself upon the writer, so with the aid of Hansard the above facts were revealed.

During the session in question one of the Labor members declared that the cost of keeping the House of Commons open was about $5,000 an hour. At this rate the cost of the entire session would be about $3,000,000, but to translate this to the lowest possible figure under the present method of operation we will place the cost at half a million less. It must be noted, however, that the sessional indemnities of the members require about $1,500,000 alone. The debate on re-establishment lasted for eight and a half hours and just under 100,000 words were spoken in that time. The cost was around $30,000—enough to have bought homes for half a dozen rent-paying veterans. Cutting out the platitudes and the expressions of affection for "the nation's warriors," about 28,000 words, conveying suggestions and constructive criticism, were spoken during the debate, so that the cost of "effective" words was about one dollar each.

THE NEW CANADA

Sir Campbell Stuart, managing director of the London Times, contributes an article to the issue of that newspaper for September 4, in which he speaks of the "new Canada," the Canada that has grown up since he was a boy in his "native province of Quebec," says the Hamilton Spectator. For that province he still holds a great affection, wondering if "anywhere in the world the traveller can find such peace and contentment as in the back country of French Canada," where labor difficulties are practically unknown and the "simple, picturesque, healthy life of the French-Canadian habitants always proved to me that they had learned the secret of happiness." Sir Campbell touches on the question of a Canadian minister to Washington, remarking "that Canada should have a minister there I have no doubt." He emphasizes the need of increased population and the necessity of a strong immigration policy. "Her empty spaces are calling for settlers. She has less than three people to the square mile, whereas her neighbor across the border has 35, and the Japanese across the Pacific have mor than 300."

In the same edition is an editorial on Canada's "golden harvest," and the need of additional population in the west. "Long stretches of empty country stand mutely eloquent of wealth that is waiting to be garnered . . . The key to the W gateway of the empire's granary is in the hands of their governments. If these governments are fortunate in having practical men to frame their policies of land settlement) are far-seeing enough to turn the key and fling those gates wide to the men of the same race as those who have already passed through, they will assuredly reap their reward. When Canada obtains the populations she needs so badly, she will find that the mich y harvest of which she is so rightly proud to-day will be eclipsed by the still mightier harvests of the years to come."

The national settlement schemes of the Canadian Colonization association exactly answer the requirements as here set forth. It is in the direction of bringing this uncultivated land into use and placing thereon settlers primarily of British stock that the association is working. Canon Bertal Heeney, writing in commendation of these articles in the Times, before the Colonization association had made its announcement, declares: "In my opinion, the Canadian government has at present a sterile policy on immigration, and England is dead to the imperative present opportunity in her nearest dominion." "It is not too late," he proceeds, "to keep Canada thoroughly British—but it may be in a few years." As if to reassure the canon comes this well-worked-out scheme to place British settlers on the land and to help them to establish themselves in the Dominion. In this scheme both the Canadian and the British governments are co-operating to the full, and there is nothing "sterile" or "dead" about the comprehensive plan about to be put into operation.

A DIFFICULT ECONOMIC PROBLEM

There are many strange anamolies in modern world politics, and even the British House of Commons, usually so stable and consistent, has been compelled to resort to some singular expedients in order to safeguard British commercial interests. For months past there has been almost universal discussion of the question of how to make Germany pay, and it was quite generally agreed that the chief part of the payments, however and whenever made, must be in goods. That is, Germany must be prepared to deliver, and her creditors receive, the largest possible quantity of goods.

This appeared to be an incontrovertible position, yet the House of Commons has decided that the country cannot safely admit even one small class of goods manufactured in Germany out of material provided in Britain. The importation of these will henceforth be checked by a duty aggregating 33 1-3 per cent, lest a British industry should be injured. And this happens in a presumably Free Trade country at a time when the universal complaint is that Germany is not paying, that is, not producing for the benefit of her creditors the goods which they, or their statesmen, speaking in their name, are passionately demanding. What, then, might be expected to happen if Germany really were paying, that is to say, actually pouring out in the quantities demanded by her creditors the goods in which alone she can pay her debts?

The answer to this question is a completely baffling one. If Free Trade Britain is in a turmoil about fabric gloves, what would be the case with Protectionist France, supposing German hardware, pottery, silks, cottons, chemicals, began to descend on her in a flood proportionate to the thousands of millions of gold marks declared to be owing? Is it possible to get some faint idea of it from the protests of French interests which, so far, have prevented any of the quite sensible schemes for supplying German labor and material for the devastated areas from reaching the practical stage.

In debating this question, the Manchester Guardian says: "There is, of course, no doubt that if Germany did really pay on anything approaching the scale demanded of her, the entire allied world, ourselves included, would rush in pani to throw up any sort of dyke to keep out the flood. They would judge, and quite rightly, that the gift for a few years of an indigestible quantity of goods could be no compensation for the destruction of industries on which they depended for their permanent supply.

Nevertheless it is still worth while for reasonable people to consider this question on their own hypothesis that they want Germany to pay and will be benefitted by her paying. The figure fixed now stands at six thousand five hundred millions sterling and we in this country find it inconvenient to absorb 626,000 pounds worth of German fabric gloves in a year. Yet M. Poincare, whose countrymen have a far greater objection to absorbing foreign manufactured goods than we have, has for months past been standing out against the reduction of this total. Supposing he could have his way. What good would it possibly do him? How is even a third or a fourth of it to be paid in any way which will be acceptable to French manufacturers or not bring the innumerable French interests that object to foreign competition clattering about M. Poincare's head?"

This is the dilemma. The Allied nations, and particularly including France, want Germany to pay for reparations claims. To receive her manufactured goods means impoverishment. The only way was for the Allied Armies to have completed the march to Berlin, and demanded a gold indemnity sufficient to repair Belgium and France, under the direst penalties, to be paid forthwith. This would have been the German method toward France. This policy, however, did not prevail and the probability is that Germany will escape the indemnity just as surely as she frustrated the punishment of her war criminals.—Brantford Expositor.

After all, force seems to be the only argument that the Turkish mind can understand.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

COAL SITUATION

Editor of the Evening Examiner,—

Owing to the natural anxiety of the people with regards to the coal supply for this coming winter. I may here mention some remarks of Fuel Controller Ellis for the Ontario Government to me during a conversation.

That there is no reason whatsoever for the price of coal to be any higher this year than last. That the price of coal at the pit is the same last year (I think he said eight dollars).

That the miners started work on condition that the price of coal should remain the same price as it was last year at the mine.

That there should be plenty of coal by December for all people but it would be advisable to burn substitutes, such as wood, etc., up to Christmas. The cause of high priced coal is often caused by demand, so that if people do not get panicky, burn wood, etc., up to Christmas. There well be plenty of coal to supply everybody at last year prices. That no coal will be taken from Peterboro local dealers, for other places than Peterboro.

Watch out for coal boot-leggers who never handle coal, but purchase small quantities to take advantage of panic, and charge excessive prices. These give an easy excuse for raising the price of coal.

To sum up the remarks of the Ontario Fuel Controller, there is no need for alarm providing care is used by the public using substitutes up to December, keeping a good supply for the colder part of the winter at a reasonable price.

I give these remarks as I received them for what they may be worth.

THERE is no prettier kitchen ware than SMP Diamond or Pearl Ware. Diamond Ware utensils are light blue and white outside and milk-white inside. Pearl Ware utensils are grey and white inside and out. Beautiful ware!

Cleanliness!

There is no cleaner, brighter-looking kitchen ware than SMP Diamond or Pearl Ware, and there is none easier to keep clean. Soap and hot dish water are all you need, because grease, dirt, stain, taint or tarnish can get no grip on SMP enamel. It's so hard and smooth. Wipes sweet and clean like china.

Durability!

There is no more durable kitchen ware than SMP Diamond or Pearl Ware. With reasonable care, good glazed steel cooking utensils last for years. Diamond and Pearl utensils are made of open hearth steel—heavily coated with a specially tough, hard, porcelain enamel. There is no better enameled ware made.

CAMPBELLFORD IS MAKING IMPROVEMENTS TO STREETS

Big Truck Took to the Ditch--Changes in Bank Staff --Waterfront News --Fingers Cut Off.

Signs of Development
Watch Campbellford Grow

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 19. — The road and bridge department has started to grade, widen and generally put in shape that winding road known as the English church hill. At the bend they will cut in 12 feet, having purchased this portion of the Turner property, which will make a 32 foot roadway at this point, tapering down to 26 feet on the straight road. A 4-foot culvert is also being put in at the church and Kent street crossing, and with a cement buttment on the river bank at the foot of the hill, with danger light on top, will make the going safer and bring joy to the many motorists who use this important highway.

Big Truck in Ditch.

A large truck loaded with ice, and owned by Longs Limited, and driven by Charles Whitehead, took the ditch on a bad piece of road opposite the Trent Valley mills on Monday morning about 9 o'clock. What I Have Learned in 47 Years Practice

I HAVE been watching the results of constipation for 47 years, since I began the practice of medicine back in 1875. I am now 83 years old, and though from time to time the medical profession makes some wonderfully interesting experiments and tests, the fundamentals of causes and relief in this particular ailment are unchanged.

But the people take greater interest today in their health, in diet, exercise and the drinking of water. Constipation, however, will occur from time to time no matter how one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. I believe in getting as close to nature as possible, hence my remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It is made of Egyptian senna and pepsin with agreeable aromatics. Children will not willingly take bitter things. Laxative Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written me to that effect.

Over 10 million bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin are now sold every year, and it is the most widely bought family laxative in the world. I say family laxative because all in the family can use it with safety. It is mild enough for the infant in arms, effective in the most chronic constipation of an adult. The formula is on every package.

Recently there has been a new wave of drastic physics. Calomel, a mercurial that salivates and loosens teeth, has been revived; salt waters and powders that draw needed constituents from the blood; coal tar disguised in candy form that causes skin eruptions. In a practice of 47 years I have never seen any reason for their use when a medicine like Laxative Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping, and without shock to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It lowers your strength 28 per cent, hardens the arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope but go to a druggist and get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin. It is a generous-size bottle. Take a teaspoonful that night and by morning you will be well. The cost is only about a cent a dose. Use Laxative Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, piles, indigestion, loss of appetite or sleep, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

I REPEAT MY FREE OFFER
$10,000 worth of trial bottles of Laxative Syrup Pepsin free

Last year I agreed to spend $10,000 cash for free samples of my Laxative Syrup Pepsin, and send them free and postage paid to all who asked. A tremendous mail was the result. But there must be many who did not write. I would like to get their address this time. So I now renew my offer, in remembrance of my approaching 84th birthday, and will again devote $10,000 to free samples. I am anxious to see one in every home. Write for yours today. Simply give me your address. Send it to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 21 Caldwell Building, Toronto, Ont. Mine is truly a free gift; it costs the public nothing.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Visitors to the Village Getting Ready For the Fair.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 19. — Mrs. Stonehouse, of Toronto, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Gladys spent the week-end visiting Mrs. W. H. and Miss Patience Byam.

Mr. Wilfrid Elson is a member of the staff judging at the various rural school Fairs throughout the county for the current three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Rowland and family, of the 4th Line, Cavan, were visitors to Peterborough on Saturday attending the Exhibition.

Colonel and Mrs. D. Sutton, of Cobourg, are visiting their son, Mr. Austin Sutton, Fallis Line, at present. They have been guests of Mr. Wilbert Walsh, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Fallis, and other friends, during their stay on the Line.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Fallis and family were visitors to the Peterborough Exhibition on Saturday.

Mr. Howard Collins went up to the city on Monday morning.

A. J. Henderson and son have been successful in winning three first prizes with their heavy draught horses at the Peterborough Exhibition last week.

In addition to a number of first and second prizes won by Mr. Ira Nattrass with his fine new team at Oshawa, Peterborough and other Fairs, he secured in Peterborough two silver cups, one for the third time, so it becomes his property permanently, and for the first time the other came into his possession.

The dates for the Millbrook Fair are scarcely three weeks distant (Thursday and Friday, October 5th and 6th), and now is a good time, for those who haven't already been doing so, to begin and "boost" the Exhibiton, since we have no reason to feel other than proud of this annual and successful event. A splendid list of special prizes has been secured, and the directors are doing everything in their power to make the occasion "bigger and better" than ever. Citizens generally will unite in hoping that the unfavorable weather of the past two years will not be repeated in 1922.

Mr. E. Hansman, of Port Hope, was the guest of his sister, Mrs. H. W. Johnston, over the week-end.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19. — Canadian Press.)—Soaring prices and big buying the wheat market yesterday accompanied word of giant war moves on the part of Great Britain. The value of wheat rose nearly six cents a bushel, but heavy selling to realize profits led to a material setback before the day ended. Closing quotations were unsettled, at a net gain of 3 1-2c. to 4 1-8, with December $105 5-8 to $1.05 3-8, and May $1.09 7-8 to $1.10. Corn finished quarter cent to 5-8 cents up, and oats up 3-8 and 1-2 to 3-4 cents. In provisions, the outcome varied from 2 cents decline to a rise of 5 cents.

There's one organ in the human body that "kicks back" when it gets weak and that's the stomach. No stomach on earth can operate without vitamines-and-iron. The same thing is true about the nerves. There is hardly anything that can happen to the nervous system that is not at once reflected to the stomach. Weak nerves! weak stomach! Nature has only one answer; more vitamines ironized! But remember that Ironized Yeast is not a mere mixture of yeast and iron, but is yeast ironized, which is a substance all by itself. This is why Ironized Yeast produces almost immediate results in cases of loss of appetite, aversion to food, belching, gas on the stomach, fermentation, "lump-of-lead" feeling after eating, dyspepsia, indigestion. There is only one Ironized Yeast in the world; it contains yeast-vitamines-with-organic-iron, the very natural food-power which every strong stomach and every strong nervous system possesses. The answer is, ironize! vitamin-ize! Ironized Yeast, is sold at all drug stores at $1.00 a package. Each package contains 60 tablets, each tablet is sealed. They never lose their power. Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., Toronto, Sales Agts. Take Ironized Yeast, you'll enjoy eating, and digest thoroughly everything you eat. That's life!

CHINA PAINTING

Mrs. Langley McCarthy Teaches Biscoff's New and Beautiful Work in CHINA PAINTING

Some staggering constipation facts; Know how Kellogg's Bran can help you!

Ninety out of every one hundred people suffer with constipation! Constipation is the direct cause of breakdowns in old age, lowered vitality and ninety per cent of illness!

Do you realize that nearly every case of constipation is traceable to neglect in answering nature's call! In a few years the sufferer has "latent constiphtion"—the most dangerous form of all! Toxic poisons penetrate the intestine walls, polluting the blood, which in turn poisons and affects every organ in the body. Nearly every case of diabetes and Bright's disease can be traced to constipation or intestinal poisoning, as can most rheumatism, headache, brain fag, hardening of arteries and other organic diseases.

Pills and cathartics can never afford you permanent relief. What you need is nature's most wonderful roughage—BRAN—Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled—and delicious in flavor and edibility! Bran will permanently relieve constipation when taken regularly—at least two tablespoonfuls daily; in severe cases, with every meal! Your doctor will indorse Kellogg's Bran for constipation!

Kellogg's Bran sweeps, cleans and purifies the eliminative tract as nothing else can—and, being a nature food, it creates no habit. Bran's work is a revelation!

Serve Kellogg's Bran to the entire family as a cereal, with other cereals or in countless appetizing ways such as in muffins, pancakes, raisin bread, etc. Recipes on every package.

All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, in the "WAXTITE" package.

P. S.—Kellogg's Bran, eaten regularly, will clear up a pimply complexion.

A GREAT REMEDY

Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets are composed of roots, barks and herbs, and are a natural remedy for rheumatism, constipation, eczema, stomach, kidney, liver and nervous troubles. If they fail to effect a cure, we gladly refund your money. The fact that we have not been called upon to refund one dollar in the last year is evidence of their great curative qualities. If you have never tried them, send at once for a box.

An Unfailing Way To Banish Hairs

(Beauty Notes.)

Ugly hairy growths can be removed in the privacy of your own home if you get a small original package of delatone and mix into a paste enough of the powder and water to cover the hairy surface. This should be left on the skin about 2 minutes, then removed and the skin washed and every trace of hair will have vanished. No harm or inconvenience can result from this treatment, but be sure to buy real delatone.

MAY NOT NEED MILITARY AID FROM DOMINION

Information to Cabinet at Ottawa From Imperial Government of a Reassuring Character.

NEAR EAST MENACE

OTTAWA, Sept. 19. — (Canadian Press).—After last night's sitting of the Cabinet, the Prime Minister announced that the Dominion Government had received a reply from Premier Lloyd George to the effect that the former was not at liberty to make public the text of the British invitation, but that the substance of it might be given out. It is as follows:

"This official message is a statement of action taken by the British Cabinet on September 15, and it asks whether the Dominion Government wishes to associate itself with the action the Imperial Government is taking, and whether Canada would desire to be represented by a contingent."

Canada's reply to this message, which was drafted at last night's Cabinet meeting, and cabled immediately to London, is as follows:

"It is the view of the Dominion Government that public opinion in Canada would demand the authorization of Parliament as a necessary preliminary to the despatching of a contingent to participate in a conflict in the Near East. We would welcome the fullest information possible in order to decide upon the advisability of summoning Parliament."

"Such information as we have," the Prime Minister stated to the press last night, "is of a wholly reassuring character." The feeling of the Government, it is understood, is that the situation in the Near East does not now and is not likely to call for any military participation by Canada. However, if any unforeseen and large emergency should arise, the people of Canada, through their Parliament, which would be specially summoned, will have the fullest opportunity to express their desire.

CROP REPORTS

Following is the summary of reports made by the agricultural representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Dry, hot weather late in August and early in September made the ground so hard that fall ploughing and cultivation were hindered, and heavy rains following also prevented the sowing of fall wheat. Several representatives are of the opinion that this will lessen the acreage of that grain, although some sowing is now being made. Bruce, however, puts the local acreage at about an average, and says that some young fields are now looking fine after the rains. Halton is afraid that the average farmer seeds his fall wheat two or three weeks too early for the control of the Hessian fly.

Silo filling is in full swing all over the Province, and there is general satisfaction so far over the quality of the corn, both as to stalk and ear.

Kent says: "The late tobacco is making excellent growth, and the farmers are expecting a large crop. A considerable quantity of the earlier planted tobacco has been harvested, but it is not ripening as rapidly as was first thought."

Farmers in Kent, Norfolk, and adjoining counties have been heving a difficult time harvesting and drying their beans. Some second cut of alfalfa has been destroyed by rain.

A five-acre field of peas in Renfrew yielded 200 bushels from the mill, which sold at $2.50 a bushel.

Red clover kept for seed has not filled well as a rule, and many farmers are cutting it for hay.

Apple growers in Middlesex are being offered $1.00 a bushel or No. 1 apples on the tree, or $4.75 f.o.b. car.

Bees have been doing well this summer all over the Province. In many apiaries tops had to be added in order to take in the dark honey.

Agriculture is progressing in New Ontario. The Port Arthur representative says that a good deal of fall ploughing has been done already, especially that for next year's potato crop. On Manitoulin Island a large number of farmers have built silos this year.

Grey says: "Some farmers are looking for stockers, but prices asked are high for many purchasers. Some are being brought in from the Stock Yards at prices, the feeders think, will be remunerative. The new crop is now being used to finish quite a large number of hogs. Lambs are not being shipped very freely, with the result that many are becoming too heavy. Stallion owners report a somewhat heavier season than last year."

Middlesex and Halton also report the bringing in of several carloads of feeders, as fodder is plentiful.

Lambton reports that those who have shipped cattle overseas claim that the returns are more satisactory than if they had disposed of them at home.

Bruce says that some heavy cattle are to be seen on the grass. A carload of cattle was shipped from Walkerton on Saturday.

In the county of Dundas, good springers and fresh milkers are bringing from $65.00 to $75.00.

Lennox and Addington reports that prices for milk at cheese factories vary from 90c to $1.15 a hundredweight. The Farmers' Dairy is paying $1.30 for 3.3 per cent. milk, and the Belleville Creamery 32c a pound for butterfat.

The hen appears to be coming into her own in Lennox and Addington. The representative says: "Many farmers are going into poultry on an extensive scale, as shown by the fact that it is common to see four to six hundred chickens and fowl on one farm."

Little pigs are selling in Lennox and Addington at six weeks old at from $10.00 to $14.00 a pair, and at nine weeks old for $16.00 a pair.

Lambton states that a few Swiss labourers will be placed on farms for winter help.

THE MYSTERY MIND

Arthur B. Reeve and John W. Grey

"Haloo" came the answer.

"This way Help" she cried.

Approaching slowly in the darkness, they found her finally. Strong arms helped her aboard. Then one of the men lighted a lantern so they could see her. As the rays fell on his face she started back, utterly aghast. It was Case, the hunchback.

"Well, what do you know" came the ejaculation behind her. "It's a small world, after all."

She turned. Renard

There was a stir at her feet. A figure she had not noticed, huddled up on some tarpaulins and covered with a cloak, stirred and rose. It was a girl, and there was no mistaking her hard little laugh. Vera Collins

"What did the Strangler try to do with you?" demanded Vera. "Did he get fresh?"

Violet's first impulse was to refuse to answer. But somehow she detected a subtle difference in the attitude of these others; as if they intended no ill will, for the present at least. She decided not to antagonize them needlessly.

"He told me I had to become his—his girl," she said.

"See" Vera was triumphant. "I told Evil Eye that we couldn't trust the Strangler; that he would play his own ends."

"What did he do?" asked Renard, of Violet.

"He said if I wouldn't he would choke me to death and throw me into the water. I told him I would jump into the water of my own accord first, and I did."

"Well, we're lucky," admitted Renard, turning to Vera. "It would have been bad enough for the Strangler to have killed her after Evil Eye saying she must be brought to him alive, but it would have been worse to have her escape." He faced Violet. "Will you sit quiet if we don't tie you?" he asked. "It's a long trip," he added.

"I—I guess so." She was disheartened now as she began to realize the real nature of her predicament.

Both Case and Renard were at the oars. As they took them up again she noticed they were weaving in and out upon the breast of the main current of the receding tide; that they were headed generally in the direction of the Sound. It was this course which had led her to believe them from the islands beyond Kelso Beach. Also she saw that they extinguished the lantern and she wondered at their purpose.

"It might be behind us," suggested Vera, sitting up now and taking an interest. "She was swimming. It was only floating."

"You didn't swim very fast, did you?" queried Renard, turning to Violet and resting on his oars. "You just paddled, didn't you?"

"I didn't use much effort," she confessed, sulkily, to conceal her curiosity. What was floating?

"As for me"—this was the first word from Case, in an ill-humored wheeze—"I don't see the sense in trying to find a stiff somewheres out on miles and miles of water at night."

"I know this channel like a book, Case," protested Renard. "It'll be carried right out to sea, as all the others were, and the water runs along here in a space not over eight feet wide, and it's no harder than following a river on land."

"Suppose it don't float. What then?"

"Then we're not in luck. Then we have nothing on our friend the Strangler.

As Renard spoke there was a slight bump. They had struck some obstacle. A moment later a cry of exultation from Case warned Violet that they had found the object for which they searched. When they started to haul it aboard she understood. It was the body of the Gun Moll That was what they meant by getting something "on" the Strangler. That was the reason of this midnight search. That was why they happened upon her, in the tidal current sweeping away from the pavilion at the Portola.

As the grim, sodden thing was deposited in the bottom of the boat a loose, clammy hand fell over and upon her stockinged foot. At its touch the horror and gruesomeness of the whole night swept into her consciousness with keen, fresh realization. She felt a nausea steal her control of her faculties Mixed with it was unreasoning rebellion. She rose, suddenly. With a cry she plunged over the rail again, mouth open, eyes wide, into the waters of Jamaica Bay once more.

She awoke to find herself lying on a bed, her clothes still wet, an intense fatigue evident all over her body. She tried to rise, only to discover she was so dizzy that everything in the room swam before her eyes. It, she guessed, was the result of all the water she had swallowed. Feeling her clothes, she decided it could not be more than an hour—two hours at the most, since her experience out upon the surface of the bay

Unquestionably she was in the hands of her enemies. Turning her head, she saw beside her, knitting silently, the hatchet-faced woman she had learned was Lydia, the wife of Case, the hunchback.

MATUHING BONDS

Holders of 1922 Victory Bonds who have decided to exchange their maturing bonds for new bonds carrying the same rate of interest, under the proposals of the Minister of Finance, which are now being advertised would do well to surrender their bonds at once, rather than delay until September 30 approaches. When the bonds were first issued in 1917 the 1922 maturity was a favarite with small investors, many of yhom were byuing bonds for the first time. Consequently, there are many, many thousands of individual holders and it would be a great help to the banks and the Department of Finance in carrying through the conversion expeditiously, as well as a convenience to the holders themselves, if they would turn their bonds into the banks as early as possib'e.

BEGGARS MAKE MILLIONS, ETC.

passing. Men can get work. There are plenty of institutions to take care of the crippled and helpless. The public mind wants to see these street nuisances stopped. I think the police and the Magistrates are going to do a good job of it."

Similar opinions were expressed by Mr. Godfrey, who corroborated other information that there were probably 5,000 professionals and that their cash takings were rich. Major Edward Underwood of the Salvation Army, who has studied the mendicancy game thoroughly, and has even posed as a beggar to see what the profits were like, said that twenty-five out of every twenty-six beggars are rank frauds, not one of them picking up less than $15 or $20 for a few hours whining and lying. Magistrate Peter Hatting wants the people to take warning against misplaced sympathy for beggars. The Fifth Avenue tnd Thirty-Fifth Street associations, along with the Broadway, are in the fight. Altogether, it looks as if the merry mendicants are up against it.

FRENCH CABINET FOR A "PACIFIC" POLICY

PARIS, Sept. 19. — (Canadian Press.)—The French Cabinet to-day unanimously approved what is characterized as the "Pacific" policy of Premier Poincare in the Near East and withdrawal of all French troops from Asia Minor to the French side of the Straits of the Dardanelles.

The Cabinet went firmly on record as being opposed to any form of military action as a means of settlement of the Turco-Greek situation. It emphasizes the necessity of reaching an agreement through diplomatic channels and eventually by a peace conference.

BY STUART P. WEST.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(Special)—In all the markets today a more favorable view was taken of the European situation. No experienced observer believed Monday's commotion was anything resembling a genuine war scare. There were too many essential characteristics missing. But whatever uneasiness there had been was considerably modified this morning despite the apparent determination of other European Allies to let England go to it alone in opposing the Turks.

French Government issues recovered both here and abroad and so did British consols.

The Foreign exchanges were decidely better, with sterling across $4.42 again and Francs back over all and more of the ground lost the previous day.

Cotton improved, while wheat options fell sharply. Stocks had a fair although somewhat cautious rally and a better demand appeared for investment bonds. This prompt, if not thorough, reversal made itself quite plain that Monday's price movement was the result of speculation exploiting the Turkish news rather than any expression of concern in baking and commercial circles. Wall street opinion was not a unit on the question of whether the Turks and British would actually clash, but the great majority felt that England's extensive preparations by sea and land would have the desired effect, and that the trouble would be adjusted through diplomatic channels... In speculative quarters it was held that the shake out in stock would have come under any circumstances.

As for Monday's upturn in the wheat it was plausible and satisfying explanation that the grain trade in the prolonged decline of the summer, had exaggerated the slackness of the foreign demand and was ready on any suitable pretext, for such a sharp recoil.

On the stock exchange the recovery was naturally most pronounced in shares which had most felt the force of short selling. Mexican Petroleum was one case in point, Mercantile Marine preferred was aother. At the same time the pools in various industrials got to work again, the most conspicious of these movements occurring in Austin Nichols Utah securities, the Zinc and South American stocks and the express company shares.

BRITAIN WILL ACT ALONE IF NECESSARY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Harding expected to send the Bonus Bill with veto to the House to-day, but action may be delayed until Thursday owing to New York's delegation being away for primary elections.

Lord Curzon sent to Paris to confer with French on details of measures to be undertaken in the Near East crisis.

Britain determined to maintain the freedom of the Dardanelles and will act alone if necessary. Reinforcements being despatched.

Premier Poincare urges Cabinet to refuse to grant aid to England in military action against the Turks.

Canadian Pacific, second week of September 3,774,909, decrease 560,000; from January first 110,661,000, decrease 11,632,000.

Average price 20 Rails 91.97, 1.4.

Bryant Brothers' Monday letter says: The foreign situation was used to depress stocks to-day and prices declined 1 to 5 points. The fact that sterling was only off about a cent indicates that the European situation may have been exaggerated. However this may be, weak holders threw over their stocks and in so doing the technical position of the market has been improved. Steel sold down 2 points to 103, and later recovered half the loss. The general market acted in much the same manner. Famous Players was quite weak, being off nearly 5 points at one time. Rails as a group had much better support than industrials, this being natural in view of the fact that rails have not advanced to the same extent. At to-night's close Rock Island and Texas and Pacific look especially attractive.

BRITAIN ISN'T BLUFFING

LONDON, Sept. 19. — British Government is determined to go through with its program of defending Dardanelles neutral zone against Turkey and is not bluffing when it states that every resource of the Empire will be pitted against the Kemalists. This was made plain in communique issues from Downing St., during the meeting of Cabinet when word was coming in that France and Italy will not fight.

MINES RECOVERING TO-DAY

TORONTO, Sept. 19.—Mines did much to-day to recover their drastic declines of yesterday. The political news from Europe was more favorable and Sterling was up one cent.

Atlas and Teck Hughes were features with gains of seven and a half and six half respectively.

Hollinger sold at 1275 or up 25 points. Davidson that did not show in yesterday's decline sold around 29 Dome at 36 3-4 is off nearly three points from last weeks price. For a quick rally this stock looks the best on the board.

BRITISH CABINET MAKES DECISION ON STRAITS.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(Dow Jones Bulletin to Bryant Brothers).—Following Cabinet meeting it was announced that in no case will the Kemalists be permitted to cross the Straits of the Dardanelles until terms of peace terms have been established. The Government, it was stated, is satisfied that any such move could be stopped by naval action alone. Lloyd George left for the country, determined not to call another Council until Lord Curzon, Foreign Minister, and Lord Beatty return from their Paris mission.

TURKISH INVASION

from seeking war, it is doing its utmost to prevent one, and that to this end it is necessary to impress Kemal Pasha with the fact that Britain will not allow him to march on Constantinople, enter Europe, overthrow Thrace and probably set the Balkans ablaze. This view, however, does not make the least impression on government opponents, whose newspapers to-day renew their bitter attacks upon Saturday's pronouncement of policy. Labor leaders especially are up in arms against what they describe as the Cabinet's madness, and declare that workers are determined to prevent another war.

THE TURKISH POSITION.

CONSTANTINOPE, Sept. 19. — (Canadian Press.)—Mustapha Kemal Pasha, leader of the Turkish Nationalists, has requested the Allies to permit his army to occupy Thrace, insisting that the Dardanelles question can be discussed later with all Black Sea countries participating.

He declared it was vital that Nationalists should occupy that territory in order to liberate the Moslem population which he said was oppressed by Greeks. At the same time Nationalist representatives here informed the British High Commissioner that the Angora government, by virture of treaties concluded with Soviet Russia and Ukraine, cannot accept the invitation of the powers for a conference confined only to discussions of the Dardanelles question, unless delegates from Russia and Ukraine are allowed to participate.

NEWFOUNDLAND READY.

LONDON, Sept. 19.— (Canadian Press.) — Prime Minister Lloyd George received from the Acting Premier of Newfoundland this morning the following message: "Ministers appreciate position taken by His Majesty's Government and Allies and are in fullest sympathy. Believe that, as in the past, Newfoundland will be ready to render all assistance available.

ANOTHER CABINET COUNCIL.

OTTAWA, Sept. 19. — The Cabinet Council is again in session today on the Near Eastern crisis, and meetings are expected to continue throughout the day. So far as can be ascertained the governmnt has not yet received a definite reply to communications addressed to the British Government, and to Canadian delegates at the League of Nations, with a view to ascertaining whether the situation that exists in the Near East is one which would justify summoning of a special session of parliament. "But it is expected that replies will be received in the course of the day, and the government will then be in a position to determine whether a special session of parliament is necessary.

POINCARE IS ENDORSED.

PARIS, Sept. 19.— French Cabinet backs Poincare in decision against military action in Near East.

CABINET MEETS AGAIN.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The British Cabinet meets again to-day to discuss the Near East situation.

CONCEDE PART OF THRACE.

LONDON, Sept. 19.— (Canadian Press.)—The possibility that the Allies might consider a return of part of Thrace to the Turks in a projected peace conference became a matter of speculation this afternoon as a result of inquiries by newspaper men in well-informed quarters. The following non-committal sentence was given out in a semi-official manner:

"Ministers have confirmed their decision that in no case will Kemalist troops be allowed to cross into Europe until peace terms are established.

The Press Association says the inflexible determination of the British government that Kemalist troops shall not be permitted to cross the Straits clearly applies only to the existing situation, and that this is the attitude taken up pending a settlement of terms of peace, and without prejudice to that settlement."

Scotland Yard to Look Into Delorme

MONTREAL, Sept. 19—(Canadian Press).—Alienists, possibly from Scotland Yard, are to be called in to form a special commission which will examine Father Adelard Delorme to decide finally whether or not he is insane.

This question is reported to be receiving the serious consideration of Provincial authorities, and is being discussed with keen interest by Father Delorme's closest friends and aides.

Gayer, Brighter, Fresher with every washing

Those smart, dazzling cretonnes, so cheerful and gay—how are you going to wash them?

Not any old way, just because they are cotton—think how much they cost! You can't afford to risk their fading.

Palmolive Princess Soap Flakes are the answer—because they were perfected for the cleansing of fine materials. Women use them to wash their delicate crepes, satins and silks—all the fragile blouses, frocks and lingerie which need special care.

They protect the color and beauty of fine, expensive cottons, the sheer voiles, dainty batistes and fine ginghams which "regular" laundering makes so dull and drab.

Mild as the finest toilet soap

In color they are snowy-white, in form a curly flake which neither packs nor mats and dissolves to the last particle.

These wafer flakes produce the thickest and stiffest of creamy suds which dissolves dirt and freshens material.

Woolens won't shrink and they dry soft as new when washed with Palmolive Princess Flakes. Sweaters, leggings, caps and mittens, blankets—how soft, warm and sweet-smelling because Palmolive Princess Flakes are refined with a touch of perfume.

Saves clothes and saves money

Clothes wear out quickly because the ingredients of common laundry soap weaken the threads and start breaks in the fabric. If washed with pure soap like Palmolive Princess Flakes you will get longer wear.

Ordinary laundry soap is wasteful because it is more than half moisture and filler. Palmolive Princess Flakes are pure, whole soap and therefore go so much farther that their use is actual economy aside from their saving of clothes.

You should use them for every laundry and household purpose. They are the ideal soap for use in washing machines.

Economical and Convenient

Palmolive Princess Flakes come in handy pound packages—order one or two today.

Begin using Palmolive Princess Flakes for fancy washing and general laundry work. Palmolive Princess Flakes are the last word in soap—your money's worth in quality, convenience and actual soap value.

Keene Wins East Peterboro League-St. Louis Lost To Yankees

Yanks Beat the Browns With Ninth Inning Rally

New York Lead Again Increased to a Game and a Half—Toronto Won An Eleven-Inning Battle.

AMERICAN.

New York 3, St. Louis 2.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., September 19 (Canadian Press). — After holding a lead on the New York Americans, the Browns permitted the visitors to come from behind in the last inning and take yesterday's game, 3 to 2, thus increasing the Yankees' lead to one and a half games.

Up to the last inning the contest was a pitchers' battle, with Davis of the Browns getting the best of his battle with Bush. Davis weakened in the ninth. The visitors took advantage of two hits and an error, and scored the tieing and winning runs.

By taking yesterday's game, the visitors also took the series, having won the first game on Saturday.

The Browns' only victory of this, the crucial series, was due to Pruett's great pitching in Sunday's game. Having lost yesterday's game, the Browns are now conceded but little chance to win the pennant.

Sisler, the Browns' first baseman, broke his string of hitting in consecutive games, after getting at least one hit in forty-one consecutive contests, thus establishing a new modern major league record. The previous modern record was made by Ty Cobb, when he hit safely in forty consecutive games in 1911.

Although the Browns are scheduled to meet the weaker teams of the League, while the leaders will play Detroit and Cleveland, it is believed unlikely by fans that the Yankees will lose their lead of one and one-half games. Score:

New York	000000012—3	6	0

CLEVELAND, O., September 19 (Canadina Press). — Philadelphia made it two out of three from Cleveland yesterday, winning 4 to 3. Edwards allowed fewer hits than Rommell, but sacrifice flies beat him. Score:

HARRIER CLUB HAS A GOOD TURN OUT.

The Harrier Club had a good turnout last evening. The boys had a snappy run, and were accompanied by Charlie Thorpe, who gave them some valuable tips as to poise of body, speed and distance.

The younger fellows went about two miles, the older lads covered nearly three miles. A large number of boys are taking part in the training, and are enthusiastic about The Examiner road race on 6th November. All boys intending to run in these races should begin training right away in order to get into shape.

Mr. Thorpe is planning a novelty for the runners in the shape of a cross-country run, taking the form of hares and hounds or paper chase. This will likely take place some Saturday afternoon in the near future.

The next meet of the Harriers is on Monday evening at 7.45 at the Y.M.C.A. Mr. Thorpe invites all runners, and would-be runners to come out on Monday.

"NEWSY" WON'T PLAY.

MONTREAL, Sept. 19.—It is definitely announced that "Newsy" Lalonde, veteran lacrosse and hockey player, will not handle a stick in the east this year.

ORIOLES WHO MUST BE SOLD

READING FROM LEEFT TO RIGHT; TOP, THOMAS, OGDEN AND BISHOP BOTTOM, BENTLEY, JACOBSON AND FRANK.

BALTIMORE, Md, Sept. 19. — Three, maybe five, of those famous Baltimore Orioles are going up this fall. No wonder they smile.

Jack Dunn, Baltimore owner and manager, has done something that only one man before him ever did—he's developed a team that's too strong for the company it's in.

The Orioles must be scrapped, but the scrapping will bring Dunn a handsome profit.

Against his own wishes, against the wishes of Baltimore fans and against the wishes of a lot of baseball men around the country, Dunn is being forced to dismantle the machine that won three straight pennants and at this moment of writing has a lead of more than 19 games in the race for the fourth straight flag.

Many years ago Connie Mack built a baseball machine that was too good for the big leagues. Then he tore it down—from choice, not because of any ultimatum.

Now Jack Dunn has been told by the other club owners in the International League that he must sell at least three of his stars this fall. They threatened to put the draft back on the league if he refused. He submitted.

For two years nearly every big league club has bidden for the star Oriole players and Dunn laughed.

The Cincinnati Reds offered $60,000 for Jack Bentley. Dunn laughed.

The Giants offered $150,000 for three players—Bentley, Joe Boley and Jack Ogden. Dunn laughed some more.

But now they're for sale.

Bentley and Boley—$100,000 each.

Max Bishop—$75,000.

Jack Ogden and Merwin Jacobson—$50,000 each.

Tommy Thomas—$25,000.

Harry Frank—$25,000.

Dunn will sell three of the lot. These are about the prices he expects.

adopted resolutions limiting certain competitions and suppressing others altogether. In future at women's sports meetings in France held under the control of the General Federation of Women's Athletic Societies, the following limits will be adopted: Sprinting, 80 meters; cross country races, maximum, 2,500 metres. No long jumps will be permitted, but the high jump is to be maintained. The hurdlees will be 83 metres with seven hurdles, 75 centimeters high; but in certain cases these are to be reduced to 50 centimeters. The weight putting maximum will be 3 1-2 kilograms. The weight of the discuss is fixed at 850 grams, and the javelin two kilograms, 800 grams.

Diamond Dust

In spite of his style Sisler should get back into the game Sunday and was of material assistance in helping the Browns hand the Yanks a trimming.

* * *

The first game of the play off for the Central League championship will be staged in Belleville tomorrow.

* * *

Cobb's greatest year was in 1911 when he had an average of .420. This is a mark for Sisler to shoot at.

* * *

"To help settle an argument" pens a reader, "just how much speed has Walter Johnson left?" We passed this query on to a well known umpire who has worked in many games for many years. "Johnson," he reported "has a lot of his old speed. The hop is no longer so pronounced. But he is still the speediest pitcher in the American league. He has more sheer raw smoke than any other I know of after all these years. But the stuff that once almost blinded every batsman that faced him is no longer quite the same. The remarkable feature is that after sixteen years of zipping them through space the Washington veteran should still be able to outpace the field."

* * *

Through an error, Belleville was credited with twelve victories and two defeats in the final Central League standings yesterday. It should have read, won 11 and lost 3, which is the same as the standing Peterborough held in the first half of the schedule.

* * *

The winner of the Keene-C.G.E. series will play off with Picton.

THE SPORTS WRITER.

"Pretty soft for you sport writers,"
I can hear them say;
"Gee—you birds are lucky blighters,
Watching all this play.
Say, but this old world is funny
In the way it's set;
Why, they even pay you money
For the fun you get."

"Watching Ruth or Ouimet clout it
In the golden sun,
Then you write a line about it,
And your work is done.
All you touring sporting writers,
Following the ball,
I'll say you are lucky blighters,
Summer, spring and fall."

Sadly I might start debating
On our lives so grey,
Of the cares and hardships waiting
Through a working day.
But the more I think it over
At a game or fight,
We are pretty close to clover,
And I guess you're right.

If somebody whispered to me,
"You can have your pick,"
If kind fortune came to woo me
Where the gold was thick,
I would still, by hill and hollow,
Round the world away
Stirring deeds of contest follow
Till I'm old and grey.

Sport is youth—and youth's eternal
Where the flame is bright;
And our hearts will still be vernal
When our hair is white.
And though wealth may never love us,
Say that we have seen
That the sky is blue above us,
And the turf is green.

—Grantland Rice.

A meeting of the Comrades Football Club will be held on Thursday evening at 7.30 o'clock in the hall of the Park street Baptist church Important business will be brought up and all players and all members of the Executive are asked to be present.

E. P. L. TITLE WON BY KEENE TEAM

Lakefield Forced to Default When Tom Doughty Broke His Arm—Keene to Play C.G.E.

When Tom Doughty, Lakefield's twirler, broke his arm in the third inning of the Lakefield-Keene game yesterday afternoon, the Lakefield team had no one to put in his place, and the game went to Keene by default.

At the time of the accident the score stood 5 to 2 for Keene, but Doughty was going strong, and had every prospect of pulling out with a victory.

The victory gave Keene the championship of the East Peterborough League, and the possession of the Ed. Wright Trophy, emblematic of the honour.

Keene must now meet the C.G.E., City Intermediate champions, in the play-off for the O.B.A.A. Intermediate championship, and arrangements have been made to play the first game in Keene on Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

A date has not been set for the C.G.E. home game, but it will also be played in the near future, for the winner of this series is scheduled to play-off with Picton next week in the O.B.A.A. Intermediate series.

CONVERSION PROPOSALS

THE MINISTER OF FINANCE offers to holders of these bonds who desire to continue their investment in Dominion of Canada securities the privilege of exchanging the maturing bonds for new bonds bearing 5½ per cent interest, payable half yearly, of either of the following classes:—

(a) Five year bonds, dated 1st November, 1922, to mature 1st November, 1927.

(b) Ten year bonds, dated 1st November, 1922, to mature 1st November, 1932.

While the maturing bonds will carry interest to 1st December, 1922, the new bonds will commence to earn interest from 1st November, 1922, GIVING A BONUS OF A FULL MONTH'S INTEREST TO THOSE AVAILING THEMSELVES OF THE CONVERSION PRIVILEGE.

This offer is made to holders of the maturing bonds and is not open to other investors. The bonds to be issued under this proposal will be substantially of the same character as those which are maturing, except that the exemption from taxation does not apply to the new issue.

Holders of the maturing bonds who wish to avail themselves of this conversion privilege should take their bonds AS EARLY AS POSSIBLE, BUT NOT LATER THAN SEPTEMBER 30th, to a Branch of any Chartered Bank in Canada and receive in exchange an official receipt for the bonds surrendered, containing an undertaking to deliver the corresponding bonds of the new issue.

Bonds of the new issue will be sent to the banks for delivery immediately after the receipt of the surrendered bonds.

The bonds of the maturing issue which are not converted under this proposal will be paid off in cash on the 1st December, 1922.

ARE OFF TONIGHT FOR BELLEVILLE

Second Game in the Series Will Be Played Here on Saturday.

The first game in the play off between Belleville, winners of the second half and Peterboro, first half champions for the Central Ontario League honors will be staged tomorrow with the second game here on Saturday afternoon.

The series promises to be the most exciting in the history of the Central Ontario League.

Belleville finished the second half with 11 wins and 3 losses, the same record the Petes made in the first half, although the Solomon crew had to go on and win another game to break the tie with Oshawa. On the season's record the Petes have won more games than Belleville but the latter's showing in the second half is two games better than that made by the Peterboro gang.

The two teams have broken even on the games played between them. Belleville won their home games by 4-2 and 3-2, while the Petes beat Belleville here 4-3 and 8-7 the last fixture going eleven innings.

Tomorrows game is called for 3 o'clock with Boundy of Cobourg behind the plate and Barnes of Cobourg and Butler of Lindsay on the bases.

The Petes will motor to Belleville tonight leaving Peterboro at 7 o'clock.

WIFE CHARGED WITH SLAYING RIVAL FOR A HUSBAND'S LOVE

Jesse Meadows, the husband, killed in a train accident a year ago, is mentioned several times with yearning.

The name, "Phillips," presumed to be the man whose wife is charged with killing Mrs. Meadows, occurs but once, without comment.

There also is a mysterious 'Dick.'

A passage dated April 22 reads: Lillian and Genora (Mrs. Meadows' sister) went to Mt. Wilson for Easter. I went to church and to McElroy's for dinner. She fixed a lovely table. Met Mr. Phillips. Went to show with Lucas. Went to movies last night with Lillian. Going somewhere to-night. Sure hate to stay home.

May 30—Took wild flowers to Jesse's grave. I could hardly stand there and see his name engraved in that place. Still I'm glad I had it done. Dick hasn't phoned for two days. I wonder if he's out of town. He certainly puzzles me. Every time I see him he acts differently. I can not quite understand his actions and yet I feel sorry for him in a way. There seems to be so many mismated couples in the world.

June 15—Went to McElroy's last night and Dick was there. Oh, what a sad disappointment. He isn't what I thought him to be. I'm certainly glad I awakened while the sun was still shining.

June 21—A year ago Jesse and I were sitting on our front porch wondering where we would be to-day. I hate to look ahead now. All I desire is to look back and dream over memories, never to be forgotten.

June 22—Going to beach to-night with Gilbert. Don't expect to have a good time. Last night Lucas came just after Gilbert went. Planning a bathing party next Saturday.

There the diary ended.

The Government is capturing enough copper stills to mint sufficient pennies to supply all demand for years and years.

Little Lessons For the Golfer

(By George O'Neil.)

Another good method is this: Get the ball on a line with the nose. Point left toe toward the hole. Forward press the hands slightly, then let the putter swing back like a true pendulum. Hit the butt of the ball. Follow through close to the ground. Watch your back stroke and keep it straight. Don't let the wrists roll. This roll of the wrists is what throws the ball off its direction more than anything else. Let the putter head pass through the ball on a straight line. Do these things and you will be a fine putter—maybe.

The golfer who understands that the swing of the club is an exact science, not a hit or miss undertaking, will attain exact results, with practice. The club must be just so at the top of the swing, and when it is the result will be precisely what is wanted of the ball. Any golfer can accomplish it, and when he thinks of giving up the task let him but think of this man, a one-armed champion of France—Yves Botcazou. Note that the club is in perfect position for a fine drive, and that the absence of the left hand subtracts nothing from this swing.

AT THE ROYAL.

NEW SCREEN TRIUMPH BY WILLIAM FARNUM.

Not to see William Farnum's splendid new picture, "A Stage Romance," means missing a photo-play that seldom is equalled for interesting plot and for acting of a high order. This William Fox production opened yesterday at the Royal Theatre, where it will continue until to-day and to-morrow.

play gives Farnum a particularly gripping story with which to display his talents. Alexandre Dumas, pere, from whose play the picture was made, is often called the world's greatest plot builder. Furthermore, the story concerns a crucial period in the life of Edmund Kean, the illustrious actor.

Social intrigue among highest families in England enmeshes Kean, and in a startling dramatic incident he commits a rash act against no less a personage than his friend the Prince of Wales. The outcome, as told in "A Stage Romance," makes this picture one of the most surprising ever seen. Herbert Brenon directed.

Capitol Entertainment

A typical Wallace Reid production is "The Dictator" at the Capitol Theatre for the first three days of this week. The versatile Wally, with his infectious smile and his gay, debonnair manners, dashes through a romantic drama that shifts in scene from Los Angeles to a tiny Latin-American republic, where there as a spectacular war scene, between rebels and regular troops. Volcanic action and rapid-fire movement characterize a picture in which the popular star does some of his best work. Falling in love with the daughter of one of the leaders in the excitable little South American republics Wally follows her to her home, and becomes involved in a revolution of her father's making. His adventures in the peppery atmosphere of his sweetheart's home call forth all the powers of the clever star with situations that brim with suspense, mystery, and the brand of humour which this movie hero has made so likable when mingled with his ingenuous smile and powers of swift-moving action. Lila Lee has the role of Juanita, the pretty daughter of the "liberator" "Dr. Rivas, played by Theodore Kosloff in his usual fine style.

There is an excellent comedy in "Stolen Glory", and the programme includes several short and interesting reels.

"LOVES OF PHARAOH" IS AT THE CAPITOL

Notable Picture Will Be Seen in Peterborough Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

At the Capitol Thursday, Friday and Saturday there will be shown a production which ranks with the works of the greatest artists who are presenting pictures to-day in all parts of the world—Europe, America and the Orient are featured in this picture but the actual filming took place in Egypt where Paramount had the artists on location.

In a short article, Robert E. Sherwood, of "Life," the best known and perhaps the most severe critic of motion pictures in America, pays a tribute to "The Loves of Pharaoh," which none can fail to understand. "Emil Jannings, Harry Liedtke, Paul Wegener and Dagny Servaes, if there has ever been a finer combination of dramatic talent in one photoplay, that film has not yet been reviewed in the motion picture department of 'Life.' Above and beyond all of which is the fact that 'The Loves of Pharaoh,' is wonderfully well directed. The story centres about the ill-advised affection of Pharaoh Amenes for a slave girl. For her sweet sake, he plunged Egypt into war and the black hordes of the Ethiopians descend upon Thebes even as the homeward bound throngs of toilers descend upon the subway each evening at five fifteen. "The Loves of Pharaoh,' is a splendid example of what the movies ought to be and, ninety-nine times out of a hundred aren't."

New Screen Discovery.

When Pola Negri was already at the top of the ladder of success and about to sign a contract with Paramount, the director discovered Dagny Servaes playing dramatic roles on the stage in Vienna. Her father is a critic on the staff of a newspaper, and Dagny seems to have inherited brains along with the beauty which is hers by nature. She is the ideal person to play the role of Pharaoh's love. Her work in this romance of ancient Egypt which will be seen Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Capitol Theatre, proves that the director was right—that the lovely star is a beauty—as pretty as they make 'em, not frail, not heavy, but just right. Her features are Grecian, without the classic coldness.

An eminent New York newspaperman, Randolph Bartlet, in a letter to the New York Times, says of the picture for which he and Julian Johnston wrote the titles, "This Paramount picture, shows the best elements of American technique and continuity, grafted upon the best direction Lubitsch has ever displayed." Superb, remarkable, tremendous, and almost every other word known to express the superlative degree have been used to praise this great production — none of them is too good for this epic of the moving pictures which will be at the Capitol.

AT THE GRAND.

JIMMIE EVANS' REVUE.

There is no flagging Jimmie Evans and his revue company. The popular entertainers commenced their third week to capacity business at the Grand last night with the revue "Let's Go" preceeded by a twenty minute Irish playlet "Shaun's Farewell." The bill proved one of the best in the Evans repertoire and demonstrated that the organization has unlimited resources in costumes, skits, song numbers and dances for every number in the sparkling programme was new. The Irish opening was very effectively staged and gave an opportunity to Grace Gould, Burt Ryan and Jimmie Evans to sing some of the ever popular Irish song hits "The Tumble Down Shack in Athlone," "Mother Machree" and "The Wearing of the Green." Joe Devine has a monologue in which he imparts some iside information to the audience in a manner that is irresistibly funny. Kittens Fraser sings "I'm Just Wild About Harry" the song hit from "Shuffle Along" in great style. Burt Ryan puts over the tuneful "Sally, Irene and Mary" most successfully. Roy Elles and Dolly Jollymore's dancing number is as usual one of the hits of the bill. Helen Whitmore gets a chance in a solo dance and makes good, and other members of the company score their usual successes. There should be big business tonight and tomorrow for "Let's Go."

"THE EMPEROR JONES"

Peterboro is offered a dramatic thrill of an unusual nature in the visit to the Grand on Thursday night of Charles Gilpin in Eugene O'Neil's striking success "The Emperor Jones." Peterboro is to have the origial cast and production, being one of a few Canadian cities who get a chance to see this wonderful play. The play goers of this city are in a sense being put on trial. If a production such as "Emperor Jones" is not well patronized this city is not likely to have an opportunity of seeing other big successes this season. "The Emperor Jones" stands in a class by itself and should be greeted by a capacity house.

DEMPSEY AND BRENNAN SIGNING

Bill Brennan and Jack Dempsey signed up all right for their fight, which was to have been held at Michigan City, Ind. The only trouble was the chief executive of the Hoosier State couldn't just see it, and he put the "tin hat" on the whole affair.

The Indiana law governor says he permits boxing, but forbids fights, and he very strongly suspected that the Dempsey-Brennan affair would savour strongly of the latter.

The two gladiators, besides autographing the articles, posted their forfeits for the big encounter, which, when it is staged, will decide the heavyweight championship of the world.

The question now is, where and when will this little set-to be held? Numerous places have been suggested, but nothing definite has been done yet, and it will probably end up by the bout being called off altogether.

full damages by the defendant for the use of the house. Under his notice generally speaking he might be fully entitled to what he claimed, but in this case I will place it at say $10.00 for the two months; but in my judgment justice will be done by allowing this item too go to against the wages for the plaintiff's work, although I may not be logical in saying so, but it is a case of equity and good conscience.

As to the plaintiff's claim for insufficient acommodation for poultry and pigs, he did have a place for his poultry, he did not have any for pigs, but never complained about that until the difference took place between them. If he had wanted to keep a pig no doubt arrangements could and would have been made for him.

The result of it all is that the action must be dismissed and with costs. The allowance I make on the counter claim I will set off against the unpaid wages, although strictly speaking the rent of the house should be given against the plaintiff in addition. I will give him the benefit of any doubt as to that with the above result.

REV. THOS. JOPLIN ON ANNUAL TRIP

Missionary to the Lumberjacks Seeking Financial Assistance.

Rev. Thos. Joplin of the Lumberjacks' Mission, is visiting Peterborough and will stay at the Y.M.C.A. over Sunday. It is nearly two years since he was last in Peterborough in the interests of the missionary work in which he has been long engaged. He is soliciting subscriptions for the work of the missions among the three hundred and fifty thousand lumbermen in Canada, of whom fifty thousand work in Northern Ontario. This mission confines its endeavors enticely to the men of the Canadian woods and in that sense has a special appeal to the Canadian people and especially those who desire to promote and assist missionary work in these quarters.

Asked as to lumbering prospects this winter, Rev. Joplin declared that the industry will be busy. One firm, which operated one camp last year, is planning five this. Big orders have been given by railroads for lumber for ties. The C.N.R. requires two million ties, which will take several years to secure.

WEDDING BELLS

BLACKWELL—THOMSON.

A pretty wedding took place on Tuesday, 5th September, at 1.30 p.m., at St. Paul's Anglican Church, Newmarket, when Florence Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Thomson, Millard Avenue, was married to Francis Wilfred Blackwell, of Darlingford, Manitoba, son of J. A. Blackwell, Peterborough, Ont.

Canon T. G. McGonigle officiated, and Mrs. M. Boswell played the wedding march.

The bride, who was given away by her uncle, Mr. George Morton, of Pittsburgh, Pa., looked very pretty in gown of shell-pink crepe de chine, with lace and pearl trimming, and wore a veil which had been worn by the bridegroom's mother. She carried pink Ophelia roses.

Miss Erma Wardell, cousin of the bride, dressed in pale blue and carrying pink and white asters, made a pretty little flower-girl. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and white ribbons by the girls of the W. A., of which the bride was a member.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, at which only the immediate relatives were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Blackwell will take up their residence in Darlingford, Manitoba, where Mr. Blackwell is manager of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal.—The Newmarket Express-Herald.

The Resolutions.

In the consideration of new business, the question of the automobile ferry service from Cobourg to Rochester was referred to the Executive Council, for action in co-operation with Rochester, Cobourg and other municipalities affected. With regard to motorists' camping ground the following resolution was passed:

"Whereas, it is our belief that it is desirable to encourage the motor tourist traffic to this city, and where as, all progressive municipalities are establishing convenient camping sites for motorists, therefore resolved, that we, the members of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, strongly recommend that a committee of representatives of the City Council and the Ontario Motor League, Peterborough branch be appointed to investigate the possibility of utilizing King Edward Park or any other site as a motorists' camping site, to be available for use next year, 1923."

Consideration of acquisition of Armour's Hill by the city was referred to the city planning committee, to consult with the city council as to the advisability of again submitting a by-law for this purpose.

With regard to immigration, the president reported on the meeting of representatives of Chambers of Commerce of Ontario, which was held in Toronto, and recommended that the Chamber should support in every way possible the activities of the Canadian Colonization Association, which organization is at present representing the Imperial and Dominion Governments, the provincial government and the railways.

Thomas Tooms, M.L.A., also spoke on the subject and the desirability of securing British immigrants of the farmer type, both with and without capital. William Rudkins also believed that all classes should support the immigration policy as adopted, and also referred to the quality of labor conditions in Ontario for manufacturers, as compared with Quebec.

In considering the Fish Hatchery a resolution was adopted requesting of the Utilities Commission the use of the Waterworks Superintendent, to take the measure of the flow of water at Harper's Creek, which was the location admitted by the Deputy Minister of the Department of Mines as the most suitable. A report of same will be forwarded to the Department.

Re morning postal delivery on statutory holidays and Civic holiday the delegates to the annual convention at Owen Sound on September 21st and 22nd were recommended to bring this matter to the attention of the Associated Board of Trade, suggesting that post offices remain open for a few hours in the morning of these holidays, so as to allow business men particularly to secure their mail.

A resolution was adopted, recommending the extension of the provincial highway, connecting up with the Kawartha Lakes system via Lakefield on the east side of the river from Nassau, continuing through on the same side to Young's Point, and the west side of Burleigh, this recommendation to be forwarded to the special hotel commission and also to the Department of Public Highways.

Fire Prevention

Chief Gimblett gave a short talk on Fire Prevention Week, which will be held from October 2nd to 9th and asked the co-operation of all present in reducing the fire loss in Peterboro. The Chief reported Canada's fire loss for 1921 as $45,000,000; with Ontario's fire loss in 1920 as $11,771,718, with 9296 fires and $15,444,817 in 1921, with 9813 fires. In the first three months of 1922, there were 2517 fires, with a total fire loss of $3,517,242, and in the next six months 4968 fires with a loss of $6,671,702. In Peterborough County, the fire loss for the first three months of 1922 was $7,244, with 41 fires, and in the next six months, $22,232 with 49 fires Canada's loss for the first six months of 1921 was $15,711,050 and for the first six months of 1922, $20,092,750, an increase of $5,000,000 or 30 per cent. Ontario for the same periods showed a reduction of 48 fires and $700,000. During 1921, there were 73 persons killed and 91 persons injured in Ontario.

The president reported a few complaints from citizens in reference to the fire apparatus leaving the city for fire purposes, and in reply thereto, Chief Gimblett suggested that the outlying townships be approached, with the idea of paying a stated amount for the apparatus being used which would entitled them to service of this kind.

The meeting confirmed the action of the executive council in appointing the president, Mr. J. J. Duffus, and the secretary, Mr. Leon Frazer to act as delegates to the annual convention in Owen Sound on Thursday and Friday of this week, when 34 resolutions will be considered. UNANIMOUS CALL TO REV. J. R. WEBB

From the King Street Baptist Church of Kitchener.

An item in the "Toronto Star" of yesterday stated that the Baptist Church at Kitchener, Ont., had extended a call to Rev. J. R. Webb of this city to become its pastor. When asked about this to-day, Mr. Webb stated that he had no knowledge of the fact that his name was being placed before the church at Kitchener, but that at a late hour on Sunday night he had received a message stating that the church had entirely revised its financial programme and that such a call had been extended.

The Examiner to-day saw the letters of the clerk, Mr. H. Johnston, C.E., and Mr. R. D. Lang, of the Lang Treacy Co., both of whom stated that the call was unanimous and that the church had made financial arrangements such as they had never attempted before, and that no statement would be given to the press until they had some encouragement from Mr. Webb.

The matter coming so recently to the pastor of Murray Street Church makes it impossible for him to say what action he will take.

DECLARES THE KAISER IS WONDERFUL LOVER

Official Announcement of the Engagement Today—The Bride-to-Be is a Firm, Ambitious, Wealthy Widow.

FAMILY CONFERENCE

By Ferdinand Jahn, United Press Staff Correspondent.)
(Copyright 1922, by United Press.)

SAABOR, Silesia, Sept. 20. — The Kaiser is a wonderful lover, friends of his fiancee, the Princess Hermine, said to-day.

"Wilhelm is all fire and flame," they declared.

Fervid love letters from the Kaiser to his princess all but swamped the little post office here. Some of the more endearing epistles were delivered through a third party, Wilhelm—"the aged hermit of Doorn"—as some call him — evidently fearing his most precious love phrases would be disclosed.

The Princess' announcement today that she would leave here November 13 for Doorn and marry the Kaiser November 5, was a blow to the Monarchists, led the Crown Prince and his wife, who are doing gall in their power to break off the match.

Friends of the Princess state that she is going through with the marriage in spite of all opposition. The Junker party plans to send a delegation to Doorn in an effort to break off the match.

Crown Prince Wilhelm and his wife fear that if the former "war lord" actually marries the Princess Hermine—who is a firm, ambitious, wealthy widow —she will rule the household at Doorn and seize the reins of the Monarchist movement in her own strong grasp. This the Crown Princess especially wishes to avoid.

Sympathy in Germany for the lonely Kaiser will be lost if he weds, the opponents of the match claim.

Hermine has only been to Doorn once and that was last June when she remained four weeks. The Kaiser's most ardent courting is believed to have occurred then. Before she left here she said to her friends, when asked where she was going:: "Oh, I know where I'm going. I'm on my way to visit our Kaiser at Doorn."

She was as happy as a little girl when she returned and was over bubbling with enthusiasm, her intimates said.

But the "course of true love never did run smooth," and as the gossip went around that Wilhelm and the Princess weer in love, the opponents of such a match began organising to outwit cupid just as if they had been boy and girl sweethearts.

Romantic June.

Before the romantic June at Doorn, the Princess had many visits from Royalists, but since then she had been snubbed altogether by them.

Hermine is strong, muscular and above medium size. She has long chestnut tresses and her brown eyes sparkle with cleverness.

The Kaiser's beloved is energetic and business-like, closely supervising her estate and household.

Not so long ago she bought a newspaper and changed its policy over night. When she made the purchase the paper was Liberal in its views. The next day it was an urgent supporter of the Monarchist group.

Two of the Princess' daughters, one of twelve and another of four, together with a son of nine, will make the trip to Doorn with her.

Hermine's first husband, a lieutenant in the Prussian Guards, was killed when he fell from a horse in 1920.

Although she is of nobility she allows her children to play with the peasant neighbors. The correspondent saw one of her boys romping with a dirty faced peasant child on the estate of Hermine.

The Princess' full name is Hermine Von Schoenaich-Garalath and she is mistress of the ancient Schoenaich castle thfat dates back to the eighteenth century. She is the descendant of a proud line of Reuss nobles.

The Kaiser and his fiancee who seems to become happier and gayer daily, are not disturbed by the endeavors of the Crown Princess and other Hohenzollerns to force a cancellation of wedding plan.

Wilhelm is deaf to the plea that such a marriage will knock the props out from under the Monarchist movement as Royalists will no longer be able to picture him as a lonely exile. They represent that, as a bridegroom he will not excite much compassion in Germany.

The former Kaiser took the offensive against those who want him to remain a widower when he first got wind of their plans. He thought he could checkmate their moves by making an unexpected announcement of his engagement which he proceeded to do—thus taking them by surprise.

Nearly Prostrate.

The Crown Princess' feelings in the matter are influenced to some extent by her deep affection for her mother, the former Kaiserin, who died at Doorn April 11, 1921. Her father's announcement of his plans for marrying again nearly prostrated the Crown Princess. She suffered from severe crying spells and had been very despondent since the news was made public. Princess Hermine has done her utmost to assuage the feelings of the Crown Princess, but without avail.

Princess Hermine, in spite of her wealth and the fact that she comes of a family which once headed a miniature kingdom of its own in Thuringia, is making plans for a very simple trousseau. This is not due to parsimony—although some of the inhabitants here hint that she is rather economical— but rather that she believes she should have simple clothes for a simple wedding. Her gowns will probably be made by a small tailor at Breslau. The marriage will, according to present plans be conducted under the Dutch civil laws— a very plain affair, with no royal frills whatever.

Both the Kaiser and the Princess Hermine, who are to marry at Doorn November 5, have been married before and have large families. Wilhelm is 63 years old while his bride to be is only 35.

SLASHED THROAT WITH HIS RAZOR

Lakefield Man Attempted Suicide--A Probationer From Asylum.

John McCliggott, who was released on probation from an asylum a few months ago attempted suicide by slashing his throat with a razor at the home of his sister, Mrs. James McManus, Lakefield, at 9 o'clock this morning. The blade missed the jugular vein by the width of a hair, and made a wound four inches long on the left side of the throat. Dr. Smith of Lakefield, who attended him said McCliggott would recover, and he will likely be returned shortly to the asylum at Mimico. He had gone upstairs this morning about nine o'clock, and his sister shortly afterward heard him mumbling I've done it, I've done it". She immediately discovered his condition and Dr. Smith was promptly called.

AN AGREEMENT ON NEAR EAST NOW PROBABLE

Representatives of Great Britain and France Get Together—A Naval Effort.

MAKING PROGRESS

PARIS, Sept. 20. — (Canadian Press). — An agreement between Great Britain and France on the near eastern problem seemed reasonably assured after two and half hours conversation betwen Prémier Poincaire and Lord Curzon, British foreign secretary at the French foreign office this forenoon.

The British Foreign Secretary was notably cheerful and optimistic in his bearing. He joked with newspapermen but was willing to be drawn in to confidences, Premier Poincaire who followed him out of conference chamber was equally reticent.

"Not a word" the French Premier said but he was smiling pleasantly and there was every indication that satisfactory progress toward an accord had been made.

The two ministers outlined to each other at great length the views of their governments, and considerable progress was believed to have been made towards an understanding.

Lord Curzon is understood to have informed M. Poincaire that Great Britann would insist upon absolute freedom of the Straits of Dardenelles and would insure this freedom by the presence of a large fleet.

The British Foreign Secretary, however, is said to have intimated that the British military effort in the Near East would be confined to the Navy which gave rise to the impression that British troops would soon be withdrawn from Chanak.

Premier Poincare informed Lord Curzon that France's attitude was decidedly pacific, its chief aim being to make peace as soon as possible. He urged immediate calling of peace conference for final settlement on basis of Turks remaining on Asiatic side. Two ministers agreed on the necessity of maintaining freedom of the Straits, although it is understood there may be some difference of opinion on the character of control to be exercised.

Lord Curzon arranged for a private conversation with Count Sforza Italian representative, prior to the opening of the Allied conference this afternoon at which French, Italian and British representatives were to be assisted by various experts, of whom Admiral Beatty is one.

TREATY BETWEEN CANADA AND U.S.

Virtually Agreed Upon at Conference of Premiers

OTTAWA, Sept. 20.—(Canodian Press).——Virtual agreement as to the advisability of negotiating a treaty between Canada and the United States for control of Lake of Woods was apparent at a conference between the Prime Minister of the Federal Government and the Provincial Government of Manitoba and Ontario and Governor Preus of Minnesota, which adjourned at half past one this afternoon. This afternoon the conference will be continued and views of technical officers of the Government as to the feasibility of certain proposals will be advanced and considered.

It is understod that the only question at issue is in regard to the scope of proposed treaty. The State of Minnesota is anxious that the treaty should cover not only waters of the Lake of Woods, but also Rainy Lake. While agreeing as to the advisability of negotiating a treaty covering Lake of Woods. Premiers Bracken and Drury are understood to be undecided as to the advisability of including Rainy Lake in its scope. Further consideration will be given the matter this afternoon.

OPTIMISM AT OTTAWA IN REGARD TO THE NEAR EAST

No Meeting of Cabinet Today and European News is Taken to Mean That Tention Has Been Relieved and the Crisis Passed

OTTAWA, Sept. 20—(Canadian Press).—Optimism prevails in cabinet circles regarding the Near Eastern situation.

So far no meeting has been called for to-day, and this fact with more re-assuring news from Europe, is taken to imply that the tension has been relieved, the crisis virtually passed.

All members of the cabinet who have attended the emergency meetings are in the capital, and may be summoned in a few moments should trouble arise. Although no official statement is issued there is confident hope expressed here that conversations in progress among French British and Italian governments will lead to a peaceful settlement of the points at issue.

Further cables received from Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Ernest Lapointe added to the reassuring news of yesterday. Every effort was being made, it was said to overcome the difficulty without recourse to force of arms. And it was considered probable that the final settlement would be a matter for the League of Nations.

RUSSIA INTENDS TO SUPPORT THE TURKS MORALLY

And Will Furnish Munitions if Required—The French Have Withdrawn Troops From Chanak.

LATE DESPATCHES

MOSCOW, September 20 (Canadian Press). — Russia intends to support the Turks morally, and perhaps will give them munitions if should be required; but it is considered in Moscow as extremely unlikely that Rusisan troops will be sent to assist the Kemalists if they attempt to take Constantinople.

While preferring the Turks to the Allies as possessors of Constantinople, it is understood that Soviet leaders have decided not to take any steps which might lead them into a real war with Britain.

Some of the Russian leaders declare Constantinople should be Russian, but next to that they prefer it Turkish, being strongly influenced from Moscow.

Russia is tired of war, and the leaders are pledged to the task of reconstructing the country.

BRITISH FORCE ALONE.

LONDON, September 20 (Canadian Press). — Official confirmation was received here to-day from Constantinople, stating that the French had withdrawn their troops from Chanak, and that the Italians were apparently doing the same thing.

The British force is remaining alone at that point.

WORKING NIGHTS ON WOOD ORDERS

Hodgson Bros. Sawing Right Around the Clock at Their Yard.

Rushed with orders for wood, Hodgson Brothers, at the corner of Dalhousie and Bethune Streets, have been working night and day in an effort to meet the demand that was stimulated by the recent change to damp and chilly weather.

The gasoline engine operating their saw has been running around the clock without a break, and on Monday and Tuesday the total cut was approximately 50 cords.

Some of the residents of that neighbourhood complained about the noise of the saw at night, but permission was obtained from Chief Newhall upon the representation that the work was necessary if the needs of the people were to be supplied.

PEACE CONFERENCE OF EIGHT NATIONS.

PARIS, September 20 (Canadian Press). — The Allied conference on the Near Eastern question decided to-day to call the peace conference of the eight nations interested in the settlement, to determine the terms of peace.

The conference will consist of representatives of Britain, France, Italy, Turkey, Greece, Japan, Roumania, and Jugo-Slavia.

British Subjects Leave the Capital

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 20.— Information that Kemal Pasha is preparing to launch an attack for the possession of the Dardanelles in spite of the exhortation of Gen Pelle, French high commissioner, is causing undistinguished anxiety in Allied Military circles in the capital. Many of the British subjects leaving the city. The Bolsheviki for a long time past have been transferring quantities of gold and precious stones to help equip Kemal Pasha's army.

MURDER TRIAL AT BELLEVILLE OPENS

Maurice Barrie Charged With Slaying Former Employer.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 20.—(Canadian Press.)—The trial of Maurice Barrie, charged with the murder of his former employer, George Wesley Moult, in Tyendinaga township on June 29, started this morning before Mr. Justice Latchford.

The prisoner stated that he had no counsel and Major R. D. Ponton undertook to defend him, at the request of the Judge, who expressed regret that Barrie had not had the benefit of counselling with counsel before the trial.

The first witness was a provincial officer, R. F. Davis, who produced a panama hat which was punctured by two bullet holes and was found with Moult's body. He testified to the finding of a 22 calibre rifle near the body. An empty shell of 22 calibre and loaded sheils of the same size were found in Barrie's room in Moult's house.

Lillian Moult, widow of Wesley Moult, took the stand shortly before noon and practically repeated the evidence she gave at the inquest concerning the movements of Barrie on the day that her husband is said to have been murdered.

FIRE ON CHARLOTTE STREET.

An alarm rung in from Box 25 at ten minutes to one o'clock this morning called the Fire Department to Messrs. Dwyer and Collins' Auto Tire Repair Company's shop at 195 Charlotte Street. A line of hose was laid, and the fire extinguished after some difficulty, owing to the dense smoke from burning rubber. The damage, amounting to somewhere in the neighborhood of a hundred dollars, was caused by spontaneous combustion.

MINISTER WAS WELL PLEASED AT RECEPTION

Hon. W. R. Motherwell Finds the Natives Here Very Ambitious, etc.—Kennedy is Still Sick.

WILL GO SOUTH

G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., has received a letter from Mrs. Kennedy, wife of the Hon. W. C. Kennedy, Minister of Railways &Canals, advising him that Mr. Kennedy could not come to Peterborough to take the trip over the Trent Canal System this year, on account of his being confined to the Ross Memorial Hospital at Montreal, due to a serious operation he has recently undergone.

Mr. Gordon recently wrote to Mr. Kennedy at the Ross Memorial Hospital, Montreal, suggesting that he should come to Peterborough and remain here, or take a trip over the Trent Canal waters, while he was convalescing, but his physicians decided that Mr. Kennedy should go south for a few weeks, as his present state of health prevented him from accepting the more active vacation suggested by Mr. Gordon.

A Right Smart Town

The local member received a communication this morning from the Hon. Mr. Motherwell, asking him to convey to the President and Board of Trade, and Mayor and City Council, his appreciation of the very courteous treatment extended to Mr. Motherwell when he was here and the Minister intimated that he desired on other occasions to come to Peterborough.

Mr. Motherwell, in leaving, said that he was amazed at the tremendous industrial development of Peterborough, and her capacity for manufacturing as soon as business moved in a way to warrant everything running full blast. He further said that he had not seen a smarter city in Canada, of the same size, than Peterborough, and her streets, places of business, and the large number of brick houses here, were indications of the progressive and ambitious spirit of the Peterborough people.

COMMITTED REG. WINCH FOR TRIAL

Accused of Having Obtained Money Under False Pretences.

Reginald Winch was committed for trial this morning by Magistrate Langley on the charge of having obtained $190 from Solomon Segal under false pretences in the bootlegging deal in which Segal's purchase of 42 bottles of Scotch turned out to be water.

P. C. Thomas who was called by the Crown testified that he had searched Winch's home on Crescent street and found 114 bottles in the cellar and 24 in the shed. They were all wrapped in cartons similar to those which Segal handed over to the police when he made his complaint and their contents was insipied water with the exception of one bottle which contained neither good wafer nor hootch.

Sergeant Inspector Reid said that from the appearance of the wrappers the bottles looked as if they had come directly from the vendor.

Mr. J. A. O'Brien, defendant's solicitor, declined to put in any defense at this hearing.

FRUITLESS SEARCH FOR DAN SINCLAIR

Scores of Boats Are Dragging Scugog Lake

LINDSAY, September 20. — The search for the body of Dan Sinclair, who is presumed to have been drowned in the Scugog Lake near his cottage on Sunday, continues, and as yet no trace of the missing man had been found.

Relatives and friends, as well as the citizens in general, are pursuing the search with all diligence and energy.

Some fifteen or twenty boats are at the spot, and the men are working in shifts. The extremely heavy weed beds make dragging difficult.

POOR OUTLOOK FOR ANTHRACITE COAL

One Local Dealer Advises Householders They'll Be Fortunate Should They Get More Than Half Normal Supply this Winter.

35,000,000 TONS COAL SHORT IN MINING

The slight frost on Sunday night, followed yesterday by wet, raw and chillingly, penetrating weather, generated in the minds of the average householder visions of ice and snow and below zero conditions, impelling him or her to reach for the phone in search of fuel. For, excepting a fortunate few whom we have always with us, the majority of coal bins are startlingly bare, and anthracite an exceedingly elusive heating mineral those days following a miners' strike since April last.

Peterborough is a "cold" city in a cold winter country, averaging many degrees colder than in Toronto, and a note of warning is sounded that its residents should prepare for trying experiences, calling for economy in and conservation of fuel, use of which should find no place in the "I must have" category. A prominent and reliable coal dealer advised yesterday that people should accept the inevitable philosophically and rest content to make shift the best they can with whatever fuel is available, such as hardwood, peat, mixed wood, domestic coal or coke, until Christmas. But, he added, hardwood is an exceedingly scarce commodity today, both in the city yards and district. As for anthracite coal, he stressed his opinion that, for instance, the householder who ordinarily consumed from six to eight tons a winter, this year should not anticipate getting more than half that supply. While, so far as he is concerned, a few cars might seep through in the next month or two, he had no determinable shipments in sight.

Another dealer expects, so the phone reply read, all kinds of coal in three or four weeks. But these expectations are unstable reeds to lean on. Not long ago Toronto dealers declared that there would be plenty of coal soon and at little, if any, price increase. Well, it seems one can't get a settled price for future deliveries here, nor fixed date for future supply. It is pretty safe to say that as so many factors enter into the question of coal reaching Peterborough, citizens must resort to many shifts and turns during possibly three months, for, comparatively, fuel is and promises to be amethyst in price and quantity.

To give an idea of how this long strike of miners must affect the domestic coal situation, the following facts should be borne in mind. Under normal conditions to meet the demand hard coal is mined all the year round, and there are over five months' non-production in arrears. The year's production of anthracite in the U. S. mines, on which Canada depends, up to September first was 35,000,000 tons below normal, and, it is estimated by an authority, that, do what they will to recover shortage, the total year's output of hard coal will be the lowest in recent history.

Then there is the question of transportation. From now onward rolling stock and rail right-of-way are needed for carrying bumper crops, especially from the West; and just at a time when trackage and rolling stock will be in requisition for hauling coal—bituminous and anthracite—as fast as mining can produce it. These are factors which may also militate against coal supply this winter.

And so, as to again quote an expert authority, "the deficit in hard coal cannot be made up; it behooves householders to obtain a measure of relief by using gas, coke (which is made from soft coal), wood, peat, all sorts of combustibles." Above all, economize. Even in quite cold weather hardwood on a coal bed will give a comfortable heat, conserving the coal; and pea coal, which may be more available than nut or stove sizes, on a larger coal bed can be resorted to, saving the scarcer anthracite commodity.

In any event, looking over the situation locally, householders will be wise not to take too optimistic a view regarding anthracite in the near future, as when Americans are advised that its shortage can never be made good this winter, Canadians should sit up and take heed.

SHOT IN SIDE AT RICE LAKE

Fred G. Smith Seriously Injured by Accidental Discharge of Gun.

Fred G. Smith, 535 Bolivar street, was pronounced out of danger at the Nicholls Hospital last night from the effects of a gunshot wound in his left side caused by an accident at Hatrick's Point, Rice Lake, on Sunday morning. Mr. Smith has a cottage at the point with Mr. R. J. Wolstenholme, and was spending the week end here. Early on Sunday morning he went out for a ramble taking his shot gun, and was later discovered by several boys at a fence, the gun one one side and Mr. Smith on the other with a serious wound on his left side. It is believed that while crawling through the fence he pulled the gun after him and it exploded as it caught on a rail.

The flesh on the left side of his body along the ribs was torn off, it was at first thought that the accident would prove fatal.

Mr. Smith was rushed to the Nicholsl Hospital by Mr. McFadden, and this morning was reported much improved and past the stage that had greatly alarmed his friends.

BELLEVILLE GETS A NEW INDUSTRY

Worn Out Rails in This District Can Be Reclaimed—To Employ 35 Men.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 20.—A rail sawing mill has been established here by the Grand Trunk Railway Company. The outstanding facts about this new industry are:

Will employ an average of thirty-five men.

Will be able to treat 250 rails every eight hours.

Will reclaim steel rails, at one time sent to the junk pile.

Building was erected in one week

By means of these mills rails which have been in use for some time are reclaimed and put into use again. The wear all comes on the ends and the rail saw-mill cuts off the worn ends, drills new holes for the bolts and turns out a new rail to all intents and purposes, only a thirty-eight foot rail becomes a thirty four or thirty six foot rail. The ends cut off are utilized and it is found that the scrap metal virtually pays cost of operation of the rail saw-mill.

CROFT CONFESSED TO SLAYING NOEL

But Declared He Had Done So in Self-Defence

CHATHAM, Sept. 20.—(Canadian Press).—During the trial here a confession made by Clayton Croft to the effect that he had killed Noel in self-defence and burned his body in the stable of the farm, was produced. It stated that a quarrel had started over financial matters between accused and Noel and had ended with Croft hitting Noel over head with an axe. He alleged, however, that Noel had first attacked him and he ran to the stable to escape him. Noel followed him and in the fight he struck his employer with an axe.

R. L. Bracken, for accused, admitted the killing of Noel, but submitted to the jury that it had been done in the heat of passion and, in self-defence. He asked that the charge be reduced to manslaughter. Justice Lennox, however, urged that there were no mitigating circumstances, and charged strongly against the prisoner.

TO-DAY'S BLUNDER CORRECTED

There is some cause for regret in the fact that the days when children were served last at the table have passed. The practice so common today of serving the children first and telling them to "go ahead and eat," while pleasant for the children, is laying the foundation for poor manners and selfish, inconsiderate actions on their part later in life. A child should wait until the adults have been served, before starting to eat his dessert.

THE MYSTERY MIND

Arthur B. Reeve and John W. Grey

"What time is it?" she asked.

The woman paid no attention. Was she instructed to answer no questions? For a while Violet tossed about, gradually recovering from the effects of her double plunge, slowly sensing a return of her determination to escape from these people, to outwit them, to recover the map. She wondered if Dupont had met with success. She tried to think that her Aunt Julia would not be worried at her non-appearance.

The walls of the room were rough boards, decorated with a few articles of fishing tackle. The light was an oil lamp; the blanket on which she lay of the coarsest weave; the bed hard and unyielding. This must be some fisher shack, not so far away from the bay.

Interrupting her reflections, startling her, the shrouded figure of Evil Eye came into the room.

"Are you able to get up?" he asked, in his sepulchral voice.

She nodded, following him through a winding hall which smelled of fish, into another chamber hung entirely in black and furnished with some degree of comfort. The lamp was an oil burner, but of a patent type. Here there was a stove, with a bin of fuel and a tray filled with ashes, testifying to its use in chilly weather.

Before Evil Eye was spread an tin-framed canvas portrait, its farther corners weighed respectively by an inkwell and a box of fishhooks. At the sight of the picture she started, barely checking an exclamation. It was the painting of Stuart Steele, which she had set herself to recover.

Evil Eye did not reveal his features. Apparently he did not wish to frighten her if he could obtain his information otherwise.

"This," he said, indicating the canvas, "is in some way a map to the treasure of the Devil God. Explain it to me."

She shook her head. "I know nothing about it," she asserted.

He leaned over. Absently he blew some fine dust from its surface. "You shall have to tell us," he said. "You shall be tortured until you do tell or until you bring some one to us who can tell."

"I know nothing about it," she repeated, desperately.

To her surprise he conducted her back to her room without violence. There was no mistaking the severity of his instructions to Lydia, however, given in some language Violet did not understand.

For hours—for long interminable hours, it seemed—she tossed about upon the uncomfortable blanket. Her clothes gradually dried, but they were sticky with the salt and clung to her. The picture of the canvas spread out upon the table before Evil Eye fascinated her. She could not drive it from her mind. If only she knew where it was hidden—

An incident of almost trivial nature came back to mind. Evil Eye had blown a very fine dust from its face. Now she recognized it. As She remembered the stove in the room and its tray, choked to the grate above. What a splendid hiding place She was suddenly very sure that the precious portrait was hidden in the ashes in that stove.

She glanced at Lydia. Elated, she found the woman had dropped off asleep. Without waiting for second thought she stole from the bed and out into the hall. The door to the farther chamber was half open, the room dark. Hardly daring to strike a light, she felt her way to the stove, clutched inbeneath the grate with her hand, eagerly. In an instant her fingers closed on a roll of canvas. There was little doubt of it. The painting of Steele was in her possession.

She did not return to the first room, but turned off into another hall. A very faint light through the cracks here seemed to come from outside. She opened a door, ever so cautiously, and found herself on a tiny dock in front of the shack. In the east was the very first purple of dawn. It was just enough to reveal before her the glistening bay. Immediately at her feet was a small boat with oars in place, a lighter and more manageable craft than the heavy one which had brought her here a prisoner.

Seek Harmony Between British and French Views

General Situation in the East Is Regarded As Easier — Kemal Wants to Occupy Thrace.

THE NEUTRAL ZONE.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—(Canadian Press)—For the time being the scene shifts to Paris, where Lord Curzon, the British Secretary of Foreign Affairs, will seek to attain harmony of views between his own and the French Governments. The ministerial conferences in London have ended for the moment and Premier Lloyd George has gone to the country for a few day's rest.

That the general situation is regarded as easier is shown by the fact that Mustapha Kemal Pasha, leader of the Turkish Nationalists, is apparently making no new move, although according to an Athens report which has reached London he left Smyrna for Nicomedia, adjoining Iamid, south of Constantinople, while it was said last night that Admiral Earl Beatty may find it unnecessary to proceed to Paris.

On the other hand, perhaps the most important news of the day, comes in the Associated Press despatches from Constantinople, stating that Kemal Pasha has sought permission of the Allies to occupy part of Thrace immediately, and discuss the question of the status of the Dardanelles later in connection with the general peace problem and with the participation of all the Black Sea countries.

Crux of the Question

This touches the crux of the whole question. There may possibly be an agreement between Great Britain, France and Italy on the question of the neutrality of the Straits and a further agreement that Constantinople shall eventually be returned to the Turks under certain conditions. But on the question of Thrace, outside the neutral zone, such an agreement is lacking.

Kemal Pasha seemingly takes the view that there is nothing in te maintenanie of the neutrality of the Straits and the neutral zone to prevent his forces from pursuing the Greeks into those portions of Thrace outside the neutral zone. The British contention is that under no circumstances will the Turks be allowed to cross into Europe until peace has been settled. But it is not certain that France sees eye to eye with Great Britain in this matter.

The fact that France and Italy are withdrawing their detachments from this region would indicate that there is lack of agreement and that Great Britain may be called upon to act alone. In that case it is understood Parliament will forthwith be summoned, so that the nation may have a voice in the important question of peace or war. The Labor Party is displaying very determined opposition to any war until the last resources of diplomacy and negogiation are exhausted, and a similar disposition appears to prevail in the great dominions, despite their readiness to stand beside the mother country in defence of the neutrality of the Dardanelles.

In official circles in London it is not anticipated that there will be any early peace conference. It is understood that the instructions given to Lord Curzon by the Cabinet on the general line of policy are to intimate very frankly to M. Poincare that if France refuses to participate in necessary action in the Near East, she may stand to lose, as she did many years ago when she refused to join England in the Bombardment of Alexandria and so started a train of events which brought Egypt under British influence.

Turk Must Not Enter.

M. Poincare will be told that England is absolutely set in her view that the Turks shall not be permitted to enter Europe and that Great Britain is prepared to employ her own forces in sufficient numbers and over any length of time to bring the Turks to reason. She will also be informed that assurances have been received from Rumania and Jugo-Slavia that under certain conditions those countries will side with Great Britain.

It is reported that Premier Lloyd George is prepared to make a general appeal to the civilized world to support the British policy. He has been in consultation with a number of experts on Near Eastern affairs. Among others Henry Morgentheau, the former American Ambassador to Turkey, had breakfast with him yesterday.

The British Government is still without a formal reply from the Angora Government to the Allied warnings concerning the neutral zone. In its strong adherence to the semi-official statement issued Saturday, the Government is imbued with the belief that an exhibition of firmness and solidarity of the whole Empire in maintaining the British stand concerning the Straits and the neutral zone is the method of bringing to the realization of the Angora Government that nothing can be gained by forcing the situation. Unless Kemal Pasha should make a further new move no further developments are expected until the end of the week. By that time Lord Curzon will have returned to London, but a great deal depends upon the success or failure of his mission.

Fire Loss in Smyrna Millions of Dollars

SMYRNA, Sept. 20.— (Canadian Press.)—British and United States' insurance experts estimate the total property loss in Smprna at $150,000,000 ,only $60,000,000 of which is covered by insurance. British underwriting companies will bear the brunt of the loss. The American property loss in Smyrna at $150,000,000,000, the greater part insured.

A vital question has arisen as to whether the losses shall be paid upon the basis of destruction by fire or under war risk. Some of the property owners carried both forms of policy; others only one.

The Allied and American authorities are endeavoring to establish whether the Turkish forces were fully in occupation of the city and civil Turkish administration already functioning when the fire occurred, or whether the conflagration was the direct result of an act of war by the Kemalists.

It is impossible to estimate the loss of life. Most observers agree, however, that fully 2,000 perished in the flames. Those who were killed by Turkish irregulars seeking valuables or vengeance probably number several hundred.

FIVE BODIES OF ENTOMBED MEN ARE RECOVERED

Three of the Argonaut Dead Are Identified — Coroner's Jury Will Be Empanelled To-Day.

SEVEN AMERICANS.

JACKSON, Calif., Sept. 20.—(Canadian Press.) — Five bodies of miners, entombed 22 days by a fire in the Argonaut Gold Mine, were brought to the surface yesterday. The United States Bureau of Mines crew wrapped the bodies in canvas where they were found Monday night in the 4,350 foot level of the Argonaut and carried them through the Kennedy Mine adjoining. Three of the dead were identified. The work of bringing out the 47 victims of the fire and the poisonous gases will continue until all have been recovered.

A coroner's jury will be sworn in to-day to view the ill-fated miners. It is not expected the responsibility for the disaster will be fixed. The bodies were conveyed to a building on the Argonaut property, a mile from the Kennedy shaft, and placed in coffins.

A check of the names of the dead showed seven were American born, twenty in Italy, 13 in Jugo-Slavia, and four were of Spanish or Mexican ancestry.

The State Compensation Fund is expected to pay about $100,000 to the dependents of the mine victims. In addition the State allows $100 for each burial and the Argonaut Company has added $25 in each case.

E. A. Stent, Vice-president of the Argonaut Company, said he felt the fire was unavoidable and his company had done everything possible to rescue the men. He declared he would welcome an official investigation.

FOUR CANDIDATES OPPOSE BRACKEN.

THE PAS, Man., Sept. 20.—(Canadian Press)—Premier Bracken is to have opposition in his candidature for the legislature in The Pas, where the election was deferred. Four candidates were nominated today—Mr. Bracken, who has the support of the Northland Association, the local branch of the United Farmers of Manitoba, and the local Independent Labor party; R. H. Germany Offers to Pay 270 Million Marks in 1923

Belgium to Accept Six-Month Bonds — The Bank of England Will Advance Money to Germany to Cover Notes and Gold For Belgium.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 20.—(Canadian Press). — Dr. Landsberg, the German Minister here, informed the Belgian Government yesterday that the Reichsbank was willing to indorse German Treasury bonds for reparations payments to Belgium to the amount of 270,000,000 gold marks, due February 15, and June 15, 1923.

Dr. Landsberg's action, which is taken here to compose the differences between Belgium and Germany on reparation payments, is credited in Belgian quarters to the firm yet conciliatory attitude of the Belgian Government.

This action by Germany was forecast in despatches Monday which reported that Rudolph Havenstein President of the Reichsbank, had arranged adequate guarantees for the payment of the six months' Treasury notes to be issued by Germany to Belgium. The understanding was that the Bank of England, and probably a Dutch bank would loan the Reichsbank the money to meet the payment of the six months' notes, the Reichsbank in return repaying the foreign banks in 18 months, which is the period Germany has insisted she must have in which to meet these payments.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—The meeting of the Allied Reparations Commission set for yesterday was postponed until Friday by which time the Belgian settlement with Germany over the guarantees for the latter's six months reparations notes will, it is expected, be formally reported to the Commission. The reading of the report will close the incident, as the sanction of the Commission is not needed.

There is a great deal of satisfaction in Reparation Commission and official circles over this settlement of the reparation crisis, which leaves the Allies full time to consider the Near Eastern situation.

LAKEFIELD EXHIBITION MARRED BY WEATHER

Best Exhibits in Years But Rain Causes Lowest Attendance on Record—Many Entries.

THE RACES.

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 20. — Jupiter Pluvius was the most prominent visitor at the Lakefield fair for the fifth consecutive season, and as a result the attendance was the lowest ever recorded. The directors, though faced with the prospect of a deficit, kept a cheerful and optimistic eye on the skies and hoped in vain that the clouds would clear up and let the crowd come out.

To offset the poor attendance, the exhibits were better than ever before with over 1,400 entries. The horses in particular were noticeably more numerous and better than at any previous exhibition.

The fruit and vegetable department was particularly good with some remarkable displays of potatoes and onions. The poultry show also attracted a good deal of attention and many favorable comments. The Ladies' Departments were far ahead of other years and the ladies' exhibits were in excess of the men's.

In spite of the inclement weather the programme was run off according to schedule and everything went smoothly.

The Races.

The animal races caused a great deal of amusement. In this contest each entrant was allowed to drive any kind of an animal he wished, but his only means of guiding it was a string or rope tied to one hind leg. The race was won by Stanely Richardson driving a calf with Francis Dench piloting a hen to second place.

The results of the trotting races were as follows:

Free for all (Best three of five heats)—First, Bub, owner E. Jones of Peterborough; second, Polly Stout, R. Elmhurst, of Keene; third, Lloyd George, E. Jones of Peterborough.

2.35 Class (Best two of three heats) — First, City Princess, W. Elmhurst of Keene; second, Si Winger, W. Elmhurst of Keene; third, Gale Fast, E. Jones of Peterborough.

Green Race (Best two of three heats) — First, Silver Tariff, Isiah Graham, of Lakefield; second, Darkey Roy, Reg. McConkie, of Smith; third, Molly O., J. Northey of Smith.

Other events were:

Bicycle race: First, Stanley Richardson; second, Fred Wannamaker; third, B. Charlton. This race was very closely contested.

Novelty race. First, Isiah Graham; second, Reg. McConkie; third, John Northey.

Donations toward the general expenses of the fair were received from the following: G. A. Gillespie, $5; Arthur T. Johnston, $10; W. H. Casement, $5; G. A. Brethen, M.P., $10.

The Officers.

The following officers were in charge and worked hard to make the fair a success: President, Galvin A. Graham; vice-presidents, B. Q. Dench and E. J. Galvin; secretary and treasurer, T. Braydon; honorary directors, R. Garbutt, D. Garvey, H. C. Garbutt, T. T. Millburn, Mr. D. Munro, Levi Payne, J. C. Strickland and the reeves of Smith, Douro, Ennismore and Dummer; directors, Bruce Garbutt, Albert Darling, Howard Beavis, Henry Coombs, James Walton, Herbert Abbott, Walter Preston, Wallace Anderson, J. Blakely and J. M. Simpson; directors of the ladies' work, Mrs. T .Braydon, Mrs. A. Garbutt, Mrs. G. A. Grahnm and Mrs. E. J. Galvin; auditors, Elwood Galvin and Alex. Graham.

Through the kindness of the directors a tag day was held on the grounds for the benefit of the Navy League of Canada, which netted $64.25.

Team Drawing.

A competition of considerable interest was that in team drawing, in which the entries competed in hauling a 6,000 pounds load, the one who made the greater distance in four minutes winning. The two events in this class were for heavy horses of 2,800 lbs. and lighter ones under that

LARGEST WAR MEMORIAL IS IN NORTH BAY

North Bay's Tribute to Great War Dead Is Topped By the Largest Statue Ever Cast in Canada.

THE UNVEILING.

NORTH BAY, Ont., Sept. 20. — (Canadian Press.) — His Honor, Lieut.-Governor Cockshutt closed his second visit to Northern Ontario this season after officiating on Sunday at an impressive service unveiling the large memorial erected in the Normal school park to the memory of North Bay men who fell in the Great War. The services, which were held at 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, amidst the brightest September sunshine this season, were attended by over five thousand citizens and residents of the district. The memorial is said to be the largest yet erected in Canada since the great war and is topped by a bronze statue, 6 feet 6 inches high, claimed to be the largest ever cast in Canada. The cost was $15,500.

Lieutenant-Governor Cockshutt and Miss Cockshutt had just come from Hearst where they met with a cordial reception. His Honor was presented with a basket of speckled trout, and excellent specimens of turnips, onions, carrots and parsnips, the product, R. A. Douglas ,the donor, pointed out, of the brook and field of the great middle north of the province. Miss Cockshutt was presented with flowers.

The lieutenant-governor spent Wednesday at Kenora and spent a day at Winnipeg before returning to the clay belt.

BANKER SUICIDES.

EDMONTON, Alta., Sept. 20.—(Canadian Press)—Word has been received by Provincial Police authorities that F. G. Hamilton, Manager of the Royal Bank at Bluesky, who has been missing for the past few days, was found on Monday dead in a field with a revolver clutched in his hand. Bank authorities state there was nothing wrong with Hamilton's accounts and can find no reason for the act.

THE NEW BONDS

One of the measures adopted by the Finance Department to bring the conversion proposals, which are now being widely advertised, to the attention of holders of 1922 Victory Bonds was the mailing to registered holders of a copy of the Minister's announcement. Over 100,000 bond holders were communicated with. Replies were not called for, as those who wish to continue their investment are asked to surrender their bonds to any Branch of any charter ed Bank, signifying the maturity of the new bonds desired and obtaining receipt on the official form provided Nevertheless there have been many replies. "Everything has been so satisfactory that I would like the investment to continue," wrote one holder and there have been many letters of like tenor from persons who became investors in bonds for the first time in 1917.

Ahmed Bey Predicts a Bloodless Settlement

Employment Office Recruiting Station

NORTH BAY, Ont., Sept. 20. — (Canadain Press.)—Harry Charlton, superintendent of the North Bay branch of the Ontario government employment service, thought things must have become pretty serious in the Near East, so sudden was the demand last week that his office be turned into a recruiting station.

The service has had on its books for several days, 1,200 jobs in the bush, for which men cannot be found. Workers for the jobs in the northern woods are as scarce as the proverbial hens' teeth.

War hath its charms, and within a couple of hours after the first rumors of trouble in the East had leaked out, four anxious volunteers appeared in the employment office, inquiring if Mr. Charlton were "hiring men for the new war.

FELL FORTY FEET OFF G.T.R. VIADUCT

PORT HOPE, Sept. 20.— Arthur Fisher, Jr., had a thrilling experience on Saturday and while he escaped any serious injury, he has no desire to repeat the performance. With a number of other young men he was engaged painting the G.T.R. viaduct. The plan adopted by the men in getting up and down from the bridge is the old fashioned way of shinning the rope. Arthur Fisher had just reached the top, but when he attempted to swing on to the bridge the rope snapped and he dropped to the ground. The accident happened just opposite Peacock's coal shed, which is probably the highest part of the bridge. It is easily a drop of forty feet and by some miracle or good fortune Fisher escaped without any serious injury. True he is feeling the effects of the long drop to the hard ground but no bones were broken and Arthur is able to be about again as usual. It was at this same place that Roland Jex stepped from a C.P.R. train one night, and he too, escaped with slight injuries.

CONFIRM ACTION

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Sept. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Parliament yesterday unanimously confirmed the action of Premier Massey in announcing that New Zealand would send a contingent of men to defend the Dardanelles against the Turks.

The Turkish Leader Says "Common-Sense Will Win Out in England"—Turks Will Occupy Chanok.

HIS STATEMENT.

PARIS, September 20 (Associated Press). — A bloodless settlement of the crisis in the Near East, in which the British troops will shortly withdraw from the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles, was predicted by Ahmed Ferid Bey, principal spokesman for Mustapha Kemal Pasha in Europe, in the course of a statement to the Associated Press last night.

"Common sense will win out in Britain, despite the apparent belligerency of the British Government," said Lerid, who is the Turkish Nationalist representative accredited to France, "and the British soldiers will soon follow their French and Italian brothers-in-arms to the European side of the Straits."

"Our troops," he continued, "are proceeding to occupy all of Asia Minor up to the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles. We will occupy Chanak, where the British troops are stationed, and if they fire upon up, which we doubt very much, the responsibility for the inevitable bloodshed will be on British shoulders.

"However, we honestly do not expect opposition from the British. If they desire to remain in Chanak and behave themselves, we will occupy the district jointly, but I think they will soon follow the footsteps of the French and Italians to the other side of the Straits.

"Turkey does not recognise any such thing as a zone of the Straits. It does not exist; neither does the Treaty of Sevres, which has not been accepted by any of the Powers. However, we will respect a small neutral zone extending from Constantinople to Ismid, in Asiatic Turkey. Our troops will not advance beyond this line, which is proof that we have no designs on Constantinople.

"We are determined however, to drive all the Greeks out of Asia Minor, and we believe that it would be most unfortunate if any of the Powers interfered with us in this respect.

WONDERFUL THE WAY IT HELPED HER

So Writes Mrs. Lemery Regarding Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brockville, Ontario. — "I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness and female disorders. I was so weak at times that I could not stand up. I had been this way for nearly three years and the different medicines I had taken had not done me any good. I found one of your little books in my door one day and thought I would give it a trial. I am now on my fifth bottle and it is wonderful the way it has helped me. I am feeling much better, have no weak spells and can do all my work now. I am recommending your Vegetable Compound to all I know and you can use my testimonial to help other women."—Mrs. Casey Lemery 176 Abbott St., Brockville, Ontario.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women's ailments, and has a record of nearly fifty years behind it.

THE AMUSEMENT FEATURES.

The only serious complaint against the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition was that the Midway features did not correspond to the general excellence of the show.

That Condition was due to the unexpected breaking up at the last moment of the carnival shows that had been secured to form the Midway. The directors had no time in which to secure other attractions, and the result was that in this one department the Exhibition fell behind other years.

Mention is made of the complaint chiefly because it illustrates the fact that the majority of people apparently visit an exhibition for the amusement it offers rather than because of the educational features. The city folk, and their friends from the country as well, find their chief enjoyment in the bright lights and noise of the Midway, in the fireworks and racing and vaudeville. They realize that the solid food as represented by the stock exhibits and other similar departments must form the foundation for the Exhibition repast, but the majority desire the dessert of the amusement features as their portion.

Human nature is human nature even at an Exhibition, and this pleasure-loving trait must be catered to at all times if complete success is to be secured.

TWO GOOD SUGGESTIONS.

The Chamber of Commerce, at its meeting on Monday, passed several resolutions which, if carried out, would do much to increase the popularity of Peterborough and district from a tourist standpoint.

One suggests the utilization of King Edward Park or some other site as a free camp site for motor tourists.

The other proposes that the Provincial Highway be extended to connect with the Kawartha Lakes at Young's Point and Burleigh.

These are both important needs.

The motor tourists visited Canada in large numbers this summer, and there will be many more next year. It is estimated that they have spent millions of dollars in this country this year, and it is to the advantage of Peterborough that as many as possible should be attracted to this district.

A camp site in Peterborough would help to bring this about, and the improvement of the roads in the Kawartha district would have an even more potent effect. If the Provincial system were extended to the lake section the problem would be solved. With a Provincial Highway running from Port Hope to Stoney Lake, it is safe to say that the tourist traffic would be doubled the first year.

Both suggestions of the Chamber of Commerce are in the public interest.

THE REFERENDUM METHOD.

Canada's Cabinet has decided that the question of Canada's participation in the war with Turkey should peace be impossible must be decided by the Dominion Parliament.

That is a democratic course that will be approved widely.

A correspondent of the Examiner would go even further on what he considers the pathway of democracy. The people of Canada themselves should decide the matter for themselves by means of a referendum, and there should be no war without a mandate from the citizens of Canada, he says.

The trouble with the referendum method of dealing with wars is usually that the other fellow is not waiting for any vote of the people. He is preparing his battalion for the fray, and the country that lingered to hold a referendum would find itself beaten before it got started.

The voice of Parliament is the voice of the people, and it should be a sufficient safeguard of Canadian interests to have her own Parliament settle the question of participation in the Near East war.

Referendums may be all right in theory but they are impracticable when the war clouds appear on the horizon.

EVERYBODY'S DUTY.

A Chatham magistrate declares that pedestrians, by their carelessness, are responsible for many automobile accidents.

"In many cases," he remarks, "accidents occur because a motorist, in attempting to evade a jay walker, hits another car."

There is much truth in that statement.

In Peterborough, as doubtless in every city, we have people who stroll across the street in the middle of a block as unconcernedly as if they were crossing their own kitchen.

They do not seem to realize that death may be darting at them from every side, and that their carelessness is not only a danger to themselves but a menace to the safety of others. Motorists in having to swerve their cars hastily to escape hitting these irresponsible walkers, have difficulty in avoiding a clash with other automobiles.

It is time to realize that the advent of the motor car has completely revolutionized traffic conditions, and that upon everybody, automobilists and pedestrians, has devolved the responsibility of seeing that by carefulness the streets are made as safe as possible.

Sometimes motorists are as much in need of protection as those who go round on foot.

MAN AND MACHINERY.

Advocates of the simple life complain that the industrial system is becoming so complicated that the average man is losing his bearings in a welter of machinery and economic relations so confusing that the situation must finally result in a complete breakdown. In reality, the only confusion worth noting is the confusion of thought which gives rise to such conclusions. There is no more reason for confusion in the economic life of to-day than there ever was; certainly this is true so far as the period in which man was forced to divide his labor in order to meet his demands for increased comforts and pleasures is concerned. As a matter of fact, the tendency of economic developments is toward rather than away from simplicity. The worker who performs a simple function in the productive organization has much less to puzzle his brain about than the man who, in the early days, was forced to contrive and produce practically everything he consumed, from wooden shoes to shelter. The simple truth is, that men who see disaster looming in the shape of growing complications in the economic order are incapable of rationalizing its processes and relations. In one sense, there is no more occasion for worry over the realization of the automatic machine than there is over the discovery of the North Pole. The man who lived among the complications of the simple life knew no more about one than he did the other, for neither had been discovered, and that is all that has happened with respect to either — they have simply been discovered, and the machine has been utilized. The utility of the discovery of the North Pole is not exactly clear; perhaps the scientists know what it is, and it is possible that we are all benefitting from their knowledge without suspecting it. The fact that the man who pushes the button which sets the automatic machine going cannot take the machine apart and put it together again affords no ground for pessimism.

In the last analysis, the automatic machine is merely a sublimation or extension of the properties of the human body which enable man to produce the things he needs. An electric crane is so much muscle exerted in lifting from one place to another materials upon which man is at work in the process of production. The telescope is an extension of eyesight; the camera is merely an instrument for making a permanent record of the things the eye sees. The telephone, the telegraph, the wireless and all instruments of communication, including newspapers, books and all printed matter, simply extend the human voice. Automatic machines are merely so many tireless hands which move more rapidly and with less friction than it is possible for the human hands to move. Automobiles, ships, locomotives, airplanes and other instruments of transportation are nothing more than sublimated legs which carry us from place to place more rapidly than our own can carry us. The use of these extensions of the properties of the human body requires no more mental effort than is required for the use of the functions of which they are the extensions. To require that every man should understand every detail and principle of the mechanics of any of these things is no more reasonable than to require that every man be a surgeon or a doctor of medicine. When the human body gets out of order we call an expert—a doctor. That is all we do when a machine breaks down. The man who pushes the button which starts the machine is merely the brain of the machine, the will or force which says when it must get busy. That is all that the average man does or knows about it when he commands his legs or hands to move. There is no more reason for the man at the machine to comprehend the inner workings of the machine than there is for him to comprehend his own inner workings; these are matters for experts.

Nor is there any basis for the complaint that the man who does nothing more than push a button which sets a machine going is losing or will lose the creative impulse. He is in much more danger of degenerating physically than he is mentally, assuming that he has any desire to develop his mental qualities. His opportunities for mental development and for giving free play to his creative impulses are certainly greater under the increased leisure and relief from back-breaking physical labor which the automatic machine has brought the average man. Certainly routine and repetition are fagging, tiring and annoying to the sensitive and highly strung, and, to some extent perhaps, to the more obtuse, but the man who takes his place beside an automatic machine in order to supply the lacking spark of intelligence which is needed to make it work for man much more efficiently and prodigiously than man can work for himself, is simply performing a task as a contribution to co-operative production, and that task is done in payment for the things he consumes. Labor has always been more or less irksome to the average man, and perhaps always will be, but we all must labor in some department of the economic organization. If the man who pushes buttons tires of his job, there is nothing to keep him at it if he has the ability to do something more valuable. Or, if he craves to exercise his creative impulses, there is nothing to stop him. The machine and the economic organization afford him more leisure to give free play to all his latent powers. Modern industry stifles nothing—life under it ought to be as easy as an old shoe.—Monetary Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The storm in the East may, after all, prove to be only a sun-shower.

The Provincial ploughing matches should stir up the country considerably.

Attendance figures at the Lindsay Exhibition will doubtless continue to remind people of the totals of Russian prisoners captured in the early days of the Great War.

With the stand that Canada's Parliament must decide whether or not Canada should participate in war with Turkey if the conflict materializes there can be no serious quarrel.

Henry Ford's action in closing down his plants may be based on principle, but the thousands of men who are thrown out of employment will have difficulty in finding any justice in it.

Newspapers are beginning to get their "Shot in mistake for a bear" and "Do your Christmas shopping early" headings ready for use.

War rumors cause the coal problem to be forgotten, but the trouble is that it will bob up again later on when the cold weather will cause its significance to be appreciated.

The Mail and Empire declares that Canada's first contribution in the event of war should be all her able-bodied Greeks of military age.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor Examiner:

Dear Sir,— Perchance we will again be forced into war, this by the blunders and fatal mistakes of Lloyd George and his cabinet, who are ready to go to any extremes to cover up same.

However, going into war is a matter of deep consideration and is of so serious a nature that it should only be by a mandate of the people that the country should go to war. Therefore, we should call upon all serious minded people to demand a referendum on this subject.

If other national questions can demand a mandate from the people, why not this, the most serious of all?

I am a workingman and a veteran of the World's War, and conscientiously I must say I am against war, for of what benefit can it be to me and my class? What benefit was any war to the working people?

Our veterans of the late war are to-day suffering, not so much from the war itself, but from the miscarriage of justice to them since the war.

If this is to be another war of patriotism and democracy, why not look around us and we shall find a vast need of patriotism and democracy right here at home, so why go thousands of miles for it?

Press Propaganda.

Press propaganda is already in full swing, ready to warp the mind of the common people, i.e., the working class. City papers already make comment of various veteran organizations responding to a call they know not what of, but it is amusing to think that any commonsense man who knows, that these same organizations could not have discussed the subject as yet en masse.

I notice, too, that several pulpits discussed this matter last Sunday, and if we go to war, it will only be a matter of a short time when these same pulpits and many more will be urging the young men of the country to go to the so-called Empire's aid, forgetting the Lords' commandment, "Thou shalt not kill."

I ask that these few lines be printed in the hope that people might stop and think seriously before they allow any government to force them into war.

Yours truly,
JAS. W. McGILL.

Asthma sufferers

Hilton W. Parks, Waterdown, Ont., writes: "I can safely bless the day you left a bottle of Asthma Remedy with me. I had relief from the first dose and have been improving ever since; can lie down at night and rest; the cough has already left me; I have gained three pounds since I started the bottle, which is now nearly finished. The good news has spread around this district, and already several want to try it. I feel so good over the new life, as it were, I like to tell others."

917 Dorion St., Montreal.

I suffered terribly with Dyspepsia. I had it for years and all the medicines I took did not do me any good.

I read something about "Fruit-a-tives" being good for all Stomach Trouble and Disorders of Digestion, so I tried them.

After finishing a few boxes, I was entirely relieved of the Dyspepsia and my general health was restored; and I am writing to tell you that I owe my life to "Fruit-a-tives"

SURVEYORS IN THE NORTHLAND

Apsley Residents Wondering If An Election Is In Prospect—Apsley News.

APSLEY, September 20. — Mild excitement is noticeable in the village, due to the presence of some Government surveyors, who for the past week have been surveying the road from Apsley in the direction of Clydesdale.

This work, it is rumoured, is preliminary to the building of a Provincial Highway from Lakefield to Bancroft. The residents, on the whole, are pessimistic, however. Hope deferred maketh the heart sick, and attention to the needs of the north country in respect to transportation has so often been promised and then sidetracked, that any move in this direction is now viewed only with suspicion, and dubbed an election dodge.

Anyway, it is asked, why are they surveying the most difficult, divergent, and barren route, instead of taking the more direct and easier East Road through Lasswade, where there are thousands and thousands of cords of wood, and lumber, besides mineral resources that only require development?

Special Service.

The annual harvest thanksgiving service was held at St. Paul's Church, Lasswade, on Sunday last. The church was very lavishly decorated with grain, vegetables, fruit, and flowers by the members of the congregation, who vie with each other in the quantity and quality of their harvest thankoffering. The service was hearty and the singing, assisted by members of the choir of St. George's, Apsley, was above the average.

Infant Dead.

Victor George, the six-months-old son of Dennis Hendley, died on Sunday morning after a short illness, and was buried in the cemetery at Apsley—alongside its mother, who died a few days after its birth—on Monday afternoon, Mr. McTavish, the Methodist minister, conducting the service.

Conduct Lectures.

Rev. C. Spence has been notified by the St. John's Ambulance Association that he is authorised to conduct lectures in Apsley, under the auspices of the Ontario Council of the Association for Form B certificates in First Aid to the Injured. The classes will commence in October, and prospective students should give in their names to Mr. Spence before 30th September.

Harvest Festival.

The harvest thanksgiving service will be held in St. George's Church on Friday evening, 29th September.

Tender Accepted.

Mr. Duncan Brown has been notified that his tender for carrying the mails between Lakefield and Apsley for the next five years has been accepted by the Post Office Department, vice W. Thompson, whose term expires at the end of this month.

Be sure to get a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets known to wise people all over the U. S. and Canada as the one reliable relief for indigestion.

AHMED BEY PREDICTS, ETC.

"Turkey earnestly desires a peaceful settlement of the crisis. We want to get around the conference table with the Allied Powers and make peace. Our troops will not make a single move on European Turkey, pending the signing of the peace treaty, but our just demands must be granted in that treaty. We demand all of Asia Minor, Constantinople for our Sultan, all of Eastern Thrace, and Adrianople. Western Thrace we will discuss at the conference.

"We care quite willing to have an international control of the Straits, and if the United States wishes to be included in this control we would gladly accept her participation. Turkey, of course, must have an equal voice."

Turkish Optimism.

The Turkish headquarters in Paris had the air of frank optimism yesterday. The Turks there appeared to feel sure that the present crisis would end by the withdrawal of the British troops from Asia Minor.

Reports reached these headquarters yesterday that Great Britain had already modified her policy, and that a Franco-British agreement on the Near East situation is expected as the result of Lord Curzon's visit.

Ahmed Ferid Bey, referring to the burning of Smyrna, said:

"You may tell the American people that it is absolutely unjust to believe that the Turks set fire to Smyrna. We had everything to gain and nothing to lose by keeping the city intact. The burning of the city was a great loss to Turkey, and the blame for it cannot rest with her."

NINETY-EIGHT STUDENTS AT JOURNALISIC COURSE.

Presentation Made to W. J. Dunlop, the Director.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 20.—Ninety-eight students, representing thirty-one newspapers and other publications, and coming not only from all parts of the Province, but also from more distant points as well, attended the short course in journalism at the University of Toronto last week. Besides those actively engaged in journalistic work, teachers and university and high school pupils, were attracted by the opportunities of the course, which is under the University Extension Department, with W. J. Dunlop as director. The lecturers included Professors W. J. Alexander, English literature and composition; G. M. Wrong, Canadian constitutional history; P. A. W. Wallace, newspaper style, gathering material, etc.; A. R. Clute, newspaper jurisprudence; C. A. C. Jennings, editorial writing; A. H. Moore, mission of the weekly newspaper; M. J. Patton, Government sources of information, and L. O. Thomas, Canada's natural resources. On Friday evening a reception for the faculty and students was held in the Graduates' Union, Sir Robert and Lady Falconer and Mr. and Mrs. Dunlop receiving. As a slight mark of their appreciation of the unfailing courtesy and helpfulness of Mr. Dunlop, the class presented him with a bronze desk set, Mr. Malcolm Macbeth of The Milverton Sun making a capable chairman, an impromptu address being made by Mr. F. W. Galbraith of The Red Deer Advocate, Alberta, and Miss S. O'Leary of the Natural Resources Intelligence Branch, Ottawa, presenting the gift. Mr. Dunlop made an appropriate reply, and others who spoke were Sir Robert Falconer, Professors Wrong, Alexander and Wallace, all expressing their pleasure in the associations of the week, and also in the intelligent response which the class had shown in the instruction given. The reception afforded an excellent opportunity for both faculty and students to becomes better acquainted, as each was "tagged" by the Secretary with their name and address as they came in the door. This is only the second year for the course being held, and several improvements are promised for next year, including a prominent newspaper woman as one of the instructors. This was thought advisable in view of the fact that fully fifty per cent. of the students were women, and most of these actually connected with either newspapers or magazines. That a rather wide field is drawn from is evidenced by the knowledge that one young lady journalist from Alsace-Lorraine, France, travelling in Canada, attended the lectures; another who is engaged in Social Service publicity work, came from North Dakota, and a former graduate of the university, at present home from China, was also a member of the class; while one editor travelled from St. John's, New Brunswick, to take in the course. The leading city dailies were represented, also a large number of weeklies, and such magazines as Musical Canada, Canadian Countryman, The Canadian Nurse, The Red Cross Junior, Optometric News, Women's Work, MacLean Publishing Co., Varsity, etc. A number of the members of the Women's Press Club registered, their organization being in session in the city on Friday evening and Saturday.

GREAT BRITAIN HAS MODERATED WAR ATTITUDE

Such Is Opinion of French Government, Who Predicts Early Withdrawal of British Troops.

DIPLOMATIC VICTORY.

PARIS, Sept. 20. — (Canadian Press.)—The calling of a peace conference for the settlement of the Turkish problem probably will be the chief result of the meeting at the Foreign Office this morning, at which the French Premier, M. Poincare, the British Secretary for Foreign Affairs Lord Curzon, and the Italian Ambassador to France, Count Sforza, will discuss the entire subject. It is suggested as not unlikely that certain preliminaries of peace will be decided upon by the representatives of these three Powers, which are so closely interested.

Officials of the French Government were confident last night that Great Britain had materially modified her belligerent attitude in the Turkish crisis, and it was freely predicted that the British troops would soon be withdrawn from the Asiatic side of the Straits, leaving the Turks in supreme control in Asia Minor.

It is reliably reported that Lord Curzon comes to Paris in a conciliatory mood and strongly favors an agreement with France and Italy. The British Foreign Secretary will insist, however, on freedom of the Straits, and it is believed he will point out the danger of a Kemalist Bolshevik accord.

The French Governmental representatives scout the idea of such an accord and say the Allies have no need of fear in that respect.

The Allied conference is expected to be held on the assumption that freedom of the Straits is understood; disposition of Constantinople and Eastern Thrace will be left to the conference itself. Unless some unforseen obstacle develops, the meeting between the representatives of France, Great Britain and Italy, it is thought ,will last only one day. There will probably be a second session in the afternoon, after which Lord Curzon will return to London to report to the Prime Minister.

The leaders of the French policy regard the present turn in the Near East problem as one of their greatest diplomatic victories since the war. The newspapers generally point to the "pacific" policy of France, as opposed to the more warlike attitude of Great Britain, as an effective answer to those who continually charge France with being militaristic. It is further asserted by many of the newspapers that by effectively pressing his policy of peace, M. Poincare has averted a new war.

LET'S DO OUR BEST

So many great men die and leave a name
World-known, world-praised, for some grand meed of learning:
They spend long years of toil and labor earning
Right to a place in some front rank of fame,
While others plod unseen, unheard, and do
The humdrum tillage of some humdrum spot,
The lowly spade-work of some secret plot,
And make their commonplace ring nobly true
We cannot say this man or that does most;
We cannot judge whose work is great or small.
In this great world of ours some tiny deeds
May influence, inspire a countless host,
And some resounding action useless fall!
Let's do our best: 'tis this the Master needs.

GREAT DEMAND FOR TANLAC DUE TO MERIT ALONE

It's What the People Say About It That Causes Orders For Nearly a Million Bottles in One Month — Big Toronto Druggists Elated.

The greatest test any medicine can undergo is the "repeat" sales it enjoys. Tanlac's phenomenal record has been possible because of the fact that men and women who buy one bottle invariably return for the second and recommend it to others because it has helped them.

To say that Tanlac now has the largest sale of any medicine of its kind does not begin to tell the story. No other preparation has ever approached the marvelous success of Tanlac, and in the eight years it has been on the market 30,000,000 bottles have been sold. Between June 15 and July 15 of this year orders were received for nearly one million bottles, and it is evident that dealers are still enthusiastic over the ever-increasing demand, by the tone of letters with orders.

On March 23rd The Lyman Bros. & Co., wholesale druggists, Toronto, Canada, wrote: "Tanlac is the best seller in proprietaries we have handled in the last five years. We have sold more than 13 carloads in less than fifteen months."

W. A. Hover & Co., large wholesale druggists of Denver, Colo., writing under date of July 17, state: "We are submitting today our order for the fourth carload of your goods since April 1. Taking into consideration local conditions this demand is not only exceptional, but alone in the record of sales for proprietory articles in this section."

The tremendous popularity of Tanlac is the unquestioned and outstanding proof of its merit. No medicine of less superlative quality and effectiveness could possibly attain such a huge sales record, nor gain, as Tanlac has, the unqalified endorsements of thousands of well-known men and women in all parts of the continent who stand for the best in their communities.

Like all great successes, Tanlac has its imitators, and although there are over a hundred preparations on the market claiming similar therapeutical value, many copying the original Tanlac advertising, the popularity of this preparation continues to grow, and it is unquestionably the most talked of medicine in the world today.

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

FRUIT CROPS OF NIAGARA EXCELS.

Exceptionally Good Both As to Size and Quality.

When Nature designed the North American continent one comparatively small area was selected on which to grow to an unusually fine degree the peaches, plums, cherries and other small fruits that add so much zest and variety to our summer menus. This spot was the Niagara Peninsula.

Niagara Peninsula fruit has long been known for its fine flavor and quality, but like many other good things, it was not always available for everyone who wanted it. Not because the Niagara district did not grow sufficient fruit, but because it was not always possible to distribute the fruit so that all localities were supplied.

The fruit industry, like many others, has seen changes recently. The automobile manufacturer learned that if he could make enough cars and place them where everyone could buy them, the price would come down. And so today nearly everyone drives an automobile. The same is proving true in raising and marketing fruit. Efficient methods of distribution are providing an outlet for a larger volume, the grower has an incentive to grow more fruit and the public benefits by getting an adequate supply at reasonable prices.

The fruit crop this year is exceptionally good both as to size and quality. Niagara Peninsula fruit is now on the market all through the Dominion from Halifax to Calgary at prices within reach of all.

The change in marketing Niagara Peninsula fruit has been largely brought about by the organization of the Niagara Peninsula Growers, Limited, with headquarters at Grimsby, Ontario. This association includes most of the best growers in the Niagara district. It was organized last year, but it was not until this season that its effects began to be appreciated.

"In all my experience in handling fruit I have never seen a greater volume grown in any one season," stated Mr. C. W. Baxter, General Manager of the Niagara Peninsula Growers, Limited. "Frequently we have excellent crops of cherries, peaches or one variety of fruit, but this year every crop has been a bumper one. This, of course, has enabled us to supply all localities with fruit of a fine quality at very reasonable prices."

1000 Eggs in Every Hen

New System Of Poultry Keeping—Get Dollar A Dozen Eggs—Famous Poultryman

TELLS HOW

"The great trouble with the poultry business has always been that the laying life of a hen was too short," says Henry Trafford, International Poultry Expert and Breeder, for nearly eighteen years Editor of Poultry Success.

The average pullet lays 150 eggs. If kept the second year, she may lay 100 more. Then she goes to market. Yet, it has been scientifically established that every pullet is born or hatched with over one thousand minute egg germs in her system — and will lay them on a highly profitable basis over a period of four to six years' time if given proper care.

How to work to get 1,000 eggs from every hen; how to get pullets laying early; how to make the old hens lay like pullets; how to keep up heavy egg production all through cold winter months when eggs are highest; triple egg production; make slacker hens hustle; $5.00 profit from every hen in six winter months. These and many other money making poultry secrets are contained in Mr. Trafford's "1,000 EGG HEN" system of poultry raising, one copy of which will be sent absolutely free to any reader of this paper who keeps six hens or more. Eggs should go to a dollar or more a dozen this winter. This means big profit to the poultry keeper who gets the eggs. Mr. Trafford tells how, if you keep chickens and want them to make money for you, cut out this ad and send it with your name and address to Henry Trafford, Suite 580E, Court Bld., Binghamton N. Y., and a free copy of "THE 1,000 EGG HEN" will be sent by return mail.

A LIFE SENTENCE FOR CLAYTON CROFT.

Jury Returns a Verdict of Manslaughter in Chatham Murder Case.

CHATHAM, Sept. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Jury in case of Clayton Croft charged with murder of Gustave Noel, a Charringcross farmer, returned verdict of manslaughter to Mr. Justice Lennox at 2.10 this morning and accused was sentenced to life imprisonment.

On charge of forgery to which Croft pleaded guilty His Lordship imposed sentence of ten years penal servitude. In sentencing Croft on conviction of killing Noel, Justice Lennox said: "Jury finds you only guilty of manslaughter. I have seen no greater exhibition of callousness than you have exhibited here during my term on bench. I find no mitigating circumstances, you schemed and plotted to get possession of this simple man's property. There is no doubt in my mind that you planned crime and I must impose sentence for your natural life." Croft took sentence with eyes flashing defiance at judge. While waiting for jury's verdict he sat in dock coolly reading newspaper.

A WINTER COURSE IS NOW ASSURED

Agriculture and Domestic Science Classes to Meet in Norwood For Three Months.

Mr. F. C. McRae of the Dept. of Agriculture, who was in Toronto recently in connection with securing the three months' winter course in agriculture for this county, reports that Peterboro county has been granted the course and Norwood selected as the centre.

Only four counties in the province were to be chosen so that Peterboro county is very fortunate.

The two other counties selected are North Simcoe, the class to be held at Orillia, and Leeds with the class at Mallorytown. The fourth selection rests between Victoria and Prince Edward counties, the class to be held at Lindsay or Picton.

The course starts Nov. 27th and continues until about Dec. 20th when there is an interval of two weeks for Christmas holidays. The course is then resumed Jan. 3rd and continues to March 2nd. The course will be practically the same as given in the colleges. The staff of lectureres to be sent here will include professors, instructors and specialists in the various lines of study. It is expected there will be 50 or more boys and young men in attendance and 60 or more girls and young ladies. There will be no tuition fees so that it will be a rare opportunity for our young people to better their education.

Suitable accommodation is being arranged for. A class room in the Public school formerly used by the Modelites will be fitted up for one class and the Council Chamber or Dept. building used for another class.

Norwood promises to have a large student population this winter. With 100 attending the agricultural and domestic science courses and over a hundred already entered at the High School. Young people throughout the county should plan now to attend as they will not only receive much practical benefit from the studies, but enjoy the meeting together socially in the long winter months.

IN LAKEFIELD AND DISTRICT

Navy League Drive For $200 Off to Good Start—An Anonymous Gift to Church.

PERSONAL MENTION.

LAKEFIELD, September 20. — A well-attended mass meeting was held in the Memorial Hall on Sunday evening in the interests of the Navy League of Canada.

The president of the local branch, Mr. W. H. Casement, occupied the chair. A massed choir, under the direction of Rev. T. L. White, led the singing.

Mr. Casement, in a short address, introduced Mr. C. Adams to the audience.

Mr. Adams spoke of the great British naval review of July, 1914, that was really a mobilisation of the Fleet, and which he was privileged to witness. There was a marvellous inspiration in that scene, fifty miles of battleships and 87,000 sailors standing at attention to honour His Majesty the King. At the arrival of His Majesty, these 87,000 sailors, led by massed bands, sang "God Save the King." The familiar words of "Rule Britannia" were brought home to one on that great national occasion.

The dependents of these men are provided for by the Government in the same way as the dependents of soldiers. Our appeal is for the widows and children of the sailors of the Merchant Marine, who gave their lives in war service quite as great as that of the Royal Navy or the Army, and for whom there is no aid from the Government. Monuments and halls in memory of the fallen soldiers are erected all over our country and none too many, for we owe all honour to our brave soldiers.

Fourteen thousand sailors of the Merchant Marine gave their lives in the war, and for the 60,000 dependents of these men there is no pension provided by the Government.

The sailor who signs up in the Merchant Marine is faced with the fact that he must cancel his life insurance, and that neither separation allowance nor patriotic allowance will be given those dependent on him. But they did it, yes, in thousands. What did they do in the war? What did they not do? They carried the soldiers overseas, they carried munitions and supplies and the letters and comforts that meant so much to the man in the trenches. Many sank with their ships, and Havelock Wilson is the authority for saying that we have yet to hear of a sailor in the British Merchant Marine who deserted his post.

A record and service like this deserves the same recognition as that accorded to the sailor of the Royal Navy and the soldiers in khaki; but we have knocked in vain at the door of the Government. So in 1917 in Montreal was born the Navy League of Canada to meet this great need. They aim to give to each widow and her family a pension equal to that given the dependents of the soldiers.

Archdeacon Cody, in answering a question as to the need of the Navy League, said that for many years we would be called upon to meet our sacred obligations in this matter, and we must stand by. We do not beg for the Navy League, but merely put before Canadians their duty.

At the meeting of the executive held here a few weeks ago, an objective of 200.00 was fixed, and a response both gratifying and encouraging has been made.

After a Navy League meeting in a certain town, a small boy accosted the representative of the League and gave him a handful of coppers for the cause, which, though the little hoard was toward the purchase of a pair of skates for wich he yearned, appealed to his sense of duty. The officer sent the coppers and a note telling the story to Lady Beatty, who wept over the sacrifice of that little Canadian boy. She sent the money and the story to her husband, Admiral Beatty, on the North Sea, and the story touched his heart, and he told it to his officers, and said: "There are heroes on land as well as on the Iron Duke," and he wired to London for a pair of silver skates to be sent the boy.

A Barnardo boy in Oshawa gave a dollar, and was enrolled as a member of the League, and wears its button.

Billy Sunday said: "Turn hell upside down, and you will find printed there 'Made in Germany.'" Germany's aim during the war was to destroy the Merchant Marine and break the lines of communication. To this end she bent every effort, and used every device, but failed.

Canadians are not as yet possessed sufficiently of the sea-conscious spirit, but it is growing, and the work of the seven sailors' institutes which furnish beds and food for the sailor in port have done wonderful work. Last year these sailors' homes supplied 12,040 beds to sailors ashore, and gave 30,000 meals. Writing materials and comforts were also provided. These things mean more than we can imagine, especially to the sailor on the tramp steamer, the box-car of the ocean, with danger constantly threatening his life.

Canada should have an interest in the sea, as there are 8,000 Canadian ships manned by 4,000 men, and before the war 90 per cent. of them were foreigners. The folly of this was proven over and over, and we are now training our own boys for the sea life. This is one of the aims of the Navy League. We want to find every man on our ships a British-born man. Otherwise, in the event of another war, our Merchant Marine would be on the rocks. Every man and woman, whether a dweller in the city or on the farm, should support this work, as on it depends our national and individual prosperity.

We plan a personal canvass and a tag day, which we hope will be successful. We hope no one will follow the example of the man who got change for a five dollar bill and gave 5 cents to the tagger.

Rev. J. S. Reddick, Rev. P. L. Jull, and Rev. T. L. White all expressed hearty sympathy with the cause, and the meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

GOOD ATTENDANCE AT REOPENING OF EPWORTH LEAGUE

A Happy and Instructive Evening Spent at Millbrook Monday Evening.

MILLBROCK, Sept. 20.—The Epworth League of the Methodist church held their re-opening meeting on Monday evening, with fifty member and visitors in attendance. Mrs. P. Stinson, the 4th vice-president, was in the chair, and led in the devotional exercises, after which Mr. Frank Alcorn gave a brief report of the Summer School held at Albert College, Belleville. Last year the Millbrook League had fourteen delegates at the School, but only one this year; other circuits apparently decreased also, as the total registration was lower than ever before in the history of the School, though this fact did not prevent the spiritual and social atmosphere from being of a very high order. Rev. George Brown, formerly of this charge, gave the address of welcome, and Rev. F. J. Horwood, Mus. Bac., of Camborne, struck a new note with his lecture of "The Place of Music in Religious Education" illustrating his points with frequent use of the piano. Rev. W. G. Sparling was the returned missionary who, by his account of the work in China, gave an impetus to interest the enthusiasm along this lie, while Miss Best of Toronto, provided the mid-week literary and musical program. Probably the most popular lecturer was Rev. Archer Wallace, D.D., of Toronto, who had charge of the Bible study classes, and was a host in himself during the social hours each day. A "Mock Trial" with Revs. Dr. Wallace and R. T. Richards as rival attorneys, added to the fun of the Saturday evening impromptu concert.

Excellent results in Life Service decisions were evident as a result of the week's work, judging by the number of pledges voluntarily signed at the conclusion of the Commitment Service on Sunday evening Revs. R. T. Richards, B.A., of Castleton and W. P. Woodger, B.A. of Trenton, were re-elected president and secretary for a fourth term.

Other numbers on the program were a duet, "Mother Machree's Lullaby" by Majorie Sayles and Kathleen Freelove, a recitation, "The Christening" by Miss Ida Payne. The social hour which followed was planed to mix up the company so that all would become acquainted; the winners in the contest were, Mrs. F. Smith ad Miss Roma Roberts, who had 68 points to their credit. Cake and ice-cream were served at the else and the singing of the National Athem, followed by the League benediction, brought a pleasant gathering to a conclusion.

YANKS GAIN ON BROWNS IN RACE FOR LEAGUE HONORS

St. Louis' Defeat at Hands of Washington Gives New York Lead of Two and a Half Games.

AMERICAN.

Washington 4, St. Louis 3.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., September 20 (Canadian Press). — St. Louis dropped two and one-half games behind in the pennant race yesterday by losing to Washington, 4 to 3, while New York was defeating Detroit. Washington came from behind in the eighth, and by bunching hits, including doubles by Harris and Rice, ran up three tallies. The Senators scored their other run in the sixth.

Williams' home run into the right field stands was his thirty-ninth of the season. He is now leading all other major league players by two circuit drives—Roger Hornsby, of the local Nationals, his closest rival, having thirty-seven.

George Sisler was out of the line-up because of his injured right shoulder, but batted for Vangilder in the eighth, and struck out. Sisler's physician has advised him to remain off the field for the remainder of the season, but Sisler said he believed several days' rest would allow him to get in the three-game series with Philadelphia which opens on Friday. Score:

Washington	000001030	4	11 0
St. Louis	000100101	3	8 0

Johnson and Picinich, Lapan; Vangilder, Kolp and Severeid.

New York 4, Detroit 3.

DETROIT, Mich., September 20 (Canadian Press). — The New York Yankees continued their march toward the American League championship yesterday by coming from behind in the latter part of their game with Detroit, and winning by 4 to 3.

Faced by a one-run handicap, yielded to Detroit in the second inning when Sam Jones allowed two of the four hits obtained off his delivery during the game, the Yankees tied the count in the seventh, due to clever base running on the part of Schang and Jones, and put the game in the winning column in the next frame on extra base blows by Pipp and Meusel.

Babe Ruth made this thirty-fourth home run of the season off Pillette in the first inning, scoring Dugan ahead of him. Score:

New York	200000110	4	8 0
Detroit	120000000	3	4 0

Jones and Schang; Pillette and Woodall.

Cleveland 7, Boston 4.

CLEVELAND, O., September 20 (Canadian Press). — Cleveland bunched its hits and won a double-header from Boston here yesterday, 7 to 4 and 3 to 2. Both Metevier and Winn, Cleveland recruits, were effective, neither pitcher giving a base on balls.

The hitting of Pittinger and Ruel featured. Scores:

Boston	300000001	4	10 2
Cleveland	01031020x	7	9 0

Pennock, Russell and Chaplin; Metevier and O'Neill.

BOSTON, September 20 (Canadian Press). — St. Louis played its last game of the season against Boston yesterday, and won, 8 to 4, evening this inter-club series at eleven wins for each team. Miller was hit hard. Stocks' play was brilliant at bat and in the field. Hornsby hit safely in his thirty-second consecutive game. Score:

St. Louis	022001210	8	15 1
Boston	002020000	4	10 0

North, Sell, Doak and Ainsmith; Miller, Matthews and Gowdy.

Pittsburgh 6, Philadelphia 1.

PHILADELPHIA, September 20 (Canadian Press). — Pittsburgh made it three out of five from Philadelphia yesterday by taking the final game of the series, 6 to 1.

Both Ring and Winters were hit hard in the last three innings.

Glazner kept the Phillies at bay until the ninth, when three straight hits scored their only run. Score:

Pittsburgh	000000222	6	15 0
Philadelphia	000000001	1	6 0

Glazner and Schmidt; Ring, Winters and Henline.

TO REFLOAT VESSEL

MONTREAL, Sept. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Efforts which have been in progress since last Friday to release the steamer Corinne from the Clay bank below Varennes on which she stranded shortly after leaving this port for Hull, are expected to result in the refloating of the vessel to-day. Sixteen hundred tons of her cargo has been lightered and the vessel has already been moved ten feet nearer deeper water. If necessary, more cargo will be taken out to-day.

Games Scheduled

NEW YORK, September 20 (Canadian Press). — Two games only were scheduled for play in the National League yesterday.

In the American League, while all teams were scheduled, the game at Chicago with Philadelphia was postponed on account of rain.

Rain also prevented the only International League game that was scheduled for yesterday—that at Rochester with Toronto.

Diamond Dust

St. Louis made its last bid for an American League pennant fourteen years ago when Cleveland, Detroit and St. Louis were all tangled in a knot up to the final day. Detroit came out on top. In the scramble this year they have almost thrown away their chance, for it is very doubtful if the Browns can overcome New York's lead.

* * *

Belleville will be here to meet the Petes in a return game Saturday afternoon.

* * *

One more good pitcher might have pulled the Browns through, but then there isn't always just one more good pitcher hanging round waiting to be picked up.

* * *

Some sweet play around shortstop is sure to be seen during the world's series. As in the case of first base, the three shortstops who have a chance to get into the big event are all stars.

* * *

Dave Bancroft, captain of the Giants is the best in the National League, and Everett Scott, the marathon player of the Yanks, and Walter Gerber of the Browns, are as good as there is in the American.

* * *

Like Wally Pipp of the Yanks, Gerber is an underestimated player. He isn't a demon with the stick, but he is not a mark at the bat by any means. He has a good arm and is a graceful and reliable fielder.

* * *

St. Louis' pennant outlook is rapidly not getting any brighter. The Browns' defeat at the hands of Washington while the Yanks were trimming Detroit gives New York a lead of two and a half games.

In World Series of 1922

HORNSBY AND WILLIAMS

(By Billy Evans.)

The world series will be with us soon.

It will be played either in St. Louis or New York, or possibly both places, unless present indications fail.

What part does a ball park's size play in a short series of seven games?

That is rather an interesting question, if the series is to be staged in St. Louis or New York, or both.

It is well known that the Polo Grounds in New York and Sportsmans Park in St. Louis have a curtailed playing field. Lazy fly balls that would be easy outs on many major league parks drop into the stands in New York and St. Louis for rather tainted home runs.

The short playing field at the Polo Grounds did not play a part in the outcome of the 1921 series. However, it has played a prominent part in other world series staged there.

Not so many years ago a two or three-run lead in a world series would have been considered a commanding margin to work on. With a lively ball and a short fence, a four-run lead doesn't mean a thing in a modern major league game. It can be wiped out in a jiffy.

A majority of the home runs made by the St. Louis players have been accumulated on their own grounds. The short right field fence in St. Louis has been a great target for Ken Williams of the Browns.

Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals, a right-handed hitter, also has dropped many a ball into the right field section. Incidentally, Hornsby has shot a number into the left field stands, which are a bit farther away.

If Williams and Hornsby had been as successful in their home-run hitting on foreign grounds as at home they would now be close on the heels of Babe Ruth's record of 59 home runs.

I have seen any number of games at the Polo Grounds and Sportsmans Park turned into defeats after they seemed like certain victories because of the limited playing space. An error, a base on balls and then a lazy home-run fly often wipes out a three-run lead gained through much effort.

It is to be regretted that all the major league parks do not have plenty of playing territory. Curtailed space takes the premium out of home-run hitting, and handicaps the brilliant fielder from turning many a home run into an out.

RUGBY WILL SOON TAKE POSSESSION OF THE FIELD

Only the Championship Play-Offs Remain on the Baseball and Lacrosse Schedules, So Canada's Athletes Turn Their Toes to the Pigskins.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 20. — (Written Specially for the Canadian Press by R. W. Hewitson, Hon. Secretary-Treasurer, Canadian Rugby Union).—With the summer sport season on the wane, and with really only the actual play-off and championship contests remaining, the sporting fraternity of the Dominion are looking forward to the next cog on the athletic activity outdoors—rugby football. Shortly, hundreds of baseball, lacrosse and other players, aside from those competing in the actual play-offs, will be thrown out of competition. They will not remain idle. And rugby is really the only fall pastime generally played. In Eastern Canada the various unions report that the outlook is for an increase in the number of teams. And that means an increase in the number of players. The West, too, is going ahead, and in various centres junior leagues are being formed—the first step towards a general move in the route of rugby popularity.

Comprising as it does the greatest number of teams of any single body, the old Ontario rugby football is in expectation of its most successful season. And this, too, following the wonderful strides made last fall. It goes without saying that the Ontario union is doing more to foster the fall pastime than any other body. Its senior series never has been really strong, but the strength of its foundation is in the lower ranks. There may be found intermediate, junior and interscholastic teams from numerous centres. And it is broadening out every year. The task to build has been hard, but the reward is now coming. And that reward to the O.R.F.U. is showing light to the other bodies, who were content to run along with seniors only, to bring out the crowds, take all the credit—and incidentally all the big gates.

The Interprovincial Union at its last annual meeting decided to step into the field with lower series, and their efforts will be made in Eastern Ontario where the O.R.F.U. has not broken ground. And it is a splendid field. Of course, Argonauts, Montreal, Hamilton Tigers and Ottawa will again comprise the senior series. Indications are that the race will be better balanced than last year, when Argos went through without a defeat. That latter may be some weaker this season, but not much. But Montreal, the weak sister in 1921, are on the improve. They will have the services of some former McGill men, and that experience is just what they need. Ottawa will be some stronger, with Tigers about the same—good enough to give everyone a real tussle and likely to finish on top.

Last fall the Ontario union senior race was spoiled by the great strength of Parkdale Canoe Club. They dominated the quartette and thus interest was lessened. This season Parkdale will again be strong, perhaps even more so than last winter. But the addition of a Toronto University team to the series will add strength both physically and morally. And Hamilton Rowing Club are back in to replace Torontos and the Oarsmen are claiming strength—with it some Tigers of last fall. Ottawa St. Brigids, too, while not saying much, are bound to go better than last year, their first in senior company.

From present indications this looks like Queen's University's year in the Intercollegiate, though it is a little early to call winners. McGill won't be any stronger than last year, as Frank Shaughnessy has lost a host of good players. And Toronto University are not expected to measure up to 1921 calibre. As for Queen's, they will be stronger. No one will begrudge Queen's their honors if they win. They have tried long and defeats only have been their reward. A Queen's victory will be an impetus to sport in Kingston and to the Intercollegiate Union as well.

As for the Quebec Union and the Western Canada body, not a thing has been learned. But they are bound to increase their teams and that is always a sign of progress.

AND HE GOT THERE.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Golfer Joe Kirkwood of Australia, rolled over in bed the other day, winked a couple of times and remarked, "Bllme, I've a golf engagement at Dayton, O. Ah! The taxicab."

So he called a chauffeur, who told him he could not get him to Dayton, O., in time for a 1 o'clock golf engagement, as desired, owing to the speed laws.

Kirkwood stood perplexed. The idea of the Edgewater Beach hotel airplane struck him.

"How much," he said to the pilot. "One hundred dollars an hour," quoth the pilot.

"How long?"

"Oh, a couple of hours."

"Let's go," said Kirkwood, and they went.

SOMETHING ELSE.

ROWDYISM IN BIG LEAGUE SERIES

Injury to Witt Culmination to Bitter Feeling Fans Hold Toward New York.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 20.—As a culmination to the bitter feeling that existed among the fans at Sportsmans Park here Saturday during the first game of the series which the Kilties won from the St. Louis Browns by 2 to 1, Lawson (Whitey) Witt, centre-fielder of the New York club, was struck on the forehead by a bottle thrown by a fan in the bleachers and was knocked unconscious. The unfortunate incident occurred in the ninth inning, while Bob Meusel, the New York right-fielder, and Witt were running after a fly ball hit by Eddie Foster, the Browns' third-baseman. Players and umpires rushed to the aid of the player and the crowd swarmed out of the stands and on to the fields. For a time a real riot seemed imminent, but the mounted police, who were patrolling in front of the stands, succeeded in driving the crowd back into the bleachers.

Witt was carried from the field by other players and rushed to the clubhouse. Physicians who examined him declared that the player was not seriously injured. The missile cut a deep gash in his forehead, but it was stated definitely that no fracture had resulted. Despite a thorough investigation it was impossible to learn who threw the bottle.

The crowd, which numbered at least 30,000, and which was the largest to witness a baseball game in the history of St. Louis, displayed its intense feeling toward the New York players throughout the afternoon. Every move of a visiting player was a signal for a storm of catcalls and hisses.

WESTERN TEAMS GRABBING PLAYERS.

Western hockey teams are grabbing all the stars that are unsigned to pro contracts, but some of the aggregations will have a surplus of talent and it will be a difficult job placing the players. It seems to be a case of getting the star players signed up to a particular club without having any idea where they will be placed. It's a good way to keep other clubs from getting them, however.

Calgary has signed Bill Binney, the Moose Jaw goaler, to a contract, but they are still carrying Charlie Reid, whom Calgary fans term one of the three best goalkeepers in the Dominion. They concede that Binney has little chance to oust Reid from the nets, but Binney will travel round with the Tigers during the winter months. Bobby Benson, secured from Saskatoon, is another played without a position. Herb Gardiner and "Red" Dutton form a sound defence, and it would not be surprising if both Binney and Benson are "loaned" to some other team for the season.

OLD STARS TRAIN YOUNGER PLAYERS

College Players Succeed in the Majors Because of Coaching of Former Heroes of the Diamond.

The remarkable number brilliant players obtained by the major leagues from the colleges the past season or signed for tryouts next spring, has drawn comment many times during the present baseball scrambles. Not much attention is paid, however, by the average fan, to the men behind the guns—the ones who prepared these players for the chance of a lifetime.

Most of these college stars owe their success to date to men who starred in the big show from a few years to 20 years ago. For a majority of the coaches now employed by colleges to prep their diamond stars are ex-big leaguers. A glimpse at the coaching staffs of some of the colleges show that.

Big Jeff Tesreau has been coaching Dartmouth's ball teams for several seasons.

Hans Lobert, fleet-footed star of the Reds, is coach at West Point.

The older fans will be glad to hear that Jack Slattery is coaching Harvard. Jack Coombs, one of the wonder hurlers who made the White Elephants famous, has done great work with the Williams College team. Ray Fisher is the Hurry Up Yost of Michigan's diamond squad. Bill Coughlin is instructing the Lafayette team this season again.

And this is only a partial list. Scores of other stars of yesteryear render aid in official capacities at colleges and prep schools each spring. A word from any of these old-time stars to a big league club owner opens the gates of the promised land to a college player who aspires to diamond fame.

HANSEN TO SUCCEED "STUFFY" McINNIS.

Stuffy McInnis, who must be numbered among the great first basemen of the major leagues, is nearing the end of his major league career.

McInnis started at Shibe Park, Philadelphia, under Connie Mack. And today, on the same field and in the same position, is another youth who threatens to become as good as McInnis.

Joe Hauser, after playing first base for Mack for a few months, is generally being regarded as a youth that deserves serious consideration.

Hauser is a good fielder. He is not as good as Blue, or Sisler, or Judge, but he is still a better fielder than a few others in his own league, and better than the bulk of National League first sackers.

The youngster is one of the leading hitters of the league and, unlike McInnis, he is a free hitter who is liable to drive the ball to any field. In the recent Detroit-Philadelphia series Hauser hit to all corners.

He has nerve and intelligence. He is 23 years old, meaning that he also has youth. And that counts for a great deal, too.

Some Great Work May Be Looked For at Short in Coming World's Series

(By Henry L. Farrell.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Some sweet play around shortstop is sure to be seen during the world's series. As in the case of first base, the three shortstops who have a chance to get into the big event are all stars.

Dave Bancroft, captian of the Giants, is the best in the National League, and Everett Scott, the marathon player of the Yanks, and Walter Gerber, of the Browns, are as good as there is in the American.

Like Wally Pipp, of the Yanks, Gerber is an underestimated player. He isn't a demon with the stick, but he is not a mark at the bat by any means. He has a good arm, and is a graceful and reliable fielder.

Bancroft carries a heavier load than any shortstop in the game. Being the captain of the Giants means a big job with a manager who plays the strict bench directorship that McGraw insists upon. The Giant shortstop is rather frail physically, and at times during this season he has shown signs of cracking. He reached the point of staleness several times, and his game was greatly affected. He also has the misfortune of making his wobbles at the most inopportune times.

Deacon Scott is also of frail build, but he is an iron man, if there ever was one. He has played in nearly one thousand consecutive games, and he has never shown signs of letting down under the strain.

Scotty is a flashy fielder, and a dangerous man at the bat. His average with the stick will not compare to Bancroft, but he is just as fast on the bases when he gets there. He is better starting a double play and better in the middle of a double kill than the Giant captain. Gerber also gets the ball away faster and cleaner than Bancroft.

Both Scott and Bancroft are better going back into short left and over behind second base than Gerber. They both cover immense territory. Bancroft is better going to his right than either of his prospective rivals.

In a short series, Scott's coolness and steadiness perhaps makes him the most valuable of the three players. He never wavers, while Bancroft sometimes blows when any of his men wobble. Gerber also shows less nerve than the Giant captain.

Both Bancroft and Scott have had the test of world's series competition, and they are both good "money players." Gerber has never had the opportunity to get into the fall classic, but there is no reason to believe that he would not be equal to the occasion.

Scott and Bancroft are so nearly matched in ability that it would be hard to choose between them; but the physical factor is important, and the Yankee star gets the choice there.

THE OLD GUARD STICKS.

There is nothing in sport that quite outlasts the reign of a football coach who once finds an old homestead that he likes.

There is something in the game that calls them back each fall and that holds them from one decade to another.

A. A. Stagg, of Chicago; F. H. Yost, of Michigan; Glen Warner, of Pittsburg; J. W. Heisman, of Pennsylvania; Dr. Williams, of Minnesota, and one or two others have been coaching over twenty-six years. They have left one-quarter of a century behind and are on their way to another.

Changes come quicker in the east than they do in the west. In the west the coach who doesn't stick for twenty years at one spot is considered only a trial horse, a temporary instructor merely filling in a gap.

RE-OPEN CONTROVERSY.

MONTREAL, Sept. 19. — (Canadian Press.)— The Shopmen's committee this morning agreed to re-open direct negotiations with Canadian railways following an assurance sought and obtained from Minister of Labor that by again negotiating with companies in event of disagreement new dispute necessitating new Board would not be created, and failing an agreement within reasonable time men's committee would be free to issue strike call to its membership.

The O.B.A.A. semi-final midget series between St. Mary's of Lindsay and the local Maple Leafs will be played next week, the Leafs getting the first game here next Tuesday afternoon. The game will start at 4.30 o'clock, with Dick Butler and Alex Kay doing the umpiring. The second game will be played in Lindsay on Friday or Saturday the week-end date being the likely choice if there are no big counter attractions.

St. Mary's won the league honors at Lindsay without a play-off, by taking both ends of the split schedule. They shape up pretty much like the Leafs, and the series should be interesting.

McCormicks of Toronto are due here on Saturday, September 30th, to meet the Adanacs. The winner of this series will meet the western winner. Just why the Toronto crew could not get here last Saturday remains a mystery as it is now known that no championship game was played in Toronto on that day.

Shiner Johnston the Petes' second sacker has been giving the Adanacs the benefit of his baseball experience and A. Heckman will lend a hand and assist the Leafs in their next games. Both teams are fortunate in having these players to coach them.

Ill-fortune pursued Tommy Doughty throughout the E.P.I. season. Tommy was always ready to turn had he received the support his pitching deserved, the Lakefield team might now hold the Wright silverware. Dissension in the ranks beat the northerners as it will call the count on any team. Doughty's injury in the game at Keene is regretted by the members of the Keene team, and had it been in their power to do so, Manager Wellman and his players would have refused to accept the default.

The East Peterboro league champs and the Canadian Generals conquerors of Tweed, play the first game of their semi-final series at Keene on Thursday afternoon. Generals are the logical favorites, having an advantage over Keene in all departments of the game. But the Wellman crew will make it a battle.

Havelock and Hastings play a sudden death game at Norwood tomorrow for district lacrosse honors. Campbellford Midgets have been hooked up with St. Simon's, the games to be played on Thursday and Saturday, Campbellford getting the first date at home.

The world's series will go to the club winning the majority of the games in a series of seven contests. St. Louis lost more ground yesterday and right now it looks like the two New York clubs for the big fall classic. October 4th will see the start.

The local rugby teams make their getaway on Saturday afternoon. The city series will be short, and the four teams will contribute towards an O.R.F.U. team.

The Executive of the P.A.A.A. will hold a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce tonight at eight. o'clock Steps are being taken for fall and winter activities. Boxing classes will shortly be resumed.

FAMILY SAFE.

BOSTON, Sept. 20.—(Canadian Press)—Foreign Affairs board today received cable from Dr. Alexander McLaghlin of Kingston, Ont., President of the International College at Smyrna saying that he and his family were safe at Malta. The message said that Jules E. Murray of Ontario members of the College faculty was also at Malta.

CROSS U.S. IN A FLASH.

The distance between the east and west coasts of the United States is less than one-fiftieth of a second! By radio. That's computed from the theory, accepted by leading scientists that radio waves travel at the speed of light, 186,000 miles a second.

NO GROUND OR AERIAL

A new radio receiver without either aerial or ground connection has been invented by Paul Oard, a California engineer. All that is needed to catch the fast waves is a stretch of wire not more than 50 feet long. "It is the radio set for automobiles," says Oard.

A BIT OF ROMANCE FOR A BALL GLOVE

Stubby Mack Still Uses the Glove That Ray Schalk Gave Him in 1915.

(By Billy Evans.)

During his major league debut at Boston Aug. 16, Mack lost a well pitched game, 5 to 3. For six innings he was on the way to a shutout, when loss of control proved his undoing.

One week later he made his second start against Washington, and shut out the Nationals, 3 to 0, allowing only five hits.

Pretty fair get-away for a 22-year-old recruit!

There is a bit of sport romance in the rise of "Stubby" Mack to the ambition of every youngster who can play ball—the major leagues.

Seven years ago the Chicago White Sox played an exhibition game at San Diego, Cal. They trained on the coast that year—1915—and as there was an exposition at San Diego, it offered a lucrative field for this exhibition.

In the course of the San Diego game a little Mexican boy sneaked along the White Sox bench, tucked Ray Schalk's favorite catching mitt under his blouse and started for the Mexican quarter of the town.

"Stubby" Mack, then a youngster of 15, saw the theft and gave chase. After catching the fugitive it was necessary for "Stubby" to display his fistic superiority, before he regained possession of the glove. When he returned the glove to Schalk, he was presented with four new balls and an old glove for his honesty.

He still uses the glove.

Seven years later Mack made his debut as a major league pitcher with Schalk as his battery partner. It sounds like a baseball fairy tale, but it's plain fact and just goes to prove that truth often is stranger than fiction.

Mack is a product of St. Mary's College, Oakland, which has given to the major leagues such stars as Harry Hooper, Duffy Lewis, Dutch Leonard, Louis Guisto, besides many other big league celebrities.

Success as a college pitcher caused "Stubby" to take a whirl in the minors.

Last year he was with Calgary, in the Western Canada League. This year he went to Seattle, of the Pacific Coast League.

Report has it that Chicago gave Pitcher Ferdy Schupp and $25,000 for Mack. The latter came high, but his work in his first starts makes it look as if he were worth it.

Mack is a right-hander. He measures about six feet and weighs around 180 pounds. He has good speed and an excellent curve. If he comes through as Robertson, Leverette and Blankenship did, the White Sox will start 1923 with a formidable pitching staff.

MIDGET WONDER.

Edna Leonard.

Edna Leonard won the 50-yard handicap for midget swimmers at Brighton Beach. Her time was 55 1-5 seconds. Ednas' 11 years old. No fish is much omre at home in the water than she. Good judges predict that she's break all natatorial records within a few more years. She's tireless as well as fast and as graceful a little swimmer as ever was seen.

Little Lessons For the Golfer

(By George O'Neil.)

To best illustrate why you must keep your body out of the swing, you should understand that you might as well fasten the end of your club shaft to the front of your collar button, and then swing the clubhead at the ball, as try to accomplish the same thing while the club is in your hands. It really amounts to the same thing. You can understand from that comparison, I think, just why the body can add nothing to your swing. Players who have letting the body get in ahead of the clubhead will perhaps understand from this why they have been afflicted with a more or less permanent alice. Brace the left knee; keep the body out.

Here is the big, powerful Ted Ray, British pro champion, who hits hard. It is not true that you can get the longest ball by hitting easily. The first thing, however, is to get the right swing, which means that you must keep your body behind your club both going up and coming down. Ray's partly open stance is shown in the insert, the measurements being his own.

Radio News

This is the conclusion of radio engineers who have been conducting experiments for the Postoffice Department to attempt to eliminate static interference in receiving. The experiments have been in charge of James C. Edgerton, superintendent of the radio section.

Instead of the aerial antenna, however, Edgerton has found three different methods of receivin g that brought good results. These are:

1. Large vertical outsid multiple turn loops.
2. Underground horizontal buried loops.
3. Underground antennae.

The post office Department statement explaining the use of these forms of receiving antennae. says:

"The best results are obtained with the underground antenna when it can be laid in damp soil with a straight away of 1000 feet. The horizontal buried loop is more or less of a new departure and has been very successful when well insulated and buried in water or very damp earth."

Even while lightning was striking, the report adds, communication was carried on with the use of the underground antenna.

Cameramen Use Balloon to Photograph Battle Scenes of "The Loves of Pharaoh"

Vast Army of Men Utilised in Big Conflict is Directed with Military Precision by Producer Ernest Lubitsch.

Dusty and hot was the road to filmland in the sandy mountains of Posen, but the sight of ancient Egypt, gleaming in the sunlight on the heights makes the journey worth the effort. There Ernest Lubitsch had assembled for "The Loves of Pharaoh" many thousands of men, women and children, who, swarming through the streets and squares, give to the massive structures something like pulsing life.

Immense and powerful, a sphinx towered from the sand, dominating the landscape. To the right glittered a palace decorated with columns and sculptures, where Paraoh used to live. An immense balloon soared overhead from which cameramen recorded every phase of the coming battle.

Below in the valley a battle had started. Through clouds of dust glittering arms, the clatter of shields, the howling of wild Ethiopian hordes, the rushing of war-chariots, fleeing Egyptians, crying and shouting of women and children swarming in wild disorder ,combined to produce a grand, awe-inspiring spectacle.

And Ernest Lubitsch, perched on a platform outside of camera range, kept both arms in motion like the conductor of a brass band. Responsive to his gestures, the buglers nearby blew first one call, then another, which were signals to the lieutenants in the field for the movement of the contesting armies.

More than one hundred thousand persons fought according to his direction, the greatest number of persons ever photographed in any feature film. Mr. Lubitsch, recognized as the master of mobs since his handling of crowds in "Deception" and "Passion" here had opportunity to do his greatest work.

Those who have seen "The Loves of Pharaoh," the great Paramount picture which will be shown at the Capitol Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday, speak of it enthusiastically as the most massive picture ever filmed.

In this romance of ancient Egypt the four principal roles are portrayed by four men screen stars and one woman, Dagny Servaes, described as the most beautiful of European players. Emil Jannings, the English king in "Deception," appears as the Egyptian king in "The Loves of Pharaoh." Paul Wegener, who enacted "The Golem," has a colorful role as king of Ethiopia and Harry Liedtke, seen with Pola Negri in "The Last Payment," appears as the youthful lover who vanquishes the king and becomes ruler in his stead.

AT THE GRAND.

Charles S. Gilpin, creator of the title role of Eugene O'Neill's remarkable drama "The Emperor Jones" which comes to the Grand, Thursday, Sept. 21st., has been amply rewarded for his early struggles, all of which came to him during the past two years. Here are a few of the honors heaped upon Gilpin. He was selected for the part of the Emperor by Mr. O'Neill and found himself famous over night. He was voted one of the ten greatest contributors to the dramatic art of the season by the Drama League of New York and the Allied Art Societies and was guest of honor at their annual banquet, together with David Belasco, Lionel Atwill, Gilda Varesi, Fred Stone and others. He was received at the White House by President Harding. He was awarded the Spingarn Medal by the National Society for the advancement of his race. He played for an entire season at the Princess Theatre, New York. He made a tour of the leading cities of the United States, was proclaimed by all dramatic critics as almost superhuman in his ability as an actor.

FINANCIAL GROUP IS READY TO BUY POWER.

WELLAND, September, 20 (Canadian Press). — President O. E. Fleming, addressing the Canadian Deep Waterways and Power Association here this morning, declared that a group of financiers were prepared to buy the power proposed to be developed in connection with the deepening of the St. Lawrence.

"I can say to you now," he said to the delegates, "that so far as the cost of the enterprise is concerned, there is a strong financial group prepared to buy power at a price that will cover the cost of operation at maintenance, interest charges, and sinking funds."

The price is based on the estimated cost of the project, $252,000,000.

The president reported that the situation was never more critical than now, as far as the ultimate success of the great scheme was concerned.

During the last session of Parliament, the Association had been careful not to take any action which would embarrass the Government which had not a working majority, but the King Government would now be urged to confer with the United States Government along the lines suggested by President Harding's letter to the Prime Minister.

BELLEVILLE TAKES THE FIRST GAME

Defeated Peterboro In First of Play Off Games For Central Ontario Honours

(By Staff Correspondent.)

BELLEVILLE, September 20. — Ideal weather conditions prevailed here this afternoon, when Belleville and Peterborough met in the first game of the series to decide the Central Ontario League championship, and a huge crowd was on hand including delegations from every Central League town, and both teams were at full strength for the big battle, and showed pep in their preliminary work-outs.

Belleville pinned their faith in "Lefty" Williams, their Indian southpaw star, while Al. Heckman was on the firing line for the Petes.

On account of a left-hander pitching for Belleville, Kirn played right field for the Petes instead of Bergoine.

Call Money — 4½ to 5 per cent.

By Stuart P. West.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Sept. 20.—(Special.)—The only way in which the political crisis of the Near East bore up to-day's markets was to bring about a general lessening of activities, with diminishing price fluctuations.

The best evidence of sentiment in banking circles lay undoubtedly in the action of the foreign exchanges. Sterling was up nearly three cents from the low of Monday and French francs were also up slightly. This meant not only the recovery of the entire loss at the beginning of the week when the war scare was being actively exploited, but it brought French exchange in particular almost back to the high of a week ago, before the Turkish business began to be noticed in the markets at all. This recovery in the exchanges was emphatic enough to show that if the Turkish question had not been dismissed entirely from calculations, it had ceased to be looked upon with any serious apprehension.

Business on the stock exchange was smaller, but there was no renewal of selling. On the contrary the familiar operations for the rise—most of them inspired by speculative pools—kept on. Some short covering came into the leaders of the list in the early part of the day, but subsequently the general run of stocks did little.

Interest was absorbed almost wholly by the specialty movements.

The bond market was strong again both for government and corporate bonds, but here the influence was not the better feeling over the European situation so much as it was the President's veto on the soldier bonus bill and the anticipation that this veto would be uphald in the Senate. Liberty tax exempt 3 1-2's had quite a sharp advance. In the rest of the U. S. war loan group the rise was more moderate.

French and English government issues were substantially the same as on the previous day, the important thing in their connection being that what selling came into the market on uneasiness over the Near Eastern situation troubles had run its course.

DIVIDEND DEFERRED.

PETERBORO, Sept. 20.—A meeting of shareholders of Canadian Woolens, Ltd., was held at the head office of the company yesterday afternoon. The reports, as published, were submitted as follows: O. A Dawson, President; W. K. George, First Vice-President and Chairman of Board; F. B. Hayes, Second Vice-Presilent; F. R. Sweeney, G. D. Perry, Wm. Hanson, I. Eonner.

Subsequently at a meeting of directors it was decided to postpone the dividends on preferred shares and the following letter is being addressed to the shareholders:

"Your directors have carefully considered the question of the declaration of a dividend on the preferred stock for the current quarter. While the dividend requirements have been fully earned it has deemed advisable in the interests of the shareholders that the company should strengthen its cash position by conserving an increasing its liquid resources. This is particularly desirable at the present time on account of the world's unrest. Accordingly, at a meeting of directors held today, it was decided to withhold the preferred dividends for the present.

Dividends Are Cumulative.

"Your directors would point out, however, that dividends on the preferred stock are cumulative and that in withholding dividends at the present time they are simply deferring payment until the future situation is less obscure. The expectations expressed in the annual report with regard to the improvement in business have been realized in the two months of the current fiscal year and your directors expect that this will continue. It is hoped that the shareholders will recognize that the conservative policy heretofore maintained and continued by the action now taken is in the best interest of the company. (Signed) A. O. Dawson, President

MARKET SHOWED STRENGTH UNDER ATTACK OF TURKS.

NEW YORK, September 20. — Wall Street has shown the most remarkable strength during the last few days, enough surely to prove my statements made several weeks ago to the effect that nothing short of a calamity could possibly prevent the market from going considerably higher. There are those who predicted a serious setback more than two weeks ago, but until yesterday has there been no sign of this setback, and nothing less than the advent of the terrible Turk could break the upward movement. It is foolish to suppose that this or any other market could continuously move upward, for if that were the case it would show signs of weakness — healthy setbacks must occur occasionally to enable the market to reach and maintain higher levels.

On Monday the general investing public stood aghast having in mind the onslaught of 1914 when stocks broke badly, but the present time is an altogether different matter, and it was only the timid and poorly-margined traders who took advantage of the situation to unload, and of course the bears took advantage also to depress the market, and they accomplished their object fairly well, but only for one day. On Tuesday there was considerable movement in covering the commitments made on the short side and also the investing public came into the market and made fair way to secure the bargains offered. In fact the buying of yesterday was of the most substantial character.

I repeatedly advised the purchase of M.N.P. on any real setback, and this was your opportunity for after touching 186 it immediately rose to 192, a fairly good increase for the day, but this stock has all the earmarks of going higher, and it might be well to stay long of it. This also applies to P.P., which should sell around 89 very soon. M.X.S. showed considerable strength lately, and will do better. It's cheap.

I have recommended the purchase of C.P.R. and North-Western, and still hold that these stocks will sell very much higher. Union Pacific also will prove a good purchase, as it should sell at least 10 points higher, although I imagine 20 points is more in keeping. Another stock finding favour is Atchison, which is tipped for 115, and very probably more. The Equipment shares are bound to increase in value in keeping with the activities of the railroads. Steels also will improve, such as U.S.S., Crucible, G. S. T., Beth., and Midvale.

Studebaker amongst the motor stocks looks the best buy, as it has cash reserves as well as coal, and is in a position to pay its dividend along with its ability to meet competition in price and models. The present time is one of discretion, but do not allow your feelings to be entirely governed by the past, for it will take something more serious than the Turk to make the banks, trust companies, etc., sell their stocks at the present prices. Buy good stocks and make money. — Seawright.

WANT CONTROL OF THE POWER FOR DISTRICT

Representations Made at a Meeting Held in Port Hope--Peterborough Represented.

TO PRESENT CASE

PORT HOPE, Sept. 21.—A meeting of the representatives from the municipality of the Central Ontario Power System was held here. His Worship Mayor Curtis presided. The following delegates were present: Mr. Herity, of the Chamber of Commerce, Belleville; Mayor Maher and Councillors Fullerton and McArthur, Cobourg; Reeve Smith, Port Hope; Mayor Quinn and the Reeve of Bowmanville; Messrs Hamilton, Bradburn and Mason, of the Public Utilities, Peterborough, and the City Clerk, S. R. Armstrong; Deputy Reeve Mason and Alderman Trick, Oshawa; Mayor O'Reilley and Alderman Broom, Lindsay.

The meeting was called for the purpose of considering the placing of the Central Ontario power now owned by the Government upon the same basis as the power development in Western Ontario, and for the purpose of arranging all details for presentation to the Gregory Commission when they meet here in the near future.

All the municipalities represented at the meeting were in favor of submitting the idea, with the exception of Oshawa. The following resolution was passed, and the only dissenting voice was that of Oshawa:

Moved by Mayor Maher, Cobourg, seconded by Mayor O'Reilly, Lindsay:

Whereas the Government of Ontario purchased the powers and property of the Electric Power Company and subsidiary companies in Central Ontario;

And whereas the property included street railway and other local utilities;

And whereas these properties are owned by the Province and are operated by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario;

And whereas in Western Ontario the Hydro-Electric Power Commission has constructed, controls and operates the power properties for the municipalities and the properties are in fact owned by the municipalities;

And whereas the municipalities in Central Ontario desire to have the powers and properties in this district placed in the same position as those in Western Ontario and believe that only by this being done can the municipalities and people be justly treated;

And whereas these properties and utilities should be handed over to the Hydro-Electric Commission to be operated for the municipalities, and at a price that will make the Hydro-Electric business in Central Ontario commercially feasible and permit the local utilities to be sold direct to the municipalities at a price that will enable the municipalities to operate them on a sound commercial basis;

Resolved, that this meeting, representing the municipalities in the Central Ontario district, petition and urge the Government of Ontario to pass legislation for the transfer of the powers and utilities in this district owned by the Province to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission for the municipalities voting in favor of the same, in such a way that they will be the property of the said municipalities and be operated by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission for the said municipalities, as is the case in Western Ontario, and that they will be so transferred at a price and on terms that will enable the powers and utilities to be operated on a sound and satisfactory financial and commercial basis and the local utilities to be taken over by the several municipalities at a price that will enable them to operate these utilities at fair charges for services and without danger of financial loss. The said legislation to provide for a vote to be taken thereon by the municipalities after the terms and conditions for the transfer have been agreed upon between the Government and Hydro Commission acting for the municipalities.

Resolved further, that the Chairman and Secretary be requested to arrange for an interview with the Premier and other members of the Government of Ontario, at which this resolution will be presented, and the

HANNA FIRED SAYS MEIGHEN

Calls For a Canadian at the Head of the Government Railway—The Near East Crisis.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 21. — (Canadian Press).—The question of the Near East is one of which no one should endeavor to embarrass the Government, the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen told a gathering of political friends here last night. So great was the question of the foreign policy that every citizen should give the Government an opportunity to live up to the best traditions of sterling British character, he declared. He urged that no one should be carried away by thoughtless references to foreign policy, and that the Near East was not a diplomatic adventure in the mind of the British Government, which, he said, was composed of men of all parties who had stood the test of the last eight years.

Discussing the railway problem, he favored the appointment of a Canadian at the head. To-day, he said, D. B. Hanna was a "fired boss, handling the greatest enterprise in Canada, a fine state of affairs."

German View of Mark Sales to Foreigners

Statement That German Commerce Has Largely Lived on Losses by Foreigners

Recent articles in the German press point out frankly that "German commerce and industry have during the past few years lived largely on the losses in marks incurred by foreigners which became profits to Germany." The Allgemeine Zeitung, which thus sums up the situation, goes into the following details on the transaction:

"Of late years Germany's balance of trade has been unfavorable. We bought more goods than we exported, and theoretically we ought to have been impoverished thereby. However, things worked out differently. We paid for the excess of our imports with paper marks, and if we paid in foreign money we had bought foreign bills with German marks.

"We could do so easily, for foreign countries bought for speculative purposes huge amounts of German bank notes, granted credits in marks, and sent money to Germany which they converted into mark deposits. Probably half of the existing paper money thus got into the hands of foreigners, who wished to buy with marks German goods when the value of the mark had risen. But the foreign countries made a bad speculation."

DENT GUILTY OF MURDERING PETER EGOIAN

Was Sentenced This Morning By Chief Justice Meredith to Hang on Friday, November 24.

STORY OF CRIME

BRANTFORD, Sept. 21. — (Canadian Press).—Chief Justice R. M. Meredith this morning sentenced Harry Dent, Armenian to be hanged on Friday, November 24, for the murder of his landlord, Peter Egoian, on April 24 last.

A verdict of guilty was returned last evening by the jury.

This trial, which has caused considerable interest here, started short ly after three o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and concluded Wednesday evening. W. S. Brewster, K.C., who appeared in the interests of the accused had earlier asked for an adjournment which was granted until the end of the jury list by Chief Justice Meredith, presiding justice, but which was later over-ruled and the case opened with a packed auditorium.

Prisoner Excited

Dent sat through the early part of the trial with all appearance of being unconcerned but when the case became somewhat intense to the spectators he was visibly excited and mumbled to himself in Armenian. According to the interpreter, who was used by the counsels when the witnesses were of Armenian nationality, Dent muttered that "they were all wrong" and that "the doctors were no good." When Police Sergeant Wallace was giving his evidence, Dent raised his voice and said "Shame on you—after kissing the Bible and telling those lies."

Dent pleaded not guilty to the charge of murder.

The Evidence

Sir William Hearst the prosecuting attorney, first called witnesses, friends of Peter Egoian, who asserted that on Monday, April 24 the day before Egoian was said to have been murdered, the deceased was at the home of A. Aybarzian, 171 Darling street, between 7 and 9.30 o'clock. The witnesses swore that Egoian was to return the next day to help at garden work. He was not seen alive since that day. These witnesses, together with Bogus Egoian, brother of the deceased said that, as far as they knew, the deceased and Dent were on the best of terms, Dent, the murdered man and the family of John Milkonian all live in the same house, owned by the deceased and parts rented to the other families.

The evidence of the Milkonian family was to the effect that they heard no noise on the nights of April 24 or 25.

Alfred Knight, one of the men who found the pail with the head of the murdered man in, gave evidence as to the finding of part of the body in the river. He stated that he saw Dent about 7 o'clock on the night of Tuesday, April 25, and that he carried no parcels at that time, He later saw him, about 9 o'clock with a parcel in his hand Dent threw the parcel into the river from the bridge near the dam. The witness called his brother-in-law I. Christie, who was fishing under the bridge and they pulled the parcel out of the water. On opening it they found that it was a pail and contined Egoian's head and parts of his arms The police were notified and took charge of the pail and its contents. About 11 o'clock Dent was arrested on Colborne street with a suitcase

COAL RATIONS FOR PROVINCE UNTIL SPRING

First Cars of City's Coal Order Arrived Yesterday --Fuel Commission Provides for Rationing.

CAN MIX THE COAL

Mayor W. H. Taylor to-day stated that two cars of coal purchased by the city have arrived, and one or two more cars are on the road.

PHILADELPHIA, September 21 Special to The Examiner). — The Ontario householder who uses ten tons of hard coal during the winter will only be able to get six tons, spread over the period between now and the first of April next.

A sixty per cent. rationing for all regions getting anthracite from Pennsylvania was declared by the Pennsylvania Fuel Commission this morning, and was approved by representatives of the Fuel Commission of other States.

The Pennsylvania Fuel Commission bases its decision on the fact that between now and April first the output production will be sixty per cent. of the annual output. That is to say, that from April first last until the same date next year, instead of something over eighty million tons of anthracite being produced, the total will be in the neighbourhood of fifty million tons at the most.

As a result of this condition, the State Commission announces that only sixty per cent. of the normal tonnage used by any State or region can be shipped during the winter. And it does not mean that any great proportion of the sixty per cent. allotted to each district will go right away. It will be spread over the whole winter period.

In deciding on this course, the Pennsylvania Commission is emphatic in declaring that there must be not only economy, but the greatest frugality in the consumption of coal during the winter.

In this connection, it is suggested that people be educated to use the steam sizes of coal of which there will be no shortage.

If the buckwheat and smaller sizes of coal were used up, it is estimated that there would be an increase of ten per cent. on the sixty per cent. production of prepared sizes.

It is suggested by the Commission that the people stock up on these smaller sizes, so that they can mix it with the domestic coal.

"Don't Worry" Says Former Senator, 100

Cornelius Cole Says It's the Worst Enemy of Man

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21. — Cornelius Cole, former representative and United States Senator from California, who at his home here has just celebrated the 100th anniversary of his birth, told the multitude of friends who greeted him at a reception in his garden, that "worry kills more people than bludgeons, bullets and disease."

"Keep your mind in order," he advised, "just as you expect your house to be kept in order.

"Hunger is a wholesome sensation; all excesses are dangerous to health, and over-eating is the commonest form of excess.

"Make your mind behave. Avoid anger. By all means avoid anger.

"Pessimism is a from of brain disease; it may be cured or cultivated by the power of the will.

"I hear much alarimst talk. Sixteen years ago men said the country was going to the dogs, but it didn't seem to, somehow.

"Years ago I wondered whether I'd ever live to see this century. And here I am 22 years into it, and still going. I've come to the conclusion the climate must have a great deal to do with it."

Mr. Cole has a number of speaking engagements ahead of him this week.

ALL CLOTHING BURNED OFF WOMAN'S BODY

Terrible Accident Befalls Mrs. Nathan Fine of Charlotte Street, Who Suffers Serious Injuries

READY ASSISTANCE

Her clotl ing a mass of flames, shrieking in agony and imploring help, Mrs. Nathan Fine, a Russian Jewess, at a quarter to one o'clock today, rushed into the presence of J. A. Lonergan and P. O'Connell, who were conversing in the rear of the former's tobacco store on Charlotte street, near LeBarr's b ok store. Not waiting for assistance, the woman in her frenzy, hurried into the yard behind the store followed by Lonergan and O'Connell, whence, her heart-rendering cries quickly attracted a crowd of citizens, some of whom by enveloping the woman in coats and clothing, succeeded in smothering the flames, but not before practically every stitch of clothing had been burned from off the victims body.

Dr. Amy's nd McCulloch were quickly summoned and had Mrs. Fine removed to Nicholls' Hospital, where it was discovered that her whole body was badly burned, although in some miraculous manner her face escaped flames.

Police Constable H. W. Young, on his way to report for duty also responded to the unfortunate woman's cries and rendered assistance. Examining the premises upstairs, over Lonergan's tobacco store occupied by Mrs. Fine and her husband and child, he found some cookies the woman had evidently been baking strewn over the floor, and the stove, a Quebec heater, with oven attachment, considerably overheated. His supposition is that the woman's flimsy print or calico dress coming in contact with the overheated stove readily igniting, when she was quickly enveloped in flames. No one was with her at the time, excepting her three or four-year-old child, who escaped injury from his mother's burning clothing.

This flat is entered by stairs at the rear of Lonergan's store, down which the agonized woman rushed in her dire extremity.

The victim is a sister-in-law to Mr. M. Fine, who conducts ladies clothing and dry goods store on George street.

A Thought

And the Lord shall guide thee continually, and satisfy thy soul in drought.—Isiah 58:11.

Self Reverence, self knowledge, self-control,
These three alone lead life to sovereign power.
Yet not for power (power itself
Would be uncalled for) but to live by law,
Acting the law we live by without fear,
And because right is right, to follow right,
Were wisdom in the scorn of consequence—Alfred Tennyson.

Despatches From Britain Of a Reassuring Nature

Secret Messages to Premier King Show That the Situation Is Rapidly Clearing in the Near East. —Cabinet Will Not Meet To-Day.

OTTAWA, September 21 (Canadian Press). — The Near East situation is clearing, according to late cable despatches received by the Canadian Government from the British authorities.

"We have had further word of a reassuring nature from the British Government and from our representatives at Geneva," the Prime Minister told the Canadian Press at the conclusion of the meeting of the Cabinet late yesterday afternoon.

Asked for the text of the messages, Mr. King replied that in each instance they were marked "Secret," and that the exact wording of the messages could not be disclosed.

PRESENTATION TO REV. M'CONNACHIE OF CENTREVILLE

Pastor of Presbyterian Church and Lady Get Cabinet of Silver on Wedding Anniversary

BALIEBORO, Sept. 21. — On Monday the twenty-fifth anniversary of the wedding of Rev. and Mrs. A. H. McConnachie, of Centreville was ceebrated in the Sunday School hall at Centreville, where many members of the Presbyterian church, of which he is pastor, and almost the entire membership of the U.F.O. gathered to pay their respects to the reverend gentleman and his lady.

In token of their appreciation of Mr. and Mrs. McConnachie's valued services during the time they have been residents in this community, in church and club, a beautiful cabinet of silver donated by the church and U.F.O. club members was presented them.

The gift from the church was presented by Frank Morrison, accompanied by a beautiful address read by Mr. Jos. White, while the clubs' gift was presented by the president George Berry, Jr., and a splendid address was read by the secretary Cliff Hall. Mr. McConnachie made a very fitting reply after both of the presentations, enlarging on the pleasure he had experienced in his work in Centreville church, and his co-operation with the U.F.O. in every way possible.

A good programme was provided for the occasion, Jas. Campbell acting as chairman. The numbers were all very creditably presented.

Addresses by J. C. Campbell and W. S. Given of Millbrook; address and solo by Rev. G. S. Gervan of Millbrook; vocal solos by Mrs. G. S. Gervan and Miss Helen Berry, instrumentals by Miss Jean Eagleson.

After the presentations all did full justice to a bountiful lunch served by the ladies. After which the young people retired to the U.F.O. hall, and spent the remainder of the evening in dancing to good music provided by violin and auto-harp. The happy event broke up about one o'clock.

STORM CLOUDS PASS FROM EASTERN SKY

Crisis is Still Regarded As Serious But Indications Are That Peace Conference Will Succeed.

CABINET MEETING.

LONDON, September 21 (Canadian Press). — Beyond the fact that the result of Lord Curzon's conference at Paris with Premier Poincare was an agreement among the three Allied Powers—Great Britain, France and Italy—on the advisability of convening a peace conference, little has become known of yesterday's developments in the Near East crisis.

The sudden and unexpected call for a ministerial conference in London yesterday afternoon, which led to a formal council, caused renewed alarms concerning possible critical developments, but these were allayed later, when, although no official communication was issued throwing light on the origin of the sudden conference, it was intimated that the situation, instead of having undergone a change for the worse, might be considered much easier.

The assumption is that the Council concerned the projected peace conference and M. Poincare's explicit statement that under no circumstances would French soldiers be employed against the Kemalists.

Evidence that the British Government has apprehensions that Kemal Pasha may attempt to invade the neutral zone is found in the anxiety the Government displays to make clear that the Greeks at no time have been within the Chanak neutral zone.

An official statement in this connection admits that on one occasion Greeks pursuing brigands in May of the present year crossed into the neutral zone, but on meeting the British troops, immediately withdrew, and this was the only occasion on which they violated the neutral line.

This statement reveals the desire to prove that Kemal has no valid excuse to violate the neutral zone. That this anxiety is not misplaced is indicated by news despatches from the Associated Press correspondent yesterday, that the Angora Assembly has confirmed Kemal Pasha's dictatorship, and accorded him a free hand in the present crisis, and the report current in Constantinople that the Kemalists are preparing for an attempt on the Straits before the end of the present week, and before Great Britain is able to get up reinforcements.

Turks Will Declare War Against Britain

CONSTANTINOPLE, September 21 ((Canadian Press). — Hamid Bey, the Turkish Nationalist representative here, informed the Associated Press correspondent last evening that it was certain the Turkish Army would declare war on the British if the British attempted to interfere with the movement of the Turkish troops across the Straits to Thrace.

SAY BIG REPTILE STARTLED A GIRL.

An Unknown Species Seen in North Hastings Marsh.

HASTINGS, Sept. 21.—According to the Bancroft Times, considerable emotion has been caused among the residents of Fort Stewart district, near Hastings, over the appearance of a huge reptile which gave chase after a young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Prentice recently.

This huge reptile appeared in what is commonly known as Conroy's Marsh ,near the Burned Bridge on the Mississippi Branch Bridge, Township of Regain, County of Renfrew. Miss Prentice was in the act of putting a halter on a horse when the reptile suddenly appeared. In its course it ran under the horse, frightening it away, leaving her with the halter in her hand. The young girl made haste, the monster giving chase, but being able to run quickly, she managed to get to a place of safety and soon reported the occurrence to members of her family. This strange occurrence brought old residents out who have investigated and who are baffled to know just what species of animal this is as it has failed to put in an appearance since.

From the description given by those of the residents who have investigated the monster appears to be about seven feet long, making a trail in the mud about ten inches wide, with foot imprints at either side about three inches across and from fourteen to fifteen inches apart, similar to that of a crocodile or an alligator.

Many are under the impression that this monster has escaped from some show park along the Ottawa River, followed up stream to the Madawaska River and landed in Conroy's Marsh where last seen. The marsh is an excellent feeding ground for a reptile as described, there being plenty of frogs and grass snakes.

PEACE CONFERENCE NEAR EAST PROBLEMS

Eight Powers Will Be Represented and Will Draw Up Treaty to Take Place of Treaty of Sevres.

IN THREE WEEKS.

PARIS, Sept. 21. — (Canadian Press).—Definite assurance that there will be no war in the Near East and the calling of a peace conference for the settlement of the Turkish problem were the chief results of the Allied conference yesterday afternoon. Premier Poincare, Lord Curzon and Count Sforza were the participants in the conference.

The eight interested Powers, including the Angora Government, will gather around the peace table within three weeks, probably at Rome or Venice, and make a new treaty with Turkey, to take the place of the Treaty of Sevres.

The eight nations called together are Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan, Turkey, Greece, Roumania and Jugo-Slavia. Japan's inclusion at the last minute came as a considerable surprise; it was due to Lord Curzon's insistence. The British Foreign Secretary told Premier Poincare that his Government frankly feared the close connection which it had reason to believe exists between Moscow and Angora, and Japan's presence was desired to offset this Bolshevik influence. It was also explained that Japan was a signatory of the Treaty of Sevres, which is to be abandoned for the new agreement, and was therefore entitled to be present for that reason.

It is remarked in French circles, however, that the participation of Japan ensures another vote for British policy in any issue which may arise in the conference.

While insisting on what they term their legitimate claims to Eastern Thrace, Adrianople and Constantinople, the Turks are understood to have informed M. Poincare that they would consent to remain masters of Asia Minor until the conference had given consideration to these other claims. French officials are confident of a complete agreement with Great Britain when the Allied meeting resumes on Friday, and it is freely predicted that the British troops will retire. On the other hand, late last night, in reply to a question, it was authoritatively stated in British quarters that the British troops were not in danger at Chanak, which gave rise to the report that they might remain there with the tacit approval of the Turks.

Fashion-Craft looks to me the one best bet this season."

MR. MEIGHEN'S ADVICE.

Ex-Premier Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen gives some sound advice when he declares in regard to the Near East question that the present is no time to embarrass the Government when it is endeavoring conscientiously to arrive at a policy worthy of Canada.

Mr. Meighen's counsel in this respect is both fair and timely.

Making political capital out of a crisis of this kind is a poor imitation of patriotism, and the former Premier does well to emphasize that fact, for already attempts have been made to condemn the Government for not hastily rushing into something about which it had but scant information.

No one doubts that Canada will be prepared to take her full share in any effort that may be considered necessary on behalf of the British Empire, and in the meantime the decision as to policy can safely be left in the hands of the Government for consideration.

As Mr. Meighen points out, no patriotic Canadian will seek to embarrass the Government at this stage of the proceedings.

THE FUEL SITUATION.

One of the worst features of the coal situation is the inability of the public to get at the truth in regard to conditions.

Peterborough dealers are pessimistic as to the supply of anthracite coal, and advise using substitutes. Yet hard coal mined since the miners resumed operations is beginning to arrive in Toronto.

The Provincial Fuel Controller should regard it as one of the most important duties of his position, the supplying of accurate information to the consumers as to the developments of the situation.

No one wants to pay high prices for coal substitutes, only to find later on that anthracite coal is available.

On the other hand, on one wants to depend upon securing hard coal when it is needed, to discover, when it is too late, that there is not enough to go around.

The Fuel Controller might help to solve the problem and take the public into his confidence.

THE PRESIDENT'S VETO.

American veterans of the world war are doubtless aware of the fact by this time that although they are not living under the rule of a titled monarch, their country, nevertheless, is governed by a President, whose power is equal to that of any crowned ruler.

One man stood between the United States' returned soldiers and the bonus they have been so long agitating for.

The House of Representatives passed the bill by 258 to 54. But President Harding's veto settled the matter, the Senate vote falling short of the necessary two-third's majority.

In spite of the fact that the vast majority of the Representatives favored the war bonus, the veterans will have to do without the assistance they expected.

It is a striking demonstration of the fact that albeit the American people boast of the democratic nature of their system of government, there are times when the will of one man can thwart the wish of the elected representatives of the people.

BRING THEM HOME NOW.

"The position of the unemployed in Canada is doubtless bad enough; the position of the unemployed Englishmen in England is very much worse; but the position of the stranded Canadian war veteran in England is simply agonizing!"

A well-known clergyman of Liverpool, England, in appealinig to the Great War Veterans' Association of Canada to expedite the repatriation of stranded Canadians in England, epitomized the situation in this sentence, says the Veteran. As secretary of a committee which has 40,000 unemployed upon its lists in Liverpool alone, the writer of the letter undoubtedly has come in contact with hundreds of Canadians, and consequently knows whereof he writes. The urgency of immediate steps to repatriate these sons of the Dominion, with their dependents, is stressed in the following extracts from the clergyman's letter:

"As a former Canadian citizen — and, I hope, an appreciative one—I feel compelled to draw your attention to the fact that a not inconsiderable number of Canadian ex-soldiers are at present stranded in this country, and heaven alone knows what hardships await them should they be so unfortunate as to remain here during this coming winter. . . . Surely the people of Canada do not wish their veterans, whatever be the cause, to spend an indefinite period in the workhouses of this country under degrading conditions. At the present moment I have a war veteran sleeping in my house. . . . He is a graduate of a Western Canadian university, and was a school teacher of high standing when he joined up. Yesterday I received an appeal for assistance from the son of one of your big manufacturers in Ontario, and have written to the father asking him to send passage money. . . . Arrangements should be made for the repatriation of all stranded Canadian war veterans in this country as soon as possible."

At the last session of the Federal Parliament, the special committee dealing with ex-soldiers' affairs recommended that $150,000 should be appropriated for repatriation of Canadians in England, and that an additional $10,000 should be utilized for relief in that country. It was then estmiated that some 5,500 ex-soldiers and dependents would be eligible for return passages.

As far as can be ascertained, any plan which might have been evolved since the adjournment of Parliament to put this recommendation into effect has not as yet become operative, or at least operative in any noticeable degree. In order that the hardships which they have suffered in England might not be continued in Canada, the great majority of these people should have been returned to Canada prior to this time. Further delay will mean that many of them will land in Canada in the late fall or winter months, at a time when work is difficult to find and when the problem of living is intensified by the cold weather.

A concerted effort should be put forward to ensure that every Canadian veteran and dependent in England, before the close of the present month, is given the opportunity of repatriation. There should be no burden of "loans" imposed from the fund appropriated, but the money should be devoted to accomplishing the task with the least possible delay. If the amount is not sufficient, the appropriation of an additional sum must be made. Technical points concerning citizenship should not be allowed to interfere at this juncture. The nation was saved a large sum of money because these men took their discharges in England. Even with the proposed expenditure, the Canadian treasury will still retain the advantage. Prompt action is necessary.

A BOOK FOR THE FEEBLE-MINDED.

We have sometimes wondered why there isn't a mental test for people who write books. Our wonder is heightened by a book which has just been sent us, bearing the formidable title of "The Revolt Against Civilization" and with a Mr. Lothrop Stoddard as the author. Mr. Stoddard's mission is to demonstrate a theory that did service in the dark ages, but which enlightened people everywhere long since dismissed as nonsense. His theory, or rather his claim, is that science has revealed "the exact nature of the life process." "Germ-plasm" (in italics) is the key which he offers as a means of unveiling the mysteries of human progress and deterioration and of curing the disorders of society. It is now certain (science, he declares, has delivered judgment) that everything depends upon heredity, upon this formidable germ-plasm. All the important qualities of an individual, instincts, intelligence, reasoning powers, vices, or virtues, all that happens to him regardless of his education, training, or environment, depend upon this germ-plasm which is given to him at birth, and which is unassailable and immutable. Nothing, from excess of alcohol and disease to sobriety and good health, can in any way affect the germ-plasm, and, consequently, the individual. Experience of life may lead one to suspect that drink or filth or decent houses or education are having an influence upon people, but this is a delusion; they are only affecting the "body-plasm" and the body-plasm doesn't matter at all Only the germ-plasm counts, and the germ-plasm has us ticketed through exactly as we started. All this, says Mr. Stoddard—and he speaks with a pontifical air — effectually disposes of the uplifters, the foolish people who believe that there is something in prohibition or in sobriety, who believe that a child who is born and bred in the drunkenness and poverty of a slum has a poor chance of developing into a decent and intelligent citizen. Didn't the efficiency tests of the American army prove that the germ-plasm of the working classes is inferior to that of the upper classes?

Mr. Stoddard discerns in this a great danger. That danger is that we are definitely breeding out the higher racial stock, the good germ-plasm, while the inferior stock, or the bad germ-plasm, is increasing enormously. The only hope he sees is in science, in himself, and in eugenics. Encourage the lawyers, the doctors, the politicians, the capitalists and the university graduates to breed; discourage the manual workers and the inferior stocks—and there will follow humanity's salvation.

As we read this collection of nonsense, supported by a mixture of scientific half-truths, and by a parade of a little learning, which is always a dangerous thing, we recall what but recently appeared in a report of the Rockefeller Foundation. In 1910 the Rockefeller Foundation, warring against filth and disease, and oblivious to germ-plasms, discovered that in one little county of Virginia 82 per cent. of the school children were afflicted with hookworm. It was not necessary for the experienced investigators to take blood tests to learn this fact; the evidences were all too apparent, both in the appearance of the victims and in the general social and economic demoralization that followed in its wake. The children were dull, listless, pallid, and emaciated; their progress in school was slow; and the condition of the parents was even worse, for they were afflicted with the same handicap, as their ancestors had been for many generations. The broken down fences, the dilapidated homes, the scraggly farms, the grass-grown roads, the absence of public spirit, the too-frequently prevailing low moral standards — these failings were not the results of inferior germ-plasm, the consequences of defects and one only; nearly everybody in the community was an invalid; the hookworm was the only thing that really flourished.

The Rockefeller Foundation, in co-operation with the Virginia State Board of Health, began a vigorous anti-hookworm battle It organized clinics, conducted a campaign which explained the cause, cure, and prevention of the disease, and began actively treating cases. In fifteen months the percentage of hookworm-afflicted school children had been reduced from 82 to 35 per cent. The last survey, made in 1921, showed that this had been cut down to 2 per cent.—that is, the disease had practically disappeared. As a result, the whole community has been transformed. The faces of the children have become rosy; their bodies have become plump and active; they have developed a quickness at their studies and display constantly that zest for life which is the normal condition of the young. The country, too, has been cleaned up; the broken down fences have been repaired; the farms are yielding greater returns; school attendance has increased, and an entirely new public spirit has been created. In a word, the basis of progress has been established, and there is better citizenship in being.

Such an accomplishment reveals the utter nonsense of what this Mr. Stoddard has written. It is a complete answer to his farrago of scientific half-truths and reactionary absurdities. Yet such a book, although it can hardly deceive the intelligent, works a measure of harm. It is a weapon of a sort in the hands of reactionaries who will seize upon anything to prevent enlightened thought; and it is dangerous in the hands of those who may read it and who have read little of anything else.—Ottawa Journal.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

RE NEW TOURIST AND PASSENGER ROUTE.

The following letter, which appeared in The Toronto Mail and Empire, speaks for itself:

To the Editor of The Mail and Empire:

Sir,—I have outlined a new tourist and passenger route to the Canadian Pacific Railway, which I am sure would be much patronized by the citizens of Toronto and Montreal during the summer months, viz., that the C.P.R. should build a branch line some 16 miles from either Havelock or Norwood, Ont., to the eastern upper end of Stoney Lake, where there is a beautiful site for a much-needed two-hundred-room hotel. The property contains a natural park, half a mile of a sand beach and room for golf links. The outlook from the hotel site, for grandeur, is unequalled in the Province.

The lakes, streams, numerous waterfalls and mountains would afford an everlasting store of interest.

The branch line running from Havelock to the east end of Stoney Lake, through the Township of Belmont, would open up the mineral wealth of that township, which is rich in feldspar, corundum, iron, marble, and mica, and be in touch with numerous small lakes that would give the sportsman excellent small-mouth bass and muskalonge fishing.—Yours, etc., R. C. S.

THE MYSTERY MIND

Luck had been with her at every turn. She pushed the little boat into the water without a sound. The canvas she re-rolled and placed between her knees. Taking the oars, she stole off, silently, in the direction of Canarsie. There she could take the Elevated. A single transfer would carry her near to Washington Square. This early in the morning her lack of shoes and hat, the torn and bedraggled condition of her clothes, would not attract too great attention.

For half to three quarters of an hour nothing happened to dampen her hopes. Then just as the purple in the east turned rose, just as she reached a point in the center of the open bay, a heavy fog rolled in off the ocean almost without warning.

In an instant the light faded, shut out by the moisture in the air. The fog penetrated her clothes, chilling her to the marrow. First she lost her sense of direction. Then, as she became panic stricken, she lost an oar and was helpless indeed. Her next realization was that the little craft had been caught by the incoming tide; that it was being swept along in a well-defined current of water.

Discouraged, in despair, she dropped to the bottom of the boat, sobbing silently to herself. Imperceptibly the rising daylight penetrated the fog, but not so she could see even the blunted prow immediately before her. She knew she was drifting. Then came the thought that she might be carried back to the Portola. Renard had suggested something about a regular course of the current. Frightened at that, she took the one car, attempting to use it as a pole. It stuck in the mud at once, nearly pulling her into the water. Once more she bowed her head, paying no attention to anything until with a sharp lurch the boat struck some obstacle and stuck.

She looked up. Above her was a square of dim light, a perfectly inconceivable thing until she realized the situation. As she had feared, she ha been carried back to the Portola by the return of the tide. She was under the building.

The craft in which she clung trembling to the canvas for which she had risked so much, had stuck directly beneath the trap of the room where the Strangler had threatened her.

She laughed hysterically. Then she controlled herself. Rising cautiously, she peered above the trap, standing on the seat of the boat. At what she saw she laughed again, believing it a hallucination, a fancy of a mind suddenly disordered. For several moments she could not credit the reality of the scene before her. Finally she lowered her voice, calling very softly:

"Robert"

He opened his eyes. He still sat, trussed, in the corner where before she had failed to see him. He looked at her in a disbelief equal to her own.

Grasping the floor, she pulled herself up and in by a superhuman effort. Clutched beneath her knees was the precious painting. From Dupont's own pocket she took the knife to cut his bonds. With tender firmness she chafed his wrists to restore the circulation. Giggling happily now, she showed him the portrait. All at once he woke to action.

"Quick I heard them moving about inside just a moment ago."

"The boat" she exlcaimed.

He lowered himself first, so as to help her down. She leaned down, to hand him the map. As he took it he lost his balance, just for a moment. Balancing himself, he rocked the frail craft beneath him. Without warning, its nose slipped from the pile against which it had drifted, which had held it. It swung around in the rising water, away from the trap.

"Robert," she called. "Careful Quick."

He dropped down, placing the canvas in the bottom of the boat safely, grasping for the oars. There were none. While he drifted out of sight in the fog, too far away from the post to grasp it with his hands, without any means of propelling the boat back again beneath the trap, Violet heard the door in the room behind her open, heard voices only too familiar.

"Well, well Look who's here"

She glanced up hopelessly. Renard had spoken. He was grinning. Behind him was Case and the Strangler and Evil Eye.

Holders of the maturing bonds who wish to avail themselves of this conversion privilege should take their bonds AS EARLY AS POSSIBLE, BUT NOT LATER THAN SEPTEMBER 30th, to a Branch of any Chartered Bank in Canada and receive in exchange an official receipt for the bonds surrendered, containing an undertaking to deliver the corresponding bonds of the new issue.

Holders of maturing fully registered bonds, interest payable by cheque from Ottawa, will receive their December 1 interest cheque as usual. Holders of coupon bonds will detach and retain the last unmatured coupon before surrendering the bond itself for conversion purposes.

The surrendered bonds will be forwarded by banks to the Minister of Finance at Ottawa, where they will be exchanged for bonds of the new issue, in fully registered, or coupon registered or coupon bearer form carrying interest payable 1st May and 1st November of each year of the duration of the loan, the first interest payment accruing and payable 1st May, 1923. Bonds of the new issue will be sent to the banks for delivery immediately after the receipt of the surrendered bonds.

The bonds of the maturing issue which are not converted under this proposal will be paid off in cash on the 1st December, 1922.

THE DAY'S DOINGS AS RECORDED BY THE EXAMINER'S STAFF OF CORRESPONDENTS.

Soak coloured things half an hour (white things one hour, two hours, over night or whatever time is convenient) in Rinso suds.

Soak the Dirt out.

THERE is such a simple easy way of washing rompers, school ginghams, play clothes etc., that you won't mind how many there are—thanks to Rinso.

First, make the wonderful Rinso liquid. Take half a packet of Rinso, thoroughly dissolve it in cool water, and add two quarts of boiling water. Then lay your clothes to soak in the tub of cool or lukewarm water. After one, two or three hours or in the morning give them a thorough rinsing and the dirt just runs away. No need to rub on the wash board so that holes come and colour goes.

Rinso is a wonderful product, scientifically made to wash clothes by soaking — different from soaps, chips and washing powders, and used differently.

Do not put Rinso into the tub from the package, but make the Rinso liquid first.

IF YOU USE A WASHING MACHINE

Follow directions as above. After soaking the clothes wring them into machine, add enough fresh Rinso liquid, operate and rinse, and you will have the sweetest, cleanest clothes you ever saw.

IN INTERESTS CHILDRENS' AID

Enthusiastic Meeting Held in Lakefield Village — Pictures and Addresses.

LAKEFIELD, September 20. — A meeting in the interests of the Children's Aid Society of Peterborough County was held in the Town Hall on Monday evening. Counter attractions militated somewhat against the attendance, but otherwise everything was satisfactory, the audience being fully sympathetic and the children attentive.

The meeting was presided over by Mr. John Edgar, of Peterborough, who briefly sketched the aims and objects of this most praiseworthy work, and instanced several cases of children rescued from squalor and indigence, growing up to useful and honourable citizenship.

The speaker of the evening was Mr. George W. Powell, the well-known and reliable agent of the Society, whose duties include the inspection of homes which have been reported as doubtful in their care of children.

That Mr. Powell's heart is in his work is plainly manifest as he pleads the cause of neglected youth, and that little children would willingly yield themselves to his kindly care could be readily understood.

During his address, pictures were thrown on the screen illustrative of the crying need which called this society into being. Buildings unfit for the occupation of pigs, but housing families of children, whose squalid, neglected appearance, would stir a heart of stone, were shown. Pictures of these same little waifs of unwanted humanity "rescued," clean and decently clothed, proved that environment, love and care, can uplift even those well-nigh submerged little creatures, and place them where they have a right to be.

Amongst the so-called homes shown was one which stands out as the only bright spot of the "exhibit"—a little log house, whose very outlines indicated neatness and cheer, even though very humble, and one could easily imagine a happy, well-regulated family gathered within its well-built and well-preserved walls. It was the only one worthy of being a human habitation, and by force of contract seemed like a haven of rest and comfort.

At the close of the public meeting a number of people remained to receive further information with a view to organised effort. These were addressed by Mrs. Knox, of Peterborough whose appeal, one could easily perceive, came from a true mother heart, and was potential for good results.

It was deemed wise to continue for the present the Provisional Committee in Lakefield, and Mrs. Marling was appointed convener.

A tag day will be undertaken in the very near future.

Mr. Powell was unanimously thanked for his inspiring address, gratitude was expressed to Mrs. Knox for her sincere presentation of a great cause, and to Mr. Edgar for his ready assistance.

REMINISCENCES OF OLD-TIME DUMMER.

Told at Open Meeting of Women's Institute.

WARSAW, Sept. 20.—Thursday evening last the Women's Institute held an open meeting in Warsaw Town Hall.

The regular Institute Ode was sung, followed by prayer by Rev. G. F. Weir.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Crowe thanked the institute for flowers sent to their little son.

Mrs. J. A. Crowe recited "Trouble in the 'Amen Corner.'" Mrs. Wm. Wasson read a poem, "On Dummer," composed by Mrs. Calder.

Paul Payne gave a talk on "School Experiences." Mr. Payne told that it was about 75 years since the first school was built in Warsaw—just beside where Robert Payne's gate now swings. An old stone used for a step is still there. Francis Lumsden was one of the first teachers, and the three R's only were taught for some time; later geography was taken up once a week, and Friday afternoons always saw a spelling match. After a time a school was built at Hall's Glen, after which school was conducted three months in each building. Scholars between these buildings could attend both schools and so get six months' education, but those at the too extremes could only attend for three months. Wm. Darling, father of Reeve John Darling, taught for many years.

Mr. Payne here recited in fine style "The Kiss in School," and Mrs. Rufus Payne sang "Roses Everywhere."

John Rose told several amusing and interesting incidents of old days. He remembered getting water from the same spring that so many people now use. At that time lumber waggons were the only means of conveyance, and no one complained, though the roads were very rough.

There was then much heavy timber cut, and one mast taken out required 16 teams to draw it.

Mr. Rose had happy recollections of old-time parties, when a number of the young people used to go to Stoney Lake. The boat available carried about twenty, while the Kidd family had a big carriage. Springs on rigs were almost unknown, but there was plenty of fun and enjoyable little dances at the end of the trip.

He told of the "flood year," when the river overflowed, bridges were carried away and several homes were destroyed.

Miss Ferena Cooper here sang "An Old-Fashioned House."

Mr. Watts followed with a short history of some of the churches, the first Methodist Church being built where Elmo Hendren's house now stands, 54 years ago. The first Bible Christian Church stood near where Wm. Crowe's house stands, and later one was built across the road. The first Methodist parsonage stood where Robert McCracken's house now is, then moved to where Middleton's house is situated, later to the house where Wm. Selkirk lives and finally to its present site.

Fifty-four years ago there stood an abandoned Baptist Church on the old Anderson farm on the 4th line, which had been built in 1840. Joseph Scriven had done mission work there, so had Mr. Roberts, who with his two sons was later drowned in Mud Lake while returning from service. Mr. Spier had also preached there.

Several ministers have gone from Dummer, among them being two Dewarts, two Spences, one Spier, one Hannan and two others.

Mr. Charles Foster gave a recitation, "A Medley."

In a little general talk it transpired that the oldest house in Dummer was built in 1831, and still stands, opposite Thos. Doughty's.

Mrs. Richard Batten stated that the first Wm. Batten went to Peterborough in 1921, and engaged as foreman to clear and log the land on which Peterborough now stands, at the large salary of $8.00 per month. He was under contract for two years, and during that time his family lived on the farm where Richard Batten now is. There stood a log house with a basement on the property, and there Wm. Batten's sister taught school before any township school house was built. They erected a log church, one of Wm. Batten's sisters carrying all the stones for constructing the huge stone chimney. The fourth generation of Battens are now living on that farm.

After singing God Save the King, light refreshments were served, and as they were being passed snatches of many an old-time story were heard.

The Secret of their Satin Jackets

You have noticed the delightful smoothness, aroma and flavor of the coating on Moir's Chocolates.

Do you know how this velvety texture is obtained.

Moir's do not buy their chocolate coatings. They make their own, importing for this purpose the highest grade cocoa beans.

The cocoa beans are first blended, roasted and enriched with added cocoa butter and then ground in powerful machinery for days at a time until the paste has the smoothness of satin and is so close in texture that the air is excluded and the flavor and delicate aroma of Moir's Chocolates almost indefinitely preserved.

Take home a box to-day.

From far off Ceylon, Java and South America come direct the cocoa beans used in making Moir's Chocolates.

NORTH MANVERS RURAL SCHOOL FAIR WAS HELD AT FLEETWOOD

Event Drew a Large Crowd Despite the Threatening Weather-The Prize-winners.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 21. — The North Manvers Rural School Fair was held on Tuesday, September 19th, and in the early part of the day looked as though it was doomed to utter failure because of the steady downpour of rain which continued until 1 p.m. After that, however, though no gleam of sunshine broke through the clouds to brighten up the scene, yet the rain abated and cars and buggies drove into the school grounds until at least two hundred people had gathered. Seven schools are represented by the district, and of these five competed in the parade, the uniforms, drills, marching, singing and school yells, all being highly commendable. The prize winners were: 1, Fleetwood, S.S. No. 6 (Mr. Warnica, teacher), 2, North Janetville, S.S. No. 16, (Miss Richardson), 3, Bethel ,S.S. No. 10 (Miss Mahood, teacher), 4, Yelverton, S.S. No .4, (Miss Allen, teacher). In the physical training the results were: 1, Janetville; 2, Bethel; 3, Fleetwood. Major Snyder ,of Bowmanville, acted as judge for both the parade and physical culture ,and afterwards made a brief address.

In the tent a fairly large exhibit of flowers, baking, fruits and vegetables, etc., was displayed, the quality being alright though the number of entries in the different classes was smaller than usual. The chilly atmosphere did not prevent the kiddies being steady customers for the ice cream cones which were for sale, nor did the slippery condition of the grass dampen the enthusiasm when the races were called for, even the grown-ups being ready when their turn came. Radio News can Radio Relay League.

Lockwood writes that Shanghai is the only place in the whole of China where the radio amateur has some freedom. The Peking government has issued a general order that no radio stations are allowed. But since Shanghai is under the jurisdiction of an international municipal council, amateurs have been permitted to erect stations and communicate with one another at whatever wave length they please.

In spite of this, however, even the fans in Shanghai have their difficulties, reports Lockwood. Material for construction of their sets is scarce.

"Vacuum tubes and other equipment," says Lockwood, "not only retail for several times their value as in America, but are classed by the customs officials the same as guns and ammunition, and often require special permits from Peking in order to permit them."

THE MARK STREET JUBILEE

Last Sabbath was one of the greatest days in the history of Mark street Methodist church. It was her year of Jubilee.

Fifty years ago, on the first Sabbath in September, the Church was opened for divine service, and Rev. G. H. Copeland of Toronto, who preached on Sunday last, was the pastor at that time; and was associated in his work with the late Rev. Mr. Butcher.

For half a century this church has stood in Ashburnham, and still stands, a bulwark of truth and right eousness. She has been called the 'Mother of Methodism in Peterboro' but she has been more; for her spiritual children have been going out, all along the years, to recruit every other evangelical church in the city. Hundreds of people who now are identified with the larger congregations of the city churches, will tell you that they began their spiritual career at Mark street.

The Rev. Mr. Copeland preached able and eloquent sermons both morning and evening to large and appreciative congregations and addressed the Sunday School Rally in the afternoon.

An offering of $400.00 was asked for by the pastor, and was promptly placed on the plates, with the exception of a few dollars which was made up on Monday night. In fact, when all the envelopes come in the offering will exceed the amount asked for.

On Monday evening an excellent program was rendered by the George street orchestra and the Ministerial Association of the city of Peterboro. Addresses were delivered by Revs. Bousfield, Rollins, Webb, Chapman, Langford, Manning and the visiting speaker of Sabbath, Mr. Copeland. A neat address was given by Adjutant Smith of the Salvation Army, while Revs. MacKenzie and Young delighted the audience with vocal solos. The music by George Street Orchestra was highly appreciated by the audience.

Excellent music was furnished by the choir of the church on Sabbath, while the quartette delighted the audience on Monday evening.

SPLENDID VIEWS PETERBORO FAIR

An interesting window in F. L. Roy's photographic establishment is the one devoted to an exhibit of special views taken of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition. Done in clear black and white tones, with grey mounts, the pictures are excellent reproductions of some of the outstanding items in the stock entries, with views of the filled grandstand on one of the sunny days, and of the section devoted to vegetables, which was particularly attractive this year, with one photo showing the ornamental arch contrived with corn and wheat.

Mr. George Graham of the Empress Hotel appears in fully glory in a couple of the pictures, with his snappy-looking driver and his glistening pair of carriage horses, and there is a fine view of a fair equestrienne mounted on a splendid specimen of horseflesh.

Mr. Roy has caught some of the heavy stock entries in great style; the big beasts showing up well in various attitudes in all their shaggy might.

Annual Tag Day of Children's Aid Society To Be Held September 30

Much of the Work of the Society Remains Unknown As Far As the General Public Is Concerned.

On the 30th of this month, the Children's Aid Society proposes to hold its annual tag day. In previous years, the tag day was held at a much later date, but it was found that the usual inclement weather made the lot of the taggers and the size of the total alike rather disappointing, so the annual appeal will be made this fall at an earlier date than heretofore.

Much of the work of the Children's Aid Society remains unknown, as far as the general pubile is concerned. But there is probably no organization that contains the ramifications, and the tangle of human relationships, that come within the scope of the work of this society. The fundamental beginnings of its work necessarily are based on the one outstanding fact, the neglected or abused child, a condition that goes to the very root of domestic and national existence. But those who neglect their offspring are usually just as vehement in their desire to retain them as the good parent would be, and the work of the society and its agents means a continual round of abuse and recrimination and threats from parents who refuse to look after their own children but are wildly remonstrative when strangers step in to do their work. Also, there are cases where illness or death deprives the child of its rightful care in the home ,and its only refuge is with the kindly people who take place of fathers and mothers to many a small waif.

Human nature in all its variations manifests itself always when children are being looked after. There are children like the small girl who has been adopted from the Shelter, and whose foster parents propose to settle all their worldly goods upon her; another like the growing child, who was placed out with an apparently well-meaning woman. One day, when her guardian was out, she ran away, back to the Shelter, with a tale of old clothes taken from the incinerator ,which the woman had tried to force her to make over and wear, and of the threat of a cruel knife held over her constantly. This little thing was not a bad child, by any means, according to the Shelter authorities. She wanted affection and love ,and the only thing she found to respond to her were the two pet goldfish which she tied up in a rag and brought away with her, in a vain effort to preserve the only bright spot in a dark house.

And there are children who run wild and make mischief, like the little boy who killed all the tender goslings and smashed the windows; queer complaints, such as the one made of a little girl returned to the Shelter, because she didn't talk enough; odd yearnings, such as the boy who pleaded to be allowed to return to the lumber camps in a certain northern district, and there are parents who forget their duties have their children taken away from them, and then decide to reform. They want their boys and girls back, and they send letters and 'photos and make all sorts of promises, to the Board of Management. Here is where the special knowledge of the agent and the members is tested, when decision is made as to the right course to pursue, always with the one and only object in mind, the welfare of the child, not the sort of attention, perhaps, that comes to the spoiled and pampered darling of rich and fond parents, but sympathetic, kindly comprehension of the wants and needs of neglected, small creatures that must go a long way in making up to helpless childhood for the lack of their natural birthright.

About Shoes

There is something peculiar about shoes. Not exactly about their different shapes or general appearance, nor their prices, although these are peculiar enough at times too. But this special, outstanding peculiarity in footwear is its psychological effect on people's minds. Shoes, nowadays are simply a synonym for money expenditure. Time was when the measure of a lady's extravagance lay in her possession of a silk dress. That time has faded into the long ago. It was succeeded by millinery and then by silk stockings. If a woman had a reputation for being extravagant, one then spoke about her fondness for different hats, or, later, for silk stockings. The measure of her ability for spending money lay in these things.

Then came shoes. Possibly it was the Great War, with its high prices in footwear, that started the thing. At any rate, shoes became firmly fixed in the public mind as articles of attire that call for more expenditure evidently, than anything else that one may put on. To hear most people talk, one would think that shoes comprised their entire wardrobe, from the way in which they drag these articles in on every possible occasion. Start the average person talking about clothes, and, in most instances, the first thing he or she alludes to is shoes and their prices. A mother will talk more about shoes than about anything else her children wear. To listen to most parents youngsters never wear anything out but what they have on their feet. A fond father of five was discoursing heatedly the other evening on the needs of his family. "Why, it's a caution the way those kids go through things," he said. We knew what was coming, and weakly tried to suggest that they were hard on their clothes. But he wasn't to be diverted. "It's their shoes that bother me," he said, and was fairly launched on the favorite topic for the next half hour.

With a recent apparent tendency in the shoe market to come down in price, we were hoping that this shoe subject might go out of fashion, but a recent note to the effect that shoe manufacturers are trying to re-introduce into fashion the former high-heeled, narrow-pointed footwear for women, because they wear out faster and consequently bring in more money for their makers than the low-heeled, broad-toed sort, and the further newspaper advices re threatening war clouds in Europe, have driven the last hope away, for a war in Europe will certainly hoist the price of shoes once more. However, there must be something fatalistic about the situation, for its effects are evidently universal and far-reaching. Isn't there a special incantation that even the hardened gambler considers infallible, when he takes the little "bones" and whispers softly to them: "Come seven, come eleven, baby needs a new pair of shoes."

COLONIAL PUMPS

Colonial pumps have grown so in popularity that cut steel and jewelled buckles are receiveng a great deal of attention. Sterling silver buckles of colonial cut are popular for street wear.

PARIS OPENING HINTS

Now come the first of the Paris openings to show us what fashion has in store for fall and winter. Advance models, suggestions, predictions and forecasting we have had but the first of the seasonal openings give us authentic information.

All crepe weaves are still given great emphasis and velvet is much in evidence. Metal lace is very good for evening wear.

Skirtlines are slightly longer and waistlines slightly higher, but both these features are developed in the straight silhouette. Sleeves continue to be important, but they are narrower than they were.

For daytime all the brown shades are the thing, while for evening mimosa, carrot red and other light shades are preferred.

HOW TO CAN THE SEASON'S FRUIT

This year we have in the fruit districts of Canada a bountiful crop of peaches, pears, and plums, and by every rule of bygone years the next crop will be light. The thrifty housewife should therefore can this year an abundant supply which will carry her over for two years. In any case, the food is cheap and plentiful, and now is the time to make good use of what is available. There is really no excuse for any housewife who omits the canning of fruit from her fall programme.

The following suggestions for canning, given by Mrs. Jean Muldrew, are the result of many years of testing, and are therefore most practical.

Equipment—may be elaborate or very simple, that common in use in households is the wash boiler with a rack to keep the jars from touching the bottom of the boiler.

Method.—The one-period cold-pack method is most effective, decreases the work, is easily managed, and may be safely tried by any one. Many people still can by the intermittent method which requires one hour's boiling on three successive days, but for almost all purposes the one-period method serves equally well. All canning needs great care and cleanliness, but by following the instructions given by those who have given years of study and experimenting there is very little chance for failure.

Explanation of Terms.

Scalding—Means pouring very hot water over the fruit to loosen the skin and eliminate objectionable acids.

Blanching—Means steaming or boiling in water. The fruit is placed in a cheesecloth bag, or a wire basket.

Cold-dip—Means to chill quickly by dipping into cold water. This assists in removing the skin, and setting the colouring matter, giving the fruit a better colour as well as making the fruit more easily handled in packing into the jars.

Containers—Any jars with sound tops which fit, using new rubbers. The jar does not matter so long as it can be made air-tight. All jars used in canning should be put into a boiler in cold water, which should then be brought to a boil and boiled at least five minutes. The rubbers and tops should stand in scalding water until required.

Directions for Canning Canadian Fruit.

Select firm Canadian fruit, not over ripe, remove any bruises or decayed parts, and grade so that the contents of the jars shall be of uniform size. Blanch or scald the required time chill by cold-dipping, and pack into the jars to within a half-inch of the top. Fill within one-quarter inch of the top with boiling syrup.

Place a new rubber on the jar, and so adjust the top and the ring that it shall not be quite tight. If the rings are used screw tightly then loosen a little, if perfect seal jars are used do not push down the side wire.

Place the jars on a rack in the boiler with water to come up near the top of the jars. Count the time of sterilisation from the time the water begins to boil. See that the boiler lid is tight fitting. When they are sufficiently sterilised, remove from the boiling water, screw the tops on tightly, or seal the perfect seal tightly, wipe off the outside and set away.

Syrup Formula.

Thin Syrup—1½ cup sugar, 1 cup water, boil. To thicken further, boil two or three minutes.

Medium Thick Syrup—Same proportions boiled five minutes.

Thick Syrup—Same proportions boiled from eight to twelve minutes or until soft ball stage.

Note.—Stir until you can see that all the sugar is dissolved, and no longer.

Time-Table.

Apples—Blanch ½ minute. Sterilise 30 minutes.

Fruit Juices—Boil in open kettle 20 minutes with sugar as required.

Grapes and Plums—Do not blanch. Sterilise 16 minutes.

Peaches—Blanch ½ minute. Sterilise 16 minutes.

Pears—Blanch ½ minute. Sterilise 16 minutes.

Quinces,— Blanch ½ min. sterilize 60 minutes.

Tomatoes —Blanch ½ min., sterilize 22 minutes.

Tomato juice,—Sterilize 20 minutes.

Peaches

Blanch, cold-dip, remove stones, pack in jars, cover with syrup as thick as desired; adjust the covers and sterilize 16 minutes.

Pears

Remove the skin, cut in halves or in quarters as desired or they may be canned whole with the stems on. To avoid discolorization pare with a silver knife and drop into cold water until all are ready for canning Pack into jars, add thin syrup, and sterilize 20 minutes.

The addition of lemon or cloves takes away the flat taste of the sweet fruit.

Grape Jelly

Pick over, wash and remove stems from Canadian grapes before placing in preserving kettle. Heat to boiling point, mash, then boil 30 minutes. Place in a double thickness cheese cloth bag and allow juice to drop through. Measure juice and boil 5 minutes. Add an equal measure of heated sugar, boil 3 minutes then skim and pour into glasses.

Pear Chips

8 lb. Canadian Pears, 1-4 lb preserved ginger, 1-2 tablespoon ground ginger, 4 lbs sugar, 4 lemons.

Select pears which are firm and not overripe. Remove stems, wipe, quarter and core; then chip into small pieces (but do not remove skins). Add sugar and ginger and let stand overnight. In the morning add lemons cut in small pieces, reject seeds; cook slowly 3 hours or until thick. Put into marmalade glasses and cover with paraffin.

Damson Plum Jam

4 lbs. Canadian Damson Plums, 4 lbs. sugar.

Wash the fruit, place in a kettle with a little water and cook until soft enough to remove the pits. If desired remove the pits. Heat the sugar before adding to the hot fruit bring again to a boil and boil 3 minutes. Put into glasses and cover with paraffin.

Humane Society

A recent visit paid by a member of the local society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to the head office of the society in Toronto, disclosed some interesting facts in connection with the work in that city. There is a large and busy organisation of this society in Toronto, and the main office is kept constantly busy answering telephone calls and attending to cases that come up in the daily routine. There is a lethal chamber there, an electric cage that disposes of sick animals in short order, with the least possible fuss or unnecessary suffering. The society has many helpers in the prosecution of its work, and, during the visit referred to ,several animals ,were brought in to be quickly 'disposed of,' including four cats in a box, brought in by two small children.

The badge of the society is often encountered in Toronto, the ornamental emblem with the horse's head in silver, and the smaller button with the head of a horse, dog or cat. There is a certain moral effect on drivers of animals engendered by these small symbols of the association that speaks for those who cannot speak for themselves," and the local society hopes to do good work along this line by enlisting the interest of the children in the schools in a movement that has for its main object the helping of dumb brutes.

Good Season For Local Y.W.C.A.

Miss Carrie Littlefield, who was a member of the staff of the local Y.W.C.A. some years ago, is back again in the city as physical directress and swimming teacher, and is very enthusiastic over the prospects for a splendid season in both departments. During the last three years, Miss Littlefield has been engaged in Y work in Quebec and St. John, N.B., but speaks very flatteringly of the local association's building, with its attractive surroundings and well-equipped departments.

In the gymnasium, besides the usual routine of work, there will be classes in aesthetic and classic dancing: a babies' gymnasium class for little tots under nine years of age; and a small boys' class also, for tiny lads under nine.

The aim of the Y.W.C.A. is to bring all the girls of the city together, if possible, in one large club, and special interest is taken in girl employees of factories, offices, and stores.

The basketball league, which was so successful last season, will be inaugurated again this year; it is hoped that a girl hikers' club may be organised, along the lines of a club that became very popular in St. John, and field hockey is spoken of for the spring season. An Indoor Outdoor Club, open to every girl in the city, is the idea that Miss Littlefield is going ahead with in connection with her Y work.

PUT YOUR INITIALS ON IT

The newest fad of all is to have one's initials embroidered on one's trimmest blouse. They may be put either on the sleeve or the front of the blouse and are shown on semi-tailored as well as masculinely severe models.

Initials and complete monograms are both used. Even a few lingerie frocks have been decorated in this fashion. The important thing is to keep one's color scheme unshattered. The embroidering should be done in a shade to match one's hat or scarf or colored printed handkerchief.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

Among certain South American Indian tribes the man goes to live with his wife and her family after marriage.

He is treated as a stranger until the birth of the first child, when he is received on a less formal basis.

In case of the death of his wife it is necessary for him to marry her sister or nearest female relative.

There is very little quarreling between mother and daughter-in-law in the Fiji islands.

That is because the wife dares not address the mother-in-law—that implies a disrespect that cannot be brooked.

However, through the husband, the mother-in-law is dictator in the home, and the wife has practically no rights.

REVIEW OF HARD COAL SITUATION

Upon a careful survey of the HARD COAL SITUATION we are not prepared to advise our customers to buy coal at prices effective under present conditions. There are so many factors entering into the situation, that a forecast of conditions during the next three months seems impossible, particularly when the probable railway service is taken into consideration.

During the war period, when coal became scarce, we purchased a tonnage of independent coal equal to our normal year's requirements, and had an equal amount of coal come forward from the line companies, at lower prices, and which reduced our average cost to a point where we were able to supply double the tonnage, at what would appear now to be a very reasonable price.

Under present conditions, we were able ONLY to get some independent coal, of STANDARD QUALITY, which is our dependable, available supply for the next four months, the selling prices of which would be from 20 to 25 per cent. above a normal price based on Line Company Coal.

To those of our customers, who are anxious with regard to their fuel supply, we announce that we will procure a limited quantity of coal for them, should they so desire, after they carefully consider that the prices of coal may be less, when the line companies begin making effective rail shipments. We feel that in the interval there is an equal probability of the prices of INDEPENDENT COAL ADVANCING, and when the line companies coal comes forward, it is quite possible to be on a pro rata basis, which would be 50 per cent. short of normal, and still leave the market short.

We feel under obligations, particularly to those whose patronage we have enjoyed in the past, and it is our intention to place at their disposal our best services under these difficult conditions.

municipalities in the district be notified of the date of the interview and requested to be present thereat.

After the above resolution was passed, it was decided to call a further meeting to be held at Port Hope on October rd, at 10 a.m. It was requested that all the municipalities present at the meeting should interest themselves in getting all the other municipalities included in the district interested in the formation of a Municipal Association for Eastern Ontario, with a view to securing co-operation in power matters, as well as all other municipal affairs. For the purpose of getting this under way all the parties who were represented at Port Hope were made a Provincial committee with Mayor Curtis, of Port Hope, as chairman, and T. H. Stinson, of Lindsay, as secretary. It is expected that at the meeting to be held on October 3rd, some sixty-five municipalities will be represented, and the association will take form. It will also be necessary at this meeting to arrange for the necessary evidence and representations to be made to the Gregory Commission.

DENT GUILTY

and parcel, which contained other cut up portions of the murdered man's body, in his possession.

L. Christie, the next witness, corroborated the statements of his brother-in-law, the previous witness.

Officers Dowling and Brittenden were called and gave evidence in regard to the arrest and what the parcels contained. Dowling swore that he searched the defendant and found $22 in his pocket, the same amount, it is alleged, obtained by forging Egoian's name to his pay cheque. Deceased had $12,000 in the bank. He also said that he heard Sergeant Wallace warn Dent that anything he should say might be used against him.

Sergeant Wallace gave evidence to the effect that he and the two previous witnesses searched Dent's house, after she had been arrested and found other portions of the body tied in parcels and lying in a shed. Officer Brittenden, in his evidence, told of the finding of these parts of the body also. The sergeant stated that a further search brought to light an axe, said to have been covered with a red matter which resembled blood, two bayonets, a rifle, and a number of butcher knives and saw. The latter, said the officer, had little particles resembling flesh adhering to it. In the basement they found some coal which was also covered with red matter. This had an important bearing on the case owing to the fact that the body was covered in some places, with coal dust and in the gash in the head particles of coal were found. When questioned by Chief Justice Meredith Sergeant Wallace advanced the theory that Egoian had been murdered at the top of the stairs leading to the basement. A soil pipe, running alongside the stairs, together with portions of the steps were also covered with red matter. The axe, saw, knives, gun bayonets, pipe and portion of the steps together with a portion of the wall through which there was a hole said to have been caused by a bullet were on display.

In referring to what occurred by the police station the witness stated that, when informed of the charge, Dent raised his hand and said: "Honest to God, me no kill—me no murder Pete." He stated further that Dent claimed Egoian had been murdered by a man named George Alexander, of Toronto, and had been left in his home and that he was only trying to get rid of the body. Alexander later appeared at the police station and gave a satisfactory account of himself. He is a former Brantford man.

COMB SAGE TEA IN FADED OR GRAY HAIR

If Mixed With Sulphur it Darkens so Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural colour and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural colour and looks glossy, soft and beautful.

New York 6, Detroit 5.

DETROIT, September 21 (Canadian Press). — The New York Yankees continued their march toward the American League cup here yesterday, winning the second straight game from the Tigers, 6 to 5. The winning run came in the ninth inning when Meusel drove the ball over the left field wall for a home run.

The victory put the Yanks three and a half games ahead of the Browns.

Ruth got the first of the game in the fourth inning, but a sacrifice, a strike-out, and a force-out, left him on the paths. In the same inning Blue and Jones singled for Detroit, and Veach was passed, filling the bases. Fothergill's triple sent in the three runners and Cutshaw sacrificed scoring Fothergill.

The Yankees evened up the count in their half of the fifth when Scott doubled, Shawkey was hit by a pitched ball, and Ruth was passed. All three came in on Pipp's double, and the lattr scored on Meusel's hit. After the rules, as adopted by the A.A.U. of C. had been defined and explained by Alex Kay they were unaminously adopted. These rules call for the rules of outdoor ball with certain modifications, which limit the size of the bat and ball, the length of the base lines and the pitchers box, base running, etc.

A special ruling was made to declare any ball dead that hits the beams or rafters overhead, but if a ball passes over the rafters without touching them in any way it will be considered in play.

The schedule calls for two games a night on Mondays and Thursdays. The first game will start promptly at 7 o'clock and the second at 8.30. The first game will end promptly at 8.30 and the second at 10 o'clock.

Next Thursday Quakers and Raybestos will meet for the first game and will be followed by the Rotary Club and Lawn Bowlers.

The twelve entries have been divided into two divisions of six teams each. Each division will play off and two winning teams will then play for the championship. A large silver cup has been donated by Mayor Taylor for the champions and a shield by C. G Graham for the runner up.

The following teams are entered: First Division—Kiwanis, Engineers, Rotary, Lawn Bowlers, Knights of Columbus and Firemen.

INDIAN TWIRLER IS TOO GOOD FOR THE PETES

Williams Holds Them to One Hit and Belleville Wins First Game of Central League Play-Off 3 to 0.

HERE SATURDAY.

Belleville are off in front in the series to decide the Central Ontario League championship by virtue of a 3-0 defeat inflicted upon Peterborough in the first game at Belleville yesterday.

The Easterners won the first decision through the superb pitching of Lefty Williams, the Indian portsider, discovered in the wilds of Verona this spring, who turned in a performance yesterday that made Belleville fans forget Freddy Goyer. And it takes some pitching to do that.

Williams simply southpawed the Petes to death. He fanned no fewer than eighteen of the Solomon crew and came in an ace of pitching a no-hit game. Johnston, the first man up in the ninth, spoiling that feat by clipping a single past third. The Petes went out in order in five innings and in two different frames the Indian retired the side on strikes. Although Manager Solomon sent six right handed batters in against him, Williams was just as effective against them as against the left-handed hitters, mixing a sharp drop and a good hook with an occasional fast ball that kept the Petes guessing. There has been no better pitching performance in the Central League this season than Williams turned in yesterday, and his victory was deserved.

With no hitting behind him Heckman on the rubber for the Petes, hadn't a chance to win. He held Belleville to two earned runs, and of the eight hits registered against him three or four were decidedly lucky. Heck held Belleville hitless after the fifth and fanned nine of the winners, striking out the side in the second with a man on third base.

The weather was perfect and one of the biggest crowds that ever saw a game in Belleville was in attendance, fans coming from all over the Central Ontario League territory to see the battle. They witnessed a ball game of championship calibre, featured by good pitching and steady fielding. The best fielding plays were contributed by Hagerman, left fielder for Belleville, who made a fine grab of a long foul from Shaughnessy's bat, and by Kirn in right field for the Petes, who cut W. Mills out of a two-base hit by a difficult catch of the Belleville backstop's drive to deep right.

Belleville's first run came as the result of a wide throw to third by Swanston in the second innings. J. K. Williams, first up for Belleville, singled to right, and when Meagher hit one to the same field, Williams went to third. Swanston tried to catch Williams off third, but his throw went wide, allowing Williams to score and Meagher to go to third. Heckman fanned the next three batters.

The winners got two unnecessary runs in the fifth. With one out, Weir beat out a tap down the third base line. W. Mills cracked one to Johnston, who tossed out Weir at second. Holyman shot the ball to Long for a double and Umpire Barnes, after first waving the runner out, changed his decision and called him safe. The shift in the verdict was disastrous to the Petes, for Harry Mills followed with a single to centre that sent his brother to third, and Williams scored them both with a timely single to left. Belleville did not get another man to first, but that was enough.

Holyman was the first of the Petes to get on the runways, getting a pass with two out in the second, but he died stealing. Long got on on Mills' error in the third, but the next two were easy. For the next three innings the Solomon gang went out in order.

Johnston, first up in the seventh, struck out, but "Peenie" Mills caught the third one on the bounce and had to throw to first, and his brother forgot to touch the bag, Johnston being safe. Swanston sacrificed, and then Heckman drew a walk, giving the Petes two runners on for the first time in the game. Kirn and Holyman fanned, however, and the chance was lost. Solomon batted for Shaughnessy with two out in the eighth and walked, but Wolfe missed three.

The Petes' best chance came in the ninth. Johnston opened with the only Peterborough hit of the day, and Swanston was safe when Meagher's wide toss pulled Mills off first. When Williams slipped in a wild pitch, sending Johnston to third and Swanston to second, it looked like a real rally. A hit at that stage might have meant the ball game, but Williams was too good. He fanned Heckman and Kirn and got Holyman on a tap to Weir and it was all over.

Diamond Dust

St. Louis evidently could not stand the pace. The Browns' chances now of catching the league-leading Yankees are about as slim as those of the tallowed legged dog chasing the asbestos cat through the fiery regions.

Another world series to be played on the Polo grounds.

The Petes played twenty-nine games in the first and second halves of the C.O.B.I. schedule and won twenty-one of them.

Hillcrests and Sudbury will clash Saturday in Toronto.

* * *

If William's eighteen strike outs at Belleville yesterday isn't a record for the Central League it is very close to a record and is the best that has been done this year. The Trunk's south paw was right at the top of his form.

* * *

* * *

Belleville will be here Saturday for the return game and the third game if necessary will be played in Oshawa next Wednesday.

* * *

RECORD CROWD ON SATURDAY

Belleville and Petes Meet in Big Battle For Central League Honors.

Belleville's victory over Peterborough yesterday means that the Petes will have to beat Williams-Mills and Company on Saturday to stay in the running. It will be the greatest battle of the season and the indications are that the biggest crowd that has seen a ball game in Peterborough will be on hand, for the fans are coming in droves from all over the Central League circuit. The Petes realize that they will have to be at their best if they expect to beat Belleville and tie up the series, and they are confident that they can maintain their unbeaten record on their own grounds this season. Losing games in Belleville is nothing to them, for only once in the history of the Central League have the Peterborough crew won a victory on the Belleville grounds. Saturday will be another day, and the Solomon crew will be out there fighting all the way.

The game will be called at 3 o'clock sharp with Umpires Boundy, Barnes and Butler in charge.

PICTURE TELLS STRONG STORY OF OLD EGYPT

"The Loves of Pharaoh" is Dramatic and Thrilling and Cast is Great — At the Capitol To-Night.

To Amenes, Pharaoh of the Egyptians, comes Samlak of Ethiopia, bringing his daughter Makeda to become Pharaoh's wife and thus effect an alliance between the two nations.

Outside the city, while the final beautifying touches are being applied to Makeda, her beautiful Greek serving girl, Theonis, incurs her wrath and is dismissed and beaten. She is rescued by Ramphis, son of Sothis, an architect, and the two instantly fall in love.

Homage is paid by the Ethiopians to Amenes and vast treasures are laid before him for storing in the Treasure House. Ramphis and Theonis are happy in their love, but one night the girl hides from him and goes to view the Treasure House, which it is forbidden, under pain of death, to approach. Ramphis vainly tries to warn her. The two are captured and brought before Amenes. The King immediately falls in love with the girl and offers to save her own life if she agrees to marry him. She refuses angrily. He decrees that Ramphis must die, but that he will save the latter's life if she consents to become Queen of Egypt. Her love for Ramphis causes her to consent, but unknown to her Ramphis is condemned to the slave quarries for life.

Samlak is furious when he sees what has occurred and leaves, vowing vengeance on the Egyptians. From his own country he brings his armies and declares war on Egypt. Theonis is made Queen of Egypt.

Then the Egyptians march away to war, but before they go, Amenes places his wife in the Treasure House, the entrance to which is known to Sothis alone. He orders the eyes of Sothis to be put out. The people are incensed at the thought of war, but they have to fight or suffer annihilation.

On the desert outside the city the two armies meet and the Egyptians are thrown into flight. They retire in confusion to the city and there a hasty consultation is held. Ramphis, who is now a soldier, advances a daring plan to lure the Ethiopians into the city, as into a baited trap, and destroy them. He is put in command of the army. The plan is a success, and the Egyptians win the day.

believed dead. The city rejoices with the victory, and the death of Amenes, for he had been a tyrant, and now the populace wants a new Pharaoh. Sothis guides Ramphis, by his sense of direction to the secret entrance of the Treasure House, and Theonis is released. When she has to choose a new husband who will become the Pharaoh, she takes Ramphis, and he is crowned ruler.

In the midst of the ceremonies, Amenes, who has only been wounded, crawls to the Palace and tries to make himself known. But the populace howls that Amenes is dead, and when the ex-ruler sees the fierce opposition to him, he falls dead on the steps of the throne. Then Ramphis and Theonis are free to enjoy the happiness that is rightfully theirs.

This picture will be shown at the Capitol Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

AT THE GRAND.

'EMPEROR JONES' A REMARKABLE PLAY

And C. S. Gilpin a Celebrated Actor—At Grand Tonight.

Adolph Klauber, will offer Eugene O'Neill's remarkable play, "The Emperor Jones" with the ceebrated actor, Charles S. Gilpin, in th leading role, at the Grand tonight.

This attraction comes to this city after scoring a distinct triumph at the Princess Theatre, New York, where it ran for an entire season. The presentation has been more universally discussed among theatregoers in the metropolitan centers and has received a greater measure of commendation from leading critics than any other theatrical offering in the past twenty years. Mr. O'Neill is a young man, with new ideas. He has built his play along new lines, casting precedent to the winds, with the result that at last we have a drama which conveys an original thought, and one that will undoubtedly pave the way to a higher standard of stage offerings. It is the dramatic novelty of the age, and Mr. Gilpin's acting is said to be superhuman.

A novelty in the offering of Jimmie Evans' Revue for the first three days of this week was "Let's Go!" a rapid-fire melange of clever songs, skits and dances. "Shaun's Farewell," a twenty-minute interpolation of Irish wit and humour, afforded the vivacious players a chance to show their command of dialect numbers, while the solo numbers included old Irish favorites in songs and dances. Roy Elles and Dolly Jollymore have a fine dance selection in "The Last Waltz"; and Florence Pippin gets her usual encore with her artistic violin solos. Burt Ryan and the girls have a fetching number in "Sally, Irene and Mary" and Grace Gould leads in a rendition of "Nobody's Baby" that brings renewed applause.

For to-morrow and Saturday, with a matinee on the last day, the company's offering is "School Days."

P.A.A.A. OUT FOR NEW MEMBERS

Plans Are Being Made for Campaign Next Month

At a meeting of the Executive of the P.A.A.A. held last night at the Chamber of Commerce, preliminary plan were made for the second annual membership campaign to be held next month. There will be four classes of membership viz.: honarary, active, ladies and junior and juveniles. It is the desire of the directorate to greatly increase the membership of the Association from the ranks of the young people whm much work has been done.

Dr. E. H. Wood reporting for rugby, announced the opening in the city league would be played on Saturday at Nicholls Oval the first contest to be started at 1.30 o'clock and the second game immediately after the Beleville-Peterborough baseball fixture. The team are Crescents, Collegiates, Excelsiors and Belmonts. This league will supply the material for a team to represent Peterborough in the O.R.F.U.

Progress is being made with plans for the boxing classes, and those taking part will find conditions much more favorable than prevailed last spring when the start was made. Wilfred Jones will again act as instructor.

Mayor W. H. Taylor is donating a trophy to the Association to be offered for competition in the men's softball league.

THE RUGBY SEASON TO OPEN SATURDAY

Two Games at Nicholls Oval—Teams Have Been Working Hard.

The rugby season opens with a double header at Nicholls Oval Saturday next, Sept. 23, with two Senior City League games. This is the revival of rugby in Peterborough after many years. There will be many who will remember the days when Peterborough held the Ontario and Dominion championships and all will be glad to help put Peterborough on the rugby map again. No admission can be charged at Nicholls Oval, but the old custom of selling tags on the grounds will be in vogue and there should be a good crowd on hand to give the game a send-off. All proceeds of city league games will go to-wards financing the city's team in the O.R.F.U. All the players in the city league are equiping themselves in order to give the O.R.F.U. team the best possible chance.

The Rugby Association have not forgotten the final game in the Central Ontario Baseball League and have arranged Saturday's games so that all fans and players can be on hand to give Jake Solomon and his boys their much deserved support.

First game — 1.30 p.m., Nicholls Oval, Collegiate Institute vs. Crescents. Officials, Ross Dobbin and Dr. Wood.

Second game— Immediately after the baseball game, Nicholls Oval, Belmonts vs. Excelsiors. Officials, Dr. McPherson and Mr. Brown.

All four teams have been working hard and saying little and there will be many surprises.

The team to represent Peterborough in the O.R.F.U. will be picked from the city league teams.

The second game will be announced at Riverside Park during the baseball game. The line-up of teams will be published to-morrow.

LAWN BOWLING

What may possibly be the last weekly local tournament will be held on the green to-morrow (Friday) night. Rink games will be played on the plus and minus system. The winners and runners up will each receive baskets of peaches. Some eight rinks have been formed and their personnel will be announced to-night. The games will start at 7.15 p.m. and skips are asked to have their rinks on hand at that hour. We are looking forward for one big night and all members are asked to co-operate to that end.

The annual meeting is to be held in the very near future, when the season's work will be reviewed and plans made for next year. Full announcement as to date and place of meeting to-morrow night.

IN MEMORIAM

FROST—In loving memory of Pte. Tom Frost, who died in England, Sept. 21st., 1916.
In England softly sleeping
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies the one we loved so dearly
In his silent lonely grave
We little thought when leaving home
He would no more return
That he in death so soon would sleep,
And leave us here to mourn.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

AIN'T IT AWFUL

To the Editor of the Examiner,
Dear Sir,—Boys and Coaster wagons seem to own the sidewalks; sometimes two or three wagons and boys yelling: it is awful, when the police are 'phoned it is hoped they will come quick and take some of them down to cell, it is the only way to learn them; the parents don't, some of the parents are known to give them something to eat and tell them to get away and let some one else have the noise, between bicycles and wagons it is not safe to walk on sidewalks at times.

EXPERIENCE.

Dear Mr. Editor,—I should be very moutch obliged if you will allow me a small space in your valuable paper. (By Stuart P. West.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 21. — (Special.)— The trustworthy index to financial sentiment and the European situation to-day was not the very confused movement on the stock exchange but rather the course of the foreign exchanges. Sterling and Marks were both higher. Francs a trifle lower, but the main point was that the fluctuations should have been so small. The fact that exchange rates seemed to have steadied down on a level quite as high as that prevailing before the Turkish question had entered the market situation was pretty convincing proof that no great alarm was felt in International banking circles regarding the outcome of the trouble.

The stock market prices started to higher, but after the first half hour the dealings were given over to a series of tests conducted by professional operators as to the vulnerability of the share list. The idea in these speculative quarters was that, quite apart from the outside news the market had a rather extensive and continuous advance, that expectations of the movement carried further through September had been disappointed and that the speculative following were waiting for a chance to sell instead of being anxious to buy more. This, of course, was a purely technical view of the market of the day. But it offered a more satisfying explanation than any developments in the outside situation.

These developments were few and not calculated to have much influence. The investment market greeted the upholding of the soldier bonus veto with another moderate advance in the liberty group, but this action had been too well anticipated to have much effect.

An advance in gasoline and kerosene prices in the eastern district attracted attention in connection with the spectacular upturns in Standard Oil issues. But the real reason for these performances in this section of the market was that capital readjustments are believed to be in store for some of these companies which will have the result of large extra stock dividends and at the same time bring market quotations more within the range of the ordinary trader.

In the search for excuses for the selling movement, some point was made of the advance in call money to 5 1-2 per cent., the highest rate touched in nearly two months. This came on top of Wednesday's evidence that the time loan market was not as easy as it had been.

But beyond calling attention to the effect of the seasonal demand for money to move the crops, the incident was of no real importance. The best criterion for the autumn money market is the status of Federal reserve discounts. Were there any pressure for funds to take care of interior bank withdrawals it would show in a general recourse on the part of the member banks to the re-discount facilities of the Federal reserve institution in the largest Federal reserve banks, statements, however, there is absolutely no indication of such a movement under way.

THE TIRE INDUSTRY.

The impression prevails in some parts of the Street that the rubber tire trade is now to a large extent in the same position as the steel industry was when the U. S. Steel Corporation was formed to "save the lives" of a big collection of companies which could not continue independent existence because of cut-throat competition.

It is estimated in some quarters that there are now over 100 companies in the business of making tires, and it is asserted with a great deal of emphasis that it is impossible for them to compete successfully with each other on present high costs, with product lasting longer than ever and with consumption steadily becoming more scientific.

In banking circles gossip in regard to the situation suggests that there must be economic consolidations in order to put the tire business in a fair-profit condition and stabilise it so that destroying competition will give way to a more satisfactory return to invested capital.

Investigations show discussions tending toward the point that as soon as some legitimate combination can be arranged under Washington approval a large number of concerns in this business may enter it. In the meantime stocks of some of the tire companies may be forced to lower levels by professional bearish operations.

CONVERTING BONDS.

From a strictly financial viewpoint the offer of the Minister of Finance to issue new 5 1-2 per cent. bonds running for either five or ten years, as desired in exchange for bonds of the 1922 issue, is most attractive. Commenting on the advantages of the conversion, the Financial Times says:

"The holders of these bonds have until September 30 to decide their course of action. From the showing already made, it appears as though a very substantial proportion of the holders will be willing to accept the new issue rather than the cash. This might be naturally expected in view of the scarcity of high grade bonds now offering in the market. At the same time there appears to be a very substantial supply of money seeking investment, so that the conversion plan is obviously one not to be overlooked, as a return of 5 1-2 per cent. on such gilt-edge security will soon be a thing of the past."

TURKS THREATEN KEY POSITION ON STRAITS

Seize Town of Ez-Ine on Asiatic Side of Dardanelles—Kemalists Were Opposed at No Point of Attack.

GREEKS EXHAUSTED

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 22—(Canadian Press).—Turkish Nationalist forces have seized town of Ezine on the Asiatic side of the Dardenelles and are threatening Kum Kalesi, an important key position on the Southern side of the straits. Kemalists were nowhere opposed. Both towns are within the zone of neutrality about the straits laid down by the treaty of Sevres. It is uncertain from available data whether Ezine is within the military zone of neutrality proclaimed on May, 1921, but there appears no doubt, however, that Kum Kalesi is within latter zone.

The positions involved were up to-to-day held by the French and Italians, and from them the Turks with big guns can command entrance to the straits.

TO DEFENR THRACE

ATHENS, Greece, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press)— In a statement made to-day to the Associated Press the Greek Foreign Office declared Greece will never permit the Turks to invade Thrace which she considers part of her home land, and retention of which is an essential preliminary condition to any peace conference.

The army in Asia minor had been fighting for ten years, said the statement, and was absolutely exhausted, but at present there was an army of one hundred and fifty thousand men available for Thrace if the Allies permitted the Turks to cross to Constantinople. Greece was defending civilization; Smyrna massacres spoke for themselves.

Labor Party Sent Out Peace Notes

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—The British Labor party to-day sent a cable message to Australian and New Zealand Laborites that the British Labor party was opposed to any wars in the Near East, and believed that the only way of averting war was by reference of disputes to the League of Nations, in which Turkey, Russia and Germany should be included. "We are strongly opposed to Great Britain acting individually, and demand settlement by discussion and agreement.

IGNORE YOUR ALARM CLOCK

Shun the Icy Shower, and Turn Up Your Nose at "Pep" Propaganda, Says Doctors.

The up-to-date, go-get-'em business man who bounds right out of bed on hearing the alarm clock, then ducks under a cold shower, is not paving the way to health, vigor and a ripe old age.

Instead, he is blazing a trail for an early grave. The medium will be heart failure, doctors say.

According to a London scientist, if one aspires to be hearty and tart at the age of 60 he should take his time about responding to the clarion call of the alarm clock. He should bathe in tepid water. A sudden vault from beneath the covers to the cold, bare floors plus the subsequent plunge in icy water is more than the human system can long endure, the statement goes.

Thus the more Spartan of the early-to-rise-and-bathe-in-the-cold-water-movement have been dealt a severe blow.

Dr. Thomas K. Gruber, head of Receiving Hospital, backed the new theory to-day.

Taking a Rest

"When the alarm clock sounds in the morning," said Dr. Gruber, "the heart is as near a state of complete rest as it can be. If the individual jumps right out of bed instead of first awakening by inches, he throws a very heavy burden on his heart, which, like any other engine, is subject to an weakened by sudden strain

Hence, on awakening, the individual should yawn several times, stretch one foot, then the other, and dismount from the bed with grace and dignity. It is permissible, Dr. Gruber says, to fortify one's self for the above move by turning over on the good ear for a five minutes' additional snooze.

Then the bath— "The cold bath is a severe shock to the dormant nervous system," continued the doctor. "When the business man, still half asleep, fumbles his way to the shower and then steps beneath the cold flood, the reaction is that of a blast of dynamite.

Too Much! Too Much!

"The heart is placed under enormous strain, the constant repetition of which causes permanent weakening. The individual may be 'pepped up' temporarily by the bath, but in the end the process will act as a drain on his energy.

Dr. Gruber explained that man was in reality a tropical animal. During the winter when the greater majority of birds and animals have migrated south man still lives in the north through choice or necessity. Unprotected by natural covering he was never meant to be subjected to cold in either liquid or breeze form the doctor believes.

"Who ever heard of an Eskimo taking a cold morning bath?" concluded Dr. Gruber. "He couldn't do it and live. Even a polar bear, covered by four or five inches of fur, hesitates to plunge into icy water."

OFFICERS OF CHILDREN'S AID MET AT NORWOOD

Spoke to Large Gathering For Support of Society

Mr. B. F. Ackerman, president of the local Board of Directors of the Children's Aid Society, with Mr. G. W. Powell, agent and Mesdames Knox, Welsh, and Darcey, member of the Board, went to Norwood yesterday to hold a meeting in the interests of the forthcoming tag day for the Shelter. A fair attendance of women marked the gathering, which was held in the council room of the town hall, with Mr. Ackerman in the chair.

Mr. Ackerman spoke briefly in recommendation of support for the undertaking; Mr. Powell gave an account of the general work and of some special cases which had produced good results from the placing of children in homes; and explained portions of the legislation in connection with children of unmarried parents and the new adopition laws.

Mrs. Joseph Knox explained the manner of making the canvas for funds; Mrs. Joseph Welsh referred to the interesting work in reclaiming neglected children done by the Dr. Barnardos' Homes in England, visited by her on a recent trip to the Old Country, and Mrs. H. W. Darcey also recommended the cause of the Shelter to her hearers.

THE REPARATIONS QUESTION BEFORE THE COMMITTEES

GENEVA, September 22 (Canadian Press). — M. de Jouvenel, representing France, has succeeded in reconciling France and Great Britain on the subject of reparations through his resolutions submitted to the Disarmament Committee yesterday dealing with the reparations and the inter-Allied debt in their relation to disarmament.

H. A .Fisher, British delegate, was the first to accept the resolution.

The resolution declared that only the cessation of the uncertainty regarding the means of restoring the devastated areas and the settlement of the inter-Allied debts will make it possible to remedy the economic chaos, and that these problems must be solved before anything could be done regarding disarmament.

FRUGAL QUEEN WEARS LAST YEAR'S CLOTHES

BUCHAREST, Sept. 22.—(Associated Press).—Queen Marie of Rumania has decided to put off her long-contemplated trip to the United States. The chief reason is Rumania's acute financial position. "We are very poor," says the Queen, "and it would not be fair to ask the government to meet the expenses of such a long journey. I am trying to set a good example of frugality and economy. I have cancelled the orders for my coronation gowns. My daughters and I are wearing last year's clothes, and we are saving every penny. Hence I must give up the idea of going to the United States."

"The Kow He Say Boo Hoo And Die Rite In My Arms"

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich., Sept. 22.—If the Soo Line Railroads intends to be fair to Anton Peterson, "poor feller" of Hermansville, it will send him a check for $100 for the loss of a cow. Anton has filed a claim for that amount against the railroad $90 being the value of the cow, which "yust say boo hoo and he die rite in my arms" after being hit by a Soo Line engine, and $10 more being asked for the cow's funeral expenses.

Anton who described himself as a "poor feller" who had not paid for the cow himself decribed the accident in his letter to the railroad company as follows:

"Ay was sitting on my fence watching my blak kow eat the railroad grass and you big engine come down and kill my kow and hit my kow ride between the crossing and the telephone post and he cut the to legs off by the tail and his hed he lay on the odder side of the fence.

I holler at the man that was making the cars run but he don't stop so I go back to my kow and he yust say boo hoo and he die rite in my arms. If I bury him in hole it will be all rite if you want when you kome up I dig him up again, but he ded just the same."

LOCAL POLICE SOLVE PORT HOPE MYSTERY

Quickly Effected Arrest of Unmarried Parents of Baby Deserted in Port Hope on September 9.

TRIAL IN PORT HOPE

The almost simultaneous arrest in Peterborough and Toronto on Wednesday afternoon of the unwed parents of the infant they are charged with having abandoned in Port Hope on Saturday September 9th is another achievement for Chief Newhall and his staff. With only the description of the infant and another slender clew which the accused overlooked in their plot, the police had almost nothing to work on, when Chief Colwill of Port Hope, appealed to Chief Newhall on Wednesday afternoon. The local force was immediately put into action, with P. C. Thomas and Acting Detective Carey conducting the principal enquiries. By five o'clock they had obtained sufficient evidence to warrant the arrest of the man in the case, as he was leaving the factory where he was employed.

At the police station, where he was questioned by Chief Newhall, he indigantly denied any knowledge of the affair, but the Chief proceeded to reconstruct the scheme to get rid of the ten days' old baby, and the man finally admitted that he was the father of the child and that he had been a party to its desertion, having motored from Peterborough in the evening of the Saturday on which the baby was discovered on the hospital steps by a nurse who heard a muffled cry which prompted her to make a search of the premises.

Confident that he had the solution of the mystery which Chief Colwill had laid before him Chief Newhall telephoned to Toronto to arrest the mother, formerly of Peterborough, and within half an hour he had received a reply that the girl, who is about eighteen years old, was in custody. The father is twenty-four years old and holds an office position in a local factory. He was taken to Port Hope on Wednesday night. Both parents will be jointly charged with desertion, for which the maximum penalty is three years' imprisonment.

Chief Newhall remarked that a somewhat amusing incident of the enquiry was the instant exclamation of recognition which Chief Colwill uttered when the suspected young man was brought into the station. The facial resemblance ,the dark colored hair and other features tallied so closely with those of the deserted baby that Chief Colwill was immediately impressed and even intimated that there was no question about the relations of the father and the infant boy.

TRAFFICKER IN DRUGS GETS 20 YEAR SENTENCE

Found Guilty of Manslaughter by Selling Montreal Man a Fatal Dose of Morphine.

MONTREAL, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press.)—"This illicit traffic in cocain, morphine and drug poisons must stop. I am going to render a terrible sentence—not only for you, but as an example to others, who may be tempted to engaged in the drug traffic."

These words by Justice Monet delivered in a voice which sounded in every corner of the court, preceded a twenty year sentence on Willie Fournier drug trafficker.

Fournier was found guilty of manslaughter through having caused the death of Albert Laporte by selling him a fatal dose of morphine.

Ivonne Desbiens, aged 20, received five years for manslaughter of Alfred Fontaine, through injecting heroin into his arm.

BRITISH LABOR OPPOSED TO WAR IN EAST

Arthur Henderson, Secretary of Laborites, So Cables to Australia and New Zealand.

MUST AVOID CLASH

LONDON, September 22 (United Press). — British Labour is opposed to war in the Near East, Arthur Henderson, secretary of the British Labourites, cabled the Labour Parties in Austrlia and New Zealand to-day.

Henderson's message, which was an answer to a query, asking where British Labour stood in the Near East irisis, follows:

"British Labour is opposed to war in the Near East, and believes the only effective way of avoiding a clash is by referring the problem to the League of Nations, in which Turkey, Russia, and Germany ought to be included.

"We strongly oppose Britain attacking individually. We demand a settlement by discussion."

Mrs. Fine was a recent arrival in Peterborough from Poland, where, as one of her relatives here remarked, "she suffered much from the war," and, during her brief stay, had become very "happy and satisfied with this new country, where everything is so different." DOMINION MAY HOPE FOR BIG WORLD TRADE Scheme Also Outlined by Which Canada Could Hold Her Own With U. S.—Population Development to Dazzle World.

CANADIAN NEWS

OWEN SOUND, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press). — The outline of a scheme whereby Canada may hope to win a large percentage of trade from other countries, and by which the Dominion may hope to hold her own with the United States, was presented to members of the Associated Boards of Trade here yesterday.

It was suggested that the Dominion must enlarge her trade Consular service, and raise the necessary funds for financing such an undertaking by imposing a charge in all foreign countries on invoices covering goods to the value of one hundred dollars or more consigned to Canada.

We want a law that will make for a better temperance. A people like ours does not need Prussian laws."

SUPER-VALUE SALES EVENT

Public Will Get Advantage of Twenty-Fourth Anniversary of Cressman Co. Limited.

It is nearly a quarter of a century since the Cressman Company, Limited, established itself in Peterborough. Just twenty-four years ago, on September 23rd ,1898 ,the business was started in one narrow, single store on George street, in an establishment of three departments, with five employees, a small beginning that formed the nucleus of the now thriving concern, with its twenty-six departments and nearly a hundred employees.

Good service and honest merchandise at fair prices have been the mottoes of a business that has grown and flourished during this time like the proverbial green bay tree, and, to show appreciation of the liberal patronage and confidence enjoyed by the firm during its twenty-four years' existence in Peterborough, a special birthday bargain festival, the first anniversary sale event during this period of time, has been arranged for the fortnight commencing Saturday, Sept. 23rd, and ending on Saturday, October 7th.

There are many special features about this anniversary, which is intended to be a business builder as well as a sales event, and preparations in the buying line have been in progress for months, every department of the twenty-six starring in many extra specials in both price and quality. Some of the outstanding features that characterize the events are: A Super-Value, for one day's selling, to be on display in the south window, with the goods changed each day at five o'clock in the afternoon; $10 in gold each week for those estimating the exact number, or coming closest to number of customers served during the week; Bargain Annext open every day of the two weeks. A special attraction that should be of great interest to the juniors of the city is the contest in essays on "How I Would Conduct a Store." This is open to all boys and girls of fifteen years or under, must not be over 500 words in length, and has fro a reward for the best essay a handsome gold watch. The firm announces that it will accept Victory Bonds as cash at a premium of ten per cent. on par for purchases during this sale.

The social side of the festival will be commemorated by the birthday parties held on Thursdays of each week, Sept. 28th and Oct. 5th, when ice cream and cake will be served free in the tea room.

A glance at the double page announcement of special offerings which appears in to-day's issue will give an idea of the scope covered in this sales event. Every department, with attractions for men, women and children, has been included in the price-slashing campaign; every room in a household, from the kitchen to the linen-closet, might be benefitted by purchases during this fortnight, and wardrobes of every member of the home, masculine or feminine, adult or junior, replenished at small cost from the bargains offered for the twenty-fourth birthday bargain festival.

DO YOU SEE WELL.

TO-DAY'S BLUNDER CORRECTED

Much dyspepsia results from the habit of eating and running. The person who eats with a watch lying in front of him unconsciously bolts his food. It is better, if pressed for time, to eat a normal meal in half the usual time.

RECIPES

BLUEBERRY MUFFINS
By Bertha E. Shapleigh
Cooking Authority for Columbia University

This is the season for blueberries and while they last one wants to use them almost every day.

One of the ways is to put them into muffins. These are good for breakfast and equally good, cold, for luncheon. The recipe which follows makes eight large muffins, or 12 small or thinner ones:

¼ cup butter — 1 cup blueberries
½ cup sugar — 2 cups flour
¾ cup milk — 3 teaspoons baking powder
2 eggs — ¼ teaspoon salt

Work together the butter and sugar until creamy, add the eggs well beaten. Sift baking powder, flour and salt. Add to egg and butter mixture alternately with the milk.

When thoroughly mixed, add blue berries and put into well buttered muffin tins. Bake 25 minutes in an oven hot enough for small cakes.

These little muffins may be served hot with a liquid sauce for dessert. The mixture may be baked in one pan, and cut into squares when served.

RASPBERRY MOUSSE

A mousse is sweetened, flavored, stiffly beaten cream, frozen by being packed for four hours in ice and salt, using two parts ice to one part salt. The textur of the mousse is porous. It is a richer dessert than plain ice cream.

The following is a seasonable recipe, and later different flavors and fruit smay be used in the proportions:

1 pint heavy cream
1 cup sugar
1-8 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon gelatine
1 tablespoon cold water
1 cup crushed raspberries
1 teaspoon vanilla

Soak the gelatine in the cold water until water is absorbed.

Beat the cream until stiff, add the sugar, salt and raspberries. Then add gelatine which has been dissolved by placing over hot water, and vanilla.

Pack into a wet mold, being careful that the mold is entirely filled Cover with a piece of oiled paper, place cover tightly on the mold. Pack in ice and salt for four hours.

SHORT BREADS

½ cup butter — ½ cup brown sugar
1½ cups flour

Work butter and brown sugar together until creamy. Then work in flour gradually until all is used.

Put on a slightly floured board and work until smooth and easy to roll out. Roll to one-half inch thickness and cut with a small cutter and place a nut meat in the centre of each round.

Bake in a very moderate oven until slightly colored. This will take about one half hour. To this mixture may be rolled out to a quarter inch in thickness, cut in rounds and put together in pairs with jam between.

Bake as before in a moderate oven for 35 minutes. If a hole be cut in the top piece the jam will show through and make a prettier cake.

Of Columbia University

6 peaches
3 bananas
3 oranges
3 lemons
Few grains salt
1 pint cream
2 cups sugar
2 cups water
½ teaspoon vanilla

Rub peaches and bananas after peeling, through a coarse strainer. Boil sugar and water one minute. Add to fruit puree, and freeze to a mush. Beat cream until stiff, add vanilla and salt, and stir into the frozen mixture.

Pack for one or two hours, in salt and ice, using five measures of ice to one measure of salt.

NOTE: Any combination of fresh or canned fruit may be used, but one must use judgment about the quantity of sugar, depending on the kind of fruit used.

PEACH SALAD
By Bertha E. Shapleigh
Of Columbia University

Combinations of fruits and vegetables often make delicious salads. Tomatoes and pineapple are good when served together. The following recipe is worth trying:

4 peaches
1 cup chopped beets
1 cup celery
1 head lettuce
French dressing

Pare and cut peaches in halves. In centre of each half put beets which have stood in weak vinegar. Place peaches on lettuce, surround with celery and pour over all, the French dressing to which has been added half a teaspoon of curry powder.

FRESH VEGETABLE SALAD
By Bertha E. Shapleigh
Of Columbia University

During the summer fresh vegetables should be eaten every day. Sometimes the taste better cold. And what is more attractive than a pleasing arrangement of bright-colored vegetables with a little green lettuce or romaine or some salad plant and a good salad dressing?

Just a few things are well to avoid—for instance, a combination of beets and tomatoes, or carrots and tomatoes.

1 cup cooked green string beans, cut in pieces
1 cup cooked carrots, cut in cubes or strips
1 cup potatoes, cut in cubes
1 cucumber, thinly sliced
1 cup shaved raw cabbage
1 head lettuce
½ cup French dressing
1 hard cooked egg

It is well to serve such a salad arranging each vegetable by itself. Then if there is any one which some member of the family does not like, that vegetable can be avoided.

Chop the egg and add to the French dressing. Either put a slice of two of onion in the salad itself or chop it finely and add to the dressing.

If possible, arrange these vegetables on a platter. Place first the lettuce, then the cabbage; on this arrange the piles of vegetables and pour over all the dressing

NUT CAKES

2 eggs
1 cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking powder
1 cup flour
1 cup Pecan meats cut in small pieces.

Beat eggs slightly, add brown sugar and beat together. Sift baking powder, salt and flour. Stir lightly into eggs and sugar.

Add nut meats and bake in small, shallow buttered tin in a moderate oven 20 minutes.

This quantity will make from 20 to 24, depending upon the size of the tin.

Efficient Housekeeping

The modern idea of efficiency extends into the household as well as into every branch of business. Most housewives pride themselves upon the fact that their homes are conducted in an efficient, business-like manner.

Every housewife knows, too, that the business of running a house, providing for the wants and needs of the different members of the family and meeting the almost daily emergencies is second to none.

The Want Ads. in the Examiner are a great boon to the efficient housewife. In securing helpers, in purchasing various articles of household equipment, disposing of discarded furniture, in fact in countless ways, the Want Ads. are the housewife's most valuable assistant.

Scientists Had Good Look At Total Eclipse of Sun

Cloudless Sky Provided a Splendid Opportunity For Astronomers to Verify Einstein Theory.

AT WOOLAL ISLAND.

LONDON, September 22 (Canadian Press). — The astronomers had a splendid view of yesterday's solar eclipse from Woolal, near Broome, Australia, according to a despatch to The Times from Perth. The sky was cloudless, and the observations were most successful.

The United States expedition at Woolal, headed by Professor W. W. Campbell, Director of Lick Observatory, saw a corona 40,000 miles wide, from which four long streamers of light shot forth, one extending 2,500,000 miles from the sun's centre, says a despatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Melbourne.

The duration of the totality of the eclipse was four seconds shorter and began 15 seconds later than had been predicted.

The United States astronomers are said to be highly pleased at the success of the photographic plate, taken with the purpose of verifying Einstein's theory of relativity, namely the bending path of a ray of light in its passage through the sun's gravitational field. They also expressed pleasure with the work of both the instruments and the observers.

The Canadian and Australian astronomers occupied stations nearby the Americans. All had made careful efforts to verify the Einstein theory.

Christmas Island, where the British, Dutch, and German experitions were located, and Woolal were considered the most favourable points for observation because of the sun's high altitude there, but an expedition under George F. Dodwell, Government Astronomer in South Australia, went to Cordillo Downs in the Australian interior, whither it transported on the backs of camels, more than 100 miles from the end of the railway line, a photographic telescope loaned by the Pittsburgh Observatory.

The observation made by this expedition are also said to have been most successful.

Dominion Cabinet To Resume Sittings

OTTAWA, September 22 (Canadian Press). — After an interval of one day the Dominion Cabinet will resume its sittings this afternoon.

Messages from the British Government and from Canada's representatives at Geneva, Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Ernest Lapointe, relative to the Near East situation, will be given prior consideration, but it is not expected here that developments will be of a sensational nature.

It is understood that after the war excitement of the past week the Ministers will turn their attention to pressing domestic affairs, with special reference to the Board of Directors of the National Railways.

PRAIRIE FIRE DOES GREAT DAMAGE.

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press)—Blood Indian officials report that the prairie fire on the reserve just north of Cardston was extinguished early yesterday morning after it had swept 100,000 to 150,000 acres of hay and grazing lands. Nearly 200 men, including Hutterrites of the Raley Colony, and Indians of the reserve, fought the fire. So far as is known no lives were lost, although this has not been definitely established. A number of haying camps in the path of the flames were wiped out. Many thousands of tons of hay put up by the Indians and ranchers were consumed.

GREAT BRITAIN REFUSES TO WITHDRAW FROM CHANAK

Chanak Is Regarded As the Key Position and British Troops, Supported By the Navy, Are in a Position to Hold it—All Boats Have Been Seized to Prevent Turks From Crossing Straits—British Cabinet Satisfied With the Situation.

TURKS NOT EXPECTED TO ATTACK.

PARIS, Sept. 22. — (Canadian Press.)— Great Britain has refused categorically to withdraw her troops from Chanak, and has so informed the French Government. This was definitely stated in official British circles last night, in reply to a persistent report in French quarters that the British forces would probably be retired on the other side of the Straits.

Lord Curzon, British Foreign Secretary, was in communication with Premier Lloyd George by telephone and telegraph throughout the day, and the French Premier received notification late yesterday afternoon of the decision to hold the troops at Chanak.

The British Government has been advised by military and naval experts that the troops are in no danger of an attack by the Kemalists.

It is further attaed that the British Navy in co-operation with the land forces could withstand a strong attack by the Turks, but if overwhelmed by superior numbers, which is regarded as highly unlikely, the troops could be easily withdrawn to Gallipoli under cover of the naval guns.

Meanwhile, according to despatches from Constantinople, the French and Italian contingents have been withdrawn from the neutral zones by order of their governments. The British say they have the assurance of Premier Poincare himself that the Turks will not attack, he declaring that the only danger was from Turkish irregulars.

M. Poincare, however, has made a strong plea for the retirement of the British forces on the ground that such a move would hasten peace and calm the more war-like party in the Angora Government.

A further decision by the British Government, which will be formally announced at to-day's meeting, is that its representatives will go to the proposed conference with an open mind and will refuse to concede the Turkish claims to Thrace, Adrianople and Constantinople in advance of the peace meeting. These two decisions come as a great disappointment to France, which had hoped for withdrawal of the British forces and tentative acceptance of the Turkish claims on the part of Great Britain as a preliminary to the conference.

The British contend that if the Turkish demands were accepted immediately, there would be no need of a conference. Complete accord between France and Great Britain, therefore, is very remote. To-day's session of the Allied conference, will confine itself to fixing the date and place for the conference and the possible drawing up of the agenda.

Ferid Bey, the Nationalist representative in Paris, informed the Associated Press last evening that the reply of the Angora Government regarding the conference would probably come within two or three days.

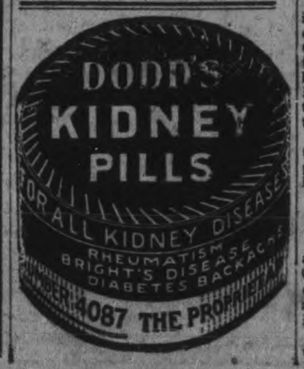
"Whether there is trouble in Asia Minor and an advance of our forces into our rightful territory depends entirely on the good will of Great Britain," said the Turkish envoy. "If Great Britain gives us an indication that she will grant our just demands for Thrace, Constantinople and Adrianople, our forces will remain where they are, pending the conference. If we do not get this assurance, Turkey will be forced to make further sacrifices for her rights. We prefer to obtain our rights by diplomacy and peaceful methods, but we have to insist on them by other means."

BRIDE REGISTERS UNDER MAIDEN NAME

Hotel Manager Accepts the Change When Coupled With Word 'WIFE',

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—The right of a married woman to retain and register her maiden name at a hotel was accepted at the Waldorf-Astoria when Managing Director Roy Carruthers permitted the registeration of Doris E. Fleischman, bride of Edward L. Bernays, under her own name. The marriage of the couple took place on Saturday morning at the Municipal Building and the bride who is the daughter of Samuel Fleischman is associated with Mr. Bernays, in business. She is retaining her maiden name.

Mr. Carruthers instructed his clerks to ask that in registering both names appear, in some such way as "John Jones and wife Jane Smith."



Turkey is Expected To Issue Ultimatum

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press.)—In Allied diplomatic circles last night it is reported that the Turkish Nationalists were on the point of issuing an ultimatum to the Allies, demanding the evacuation of Thrace in 48 hours.

SUGGESTION MADE SETTLE QUESTION OF THE NEAR EAST

English Paper Sees Difficulties in Method Suggested By Premier Stamboulishy of Bulgaria.

THRACE NEUTRAL.

LONDON, Sept. 22.— (Canadian Press.) — The suggestion that the Thracian question can be settled by making Thrace, from the Turkish hinterland of Constantinople, to the Mesta River in Macedonia, autonomous under the jurisdiction of the League of Nations, has been officially submitted by Bulgaria to France and Great Britain, the Times learns. The author of the plan is the Bulgarian Premier, M. Stamboulisky, who is in Geneva.

The Times thinks that with the necessary safeguards the suggestion might solve many difficulties.

IS RUMORED THAT PREM. L'D GEORGE OFFERED TO RESIGN

Quarters Hostile to the Premier Are Making Most of Alleged Differences in Cabinet.

LONDON, Sept. 22.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—It is rumored in London that Premier Lloyd George offered his resignation at a meeting of the cabinet ministers at Chequers, the Premier's country home, last week end, but that the resignation was refused.

It is also rumored that Lord Curzon, secretary of state for foreign affairs threatened to resign if his policy for securing the co-operation of France was not supported by the cabinet.

For the moment Lord Curzon's policy has triumphed and intense satisfaction is expressed in England at the prospect of summoning an international conference to settle the near eastern question.

Quarters hostile to Premier Lloyd George are making the most of the alleged differences in the cabinet. Their spokesman among the Press adjure the people of the overseas Dominions to grasp the fact that Lord Curzon's policy removes from the world the menace of another war.

It was pointed out in Paris to-day that General Harington's warning sent to Kemal Pasha that the advance of the Turks into allied territory would be considered an act of war against Great Britain antedated Thursday's hopeful Paris discussions and the French expect that General Harington's order may be changed.

Satisfaction is expressed in official quarters in London at the evident indications of progerss towards an understanding as a result of Thursday's conference in Paris. General Kemal Pasha is known to be moderate himself, but the danger lies in the fact that he must reckon with his extremist colleagues and his victory-flushed army.

The British ministers re-assembled in Downing Street yesterday without their military advisers. Lord Curzon is consulting his colleagues by telegraph pending thee resumption of his conference to-day with Premier Poincare of France, the next objective of the allies being jointly to trace the bfiroad lines of peace.

No further meetings of the ministers in London is contemplated at present. Early Beatty is returning to London from Paris to-night.

GIVEN THE DECISION.

NEW YORK, September 22 (Canadian Press). — Jack Wolfe, of Cleveland, was given the judges' decision over Joe Lynch, of New York, at the end of 15 rounds of slow boxing last night.

The New Yorker's title as bantamweight champion was not involved.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press)— The conference between Premier Poincare and Lord Curzon will be renewed at Paris this morning, and, while these are pending the British Prime Minister left for his country residence, and the other members of the Cabinet are scattering. It is believed, however, that instructions have been sent to the British Foreign Secretary to inform M. Poincare in the most emphatic manner that Great Britain is determined to preserve the Dardanelles Straits from Turkish control.

At the same time special efforts will be continued to win Rumania and Jugo-Slavia to the British point of view, especially as these powers apparently are hesitating whether to favor the British or the French side.

In some quarters it was even declared yesterday that Lord Curzon's instructions amounted practically to defying France to support the Turks, with an intimation that inasmuch as France and Italy had already signed left-handed agreements with the Kemalists, it was not good taste for them to insist that Great Britain fall in line with their policy.

Regarding Chanak, a key position on the straits, it is not doubted that the Britis intend to remain there, and at the same time it is pointed out that the British intend to remain there, sweep all the roads for miles leading to Chanak and that the ships have orders to begin firing at the first indication of the approach of Turkish troops.

The British have taken the additional precautions to requistion vessels, including small boats, along the coast from Smyrna to the Sea of Marmora, thus making it physically impossible for the Turks to obtain any craft with which to attempt ot cross the Straits.

On the whole the members of the British Cabinet appear to be satisfied with the present situation and that by prompt action Great Britain has won the first move in recovering her prestige which is threatened by the Kemalist successes. Regardi India it is contended that if the British Government yields to the Turks the Indian Mussulmans will become unruly, whereas if Kemal Pasha is faced and prevented from crossing the Straits, British prestige will be high.

One difficulty about elevating the movies is that they can't be lifted above the level of the stars.—Columbia Record.

2,000 SETTLERS EACH YEAR FOR AUSTRALIA

LONDON, September 22 (Canadian Press). — A cable from Melbourne says Premier W. M. Hughes, of Australia, in announcing that an agreement had been signed with the Government of Victoria for the introduction of 2,000 immigrants yearly as land settlers, stated that this was one section of the proposal to spend £36,000,000 on immigration. He anticipated, with similar co-operation on the part of the other Australian States, the number of immigrants would speedily reach 100,000 yearly.

DESTRUCTION OF SMYRNA IS TOLD EYE WITNESSES

Many British - Owned Buildings Are Burned and Looted—One British Subject Murdered.

ANARCHY PREVAILS.

LONDON, September 22 (Canadian Press). — Further details of the destruction at Smyrna by the Turks, reported at Malta, show that all the British properties were looted and important buildings burned.

Among the destroyed buildings were: The Oriental Carpets Company's premises, Eastern Carpets Company's premises, the Bank of Rome, the Kraemer Hotel, the French and British Consulates, Orthodox and Roman Catholic cathedrals, Eastern Telegraph Company's premises, Passport Offices, and the Smyrna Theatre.

The latest arrivals at Malta from Smyrna say that complete anarchy prevails in the town, and the countryside is strewn with dead bodies.

Terrible sights have been witnessed by the British subjects there.

Beyond the brutal murder of Dr. Murphy, formerly of the Indian Army, in the presence of his wife and daughters, there has been no confirmation of reports of British subjects being involved in other casualties.

THE DUTY OF PARENTS.

A coroner's jury in Toronto, in bringing in a verdict of accidental death in the case of a four-year-old child who was killed by an automobile, added a suggestion that in view of the increasing number of accidents, a law should place the responsibility of the care of children on public streets or highways upon the parents or guardians.

Such a measure might not be practicable, but at least the growth of the death roll from automobile accidents should cause parents to realize that greater care is necessary to keep children out of the danger zone.

The little ones should, as early as possible, be impressed with the fact that the streets, under present conditions, always carry a menace.

No matter how careful a driver is, he has little chance of averting an accident if a child suddenly darts out into the roadway in front of his car. The majority of child tragedies are caused in this way, and parents should redouble their efforts to teach their children that they must keep off the road.

New conditions have to be dealt with as they arise, and the motor car menace must be met by increased care, not only on the part of drivers but of all citizens.

A FUEL RESERVE.

If so many people were not trying to secure a whole winter's supply of fuel at once the situation in regard to the fuel shortage would not present so many difficulties.

Those who have the means to purchase enough fuel to carry them over until next spring are running frantically around endeavoring to buy coal, or substitutes, wherever there is an opening.

If it were possible to restrict all purchasers to their immediate needs, the whole problem would be greatly simplified.

There would be fuel of some kind for everybody if a system of rationing could be adopted.

As it is, however, unless the Civic Fuel Committee anticipate the crisis and establish a reserve for the benefit of those who, of necessity, have to buy in small quantities, it is difficult to see how suffering and distress can be averted. The city authorities, in default of a system of rationing, should not leave Peterborough in a defenceless position. There will have to be a fuel reserve for emergency cases.

FIRE PREVENTION.

When it is realized that Canada's per capita fire loss is the highest in the world, and that those who are in a position to know declares that the vast majority of fires are the result of carelessness on somebody's part, the reason for an annual fire prevention campaign should readily be apparent.

Not only in our urban centres but even in our forests, Canadians, through careless methods, burn up many millions of dollars every year.

It is time to call a halt, fire prevention authorities declare. The difficulty is to awaken the people to a realization that each of them has a personal responsibility in the matter.

A policy of "Let George do it" will mean that Canada will continue in her extravagant pastime of burning a large share of her wealth every year.

Fire Prevention Day is set aside in the hope that the seeds of fire prevention education will fall upon fertile soil.

All good citizens will not only wish the movement a success, but will do their utmost to make it so.

THE MUNICIPAL ASSOCIATION.

In endeavoring to organize a Municipal Association, consisting of all the municipalities in Central Ontario, a step has been taken that should be of the greatest benefit to the whole district, not only in bettering power conditions but in all other matters.

With a united front on the part of the municipalities of Central Ontario, there is a chance that the Ontario Government may recognize the justice of their claim that they be placed on the same basis as the cities and towns of Western Ontario in regard to Hydro power.

They are asking that the power properties now owned by the Ontario Government and operated by the Hydro Commission be transferred to the ownership of the municipalities and operated for them by the Hydro Commission just as has been done in the western part of the Province.

Some of the first partners in the Hydro scheme are in the enviable position of now completely owning their power systems.

Municipalities in other sections of Ontario should have the same privilege, and the proposed Municipal Association, if organized along right lines and in the proper spirit, should be able to successfully convince the Ontario Government that their request is reasonable.

A DESIRABLE SITE.

It is hoped that the Chamber of Commerce will press for the acquisition of Armour's Hill by the City for park purposes. The chance to secure this desirable site should not be allowed to drift away.

Planning for the future is a desirable policy that has not always been followed out in this city.

That we have some beautiful parks is due to a great measure to the generosity of public-spirited citizens rather than to the foresight of city councils.

Had it not been for the gifts of property for park purposes it is to be feared that Peterborough would be very badly off in this respect at the present time.

We cannot always depend upon such sources for our breathing spots, and it would be provident and wise to anticipate the growth of Peterborough by securing other park property before the cost becomes prohibitive.

Armour's Hill should be one of the first sites secured as it possesses unique advantages, not the least of which is that it commands a view of the whole city.

WELL, HERE YOU ARE!

You miserable old stick of wood. Why, it wasn't so many years ago that we wished you would get out of the road, says the London Advertiser. And a few generations ago our grandfathers wondered how they would ever get rid of you, and all like you, so they might get down to the more serious business of planting some seed and getting a crop on which they could live.

And we used to take you, fairly big limbs of you, and leave you in the bush until you were dry enough to put in a pile and burn. It seemed to be the only way we had of driving it into your thick head that we didn't want you around, and that we couldn't do anything worth while until you had cleared out of the premises.

And what piles of you we burned up in an effort to boil down a few buckets of sap into a bit of maple sugar. We thought only in terms of sugar and syrup, and the old wood pile was simply tossed in and we were glad to get it out of the way.

After a bit we used to cart you off to town and stand beside you for a couple of hours to see if some person with a lot of money would come along and pay us $1.15 a cord for fine maple and beech. No old knots or limbs thrown in.

Just as late as a couple of months ago we wandered through the bush lands along the lake. You were there, too, you old limbs, and your friends the trunks of fallen trees, but we didn't want you. We walked on you, we snubbed you, as we pursued the old pine knot. If you weren't a pine knot you were out of luck as far as the summer campers were concerned. And the chances are that you are still hanging around up there in the bush.

Day before yesterday the cart from the wood yard pulled up in front of the house. We call the coal yards wood yards now because they haven's any coal. And the driver threw you off into the cellar where the coal used to live. Then in the evening we turned on the light and went down to have a look at you. And there you are, you miserable little shrimp of a two-inch limb, you old basswood slab, you piece off a hemlock stump. And as we stood and gazed at you we couldn't help wondering what had become of your superiors, the maple and beech sticks.

But you've climbed to the top, you crooked, green, sappy, despised bit of a limb. We welcomed you to the tune of about $14 a cord, and we couldn't afford to talk back to the man who sold you into our house. And so you'll sputter and burn and smoke in turns. You've got your turn now, you despised branch and limb wood. Rub it in and make the best of it, for when folks get the chance they will certainly turn up their noses and leave you to rot on the back fifty acres.

THE RISING TIDE OF COLOR

The American flyweight championship is now held by a Filipino, the pompadoured Pancho Villa. The name was familiar before this lad knocked the crown off Johnny Buff, but it was not associated with the far east. When we thought of Pancho, it was in connection with raids across the Rio Grande. The Filipino Pancho has been accepted as a challenger by Jimmy Wilde of England, the world champion in the flyweight class, and our little brown brother, who was good enough for Buff, may be good enough for Wilde. That would check up one world championship for Asia.

In Paris there is a young Senegalese by the name of Siki. Si, is 22 years old and has been raised on hard liquor. When he goes into training for a bout he merely increases his rations of the hard stuff, and he aims to be saturated when he crawls through the ropes. He is a drunken gorilla. He starts a fight by crouching against the ropes and chattering. Then he springs out—object, obliteration. His staying power has been tested. He was hit on the head with a hammer and did not feel it.

He is to fight Georges Carpentier on Sunday in Paris. He says he will kill Georges in the first round and that he then will come over here and camp on Dempsey's doorstep until he has a chance to kill him. The young gentleman evidently is descended from something more remote than the Neanderthaler. He is the offspring of some twilight ancestor of the grisly man. Carpentier may caress this wild man with a right swing to the button of the chin, but if the anthropoid destroys the chivalry o' France the light heavyweight champion of the world will go to Africa.

There is a South American boxer with a predominance of Indian in his blood who came to the United States, disposed of a fairly competent American ringster, and went back to his jungles waiting a favorable opportunity to step into the ring with Dempsey and prove that a good red man is better than a good white man.

They are coming at us from all quarters, brown, black and red, and we speculate. Is this the beginning of the end of white civilization, of the Nordic race? Is it shot at the water line and about to be sunk? We have lived in fear for some time that a great north Chinaman would learn to put on gloves and would go to London, seeking out Joe Beckett, that he would place a Chinese fist upon that famous chin, and that as the horizontal champion assumed his natural pose the referee would count ten upon the hopes of the white race elsewhere than in the United States.

WHERE THE MONEY COMES FROM

Remarking that the number of automobiles manufactured in this country during the first eight months of this year is practically equal to the number made in the whole of 1921, the Cleveland Trust Co. makes an interesting analysis of the purchaser of motor cars. Averaging the character of these purchases from many thousands of transactions it makes a composite picture of them, something like a class photograph, with every member of the class superimposed on the same plate. Here is the Trust company's description of him:

He is a married man, 33 years old.
He has a bank account and carries life insurance.
He buys a $1,400 car and pays $700 down.
He pays the balance at the rate of $100 monthly.
His monthly income is $350.
He owns real estate in which his equity is $5,000.
He has personal property worth about $2,000.
This is not his first car.

Of course every individual purchaser will differ in some important respect from this composite. But the analysis goes far to explain the ability of the country to absorb new cars at the rate of a quarter of a million a month, about one-half of them of makes more expensive than Fords.

What will be the reflection of the conservative man on that showing? It will be that on an income of $4,200 a year not many people could keep an automobile in an expensive city like New York after paying out at least $1,000 for rent without a garage. It follows that the purchasers must be largely in places where the cost of living is much lower, where the gasoline is the principal cost of upkeep and an occasional expenditure for a new tire. Note that the buyer is contracted to pay $100 a month for seven months for a car which is not his first car, after he has already reduced his "equity in real estate" assumed at $5,000 by $700.

One inevitable conclusion is that our people as a whole are living well up to their means, and many of them beyond their means. Of course, the enthusiast may make the car his single hobby and skimp on everything else. He could compile a highly interesting budget and it would not be a little bit like the imaginative efforts of the Department of Labor in the piping times of President Wilson.

One general reflection is forced upon the reader, in spite of great savings bank returns, or the prosperity of other instruments of saving like the life insurance companies, and it is that the extravagance which grew out of the war is in need of further deflation. Perhaps the Cleveland Trust Co., will add to its useful service by making up an annual table of the same kind.—Wall Street Journal.

BARRICADED

Several valuable moments passed before Dupont realized there were no oars in the boat. Once he understood the situation, he straightened abruptly with the idea of grasping the post, thus holding the little craft until Violet could drop from the room above. But by this time the drift had carried him just a little more than an arm's reach away. Stretching his hands overhead, he found he could barely reach the under side of the flooring with the tips of his fingers. While he groped frantically for the beams he was swept farther and farther along by the incoming tide. The square patch of dim light long since had been swallowed up in the fog. When finally he obtained a secure hold upon a sloping timber, which apparently was a brace under the casino itself, he had no idea of direction whatever.

He thought of calling to her, obtaining guidance in that way. He wondered if it would be safe to cry out, if he could depend upon the direction of sound in a heavy fog. While he hesitated there came a crashing slam which reverberated beneath the old structure, echoing and re-echoing. For an instant he crouched, frightened; then he understood. Some one had closed the big trap in the floor. He shuddered, because it meant the possible capture of Violet again. Unless she had left the room she had been caught. She never could have lifted the trap herself.

A sudden, unexpected swell of the rising water caught him unawares and broke his hold, so that he stumbled and nearly fell from the boat. As it bobbed along again on the drift he felt instinctively that he was being carried from beneath the building. He reached out on either side and above, but failed to touch wood or anything solid. Dropping down, plunging his arms in the water to his elbows, he attempted to paddle his way back, but soon found he could make no progress against the current.

Day was breaking rapidly. A fine, diffused light, through the fog, seemed to be coming from all directions, so he could not yet form any idea of his location. The only consoling thought was that, after all, he was drifting away from the Portola, that he had the portrait in his possession.

All at once, with startling abruptness, a boat loomed up out of the mist ahead, pointed directly for his craft. Before he could cry out they struck. He saw, in sort of ghostly outline, the figures of four men in the second little vessel. Instantly a voice rang out.

"Up with your hands I've got you covered. Utter a sound and I shoot."

One of the others leaned forward. He saw Dupont's face as Dupont recognized his.

"Hell" exlaimed this man, "it's Mr. Dupont himself"

They were his detectives: Jake, and Jake's partner, introduced to the Gun Moll as Sam, and Bill and Joe, the two operatives who had hurried out from Mesma's quarters after their failure there to find Violet.

"We were going to raid the private rooms one at a time," explained Jake. "We had to wait because the Strangler was running around like a wild man nearly all night. Then the fog came up to make it easy. We planned to lift a man up at each window."

"Miss Bronson is still in their hands," explained Dupont, eagerly. "It's the third room back. I just left her." He told of drifting away because he had no oars; of hearing the trap slam. "If they've caught her they have hardly had enough time to get her away," he added.

"If you heard the trap slam——' began Jake.

"Sh-h" interrupted one of the other detectives.

Echoing through the fog, sounding clearly over the smooth surface of the bay in the stillness of early morning, was a woman's muffled scream. A moment later there was a splash, a thrashing in the water. Then there came, after perhaps a minute of silence, the regular sound of oars in their locks. A second scream, cut short, was unquestionably from the throat of Violet.

Dupont leaned into the boat with the detectives. "Follow them," he gasped, hoarsely. "They'll lead us to their hang-out."

Jake and Sam bent to the oars willingly After fifteen minutes Bill and Joe took a turn. Dupont relieved Sam and rowed with Jake. At short periods they stopped to listen to the other boat. Always they heard the other oars, yet they grew fainter and less distinct, and whether it was because the fog carried all sound deceptively, or because the abductors of Violet were better oarsmen or possessed the swifter craft, soon the trail was altogether lost. When the fog lifted, as suddenly as it had swept in upon Violet nearly three hours before, Dupont found himself with his men far out in Jamaica Bay, no other vessel abroad or in sight.

ST. SIMONS WON THE GAME WITH CAMPBELLFORD

Baird, Davis and Sparks Starred For the Winners —Story of the Game.

There was plenty of room in the grand stand for the crowd that turned out to see the first of the home and home games between St. Simons and Campbellford Juveniles at the Fair Grounds on Thursday afternoon—but those who came were not disappointed, and witnessed one of the best juvenile games of the season. The first period found the visitors right on the job, but a clever pass from Cowell to Archer slipped by Fletcher and counted one for home team, (7 minutes) after this things began to warm up and Pete Garrison stopped some hard ones. Archer sent one towards the net like a cannon ball but Fletcher saved. Davis got the ball, fooled Garrison and scored for visitors (17 minutes), winding up first quarter, 1-1.

The second quarter started with a rush, Copperthwaite to White to Flint, who made good try, shot high Cochrane rushed passed wide to Copperthwaite, Sparks tallied for visitors, (7 minutes); Kitchen gets five minutes for bumping Flint. Cowell passed to Flint, missed; Copperthwaite passed to A. White, who shot and failed by few inches. Cochrane to Copp, failed to score in front of goal after hard try. McKinnon gets five minutes rest at this stage. Copperthwaite to Cowell to Saunders missed pass in front of goal visitors well up often but blocked on defence leaving second quarter standing 2-1.

Third quarter, Copperthwaite shot, but Fletcher made a clever save. Visitors bombard goal but Garrison was there. Cochrane down, passed to Cowell, who scored easily. Saunders to Archer to Cowell, missed Carroll scored on pass from Davis. A. White passed to Smith who failed to score. Copperthwaite got fence for slashing Davis. Carroll shot on empty goal. S. White saved well. White blocks Carroll. Saunders gets fence. Tough scores for Saints. Garrison has busy time but stops some swift ones. Copperthwaite gets 10 minutes for poke check. Flint misses easy one. Baird scores on fluke. White got up all alone but was out of luck. Carroll nearly did the trick, but Pete had both eyes open. This wound up third period, 5-2.

Fourth Quarter, McKinnon a little rough (5 minutes), Sparks scores a pretty one in (1 minute), Copperthwaite to Flint who as usual shot high. Archer shot but it did not get past Fletcher. Baird rushed in and managed to get by Pete—which meant one more for the visitors. Archer cut in, passed to Smith, checked by Carroll. White and Tough, get time for acrobatic work, Fletcher stopped it. Sparks scored on whirl wind rush. Frog-Sanders bodied Lebar like an old veteran. Copperthwaite wakes up and scores on rush. Fletcher very cleverly blocks a snappy one from Flint. Locals worked like trogans in front of goal but failed to tally. All over, 8-3

This game found the locals just a little shy, and they are sure to improve next time out. There was some real good individual work—but the Saints show training and seem to know exactly where the nets are. They are a fine bunch of b vs and the game was close, clever, fast and comparatively clean. Here is the line-up:—

OVER A HUNDRED MEMBERS OF I.O.D.E. ATTEND CONFERENCE

Fifth Annual Convention Held in Campbellford Yesterday—Interesting Addresses by Outside Speakers —Those Present.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 22. — Over a hundred members of the I.O.D.E. assembled in the Parish Hall yesterday for the fifth annual district rally of the Order. Cannington, Lindsay, Stirling, Belleville, Madoc and Trenton had been invited to participate in this rally, and members were present from Havelock, Hastings, Warkworth, Cottesloe, Madoc, Campbellford and Peterborough. Mrs. E. H. Doolittle, of Toronto, president of the National Council, Mrs. H. F. Burkholder, of Hamilton, president of the Provincial Council, and Mrs. A. F. Rutter, of Toronto, a members of the National Executive, were among the speakers. The occasion being the anniversary of Mrs. Burkholder's birthday, she was presented with a bouquet of white roses from the Campbellford Chapter, little Eileen Linton making the presentation.

The Parish Hall, with the sunshine pouring in from outside, the stage brightly draped with large flags, and bowls of asters and cosmos decorating the tables and piano, was filled with an enthusiastic crowd of women, who took special interest in the proceedings. The district rally this year was marked by an atmosphere of bright cheerfulness, which carried the routine business in the afternoon through with a pleasant swing. The Regent of the Senior Campbellford Chapter, Mrs. J. P Archer, presided, with Mrs. Andrew Haig acting as secretary. Mrs. R. E. Birdsall, of Birdsall, a member of the Provincial Executive for the district, the originator of the idea of district rallies, also occupied a seat on the platform with Mrs. Doolittle and Mrs. Burkholder.

Welcome to the visitors was extended by Mrs. Archer and Mrs. Haig. The first item of business was the naming of a district secretary, which resulted in the re-election of Mrs. Lennox McLaren, of Peterborough (nee Georgie Stevenson), who was appointed to this office at last year's district rally, held in Peterborough.

The Reports.

Reports showing progress along the line of I.O.D.E. activities were presented by various delegates, Mrs. Walter Fowlds reported for the Senior Hastings Chapter; Miss Marie Lambert for the Junior, or "Doronal" Hastings Chapter; Mrs. (Dr.) Armstrong for Warkworth Chapter; Mrs. R. E. Birdsall and Mrs. Geo. Clements for the Everett Birdsall Chapter; Mrs. W. Vance for the Harry Lauder Chapter in Havelock; Mrs. E. J. Aylesworth for Madoc; Mrs. A. Haig for Campbellford; Mrs. R. E. Birdsall for the 40th Northumberland Chapter in Norwood; and excellent reports of the three Peterborough Senior Chapters were given by Mrs. Joseph Mills for the 57th Regimental, Mrs. J. H. Seels for the Otonabee, and Mrs. J. A. McNabb for the Peter Robinson Chapters.

Hearty applause greeted the report of the last-named Chapter, with its long list of donations to various worthy causes, and its recital of monies collected by the various energetic members.

At the conclusion of the reports, Mrs. A. F. Rutter, of Toronto, spoke from the floor, making a strong appeal for concerted effort and unity of purpose in the work of the various district chapters, saying: "Our work is not completed by any means. We have still with us the aftermath of the war, and it is up to us to look after those men and their families who gave their to-day for our to-morrow."

Mrs. H. F. Burkholder complimented the district on its "wonderful reports," spoke of the desire of the Provincial office to be of service to the members in every way, and referred to the low state of finances in the Provincial Council. Support was asked for a chapter about to be organized in Northern Ontario, about fifty miles from Port Arthur, to be called the "Soo Lookout Chapter," and also for the National War Memorial, which is expected to be completed by the end of 1923.

Mrs. E. H. Doolittle asked for support and co-operation in the work of the National Council also, and referred to the message sent to the Premier, offering the backing of the I.O.D.E. members in the event of war. This message was referred to several times by members of the assembly, all agreeing in the sentiments expressed therein.

Mrs. Doolittle also spoke of the low subscription list to the "Echoes," the official organ of the Order, and hinted that publication might cease if subscriptions were not increased.

A resolution of sympathy was passed to Mrs. J. A. Stewart of Perth, an absent member, at one time a member of the national executive, and organizing secretary of the Order, whose husband is dangerously ill in a Montreal hospital.

A Presentation.

Mrs. Archer spoke with regret of the departure of Mrs. W. E. Carnahan of Campbellford, from the chapter. Mrs. Carnahan is removing shortly to Toronto to reside, and was presented by the Campbellford chapter with a flag. Mrs. Doolittle extended a cordial invitation from Toronto chapters to Mrs. Carnahan to become a member in that city, which was suitably responded to.

Inquiries in the Question Box were answered by Mrs. Doolittle and Mrs. Burkholder. Inquiry to to the best means for securing subscriptions to the "Echoes" brought out numerous suggestions, including it in the chapter fee, having teas to secure funds for extra subscriptions, and arousing interest in the reports of the publication.

Mrs. Burkholder approved of the inclusion of outside speakers in a programme, and also suggested that members in rural districts might augment their funds by making quilts and rugs, which could be sold at high prices in the cities. Between $25 and $30 was the speaker's estimate on a quilt, but one member reported getting the sum of $1.25 for such an undertaking, while still another offered to do it for $1.

Mrs. Doolittle explained the system under which the bursaries given by the Order were obtained. Each province might compete, but several of the provinces had sent in no names for the list, so the honors were necessarily divided among the provinces that complied with the regulations in this regard. A certain age limit also limited Ontario's quota to one, while British Columbia and Saskatchewan had more than this number of successful entrants. High school students are eligible for competition.

Announcement was also made of the suggestion to be brought up at the Kingston meeting on October 12 and 13, with regard to changing the regular order of holding two special meetings in January and October and an annual meeting in April; to a routine which would hold one special meeting only, along with the annual meeting. This system might have some effect on the date of holding the district rallies.

A committee was appointed to discuss and decide upon the place of meeting for the rally next year, composed of Mrs. R. E. Birdsall, of Birdsall; Mrs. Walter Fowlds, of Hastings; Mrs. W. A. Sanderson, of Peterborough, and Mrs. Wm. Ashton, of Campbellford, the meeting to be probably held in Port Hope.

Mrs. Birdsall spoke a few well-chosen words of congratulation and encouragement to the district and its members; a pleasing vocal solo was rendered by Miss Hazel Atkinson, of Campbellford, with Mrs. Claude Harris at the piano, and the meeting adjourned for tea in the basement, a sumptuous affair, provided by the hospitable ladies of the Campbellford Chapter, at tables prettily decked with flowers.

The Evening Session.

At the evening session of the I.O.D.E. district rally held in Parish Hall last evening, there was a large attendance, with Mrs. J. P. Archer, Regent of the Campbellford Chapter in the chair. The meeting was opened by the National Anthem. Mrs. Doolittle, Toronto, National President of the I.O.D.E., gave a very helpful and instructive address, outlining the work of the year by references to the minutes and paid special emphasis to "war memorials," for which the objective is $500,000, of which amount $334,407 has been raised, leaving a balance of $165,092 still to collect, and urged all the chapters to strive toward the raising of the amount, as no big undertaking could be commenced by the I.O.D.E. until the "war memorial" is finished. Reference was made to the nine bursaries and overseas scholarships one from each province, one woman and eight men now reaping the benefits of a course at Cambridge or Oxford. The speaker also urged the chapters to support the work in India.

Child welfare, asserted the speaker, is one side of the work which should appeal most strongly to the chapters, as children are the nation's greatest asset and it is an appalling fact that the children of the rural communities are less healthy than the children of towns and cities. A very conservative estimate, declared Mrs. Doolittle, gave the mentally defective in Canada as 150,000. These, through training, can become self-supporting, intelligent members of society .Co-operation with the local Children's Aid Societies was urged. In some places the I.O.D.E. provides milk for school children so that under nourished children may become nourished. The inculcation of the principles of obedience, honesty and truthfulness should be the training of all future citizens, as 75 per cent. of the population of Canada are children. The need of immigration of good British citizens, not flooding the country with foreigners, was necessary. The speaker concluded with the thought of unity, by all standing together and working for the same cause.

Miss Hazel Atkinson then rendered the solo, "Down the Vale," very sweetly, and was heartily applauded.

Mrs. Burkholder, Provincial President, urged the necessity of finishing up the 'war memorial' that new work might be undertaken and gave a very comprehensive account of the general convention of the National Chapters of the I.O.D.E. held in Vancouver in May, reading Miss Lang's report of that conference. Mrs. Burkholder asserted that the primary chapters were the backbone of the order, and begged loyal support from the primary chapters to the National.

Mrs. (Dr.) Free, in her usual captivating voice, rendered the solo, "The Home That is Calling For Me." Huge bouquets were then presented to Mrs. Burkholder by little Miss Joyce Harris ,to Mrs. Doolittle by little Miss Wilhelmine Allan, to Mrs. Birdsall by little Miss Jacqueline McEachern, and to Mrs. Rutter, which was accepted by Mrs. J. P. Archer by little Miss Lois Meyers.

Miss Emma Meiklejohn sang very charmingly "Good-bye," meriting much applause.

Mrs. C. H. Harris and Miss Hawley kindly acted as accompanists for the evening.

Mrs. J .P. Archer, on behalf of those present, extended a hearty vote of thanks to the speakers, Mrs. Doolittle and Mrs. Burkholder, for their helpful addresses and suggestions, also to the ladies to whose assistance was due the success of the supper.

It was decided to leave the arrangement of the place of holding the next annual rally in the hands of the district secretary. It was unanimously decided to have, at next convention, morning and afternoon sessions, instead of afternoon and evening sessions.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Public Now Prefers Vegetable Laxative

Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin affords prompt relief in a natural way

THE public is constantly becoming more discriminating in its choice of things. Those subject to constipation try to learn what makes them constipated, and then avoid it. If constipation persists in spite of all their efforts they take the mildest, most easily tolerated laxative obtainable, and not a drastic physic that upsets them for days afterwards. As over 10 million bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin are sold a year, a large proportion of the people must believe that this mild vegetable compound is the proper remedy for them, and so it is. No need to take salt waters and powders that dry up the blood; coal-tar drugs in candy form that produces skin eruptions, or calomel that salivates. These drugs are "heroic measures", over-effective, weakening and griping.

The best constipation remedy is the one that moves the bowels without shock to your system, and such a one is Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin. It is a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics, and has been satisfactorily sold for 30 years. Unlike the harsher physics it does not produce a habit, and increased doses are not required; in fact, it so trains the stomach muscles that in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with.

Many take a teaspoonful of Syrup Pepsin once a week as a health safeguard. Others use it only when required, as, for example, Mrs. Jack Turtle of Cherry Valley, Ont., who finds it equally valuable for herself and the children, and Mr. H. S. McLaren of Montreal, Que., who uses it regularly. Try Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin in constipation, biliousness, piles, headaches, sallow complexion, and to break up fevers and colds. A generous-size bottle can be had at any drug store, and it costs less than a cent a dose!

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try my Laxative Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 23 Caldwell Building, Toronto, Ont. Do it now!

24th Birthday Bargain Festival

To Celebrate Our 24th Year in Business — Saturday, Sept. 23rd, to Saturday, Oct. 7th

TWENTY-FOUR YEARS AGO The Cressman Co. Ltd. was established in Peterborough. Then it was just one narrow, single store. To-day it is like a tree with many branches, there being no less than twenty-six departments—all thriving and showing signs of healthy growth. Although the original store was but a miniature of the present building, the principles governing the business were the same. Its aim was, and is, to render to the public good service and honest merchandise at fair prices. The people of Peterborough and the surrounding district have liberally given their patronage. We have done our utmost to prove worthy of this confidence and consider it fitting on this 24th Birthday Anniversary that we celebrate the occasion and show our appreciation by holding THE GREATEST VALUE-GIVING EVENT THAT PETERBOROUGH HAS EVER KNOWN!

OTONABEE WOMAN THROWN FROM RIG

Mrs. Wm. Chambers Escapes With Minor Bruises in Accident.

When a motor car, driven by Wm. Moran, of Trenton, Ont., collided with a single-horse buggy driven by Joshua Chambers, of Otonabee, Mrs. Chambers was thrown out of the horse vehicle to the hard pavement.

Taken into Bond's drug store, it was ascertained that she had fortunately escaped with a few bruises and a shaking up, and was able to proceed home.

The accident occurred at the corner of George and Hunter Streets, south-west side, on Thursday evening shortly before five o'clock, when Chambers emerged from Chambers Street, purposing to turn south down George Street.

Moran, driving across George from Hunter Street East at a quiet pace, in turning out to avoid a car intervening between him and Chambers' rig, struck the latter, both conveyances coming in contact obliquely.

The impact occurred practically in the centre of the road on Hunter Street as Chambers was making his turn, and the police attach no more blame to one party than the other.

All the damage sustained by Chambers' rig was its left front wheel demolished, excepting the tire, while Moran's car escaped injury.

PRESENTATION TO MRS. W. CARNAHAN OF CAMPBELLFORD

An Active Member of the W.M.S., She Is Leaving to Reside in Toronto.

PROPERTY TRANSFERS

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 22.—On Tuesday evening, over fifty members of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary of the Methodist church, and friends assembled at the home of the president, Mrs. G. A. Kingston, to spend a social evening and bid farewell to Mrs. W. E. Carnahan who leaves soon to take up her residence in Toronto. Mrs. Carnahan has for many years been a faithful and active member of the W.M.S. having held the office of president and other posts in the executive with much credit to herself and the auxiliary. And it was with much regret the members of the W.M.S. learned of her intention to remove to Toronto.

The meeting was opened by a hymn and prayer by Rev. J. E. Glover, followed by a few fitting remarks by the president, Mrs. Kingston. A very pleasing programme was then rendered which included two piano solos by Mr. George Lucy, a missionary reading "Mite-Box" by Mrs. William Bland, vocal solos by Mrs. C. W. Turner and Mrs. Edward Bates.

The president then after a few fitting remarks presented Mrs. Carnahan with a Life Membership Pin in the W.M.S. Mrs. Carnahan although taken by surprise, responded in a most fitting manner. Dainty refreshments were then served, after which the evening was most pleasantly spent in social intercourse.

Anniversary Services.

The anniversary services held at Rylestone on Sunday, September 17, were a grand succes from every standpoint. At both services the church was crowded to its capacity and two able addresses were delivered by Rev. C. C. Salisbury of Cardinal, Ontario, a former pastor. The choir rendered most inspiring music and the contributions were most gratifying to the executive and pastor Rev. J. J. Black.

Leaving For Chicago.

Rev. J. J. Black pastor of St. Andrews church of Burnbrae, has kindly consented to preach in the Methodist church, Campbellford on Sunday evening. Mr. Black who has many friends here, leaves next week for the Chicago University, where he will take a post-graduate course in Divinity.

Passed Away in Nicholls Hospital at 5:45 Last Evening.

The unfortunate woman, Mrs. Nathan Fine, who had every stitch of clothing burned from off her body between twelve and one o'clock Thursday noon, died in Nicholls Hospital at 5.45 the same evening. Terribly burned, and suffering intensely, despite the best of medical attention and sympathetic care by nurses in Nicholls Hospital all efforts to save here life were of no avail.

Mrs. Fine lived with her husband and one small child in apartments over Lonergan's tobacco store, Charlotte, where her clothes caught fire from a combination cooking and heating stove; she was a Jewess and could speak scarcely a word, if any English.

ANKLES GO, EARS ARE HERE, JAZZ NO MORE, SAYS IRENE

The Vampire Gown is Going Out--Irene Castle Returns from a Two Months Sojourn in Pasis

THE DANCE STEPS

DETROIT, Sept. 22.—Time has at last come for the flapper to lay her ear pads away in moth balls, and let down her flapperish skirts. The era of the ear has arrived, and the conspicuous ankle is out-of-date.

Ears are coming out and ankles are going in—this winter. Irene Castle says so. After a two-months sojourn in Paris, where she studied coiffure style and selected her wardrobe for the winter's concert tour, this is her verdict.

Short skirts, pads of snarled hair over the ears, and "obnoxious jazz" in both music and dress were declared passe by Miss Castle, Wednesday. In her suits at the Hotel Statler, where she was detained after missing her train Miss Castle Wednesday, discussed the decrees of Paris on coming and prevailing dress modes.

Forgot her Pearls

"I forgot my pearls and my fur, and left them in my rooms here, Tuesday," Miss Castle explained. "We had to come back for them, so we missed the train I intended taking back to New York. That is why we are stopping over another day."

But the added day in the city was not one of rest for the famous dancer. The telephone rang constantly, there were appointments to keep with local theatrical managers, and the ball room floor, on which she will appear this winter, to inspect. Nevertheless, between breaths as she sipped a glass of milk, nibbled a chicken sandwich, gave directions to her secretary and talked over the telephone, Miss Castle found time to talk on things feminine on which she is considered authority.

"A skirt to be smart this winter should touch the ground, or very nearly so," Miss Castle declared. "The short skirt is no longer seen on the streets of Paris, and it will not be fashionable anywhere, I am glad to say. Short skirts, especially those that come just below the knee, are so ungainly. The idea that they make women look younger than they are is a fallacy.

An Undignified Length

"When a woman tries to conceal her age by wearing a skirt of an undignified length she only accentuates it. Clothes are not the means of adding or subtracting years to or from a woman's appearance. As soon as she learns this and dresses according to her type and not to her age she will look to better advantage. I have never seen any girl or woman who succeeded in concealing her age by clothes. We all look as old as we are.

"At any rate, we must get over the idea that the long skirt makes one appear older than she is. It really doesn't, and besides it is to be fashionable this fall and winter.

"Can you picture anything more ungainly than the frock with a long waist and a short skirt?" continued Miss Castle. "It is absolutely out of proportion and no longer smart.

"The dancing frocks I ordered in Paris this summer either touch or just miss the ground. Some of them are made with points in the hems and the points all touch. As for tailor made and street suits, the skirts will be shorter, but still below the ankle. This will be true particularly of the American women's dress. The Parisian woman wears an afternoon frock on the street rather than a tailored suit, which is a trifle longer than the street suit of the American professional woman.

Exit Vampish Gown

The vampish black gown is not as smart this year as last, according to Miss Castle.

"Black is on the wane this fall," she declared, "and varied shades of brown are taking its place. The fashionable evening gown this winter will either be lemon yellow or lavender as to tone; both are good and better than black this season."

And hair? Irene's own curled bewitchingly in spite of damp weather.

"The ears will show," Miss Castle emphatically declared. "Wide puffs and ear pads are all out. While many of the Parisian women are wearing their hair pulled straight and tight off the face and ears, such a coiffure is trying and too extreme for most women. It is for me, I know.

"The girl with the long hair to be fashionable this fall will draw it back loosely from the face with the lower half of the ear—at least that much, more if she wishes—showing. Then she will gather it into a loose coil or figure eight near the nape of her neck.

MAGNESIA FINE FOR ACID STOMACH

Quickly Neutralizes Acidity. Stops Fermentation, Sweetens the Stomach

Nine people in ten, when food upsets the stomach causing distress, think they have indigestion. In really, they are suffering from "acid stomach." An excess of acid in the stomach causes gas, heartburn, bloating and sourness.

To have a strong healthy stomach capable of easily and normally digesting three hearty meals a day you simply must keep these stomach acids neutralized and the stomach contents sweet. No artificial digestents necessary. Just ge a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any good drug store and take a teaspoonful of the powder or two tablets in a half glass of water right after eating or whenever the slightest pain is felt. The result is amazing and you will be delighted with the almost instant relief it brings. This famous stomach sweetner combines Magnesia and Bismuth in desirable proportion and is not only splendidly effective but perfectly harmless. Its regular use keeps the stomach sweet strong and healthy all the time.

Bisurated Magnesia is well known to druggists everywhere and is used annually by more than a half million people who now eat as they please, in reason with no fear of indigestion.

How John Parvin's Mortgage Was Paid.

JOHN PARVIN was a farmer living near Port Hope, Ont. He bought a farm for $6,000, of which amount he paid $2,000 cash and signed a mortgage for the remaining $4,000.

But the thought of this $4,000 overhanging his home made him uneasy. He feared the loss of the farm to his wife in case of his death.

One day he went to Port Hope. Here he met a North American Life representative and confided to him his doubts and fears. He was advised to take out a policy for $4,000 to cover his estate, which he did.

The second winter after this he was taking grain to town. The day was bitterly cold and he caught a chill. Pneumonia resulted. Inside of a week John Parvin had passed away.

His North American Life policy lifted the mortgage off that farm.

We have a booklet entitled "About That Mortgage," which gives full information on how to cover mortgaged property. Send for it to-day.

Amputation Association Convention in Vancouver

VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 22. — (Canadian Press.)—Mayor C. E. Tisdall handed over the keys of the city yesterday, to one of the most distinguished groups of Canadian citizens that have ever visited Vancouver—the twenty odd delegates from all over the Dominion who have come to attend the second annual convention of the Amputations Association of the Great War.

They represent more than two thousands veterans in Canada, each of whom has lost one or more limbs, all front line men as the President mentions in his address.

The President, Captain S. E. Lambert, who as a private in the fiftieth Battalion, lost both legs in Belgium in 1916 and is now Chaplain of the Department of the Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment in Toronto, in the course of his reply to the Mayor presented a ringing challenge to the citizens of Canada to give the Amputation men a fair chance.

"Many of our men were out of employment last winter," he said, "and they need the personal, vital assistance of Vancouver and the cities and towns of Canada in order that they do not become soured, and in order that they may be given an opportunity to reconstruct their lives and give more valiant service in the days that are to come. We are banded together because of our common sacrifice, a sacrifice we made gladly. We represent hundreds of men who are maimed and bruised and broken but we still maintain the spirit of lofty patriotism that linked up British Columbia with the maritime provinces during the days of the war. That spirit shall live.

Who Pays For Advertising?

THIS is a direct and reasonable question; and in the case of Daily Newspaper advertising, inelligently used, the answer is simple: Nobody. It pays its own way.

Nobody pays for the new carburetor that gives added mileage to your motor car. It pays for itself in the gasoline it saves.

Nobody pays for an improved cash system in a modern department store. It pays for itself in economy of human time.

Nobody pays for well planned and written Daily Newspaper advertising. It pays for itself by reducing the cost of sales and by increasing production. And it often receipts old bills for follies with advertising labels.

The advertisement in your own local Daily Newspaper tells you the best things to buy and where to buy them. Every new purchase helps the whole community to command cheaper and better goods.

Issued by the Canadian Daily Newspapers' Association, Toronto.

FALL STYLES.

The newest material for fine lingerie is crepe-back satin, which is soft and beautiful, as well as durable. Pussy willow silk, sheer chiffon voile and crepe de chine are the other favorite materials. During the summer all manner of cotton novelty materials were in vogue, but most fall models are shown in silk except imported hand-made or embroidered garments.

Deeper colors are expected to be favored. Coral, deep orchid, golden maize follow flesh color in popularity.

Tailored styles with little trimming are preferred. The trimming is often of two-toned ribbon twisted into flowers or bows; lace is used sparingly, and applique designs of the material of the garment are very well liked.

EVERY MAN HAS HIS OWN IDEALS OF GOOD DRESS

The Chief Designer Has a Wonderful Variety of Suit Styles

"I tried to figure up how many men I could fit from our stock suits made on the physique type designs," said the Chief Designer of Semi-ready clothes.

"We have 500 different patterns in suitings alone, which we can multiply by 30 different suit styles, making 15,000 to begin with.

"We make clothes in 7 distinct physique types, with 15 different sizes in each type. So we multiply 15,000 by 105, and have $1,575,000.

"Add to this our overcoatings, our pants and breeches, patterns, our fancy vestings and golf suitings, and we have another million to add to that million and a half.

"So that it would be impossible for any one store to carry one of each size, style and pattern of Semi-ready tailored garments.

"That is one reason why we so carefully organized our Special Order Tailoring Department, where an army of tailors work on custom-made garments ordered from the hundreds of Semi-ready stores in Canada.

"It was a happy thought—for a man can go into a Semi-ready shop and find his own ideas of good dress without any risk—for, the suit must fit him as well as though it were chosen ready to try on.

"We devised an order form which gives to each cutter on our staff an exact physical picture of each customer.

"It is as though the cutter had himself taken the measurements when he lays the web of cloth on his table.

"A four-day schedule—adhered to more carefully than railway and mail service — assures prompt and certain delivery on the day promised.

"To Vancouver or Victoria a custom-made Semi-ready suit arrives on the 14th day; whilst to Halifax, St. John and Sydney the time occupied is only ten days.

"Nearby cities like Quebec and Ottawa— Kingston and Peterboro—can deliver special order suits before breakfast on the morning of the fifth day.

"In London, Galt, Kitchener, Brantford and Woodstock the man who orders a suit made to special measure can have it in good time for an afternoon stroll.

"Fort William and Port Arthur are but a day and a half away, and the Semi-ready stores there deliver special suits within the week.

"In Winnipeg and the West one just adds four days to the quickest possible round trip of a letter and an express parcel.

Stock's Men's Shop show all the new styles and patterns in Semi-ready suits and top coats, with splendid values at $25 and up. "Semi-ready special order suits, as do all others, carry the Semi-ready label in the pockets."

AN INSIDE BATH MAKES YOU LOOK AND FEEL FRESH

Says a glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast keeps illness away.

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, declaring this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do.

Men and women are urged to drink each morning, before breakfast a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash from the stomach, liver kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the alimentary canal before eating more food.

Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, nasty taste or have a dull aching head, sallow complexion, acid stomach; others have bilious attacks or, constipation, should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will c very little but is sufficient to show the value of inside bathing.

LARGE SUPPLIES COAL AVAILABLE IN OLD COUNTRY.

Correspondent Declares It Is Eminently Suitable For Domestic or Industrial Purposes in Canada

There has been so much written lately about 'Welsh Coal' that it does not seem to be realized this is but one small part of the British coal output. The two terms "Anthracite" and "Welsh Coal" may cause an unnecessay amount of suffering in Ontario this winter.

The term "Anthracite" is so commonly used to denote a hard domestic coal, that people have begun to believe it is the only coal any good, except for industrial purposes.

The term "Welsh Coal" has been so used lately that people in Canada think it is the only good coal in Great Britain.

The writer has just made a visit to Great Britain for the special purpose of obtaining all available up-to-date information on the coal question, with a view to arranging for the importation of large quantities of British coal in Ontario this winter, and permanently. Friends over there who have been in the coal exporting business for more than fifty years, are the largest firms in England and Scotland respectively and it has been my privilege to obtain the best practical and scientific advise available. The result of this investigation is as follows:

(1) The Americans have bought most of what is known over there as "Anthracite," which is the output of a number of Welsh colleries, many of which are merely holes in the ground.

(2) Those who have been purchasing for Canada, do not know what Britain produces, and the shippers do not know what this market needs, with the result that the coal that has has been brought into Canada this year from Great Britain, has been the most unsuitable of all their products for domestic use in Ontario.

(3) These blunders are being used to the utmost by all those interested in keeping the coal trade in its old channels, and seeing that nothing but Pennsylvania coal comes in here, whether the people suffer or not. Since my return I have been told by a very large purchasing agent that "Welsh Admiralty," (a smokeless coal) was too smoky to use in Canadian furnaces, while another told me there was no coal except Welsh anthracite equal to Pennsylvania coal, and a third said there was no anthracite over there.

A careful comparison of our needs and British coal products, discloses the fact that there are at present in England and Scotland as well as in Wales, large supplies of coal available, which are eminently suitable for both domestic and industrial purposes in Canada, and which taken either on a chemical analysis or the practical results of heating and steaming ,are superior to Pennsylvania anthracite.

This superiority consists in their containing a greater heating capacity per pound, in being less liable to clinker, in giving off a smaller percentage of ash, and being less liable to destroy the furnaces in which they are used.

The products of many of these colleries are available in the usual nut, egg and stove sizes and larger, and many are not only screened but water-washed, thus removing all the original mine dust, leaving the customer only the dust created in transit.

Taking the standard of the British thermal unit, which is also the measure of quality in the United States ,or the "calorie" which is the continental European measure of quality, we are prepared to substantiate the statements now made, that English, Scotch and Welsh colleries are all producing what they call hard coal, which is not called "Anthracite," but which ,by any test that can be applied, will be found superior to anything produced on this side of the Atlantic.

As we are having practically all the exportable surplus of these mines offered us, and have plenty of shipping available, the only limits on the amount of really good, clean, hard coal obtainable for Ontario are:

(a) The amount she is prepared to put up the cash to purchase.

(b) The amount of wharfage space and cars that can be obtained on arrival of cargoes on this side.

Municipalities, dealers, gas companies, and private persons, can be supplied with no less than 30-ton car lots anywhere in Ontario. The price is strictly governed by the prevailing market price and freight rates, and present prices for local stations would range from sixteen to twenty dollars per ton for washed and screened hard coal, St. Lawrence shipments ,and about four dollars per ton extra for shipments via Halifax, St. John, and Portland, Ore.

Your Home

Have you placed the "guardian angel" of life insurance over your home?

A home protected by life insurance—covering the mortgage and the necessities of life — is one of the happiest places possible. There is no dread of the future; no fear of losing the home through forced sale should death occur to the bread-winner; nor is there any likelihood of the mother having to supplement a meagre income by working, nor of the children having to forego the advantages of an education.

The guardian angel of life insurance simply takes your place and "carries on." With a mighty three billions of dollars she is standing watch over thousands of Canadian homes, where the parents and children all live in the happiness that comes through the knowledge of adequate protection.

Life Insurance representatives are the great ambassadors to your home. They will be pleased to show you how simply and easily you can throw the "mantle of protection" around it.

NOTHING CAN EVER TAKE THE PLACE OF YOUR HOME. IT IS A WORLD IN ITSELF ABOUT WHICH EVERYTHING REVOLVES.

CAR PLUNGES INTO LAKE THREE CHILDREN DROWN

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., Sept. 22. —(Canadian Press).—Mrs. Matthew Smith, of Paterson, N.J., left her three children, aged 2, 5 and 7, in her automobile parked on the road beside Stizzing Lake, 25 miles east of here, yesterday, while she entered the post office near by. MARRIAGE A LA MODE

There is an old custom in England which requires the father of the bride to give a gift of grain and rice to his daughter, which she in turn presents to her husband after marriage.

This a symbolic plea to Providence to bless the marriage with material as well as spiritual joys.

WRECKS.

Ships lost at sea in 1921 totaled 155 steamships and motor vessels and 83 sailing craft. So reports Lloyd's insurance firm of London.

WALL STREET DISTURBED BY DEFIANCE OF TURKS

BY STUART P. WEST.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(Special to the Examiner)—Word of the Turkish advance into a neutral zone reached Wall Stree midway in the forenoon. It made the Turkish crisis apear more acute than at any time so far and immediately establishes it as the foremost influence in the markets.

The rise in wheat options was suddenly resumed, the Foreign Exchanges were carried downward again and heavy selling continued on the stock exchange.

It was difficult from the brief cable reports to get an exact idea of just how serious the latest development was. On the face of things it seemed to be a direct defiance of the British and to bring the prospect of a collision very definitely into view.

The day began with further selling of the same sort that had carried the market down on Thursday. Better resistance, however, was shown so that by the end of the first half hour prices turned upward again. It had begun to look as if the reaction was checked when the Turkish news came out. This immediately started the unloading of speculative holdings all through the list.

Heavy selling in stocks in which Europe is interested was affected. It was largely because of the selling orders from abroad that the railway shares were quite as weak as the average industrial group.

The bulk of the day's call loans were arranged at 5 percent there was no pretense that the somewhat calmer conditions of the last few days in both call and time money had any real bearing upon the decline in the security market. The latest Federal Reserve statement did however, show the influence of the crop moving demands more than any weekly statements so far.

Increase of over $52,000,000 in discounted and purchased bills indicated that the American banks were resorting to the rediscount privilege to a greater extent than they have at any time this season. But the actual total of such rediscounts is still quite small. There is not the slightest suggestion of any important tightening of the money market, much less of any strain.

MARKET RUFFLED AT NOON

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Heavey selling of stocks again broke out afternoon on Constantinople advices Turkish forces had seized the town of Ezine on Asiatic side of Dardanelles and were threatening Kum Kalesbi an important key position on Southern side of straits.

BRITAIN REFUSES TO WITHDRAW TROOPS

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Chicago, Peoples Gas declared regular quarterly dividend of 1 1-4 per cent. payable October 17 stock record Oct. 3rd.

Federal reserve system ratio 78.3 per cent. unchanged for two successive weeks.

N.Y. Federal reserve bank ratio advanced from 83.7 to 84.4.

Jones Bros. tea declared dividend of one dollar on common stock first distribution since January 1921, when fifty cents was declared.

Britain refuses French request to withdraw troops from Asiatic Turkey. Reported in Constantinople the Turks are drafting an ultimatum to Allies demanding evacuation of Thrace.

Ford plants re-opened again.

New bonus measure introduced in senate by Bursum of New Mexico providing for refund to war veterans for amount deducted from their pay for insurance and allotments to dependents.

President informs senate leaders that he will re-nominate W. P. G. Harding governor of federal reserve board.

French to issue big internal loan Oct. 20 in form of six per cent. treasury notes.

Average price of 20 rails 91.36, off 1.34.

WHEAT UP SLIGHTLY.

NEW YORK, Sept 22.—Chicago wheat up 2 1-4 cents on general buying due to European political news advance of 11-2 to 2 1-2 at Liverpool and upturn of over 3 cents at Winnipeg, receipts large, export demand quiet.

Corn up 7-8. Oats up 1 cent.

HEAVY SELLING.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. — Heavy selling in first hour produced new lows on reaction in most of active stocks. Most of liquidation seemed to represent throwing over board of stocks held by commission house traders who were unwilling or unable to put up more margin. After these offerings had been absorbed whole market showed better tone.

Standard Oil of N. J. and Gulf States Seel, two issues which had stood out in previous days weakness displayed considerable strength. Standard of N. J. reached new high on move at 196 1-4 and Gulf States Steel at 85 7-8.

Don't Be Fooled --

"FOOL me once," says the proverb, "and it's shame on you. Fool me twice and it's shame on me."

Don't be fooled when it comes to spending your money. Patronize the merchants who have a reputation for fair dealing and honesty. Such motives must actuate the consistent advertiser. The man who invests real money in building a reputation for himself and his merchandise cannot afford to risk any of it by taking unfair advantage of his patrons.

The consistent advertiser pays money to tell you about his goods. He knows they are good--he backs them with his money because he believes they will satisfy. Only merchandise which is consistently good can be consistently advertised.

So advertising protects you against fraud and inferiority. It tells you what is new and good, making you a wise buyer. It saves you money by pointing out for your consideration only the best products and the best places to buy them.

Thrifty men and women read the advertisements. To them it is a plain every-day business proposition--a duty they owe to themselves and to their pocketbooks. Don't be fooled.

Don't spend your money blindly. Read the advertisements.

BABY CHARMER MUST GROW UP QUICK TO BE A SUCCESS THIS WINTER

BY MARIAN HALE.

The truth isn't always pleasant, but it is well to know the worst.

There has been a radical shake-up in vamping circles and the baby vamp has lost out!

Our fall and winter siren will be a slinky, slender, soaring sister, such as wrecked homes several seasons before the reign of the flapper.

The baby vamp had her chance but she muffed it. She didn't last Men fell for her, but not for long. She was hard on their bank accounts, but not on their hearts.

In other words, the fluffy darling could jazz all right herself, but she couldn't make a man's heart syncopate to anything like the fantastic measures of the old Theda Bara model. And she couldn't sustain the tempo.

* * * * *

So, she's out. If you don't believe this is the day of the tall girl just look at the styles. They're all made for her—draperies, long skirts, big hats and all

The only thing left for the short girl is to put a few extra lifts on her heels, buy a comb a foot high, pin up her bobbed hair, use every inch of her spine, and create such illusions of the Woolworth building as she can.

Anothe cause contributing to the downfall of the baby vamp is said to have been her blondness. The past tense is used advisedly. Beauty specialists have decided that it takes the dark lady to hold the attention of men.

Blond hair, pink and white skins and baby stares are forgotten when a man looks into midnight eyes. Hence men voted for the fade out of the blond.

So far no beauty doctor has advocated any measure for changing blue eyes to black, but wonderful effects are achieved by darkening the eyelashes and hand-painting shadows beneath light orbs.

And the way they can transform gold tresses to ebony is nothing short of breath-taking. You'll be surprised how you won't know your best friend this winter if the supply of black hair dye holds out.

* * * * *

Getting the olive skin that goes with the dark coloring is too easy for words. The shops are full of orange and brown face powders that are applied over a fountain of cold cream. The real color is buried far below.

After all, in no way does woman demonstrate her versatility so conclusively as in the way she is able to change, not only in her mind, but her personality, figure, type and even her husband to meet the demands of the changing seasons.

The baby vamp can grow up if necessary—and she will. Her mind has always been mature.

If winter comes and finds you a blond flapper you have only yourself to blame.

LINGERIE.

Black embroidery is seen on some of the newest lingerie. It is particularly effective on apricot or blue. A nightgown of Nile green satin is given distinction by its trimmings of yellow satin roses.

RABBIT FUR.

Rabbit fur is being used most effectively on frocks and coats and gives that very soft, fluffy effect that is so desirable this year. It is beautiful with velvet, and may be dyed the most fascinating shades.

CHANGEABLE VELVET.

An American importer is promising some very stunning fall hats of changeable velvet, a newcomer in the sartorial world. He also confirms the report that the leading hats for winter will be large, to be correctly proportioned for the longer skirts.

SUCH PAINS AS THIS WOMAN HAD

Two Months could not turn in Bed Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Finally Restored Health

Seattle, Washington.—"I had dragging pains first and could not stand on my feet, then I had chills and fever and such pains in my right side and a hard lump there. I could not turn myself in bed and could not sleep. I was this way for over two months, trying everything any one told me, until my sister brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it regularly until all the hard pains had left me and I was able to be up and to do my work again. The hard lump left my side and I feel splendid in all ways. I know of many women it has helped."—Mrs. G. RICHARDSON, 4640 Orcas St., Seattle, Wash.

This is another case where Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought results after "trying everything any one told me" had failed.

If you are suffering from pain, nervousness and are always tired; if you are low spirited and good for nothing, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

KEMALISTS DO NOT WANT TO FIGHT THE BRITISH

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 22. — (Canadian Press.)—Hamid Bey visited General Harington, commander of the Allied forces, yesterday, and explained what the Kemalists were seeking was the right to cross the Dardanelles, a privilege already accorded the Greeks.

General Harrington replied that the Turkish advance on the Straits meant a declaration of war against Britain. Hamid Bey said the Kemalists did not want to fight the British, but must insist upon their rights.

AGENTS WILL BE NEAR SOURCE SUPPLY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press.)—The Canadian government, in further co-operation with the American authorities in stopping the flow of liquor into the United States, has decided to place agents in all liquor export establishments in the Dominion, Prohibition Commissioner Haines announced last night.

ARE YOU A MOTHER?

Mrs. Dalton tells of a Well-known Doctor's Prescription that is safe for Young Mothers to take as a Tonic and Nervine because it contains no harmful ingredient.

London, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription saved my life years ago and for that reason I am most enthusiastic in my recommendation of it to women who are ailing and weak. I was taken with the measles when in an expectant condition; then blood poisoning set in and my family became greatly alarmed. The doctor advised them to give me Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I took several bottles of it and was restored to absolutely perfect health. I later took Favorite Prescription as a tonic and nervine and received great benefit from it. As a woman's medicine it is unequalled."—Mrs. Jennie Dalton, 767 York St.

BOYS A MENACE IN EGYPTIAN POLITICS.

Threaten Egypt's Political and Educational Structures.

CAIRO, EGYPT, Sept. 22.—(Associated Press).—The inauguration of a strict policy by the Egyptian government to deal with the fanatical enthusiasm of the school boy politicians is regarded by all the native papers as a necessity of the hour, if the Egyptian political and educational structures are to be saved from disruption.

The students in the universities and high schools of the country who came forward last year and joined in street demonstartions to help win political freedom for Egypt, have now developed a new movement which seems to be a general revolt against all existing customs that conflict with their own personal aggrandisement.

The students, conscious of their power, have turned their energies to eliminating examinations. Their political slogan a year ago was: "We do not want the English." To-day they are shouting: "We want no more examinations." And they are keen enough to plan a campaign which will use politics as a lever to make easier their classroom work.

The elections for members of the new Parliament are set for October. The students aim to see that only candidates who heed their demands are returned to both houses. Their election cries are now being tried out in this wise: "Vote for Mahmond Bey and no examinations.

Followers of Zaghloul Pasha are taking advantage of the students' overzealousness and are showering upon them all kinds of promises in return for votes at the coming elections.

CARE OF EYES

You can do much to improve the beauty of your eyes if you take care of the lashes and brows. Brush them each night with an eyebrow brush and, if they are thin, use a suggestion of vaseline or olive oil.

Radio is a machine which turns silence into noise.

THE PALM WENT TO THIS PEER.

Did Not Advise Observance of the Sabbath in Orthodox Manner.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(Associated Press).—It would appear to be the fate of boy scouts the world over to have to listen to good advice from their elders In England the boys take it good-humoredly and patiently as all in the day's work.

But recently a group of scouts must have been perplexed, as well as amused, when the good advice from two speakers did not in the least agree. They had come into Bedford to attend church. The Vicar, the Rev. A. O. Cheney, addressed them. He warned them against smoking as "a dirty and disgusting habit." He told them to remember to keep the Sabbath Day holy and not to go about "making a noise and disturbing the villagers." (The boys had marched to church headed by bugles and drums).

Nor, he said, should anything be done on Sunday which entailed extra work for anyone. (The villagers had agreed to entertain the visiting scouts to tea). The Vicar said he never entertained anyone on Sundays; people should stay at home on Sunday and help along the activities of the Church.

After the service Lord Ampthill got his turn at the boys. He said that smoking had been helpful to some of the greatest men in the world. One of the wisest philosophers used to smoke like a chimney. But, of course, it wouldn't be right for small boys to smoke.

He always entertained his friends on Sunday, he said. He honored God by going to church Sunday morning, but afterward he sometimes did a bit of carpentry. The idea of Sunday, he told the boys, was that it should be a day of rest which meant abstention from ordinary work. Manual labor on Sundays rested him rather more than anything else because, during the week, he had to attend a good many meetings in hot stuffy rooms.

So long as they did not disturb the peace of their villages, they need have no compunctions in turning out on Sunday to pay a friendly compliment to a new troop.

One of the grownups suggested that the peer and the parson should hold a public discussion on the subject, the proceeds to be divided equally between the Church and the scouts.

THE EGYPTIANS ASK A CONSTITUTION TO PROTECT MINORITIES

This Is Important Question Uppermost in Egyptian Politics at Present Time.

CAIRO, EGYPT, August 22.(By Mail).—There are two important questions uppermost in Egyptian politics at the present time, the representation of minorities in Parliament and the future of the Sudan.

The new constitution makes no provision for the former, and vigorous protests are being heard from the Copts, the largest Egyptian religious minority; the Syrians, and the Jews, who all demand full guarantees and the right to be represented in the government.

The country is divided into two camps. One side argues that the representation of minorities has no precedent in other constitutions; would be damaging to Egyptian unity as a whole, and that all Egyptians, regardless of creed, should show a united front to the world in general and England in particular.

On the other hand spokesmen for the minorities argue that Egypt presents a situation, in this regard, different from what exists in the countries of Europe, for here large groups in the civil life of the land are under special laws; the Moslems, for instance, under the Koran; the Jews under the Mosaic laws, and the Christians under the Patriarchal laws, and these differences do not make the nation less united.

No less acute is the question of the Sudan. This came first to the fore when the commission framing the constitution included the Sudan within the boundaries of Egypt, and gave Fuad the title of King of Egypt and of the Sudan.

To offset this, Lord Allenby, the British High Commissioner, went to Khartoum, capital of the Sudan. Here he met a group of 30 Shieks of Sudanese tribes who, according to the reports given out of the conference, took advantage of the occasion to express their loyalty to the British government, and at the same time asked for assurances that they would be placed under British rule.

Some Egyptian newspapers accuse England of insincerity, in this move. They allege that the sheiks were coerced into false expressions of loyalty, and otherwise attack Britain's methods and motives.

The British attitude in the matter has not yet been made clear, the question being reserved for future discussion with the Egyptian government. British silence has led to Egyptian deduction which are that England ultimately contemplates declaring the Sudan a Sultanate separated from Egypt; appointing one of the sons of the Mahdi to rule it, and placing it under British protection.

Egypt has put forward also the fear that England, in control of the Sudan would cut off Egypt's supply of water for irrigation, but England is ready to guarantee sufficient water from the Upper and Middle Nile for all such purposes.

THE RECUPERATIVE POWERS OF BRITAIN.

Shown By Capital Issues During the Year.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Up to the beginning of August, this year, foreign and colonial government and municipal capital issues have totalled 11,650,500 pounds sterling, taking only issued publicly offered. Foreign countries accounted for 48,207,500 pounds sterling while colonial securities were created to the extent of 63,443,000 pounds.

Considering that the grand total of capital subscribed for in Great Britain, both home and abroad to the end of July was 183,744,922 pounds sterling, at least 60 per cent of this amount has gone abroad. These figures argue well for the financial status and recuperativ powers of the United Kingdom.

Australia has been the heaviest borrower, the commonwealth and her provinces raising about 32,000,000 pounds sterling, at an average interest rate of 5½ per cent. India borrowed about 28,000,000 pounds sterling, whi'e New Zealand and the Straits Settlements account for nearly 10,000,000 pounds sterling.

India also placed an internal rupee loan in July for an unlimited amount carrying 6 per cent at par. Several conversion offers were also included, and as the securities rating for conversion were largely held in this country, another large unknown amount found its way overseas.

New Zealand was a fairly large private borrower, three municipalities placing moderate loans during the summer.

France, the biggest foreign applicant, raised 20,500,000 pounds sterling, of which 2,500,000 was for her shipping industry and 15,000,000 for railways. Denmark took away 2,500,000 pounds sterling and Brazil 7,000,000. Siam and Czecho-Slovakia borrowed for the first tmie in British markets.

Capitol Entertainment

"The Loves of Pharaoh" at the Capitol theatre last night proved to be one of those productions that hold an audience quiet and motionless during its unfolding. From the first to the last minute of this massive spectacle, its watchers were silently intent on a drama that is packed with intense interest. Realistic to the last degr is the acting of Amenes, the Pharao of the Egyptians, a massive creature with curiously-shaven head and superb powers of depiciting emotion without any of the tricks of the ordinary screen actor. There is a curious blending of evil and good in the nature of this man who dominates the picture, with the evil predominating. It is throughout a delineation of the power of love on a distorted nature. Amenes is surrounded by slaves, yet longs for the friendship of a free nature. To him, by devious ways, comes the slave girl, Theonis, beautiful and proud, who loves and is loved by Ramphis, son of his architect, Talat, engaged in the erection of a mighty Treasure House.

The king's passion for the slave girl leads him to crown her queen, and thus incur the hatred and enmity of the mighty king of the Ethiopians, Samlak, who desires the throne of Egypt for kinky-haired, animal-natured daughter, Makeda. Amenes' efforts to win the love of the slave are useless, and his final destruction results from his infatuation. The city is attacked and burned, and the slave girl imprisoned in the Treasure House by the now crazed monarch, whose death occurs later in sordid surroundings.

A stupendous spectacle is a trite description for a picture that transports its audiences to far-away times and customs. The ancient ways, the boats, the dress, the palaces, the customs of a forgotten race are flashed on the silver screen with an exactness that is overwhelming. Even the faces of the actors have no hint of modern life; the Sphinx with impassive face, towers above the mighty plaaces of the Pharaoh, and the wretched slaves, under the whip of the taskmaster, labor in old-time way with old-time machines ,in the stone quarries. Ramphis awaits death under the huge stone of the quarries; men with red-hot irons put out the eyes of the ancient architect at a nod from their master! slaves with waving palms form a gorgeous retinue in the long hall of the plaace, and the Ethiopian king lays his treasures of gold and ivory at the feet of the silent monarch, while his barbaric, jewel-laden daughter vents her hatred on the lovely slave girl. In the war scenes, men battle like ants on a steep hillside, their flying javelins, wicker shields and rude spears pursuing the fleeing hordes of white-capped negroes.

There is one impressive scene where the "judement of the dead" is fulfilled with the ancient rites, and Pharaoh pronounced an accursed spirit because of his cruel, merciless treatment of his people.

AT THE ROYAL.

"MIDNIGHT BELL" PLACED BY CRITIC AS ONE OF CHARLES RAY'S BEST.

The Charles Ray fans came to life yesterday and crowded the Royal Theatre, where that star's latest picture, "A Midnight Bell," opened for a run of three days.

Judging from the numbers who saw the picture at the first performances, Ray's following is growing with amazing rapidity, and they represent all ages, sexes and walks of life.

This First National attraction is one of the best things that Ray has done, and it demonstrates his versatility. The story is based on the famous Charles Hoyt stage play, and lends itself perfectly to picturization.

The audience sat spellbound during the showing of the film, and there were many gasps as the star went through his usual dangerous performances, in which he shows little regard for his skin.

The picture is a mixture of drama and comedy and is highly entertaining throughout. The story opens with Ray, as Martin Tripp, a travelling salesman, trying to sell rubber heels to the proprietor of the general store in a small town. His boyish enthusiasm and attempts to sell the storekeeper are amusing bits of characterization. It is almost as hard for the storekeeper to convince him that he doesn't want any rubber heels as it is for Ray to make a sale.

Being fired by wire because of his poor judgment in selecting "tank towns" in which to sell the heels, Ray is about to leave it when he sees a vision. She is the daughter of the storekeeper, and Tripp decides that Bellport is an annex of heaven. By a clever piece of work he makes himself an employee of the storekeeper —and breaks up a conspiracy to rob the local bank.

It is a delight to see any Ray picture, because of their fidelity to life and the sincerity of the star's acting.

AT THE GRAND.

The popular Jimmie Evans with his Musical Revue Company of entertainers, will again be the attraction at the Grand, and for to-night and to-morrow the offering is something entirely new in the laugh producer, "School Days."

Jimmie Evans as "Jerry" and Joe Devine as "Ike" will be seen in something unusually funny in this well-known Revue of School Days, and Mr. Evans promises an evening of continuous laughter from rise to fall of curtain. All new song numbers, costumes, scenery will be shown, and several novelties are offered, altogether one of the very best offerings of the entire engagement is promised for the last two days of the week A special matinee for the ladies and children will be given as usual on Saturday at 2.30, when all school children will be admitted for the usual 11c, adults 25c and 35c. For a real evening's entertainment one cannot better the Evans' Musical Revue at the popular prices of 20c, 30c, 50c and 75c, gallery 10c.

"THE EMPEROR JONES"

Peterboro play-goers saw a wonderful actor and a most unusual play at the Grand last night when Charles Gilpin and his iginal New York company presented Eugene O'Neill's striking epic of fear "The Emperor Jones." No play in recent years has caused more comment than this novel production which calls for most of the acting burden to be carried in the shoulders of one man, and in which the last seven scenes are played on a dark stage and with the house lights extinguished, imparting a most impressive effect that is heightened by the sound of a tom-tom that is beaten steadily throughout. "The Emperor Jones" deals with the adventures of an American negro who flees from the United States after committing two murders and takes refuge in a island populated with blacks, over whose supersititous minds he exerts such influence that they make him Emperor. The play opens and his subjects are plotting a revolution and Jones decides to make his escape through the jungle. He had secreted food in anticipation of such a development but cannot find the cache and fear begins to take possession of him. His braggadocio quickly disappears as he wanders in the jungle, and soon he loses all his nerve and courage, becoming more and more frenzied as the night wears on until he is haunted by the vision of his misdeeds. Eugene O'Neill's development of this sudden transformation is most effective and his bragging Emperor quickly loses all the veneer of civilization. Death at the hands of the natives finally ends his night of torture, but not until the audience has been thrilled by a most unusual series of scenes.

Charles Gilpin, a negro himself, appears in the title role and his performance will long be remembered. His work in this part has earned him unusual distinction and last night's audience carried away the memory of a splendid performance, a most unusual personality and a deep musical voice. As the swaggering bully of the first act and the fear-crazed negro of the second, Gilpin was masterly.

There is little work for the rest of the company, except for Andrew Maloney whose picture of the white trade was a splendid piece of work.

The one act comedy "The Widow's Veil" used as a curtain raiser was well acted by Peggy Doran and Katie Caulfied, but its presentation did not seem to fit with the atmosphere of the play that followed.

PITTSBURG GAINED GAME ON THE LEAGUE LEADERS

Browns and Yankees Both Win—Ruth and Meusel Both Hit Home Runs —Sisler Still Out.

NATIONAL.

Pittsburgh 6, New York 1.

NEW YORK, September 22 (Canadian Press). — Pittsburgh yesterday reduced New York's Lead in the National League race to three and a half games, defeating the world's champion Giants in the second game of the series, 6 to 1. Hamilton held New York as safe yesterday as did Cooper, the other Pittsburgh left-hander, on Wednesday. In six of the nine innings Hamilton retired the side in order. Pittsburgh hit Nehf, its former jinx, hard, while New York fielding also was listless and spiritless. Bigbee hit his second home run in successive days into the right field stands.

Maranville, the Pittsburgh shortstop, punched Rawlings in the third inning after a forced play at second, and was put off the grounds by Umpire Quigley. Score:

Pittsburgh	021020010	6	10 0
New York	000000100	1	6 2

Hamilton and Schmidt; Nehf, Jonnard, V. Barnes and Snyder.

Cincinnati 4, Boston 2.

BOSTON, September 22 (Canadian Press). — Cincinnati took the first game of a double-header from Boston, 4 to 2, largely due to Ford's error behind Cooney's fine pitching in the seventh, when the visitors collected four runs. Watson's pitching was the deciding factor in the 5 to 2 Boston victory in the second game. Scres:

Cincinnati	000000400	4	7 0
Boston	000000002	2	8 3

Rixey and Hargrave; Cooney, Watson and O'Neill.

Boston 5, Cincinnati 2.

Cincinnati	002000000	2	5 0
Boston	10030010x	5	5 0

Brooklyn 3, St. Louis 1.

BROOKLYN, September 22 (Canadian Press). — Shriver held St. Louis to four hits yesterday, and Brooklyn won 3 to 1, the Dodgers taking the lead in the present series by two games to one. The locals made all their runs off Lester Sell, a recruit from Syracuse, who was hammered for three doubles, a triple and three singles in four innings. Barfoot was effective, allowing only two hits. New York 9, Detroit 8.

DETROIT, September 22 (Canadian Press). — The New York Yankees yesterday displayed a spirit that would not admit defeat, and made a clean sweep of the series with Detroit, taking the final game, 9 to 8, although menaced at every turn by the Tigers, who are battling to retain third place in the American League.

The work of Ruth and Meusel with the bat was responsible fo New York's victory, each hitting a home run. Ruth's came with one runner on the sacks and was made off Oldham, who had replaced Olsen in an effort to fan the Yankee outfielder. Meusel counted two runners ahead of him.

The result of the game might have been altered save for an injury to Dauss in the fourth inning. Dauss, who started for Detroit, had things well in hand until he sprained an ankle in sliding into third base. The Tigers had a comfortable lead up to that time. Dauss fanned the first three batsmen to face him. Score:

St. Louis 7, Washington 6.

ST. LOUIS, September 22 (Canadian Press). — St. Louis, which mathematically stands a light but very improbable chance of winning the pennant, won its first game in the last four played yesterday, by defeating Washington, 7 to 6. The victory, however, does not advance the locals any in the pennant race, at New York also won yesterday afternoon.

Sisler was still out of the game with an injured shoulder. The crowd dwindled to less than 2,000. Score:

CLEVELAND, O., September 22 (Canadian Press). — Boston defeated Cleveland 15 to 5, in the final game of the series here yesterday. Quinn held the Cleveland team safe at all times, and helped win his own game by hitting a home run. After Boston had taken a big lead, Manager Speaker sent in his entire recruit forces, and the game developed into a farce. Score:

CHICAGO, September 22 (Canadian Press). — Great pitching by Fred Heimach, coupled with timely hitting, especially by "Bing" Miller, enabled Philadelphia to beat Chicago, 6 to 1, in the final game of the series. Chicago was in position to score numerous times, but lacked the punch. Score:

PHILADELPHIA, September 22 (Canadian Press). — Chicago and Philadelphia divided a double-header yesterday, the visitors winning the first 8 to 6, and the locals the second, 4 to 2. Victor Keene, a former Philadelphia sand lot pitcher, hurled the Cubs to victory in the first game. Hubbell's masterful pitching and bunched hits in the first three innings off Kaufmann made the Philadelphia victory possible in the second. Walker made six straight hits during the two games. HASTINGS WIN JUNIOR GROUP FROM HAVELOCK IN OVERTIME

Lacrosse Play-Off at Norwood Yesterday Resulted in Score of 3 Goals to 2—Had Tied on the Round in District With Marmora and Peterborough.

Excitement Ran High.

In ten uproarious minutes' overtime Hastings won the junior lacrosse honors of the Trent group of the O.A.L.A. by defeating Havelock by the score of 3 goals to 2 in Norwood on Thursday afternoon.

Twilight and the evening star and the smoky haze of a glorious September afternoon formed the background for those frenzied ten minutes which, althought not counting largely in their material or permanent results, will be long remembered by the attending crowds from the three neighboring towns. All the stored up eagerness, excitement and impatience of two strenuous hours of a game that was constantly in doubt until the last whistle broke loose when the timekeepers rushed on to the field to stop play, and the hundreds of Hastings supporters swooped upon their team and carried them shoulder high around the Exhibition grounds.

The keen spirit of rivalry that had had been kindled between the two towns by the summers' scheduled games and fanned by the deciding play-off flared up at the close in many men, and some women too, and spent itself in taunts and jibes and an odd wallop or two. It was said that only theold folks and toddling children had been left at home in both Havelock and Norwood, and neutral Norwood was out in full force. The partisans of the two teams were lined up in opposite camps or lines on either side of the field, and when a goal was scored one side of the field cheered and tossed up hats while the other stood in glum silence.

The Line-ups.

The teams faced off as follows:

Hastings—Goal Lambert, points C. Whitred and W. Tate, defense O. Cruikshanks and P. Welsh, centre Fred Scriver, home B. Richardson and K. Cruikshanks, outside home Stevenson, inside home J. Gould. Spare, C. Way.

Havelock— Goal Davidson, points Hopper and Woods, defense Woodbeck and Brown, centre C. Brennan home L. Plunkett and D. Brennan, outside home G. Wright, inside home H. Plunkett. Spares Ketchen, H. Buchanan, McKenzie.

Refree—Len Smith, Toronto.

As an exhibition of lacrosse it was an indifferent sample, but as a contest it was packed with excitement that has not been duplicated in this district at least this season, nor perhaps in any other parts of the Hanley jurisdiction. Hastings plainly excelled in team work. Stevenson, Richardson and Fred Scriver being in most of the plays with the bulk of the work being done by Richardson, who was in the thick of it all afternoon. Bill Tate on the defense, played his best game in two years, and Stevenson used his "noodle" all the time, especially in centre field when combinations were being started. The defense as a whole were strong, and played their positions well. A lot of the passes went bluey partly, it is true, on account of the close checking, and neither team appeared to be in that so-called pink of condition that should show at the end of the season. However, these defects were obscured by the closeness of the game, the doubt that hovered over it, and also by the many flashes of good work that kept the crowd on edge.

Doug Brennan tried to do too much, and as a result opportunities for combinations that were opened up by the concerted attacks on himself was wasted. The Plunkett boys, Glen Wright and Charlie Brennan comprised a formidable junior home division but their style of play lacked variety, for one thing, and individual effort was at times useless against the defense Hastings strung in front of their citadel.

Len Smith followed the play closely, and was strict upon little but the game clean and fast, and although it was not the best grade of lacrosse it was a mighty interesting contest. It must be when it had even women scraggling and jeering in the mad finale.

Only one goal was scored in the first two quarters, Hastings getting the early but narrow start. In the first quarter they had the best of the first ten minutes, Richardson, Stevenson and Scriver getting within shooting range fairly often but without effect. Hooper went down on the home for Havelock during most of the last ten minutes of the quarter and helped keep the ball in the Hastings territory, but one team looked as weak as the other on the firing line. Besides the checking was close and there was lots of it, and both goalers took care of the few shots that were on the nets.

Doug Brennan started early in the game to plunge against the Hastings defense, and in the opening of the second period had several shots from close in. Fred Scriver started the play that produced the first goal. He threw a long pass to Richardson, who shot to Stevenson, who took a peg at the goal. Davidson saved nicely, but the ball bounded out in front and as he stepped out after it Joe Gould scooped it into the net.

Doug Brennan responded with a long rush but was finally pocketed by the Hastings defense. H. Plunkett got inside the defense but foozled a pass from Doug Brennan, and at the other end Stevenson missed a similar chance just before half time was called.

Richardson put Hastings two up by a fast shot from the defense line, and Charlie Brennan got the first for Havelock on a pass from his brother Doug who had carried the ball through most of the Hastings team. Richardson and Scriver made a fine try and Hooper and D. Brennan worked in close, but the shooting marksmanship was bad.

In the final qaurter Doug Brennan kept up the Connacher stunts, boring in and taking a lot of punishments in lone rushes that were not showing much on the score board. Lambert stopped a hot one in a Havelock rally and Hooper started a rush, passing to D. Brennan, who tied the score. The light Hastings home section seemed to be strong, and it began to look as if the brawn of Hooper and Brennan would carry the day. The Trent boys, however, held on, and their defense was very steady.. Tate and Whitred were giving their best and Welsh and Cruikshanks were also letting no one past them unchecked. Brennan had several chances before the full time whistle blew, but he bumped the fence at the back of the lot.

In the first overtime five minutes Hastings started off fast. Both Richardson and Stevenson got inside for shots that were blocked by Davidson. With Scriver and Richardson carrying the ball down, Stevenson took a pass over at one side and whipped the ball into the Havelock goal from a difficult angle. That ended the scoring, although Havelock kept trying to the last. The only penalty of the game was handed to Jim Hooper a few minutes before the final bell for a body check to Richardson, who was unable to continue.

HITLESS GAMES EASY WITH THIS KIND OF SCORING

According to Belleville's scoring, Williams pitched a no hit game against the Petes on Wednesday.

Everybody who saw the game and who knows anything about baseball knows that Johnston, of the Petes, cracked out a clean hit in the ninth innings on Saturday.

It is the custom of baseball scorers everywhere when a pitcher has a chance to have a no-hit game to be as lenient as possible and give him the benefit of every possible doubt. No one will quarrel with that system.

But there was no possible doubt in this case. Johnston's drive ripped past the third baseman so fast that he not only did not touch it, but he never had a chance to make a play on it. To give the third sacker an error on that ball was a farce, and the Belleville scorer made the thing even more conspicuous by crediting Casey with a hit on a ball to Collins that was not hit half as hard as Johnston's drive and which the Petes' third sacker got both hands on and fumbled.

Williams' performance was creditable enough as it was with eighteen strike-outs, and a shut-out without handing him something.

Diamond Dust

Belleville will be here tomorrow for the crucial game of the championship series. His majesty the umps is scheduled to start the game at 3 o'clock but the present indications are that it will be another case of "Come early."

* * *

Mallen is expected to start the twirling for the Trunks, though a last minute switch to Williams is not out of the bounds of possibility.

* * *

The Petes have not been defeated on the home ground this season. Will Belleville break the spell tomorrow.

* * *

Pittsburgh took another fall out of the Giants. They are now three and a half games behind the leaders but that is a big handicap to have to overcome at this time in the season.

* * *

St. Louis at last managed to win one from Washington.

* * *

The final games will be played in the International League on Sunday with games scheduled at four points.

TOMORROW'S GAME BEST OF THE YEAR

Battle Between Belleville and Petes Will Draw Hugh Crowd.

Can the Petes beat Belleville here to-morrow and tie up the series for the Central Ontario League honours?

The whole Peterborough squad, from Manager Solomon to the bat boy, declare that they can turn the trick at Riverside Park and necessitate a play-off at Oshawa next week. They realize that they have a battle royal on their hands, but they are going into the engagement determined to annex the decision.

There is much speculation as to the Belleville box artist for to-morrow. Some fans believe that the Easterners will use Ray Mallen to-morrow, keeping Williams in reserve for the play-off in the event of a loss. Others think that Belleville will shoot the Indian back at the Petes to-morrow, hoping to wind up the series by a win right in Peterborough. The question as to Belleville's pitching selection will have to wait until to-morrow for settlement. Heckman will do the heaying for the Petes.

That a record crowd will be out goes without saying. Belleville will have a big contingent on hand and they will be here from every town in the Central Ontario district. Most of the League officials will be spectators.

The game will be called at 3 o'clock sharp with Umpires Boundy, Butler and Barnes in charge.

KEENE SWAMPED IN OPENING GAME

Fourteen Runs For C.G.E. in the Last Three Innings Put Keene Hopelessly Out of the Running.

Keene was snowed under 18 to 4, on their own diamond by the C.G.E. city intermediate champions, in the first game of the O.B.A.A. play off yesterday afternoon. For the first six innings the Electricians were kept at bay by the steady work of the Keene players, and at the beginning of the seventh only led by one run. O'Dette, however, weakened in this frame and an epidemic of hits and errors resulted in five runs. Keene got one tally back in the eighth but in the ninth the visitors again came back strong and more hits and many more errors gave the electricians nine more marks on the board. For the first six innings O'Dette pitched a first class game but he could not stand the pace and when he weakened his team mates went with him with the result that the C.G.E. had everything their own way for the last three frames.

At one period of the game, the end of the fourth inning, Keene held the large end of a 3 to 2 score, but the C.G.E. again jumped into the lead by annexing two runs in the fifth and were never again headed.

Frost went the whole way on the rubber for C.G.E. and turned in a good game. Bob Ross, the usual back stop, was absent and his place behind the bat was filled by Helson. The battery for the most part received excellent support with but few slips and none at any critical time.

Hawkins who caught for Keene turned in one of the best games of the season, his peg to second was particularly accurate and while many attempted to steal but one succeeded and he cut off one or two men in nearly every inning by this method.

The players were:

Keene—Fletcher, 2b; O'Dette, p; Hawkins, c; McCarthy, cf; Robertson, lf; Nelson, 3b; Renwick, 1b; McCarthy, ss; Renwick, rf.

Score by innings:

C.G.E.	002020509	— 18
Keene	001200010	— 4

Umpires—LeBarr at the plate; Johnson on the bases.

The return game will be played at Riverside Park, Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

DEMPSEY AFTER FIGHTS IN EUROPE

Heavyweight Champ Expects to Have a Bout in London on November 6.

NEW YORK. Sept. 22.—William Harrison Dempsey, the heavyweight champion and his retinue have heard the call from the other side again and they are going to grab a bout for London about November 6.

By making the announcement of the champion's second jaunt to Europe Jack Kearns, his manager, let it be known that they are not going on pleasure alone.

Dempsey is going to fight Joe Beckett the British champion and if he succeeds in winning he is going to gives Georges Carpentier another chance to take a fast one from the shoulder.

Business is intolerable in the United States according to Kearns and they figure they can pick up some cash in and around London.

Plans for the European trip will be altered, Kearns said, if someone wants to stage a Dempsey-Wills fight before the leaves fall or if the powers that be will relent and let the champion fight Bill Brennan or Billy Miske.

Chances are very slight for any kind of an American engagement, Kearns thinks and the party is going ahead on an elaborate campaign with the tailors as they cannot afford to wear again any of the hundred outfits that they used on the last tour.

Kearns expressed the opinion that New York is the only city where the Dempsey-Wills fight could have been staged on sho notice.

INSANE ASYLUMS.

TRICKY RIGHT FIELD WALL IN NEW YORK

Difficult Position to Play at Polo Grounds — The World's Series Prospects.

NEW YORK, Sept 22.—Right field at the Polo Grounds is a difficult position to play. The range which the ordinary field provides is cut off by the wall of the right field stand which protrudes at an angle. Drives off the wall have to be figured on an angle basis almost like billiards.

Ross "Pep" Young, the Giant right-fielder, is a good ball player on other lots, but he shines on the Polo Grounds. He has made an art of playing balls off the tricky wall that no other player can approach. Young is also a good all around fielder. He has a good range nack, he can come in fast, he has a fair arm and ordinarily a quick thinking brain although he has been known to be out-smarted. He usually bats more than he has done this year.

Johnny Tobin, the right-fielder and lead-off man for the St. Louis Browns, no doubt could play the wall as well as Young if he had as much experience on it. Tobin is one of the five best hitters in the American League. He is better than a fair fielder, although he does get handcuffed at times on high flies. With Sisler and McManus covering short right for him the territory is reduced, which makes it possible for him to go deeper and more toward centre.

In Bob Meusel and Babe Ruth, the Yankees have two of the worst right fielders in baseball. Ruth must be given the credit for trying and Meusel some censure for not trying. With his large waistline and his slowed up limbs, Ruth simply is not an outfielder, and, of course, for the same reasons he is not an infielder.

The swat king can hit—at times—but can't field. He can't go back and he can't come in. When he gets one in his hands he usually holds it.

Meusel formerly was a great asset at the bat but he has slumped to just a very mediocre baseball player. He has the greatest arm in baseball and that lets him out. He has some speed also, both in fielding and on the bases, but he seldom is in the mood to exert himself. Ruth also has a good strong arm and nice control on throws to the plate.

Figuring that the opening games of the series are to be played on the Polo Grounds, and perhaps the deciding game, Young is the most valuable player of the three, Tobin is next by a slight margin, and the Yank pair are miles behind.

CARPENTIER BOUT A BIG ATTRACTION

Biggest Gate in the History of French Boxing For the Georges Carpentier-"Battling" Siki Scrap.

PARIS, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—A million-franc gate will received for the first time in the history of boxing in France, when Georges Carpentier, the heavyweight champion of Europe, crawls through the ropes at the new Buffalo Velodrome Sunday afternoon to face the undefeated Senegalese, "Battling" Siki.

Although Carpentier has not performed before his countrymen since the fight with Dick Smith at the Cirque, on July 19, 1919, and despite his defeat by Jack Dempsey, his popularity with the general public remains such that all attendance and gate receipts records are broken by the advance sale. More than half a million francs for the reserved section has already been turned in, while unreserved seats for a like amount are certain to be filled. Forty thousand or more persons are expected to fill the Buffalo arena.

All expect to see the French idol win inside of six rounds. Only in the immediate surroundings of the Senegalese fighter's training camp can any confidence in his chances be found. Carpentier himself has written the promoters from his training quarters at La Guerche that he is going to win inside of three rounds. Betting is five to one on Carpentier to win and there is even money that Siki does not stay six rounds.

MANITOBA SENIOR HOCKEY LEAGUE.

The formation of a senior Manitoba hockey league will be very fully discussed during the next month, and it is expected that there may be some changes in the league's make-up. Winnipeg is planning to have at least three senior teams, but they will be the only senior teams performing in the capital city. Whether Selkirk will be in the fold again will be a question for the Fish Town enthusiasts to decide soon. That town has a wealth of coming talent, and in fact are better off in that respect than any other club in the province.

The question of deciding the opening date for the hockey season will also be a matter under review in the early discussions. With artificial ice in Winnipeg, the capital city teams will be ready to play almost a month before Brandon players get on the ice. Probably exhibition games with United States teams will interest Winnipeggers until the usual opening date of the senior league. Brandon hockey stars will need a month of hard work in the "Y" gym before stepping on the ice, if they hope to be in the same condition as the 'Peg puck chasers this year.

FOOTBALL NOTES.

Comrades line-up for their League game versus Woollens on Saturday at King Edward Park will be:

Fenner; Anderson (captain) and Rae; Brown, Hoggarth and Sayers; Jackson, Shaw, Craig, Hill and Hansen. Reserve, Nicholls.

RUGBY TO START WITH TWO GAMES

Season Will Open Tomorrow at Nicholls Oval

The Collegiate Institute and Crescents will start the ball a-rolling at the Oval in the opening game of the rugby season to-morrow. The game will start at 1.30 and will be followed by an intermission of sufficient length to allow the rugby fans to take in the Belleville-Peterborough baseball game at Riverside Park. After the ball game the second rugby game will be played, this time between the Belmonts and Excelsiors.

Both games will be played at the Oval and though no admission is to be charged the old custom of selling tags to those on the grounds will again be brought into practice. All the proceeds of these and other city league games will go toward financing th team which will represent Peterborough in the O.R.F.U.

During the past few weeks all four teams have been getting in some hard practice, with competent coaching, so the prospects are bright for two good fast games.

HARVEST SALE

Grafton & Co. Offer Wonderful Values in Clothing

The very striking full page advertisement of Grafton & Co., limited, clothing manufacturers, appear ing in to-day's paper is full of vital interest to every man and every mother of boys in this city and the surrounding district. The Harvest sale" prices quoted are astonishingly low, when it is considered that they are applied to first quality goods of this season's make and demonstrate forcibly that when a manufacturer is determined to dispose of all surplus stock in a limited time the buyers reap the benefit. An inspection of their window display and a visit to the big Grafton store will convince the most skeptical that now is their opportunity to secure seasonable and desirable clothing and furnishings at a fraction of their everyday value. Grafton & Co., Limited.

LAWN BOWLING

To-night's tournament on the local greens promises to be the best event of the season. It was expected that eight rinks would compete, but owing to several of the players being out of town, it is possible that there will be only seven rinks, in which event the tournament will be played under the elimination rules instead of the plus and minus. There will be four prizes. The finalists will play off for first and second prizes, and the two semi-finalists will play off for third prize, while the rinks which are eliminated in the first round will play off for fourth prize. The personnel of the rinks is posted in the club-house, and the draw will take place promptly at 7 o'clock. Every member is expected to be on hand ready to play at that time. Games will be eight ends and finals twelve ends.

Little Lessons For the Golfer

(By George O'Neil.)

What the player really means when he thinks he is getting his hands ahead of his clubhead is this: He is swinging his body around, on the down stroke of the club, too quickly. The golfer must remember that the body adds nothing to the force of the golf swing, although I know that the very expert players do accomplish a little more distance by throwing the body into the blow at just the right instant. This takes such a fine degree of skill, however, that the average player will do well to forget it. The club is snapped down with the arms and shoulders.

Harry Vardon says that the end of the driver should reach to the left knee when the player stands at the ball ready to make his shot. This makes the player reach slightly for the ball, and the Vardon idea is about the best guide I have ever known. Standing too close to the ball causes fooxles, or, if the ball is hit cleanly, often a pull. This picture of Willie Hunter, British star, shows about the right "reach" for the ball, using a slightly open stance, shown in the diagram.

Do not turn the body to the right, consciously, when you take the club up. It is as wrong to turn the body around to the right, ahead of the club, as it is to hurry the body to the left, ahead of the club, coming down—and the first wrong turning of the body, to the right, will invariably lead to the second mistake. The arms should pull the body around to the right when the left arm, taking the club up, goes as far as it can get before the pull on the body begins. When this pull exerts itself, resist it just a trifle, but not too much. The slight resistance "winds the body up" like a spring and gives you perfect poise and balance at the top of your up-swing.

In this picture of Alexa Stirling, Atlanta woman champion golfer, you see the point in the up-stroke of the club where the body should begin to pivot. The player should hold his body, consciously, on a line with the ball as he addressed the ball, until the club, going up, begins to pull. Then hold the body around, on a pivot, until the club, coming down, draws the shoulder in back of it. In that way you get the right snap on the ball with all the power of your right shoulder in back of it. Don't fear the ball, and don't try to hurry the clubhead to it. Miss Stirling's stance, as diagrammed, is for an intentionally pulled ball.

NEW ONTARIO LOANS HELPS NORTHLAND.

Many Settlers Need Financial Encouragement.

"Money is the greatest need of the whole Northern district at the present time."

This is one striking conclusion submitted to the Agricultural Development Board by one of its staff inspectors after a careful and detailed survey of two or three important sections of New Ontario early this summer.

Farm Loans Meet the Need

Already there are many evidences to indicate that the new system of long-term loans will go a considerable distance in meeting that need. In the older settlements the great need is buildings, and large numbers of settlers are able to comply with the terms of the legislation. Having got their land from the Crown in most cases, there is no mortgage against it. Having 40, 50 or 60 acres under cultivation, they now have a substantial equity. If there are seed grain liens or mortgages they are usually small, and come under the 40 per cent. clause for removing encumbrances. Subject to individual inspection, they are, therefore, eligible for loans. There are also a number of cases where money is needed to help buy land to enable a young man to start for himself. Interest rates are higher in New Ontario. Eight and nine per cent. are quite common, while reports have been heard of 10 to 12 per cent. being charged. In the ordinary course, therefore, money for these essential development purposes is not available, or not available on terms which make its use practicable. Applications have accordingly been received from every district in the north country.

Not Assuming Heavy Load

From the Bar River section of the Algoma district came a request for a loan of $5,000 to build a dairy barn. This looked like a pretty substantial dairy barn, but it was shown the farm included 90 acres of exceptionally rich soil, 20 acres of which two years ago produced oats which averaged 100 bushels to the acre and stood five to six feet all over the field. Similar stories come from Sudbury, Timiskaming, Rainy River, Dryden and Thunder Bay, but many are for small loans of $1,000 or less, and the average will, therefore, be between $2,000 and $3,000 This will mean an annual repayment of around $200. So it will be seen settlers are not rushing to assume impossible burdens.

Staff inspectors spent several weeks going over the different districts, and are of opinion that in the old settled sections of New Ontario loans may be placed with as great a sense of security as in Old Ontario They found, in fact, that sections such as Algoma, New Liskeard, Dryden, Rainy River and Thunder Bay, where settlement has been in progress for twenty-five years or more development is taking place very similar to that of Old Ontario. In the Sudbury district good agricultural progress is being made. About 90 per cent. of the population is French-Canadian, the balance being made up of Finlanders, Polacks from Central Europe, and a few of Scottish and English descent.

Land Values High

Reports from all quarters indicate that land values in the older settled sections already mentioned are high Prices up to $100 per acre for land with only moderate buildings, are very common. This is due to several factors. In some sections the land is in pockets between the rocks. Such land is limited in area but very rich in fertility.

Then, too, there are growing cities, substantial towns, or lumber or mining camps adjacent to all the agricultural districts, and these offer a ready market for hay, oats and potatoes, which are the three crops most generally grown. Old Ontario prices, plus transportation costs, which means an advance of 10 to 15 per cent. are paid. These markets would absorb more live stock and live stock products than are produced, and making available money for buildings essential to the winter ing of stock will help in developing agriculture along stable lines.

Whether present land values will be maintained is problematical, and the inspectors recommend a maximum of $60 per acre as far as loans by the board are concerned. It is probable the average valuation will not exceed half that figure.

Systematic Inspection Necessary

Some requests have been received for loans for clearing land, but these do not come under the act and therefore must be excluded. Many of the applications will be for amounts under $2,000. Inspection involves considerable expense and it is evident some plan will have to be adopted so that inspection may be made systematically without covering the same ground too often. No inspection can be made when snow is on the ground. Little building is done in the winter, though timber for building purposes is often taken out. It is therefore, probable that a plan will be adopted by which two inspections per year will be made for loans for building purposes, one in the spring and one in the fall. Applications will be received up to a certain date. These dates will be fixed so as to accord with the plans and convenience of the settlers as far as possible.

THE "DEATH VALLEY" TRACK FALL RACES.

Interesting Features Announced By the Jockey Club—New Horses Out.

LATONIA, KY., Sept. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Nominations for five of the features to be run at the Fall meeting at "Death Valley" track have been announced by the Jockey Club, These events, four of which are for three-year-olds and upward and one for juveniles, have attracted the best talent owned by leading breeders of America.

The Autumn Handicap, for three-year-olds and upward, a six furlong dash for $5,000 in added money, has sixty nominations. Harry Payne Whitney has nominated four, the best of which are Tryster, Calamity Jane and Broomster. Benjamin Block's Morvich, also is eligible, but it is doubtful if he will run. G. L. Blackford's Centimeter, T. M. Botts' Jack Hare, Jr., E. R. Bradley's Bit of White, C. E. Rowe's mare, iss Jemima, and Montford Jones' Surf Rider and Miss Joy are among the other leading eligibles.

Seventy-two thoroughbreds have been nominated for the Latonia Handicap, for three-year-olds and upward at a mile and a sixteenth, Bradley's Bit of White also his Bit of Black, and Bet Mosie; John Finn, Jack Hare, Jr., Benjamin Block's Morvich, C. W. Clark's Whiskaway, and Whitney's Prudish, his Bunting, the 1921 futurity winner, also his Broomster and Tryster; Alf Vogeler's Thibodeaux, Montford Jones' Rouleau, his Rockminster and Miss Joy and Lady Madcap, Braeelbane, and Naugthy Nisba, of the Desha Breckingride stable, are among the stars. The race is of especial interest because it probably will bring together the leading stake horses of the year. Morvich, hailed in the Spring as the three-uear-old champion, Whiskaway, his conquerer, Bunting and Rockminster would make a sterling contest.

The famous distance event of the Latonia Autumn races, the Latonia Cup for three-year-olds and upward at two miles and a quarter, a great test, has attracted some of the best known campaigners. Forty-three have been nominated, Minto II., Thibodeaux, Bon Homme, John Paul Jones, Blarney Stone, Firebrand, Rockminster, Lady Madcap, Bit of White, Bet Mosie, Dr. Clarkland, Cherry Tree may be among those to go to the post.

The Covington Handicap, at a mile and three-sixteenths is the other handicap event for three-year-olds and upward. There are half a hundred nominations. Though Morvich is not among the nominees, Thibodeaux, Prudery, Bunting, Rockminster, Firebrand and the Bradley cracks may make up a good field.

The juvenile event, the Fort Thomas Handicap, at six furlongs, has 101 nominations. It is a difficult task at any time to select the most likely youngsters from a list of more than a hundred. Some of these will take their first start in the event, and all the others have shown some sort of good form.

SAVE THE ROOF OF WESTMINSTER HALL.

Will Cost Over One Hundred Thousand Pounds to Repair Architectural Glory.

LONDON, Sept. 20. — (Canadian Press).—Westminster's Hall famous roof one of the architectural glories of the world, is being saved from imminent danger of collapse at a cost of over $100,000. The cause of the trouble is a tiny grub known scientifically as xestotium tessellatum, and popularly known as the beath-watch beetle. The roof has withstood time and the elements for over 400 years in an excellent state of preservation, but this pestiliferous woodboring grub through the centuries has been steadily eating the heart out of the timbers and perforating their outer surfaces with innumerable exit holes until they resemble gigantic pepper castors.

An extraordinary feature of the insect's work is that while outwardly a timber may appear to be quite sound, the interior may be wholly eaten away. This is explained by the habit of the grub, which lives continuously in the wood until it has passed the chrysalis stage, and works to and fro in little tunnels. After three years it emerges and prepares to take its nuptial flight, usually in May and June, which are the popular marriage months

In connection with the restoration of the roof of the first work has been to get rid of the devastating grub. This has proved a difficult task, as the use of any insectide containing poison or chloroform would have seriously affected the members of the House of Commons, during the sittings of the House. Finally a remedy which is regarded as equally effective has been procured, consisting of a mixture of benzine, Castile soap and cedar wood oil. With powerful air blasts the timbers have been cleansed of dust and the solution has been sprayed on the wood at a pressure of sixty pounds to the square inch. Every part has received at least two soakings.

Whether this treatment of the timbers is all that is needed time along will show. Experiments have proved that the female will not lay her eggs on wood so treated, and that the grub must die if it touches it. The lifetime of the grub in the wood is three years, and the solution will last longer than that. Periodical spraying may follow. The woodwork in the roof has been reinforced in such a manner as not to detract from the original beauty and design thereof.

Sir Frank Baines, Director of Works in his Majesty's Office of Works, has prepared the scheme and is responsible for carrying it out. The work has been going on since 1914, and it will be completed next spring.

The great historic Westminster Hall, which was the Royal residence until 1512, when it suffered greatly by fire, was built by King William II., surnamed Rufus by reason of his red complexion. He reigned from 1087 to 1100. The beautiful roof which is now undergoing repair was built in the 14th century.

Westminster Hall, where the mortal remains of King Edward the Peacemaker lay in state before being conveyed to the tomb, is one of the most famous, in its tragic dignity, of the possessions of the realm. Within its walls have been held such state trials as those of William Wallace, Sir Thomas More, Anne Boleyn, Somerset, Strafford, Charles I., and Warren Hastings. The preservation of such a glorious monument of England's island story"—for all the many acts of injustice and the agonies of mental suffering that its walls have looked upon, —has been regarded as a sacred duty.

Many a man is making his mark in Germany.

Where Quality Means Most- Goodyear Tires are Used

The man, who above all others needs to buy the best tires, is the automobile manufacturer.

The difference in price between Goodyear Tires and the cheapest tires would only amount to a few dollars per car.

But the difference in quality could easily ruin any car's reputation for tire mileage and trouble-free service.

The reputation of his car demands that the manufacturer secure the best tires. A great majority of the automobiles built in Canada are equipped with Goodyear Tires

Manufacturers who buy tires for thousands of cars have found that Goodyears give the lowest cost-per-mile. You will find the same thing true of your car.

ESCAPED DEATH FROM FIRE ON FERRY BOAT.

Crew of Ten Men Made Shore Just in Time.

MONTREAL, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press)—Ten men, crew of the ferry boat Richelieu in service across the St. Lawrence between La Prarie and Montreal, narrowly escaped death during the night when the boat caught fire while they were asleep and drifted into the turbulent waters leading to Lachine rapids. Her mooring ropes were burned.

They hurriedly scrambled into a small boat and made the shore in safety. Ultimately the boat burned to the water edge and sank just before it reached the rapids.

IT'S HARD TO BE RELATIVELY POOR

What One Poor Peer Does to Support a Title.

LODNON, Sept. 22.—(Associated Press).—It is hard to be relatively poor, yet compelled by the circumstances of birth to hide the fact and even play the part of a mad-cap spender.

A certain lord writes to a London newspaper:

"I have to wear a tall hat and the tail coat of conventionality. I have to tip well and cheerfully, and at the same time count every penny. When friends from abroad come to town I have to entertain them—which is a pleasure, but oh the plotting and the planning and mean little economies that I have to practice Without a title I should be a comparatively happy man. But I inherited it and I cannot shed it.

"A wealthy American once said to me, 'You British peers have a jolly good time ' I tried to explain to him that we too had responsibilities, but he countered this by saying, 'I would give anything to be a man of title.' And I would have given a great deal to be plain 'Mr.' with all his money."

POPULAR SINGER PASSES AWAY, AGED 86 YEARS

Sir Charles Sankey Made Tour of Canada

LONDON Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Sir Charles Sankey, for decades probably the best known and most popular singer on the English concert stage died at his home here yesterday in his eighty-seventh year.

He was knighted in 1907, when the jubilee of his artistic career was celebrated in London. He made very successful tours in opera and concerts to United States and Canada, in 1871 and 1891, when all lauded his fame.

ENGLAND AND FRANCE MET ON COMMON GROUND

PARIS, Sept. 22.—(Associated Press). Lord Curzon, the British Foreign Secretary, arrived in Paris the other day at the Quai d'Orsay station, and found the passenger elevator out of order. He complained to the station-master, who, with much diffidence, proposed that the noble lord could reach the street leve by means of the freight elevator. Lord Curzon accepted without enthusiasm and just as the elevator boy was slamming the gates shut, there came rushing toward the lift a thick-set elderly man, breathing heavily. He made as if to enter the elevator, but the attendants waved him off.

"I am just as heavy and as old as your lone passenger," the man declared, "why should you refuse to take me up?"

"Because this is Lord Curzon," responded the railroad man impressively.

"Oh, well, that's all right," replied the stranger, making for the stairs, "I'm only Joffre."

He was given a lift.

SHOW HORSE DEAD

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Lady Dilham, widely known show horse, owned by Reginald C. Vanderbilt, died of pneumonia recently at the Vanderbilt stables at Sandy Point Farm. The mare, 19 years old, was regarded as one of the best in her class and had won many championships and ribbons throughout the country. She was by Elegant III out of Dilham Prime Minister.

RABBI WON THE PIG

OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA, Sept. 22 (Canadian Press).—Of all the several hundred rotarians who drew for a 150-pound pig offered as a gift at a rotary club picnic recently, the porker fell to the lot of Rabbi Joseph Blatt of Temple B'Nai Israel, who held the winning number. The Rabbi offered the prize to Father A. F. Monnot, pastor of the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help.

It was Friday, but the pig was alive and would keep for another day, so Father Monnot took the porker.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE.

In most countries laws will free a man from an unfaithful wife.

In certain parts of Korea, the procedure is different. Customs justify a amn taking matters into his own hands.

He may bury his wife alive when just her head emerging from the earth. Here she serves as a horrible example to all her sex.

INTEREST TAKEN IN TOBACCO HARVEST.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—(By Canadian Press).—Considerable interest is being taken in the harvesting of a tobacco crop near the little village of Church Crookham, Hampshire, where A. J. Brandon has twenty-three acres of "the weed"—notwithstanding a certain amount of scoffing at the idea of establishing a British tobacco growing industry, He estimates that the yield of dried leaf per acre will be nearly 800 pounds in weight. This means that he is producing about 18,000 pounds of tobacco. Under existing conditions the enterprise is not commercially remunerative, but Mr. Brandoa is hopeful of improved condtiions before long.

It is not generally known that tobacco was once grown on a very large scale in England. There was a time in the seventeenth century when the plant was cultivated in thirty-one counties. In 1660, however, the growing of tobacco was prohibited by an act of Parliament, and it was not until 1910 that cultivation was again permitted. Little progress was made before the war, and during the great world conflict the growing of tobacco had to be suspended while the land was used for food production. To-day the industry is in the experimental stage again. The Government has been approached with a view to State aid being given to encourage tobacco growing, but so far no definite action has been taken in the matter.

LLOYD GEORGE TELLS WHY CANADA INVITED TO DESPATCH TROOPS

Could Not Ask Australia and New Zealand Without Asking Canada and South Africa.

ISSUES INVOLVED

LONDON, Sept. 24.— (Canadian Press.)— Premier Lloyd George, after an address at Downing street today to the press representatives, favoured Reuter's agency, on behalf of the Canadian Press, with a special interview with regard to Canadian criticisms of the Imperial government's method of inviting various Dominions to send contingents in event of war with Turkey. Lloyd George emphatically denied that the Dominions, in any way were being exploited for political purposes. He said there was no question of such a thing and such an impression was entirely unfounded. The Premier said the Cabinet felt that sacrifices which Australia and New Zealand had made in Gallipoli in the Great War entitled them to be consulted when the question of freedom of the Dardanelles Straits was involved. The Cabinet decided, therefore, that these Dominions were entitled to participate in the defence of freedom of the Straits and the Cabinet at the same time felt that it was impossible to ask these two Dominions to take part in defence without inviting the remainder of the Dominions, thus Canada and South Africa were also approached.

The Prime Minister declared at the outset he would like to have it clear that any action that had been taken had nothing to do with the merits or demerits of the case under dispute between the Greeks and the Turks. The British Government and the Premier had been impartial as between the Greeks and the Turks.

He pointed out that a few weeks ago the Greeks threatened to march on Constantinople and at that time General Harington, British General in Chief Command at Constantinople, had warned the Greeks "in the identical terms as the warning now given to Mustapha Kemal Pasha."

In dealing with the question of the freedom of the Straits, Mr. Lloyd George said that what had happened in the late war demonstrated how vital was the freedom of the narrow seas to protection of commerce and "to humanity in its broadest aspects. "Closing of the Straits by Turkey during the late war, he declared, was responsible for the disaster" of our strongest allies and the defeat of Roumania, and prolonged the war by at least two years. In pointing out Great Britain's impartiality as shown by her warning to the Greeks, Mr. Lloyd George added, "we acted then in the interests of peace. The same motive is inspiring our action to-day."

Baron Byng See a Chance World Peace

SASKATOON, Sask., Sept. 24. —(Canadian Press.) —Speaking at a public reception here last night, Baron Byng of Vimy declared there was taking place, despite apparently adverse reports, a gradual improvement in the interest of nations, and an even larger interest in cause of world peace. He referred to the treatment of present difficulties in the Near East as an illustration and expressed the belief that an educated public opinion throughout the Empire would have a moral effect upon the disturbing elements that should go far towards maintaining stabilized conditions.

TURKS WILL GET CONSTANTINOPLE

Eastern Thrace and Adrianople May Also Be Included in Concessions.

PARIS, September 23 (Canadian Press). — Limited assurances involving the return of Constantinople, Eastern Thrace, and Adrianople to Turkey were tentatively agreed upon yesterday at a meeting of Allied representatives, and will be formally considered by the French and the British Cabinets to-day.

The approval of these conditions of peace would mean an end to the Near East crisis, and, it is hoped, remove all possibility of a clash between the British and the Turkish Nationalists.

M. Poincare favoured out-and-out approval of all Kemalist demands.

A general scheme for peace would include the internationalisation of the Straits under the League of Nations, maintenance of an Allied force at Gallipoli, and treaty clauses ensuring the protection of the minorities in Turkey.

FREE DARDANELLES.

LONDON, September 23 (Canadian Press). — The policy of Great Britain in the Near East is to establish the freedom of the Dardanelles under the supervision of the League of Nations, declared Prime Minister Lloyd-George in a statement at the conference with newspapermen this afternoon.

Mr. Lloyd-George said that whatever steps the Government had taken to strengthen the military and naval forces in the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus had been directed by two supreme considerations—First, "our anxiety as to the freedom of the seas between the Mediterranean and the Black Sea," and second, to prevent this exceptionally prodigal war from spreading into Europe.

SALVATION ARMY OFFICER WILL VISIT PETERBORO.

Adjutant Smith, of the Salvation Army, announced to-day the visit on October 11th of Col. Unsworth, of the International Headquarters, London. He will give a lecture on the work of the Army, and will be accompanied by Col. Miller, of Toronto, field secretary, and Brig. D. Moore, divisional officer.

A REST AND EMERGENCY TENT AT EXHIBITION

A Rest and Emergency Tent was provided this year at the Peterboro Fair by the Peterboro Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society. In the tent were comfortable chairs, and a cot for the use of mothers and babe. A supply of pasteurized milk was on hand and provision made for heating feedings. The Well Baby Clinic kindly loaned their scales and babies were weighed and a record of the weight given to the mother together with Red Cross and Health Department literature. A First Aid outfit formed part of the equipment and some minor injuries received attention. Trained nurses were on duty all day to aid in weighing the babies and to give information. Many expressed their appreciation and took advantage of this service.

WAR OR PEACE TO BE KNOWN IN 36 HOURS

Turkish Cabinet Now Considering Whether Kemalists Await Conference Before Invading Thrace

BRITAIN PREPARES

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 23. — (Canadian Press.)—Within thirty-six hours the world will probably know whether Turkish Nationalists have chosen war or peace. The Angora Cabinet meeting at Smyrna is expected hourly to declare whether the Kemalists will await a peace conference proposed by the powers or take matters into their own hands by invading Thrace.

Renewed French Pressure.

France is expected to renew pressure to keep the Turks from any hostile action which would jeopardize their present extremely favorable position at the forthcoming conference, but many competent observers are frankly skeptical that the Nationalist Cabinet will accept at their full value the promises that the conference will result in a realization of all their claims.

SPECIAL FRENCH EMISSARY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 23. — (Canadian Press.) — The French Government has sent a wireless message to Mustapha Kemal Pasha requesting him not to take any action until meeting with a special French emissary, it was learned here to-day.

BRITAIN RUSHING TROOPS.

Britain is reported to have agreed to the return of Constantinople to the Turks.

A British Cabinet meeting will be held to discuss the matter. In the meantime troops are being rushed to the scene. The Turks are concentrating troops at Ismid. Lloyd George declares Britain is doing its utmost to prevent war, but the Turks will not be allowed to carry war into Europe.

HALIFAX, Sept. 23. — (Canadian Press). — The British steamer Gemma, recently seized off New York, and held at that port on suspicion of rum-running, has been released, and is proceeding to Havana, according to the Halifax Customs, for New York. The Gemma cleared for Havana from Halifax with $100,000 worth of liquor.

KNOX CHURCH.

The Sunday School of Knox Church is holding a great rally on Sunday afternoon. Not only will the Rally Day programme be given, but the grading of the classes for the next twelve months will go into effect. It is of great importance that every teacher, officer and pupil be on hand.

The minister will conduct both church services, speaking in the morning on "The Open Bible," and in the evening on "The Christian's Watchword." All members of the congregation will help to make the day a real Rally Day by being present at these services. Friends and strangers will receive a cordial welcome.

HEAVY CASUALTIES ARE REPORTED IN BOOZE WAR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. — Bootleggers have killed 125 prohibition enforcement agents since the war on rum-runners began, Prohibition Commissioner Haynes estimated here.

Of this number, 24 were federal agents and the remainder, state, county and muncipal.

Wounded among enforcement agents number more than 35,000 he asserted.

'In spite of the fact that so many have been killed, we have not lifted our rigid restrictions on the use of firearms" Haynes told the United Press.

Haynes holds a "lax of public conscience" to blame for many of the casualties. So long as people buy from bootleggers, the latter will be encouraged to engage in the manfacture and resort even to murder, to profit by the traffic.

KING AT PLAY IN HIGHLANDS

Enjoys Getting Away From Ceremonies and Formalities, Living Like Ordinary Citizen.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(Associated Press).—King George is enjoying himself these autumn days at Balmoral in the Highlands. More than anywhere else he is there able to get away from ceremonies and formalities and pass his days as an ordinary citizen. He is never without a few guests at Balmoral, but never entertains there on a large scale. He does not have to.

He is always an early riser in the Highlands, and almost as soon as the sun has dispersed the mists from the towering hills, the royal piper is seranading below the King's bedroom window, "skirling" some favorite pibroch.

Every day at Balmoral a certain routine is followed, for the King makes a point of being in the open as much as possible. One day there is a grouse shoot on the royal estates or some of the neighboring moors, and the next sees a deer drive in Ballochbuie Forest, or a deer-stalking expedition around Lochnager.

Another day the King may prefer to go fishing on the "Silvery Dee," one of the best salmon rivers in Scotland; or, again, the day may be spent in walking within the extensive royal estate or climbing some of the surrounding hills.

Days are set apart, too, for trout fishing on Loch Muick, and for picnics and lunches with the royal household and guests at one or another of the numerous picturesque bungalows which stand in some of the lonely glens within a few miles of the castle.

The great social event on Deeside during the King's holiday at Balmoral is the Braemar gathering. As this day comes round the purple heather and yellow gorse of Deeside are again alive with armed highlanders. The King's men from Balmoral are there in the red tartan of the Stuarts, with the King's factor to command them. They carry the great Locaber axe, while the Duff men, who follow them, are armed with the pike, and the Farquharsons with the claymore. Highland games, the dancing of the sword dance, and the skirling of the pibrochs fill the Braemar day. Such a scene among the heather and brecken, colored with all the hues of early autumn in the Highlands, draws spectators from all quarters and of all nationalities.

CASSELMAN IS DEAD.

BROCKVILLE, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—The injuries which Wesley Casselman, aged 17, received when he was struck by a piece of timber while assisting in the erection of a barn at the farm of John Reddick, near Morrisburg, have proved fatal. He did not appear hurt at the time, but afterwards complained of a pain in his head, and died in a few hours.

PRAIRIE FIRE IS BEYOND CONTROL.

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Fire broke out on the farm of Allan Heath, nine miles west of Rouleau, Sask., shortly before noon yesterday, and was quickly fanned into a furious blaze, destroying large fields of grain and a number of farm buildings.

According to a long distance telephone message received at noon by Provincial Police Commissioner Mahoney from Dr. McCane, Rouleau, the fire is beyond control.

GREAT INTEREST IN ANNIVERSARY

Bishop O'Brien Baptized, Confirmed, Ordained and Consecrated Here

Regardless of creed, Peterboro's people are deeply interested in the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the ordination into the priesthood of His Lordship Bishop M. J. O'Brien, inasmuch as the Bishop of Peterborough is a lifelong resident of this city and has spent all his years, except while at college, seminary and university, in this city. His circle of friends and acquaintances embraces the whole community, and citizens generally will unite in congratulating him.

His Lordship was born in Peterborough on July 29, 1874, his parents being James O'Brien and Hannah Cregan. He was educated in the old Murray Street Separate School, at the Collegiate Institute and at the late F. J. Lynch's private school. He then finished his classical course in St. Michael's College, Toronto, and took philosophical and theological courses in the Grand Seminary, Montreal.

Bishop O'Brien was ordained into the priesthood by the late Rt. Rev. Bishop O'Connor on July 6, 1897, and spent the two following years at Propaganda University, Rome, Italy, where he obtained the degree of Doctor of Theology. Returning to Peterborough in September, 1899, he was curate at St. Peter's Cathedral until November 21, 1909, when he was appointed the first pastor of the new parish of the Sacred Heart, Peterborough.

On June 20th, 1913, he was appointed Bishop to succeed the late Bishop O'Connor, and was consecrated by the late Apostolic Delegate Monsignor Stagni, on September 24 of the same year.

It is an unusual record that His Lordship should have been baptized, confirmed, ordained and consecrated in the one Cathedral, St. Peter's.

NEGOTIATIONS FAIL

Both delegations while awaiting final instructions from their governments, announced yesterday that they were prepared to depart.

TINDLE TRIAL COMES BEFORE COUNTY COURT

Medical Evidence Submitted for the Defence—Local Doctor Censured for Absence.

TINDLE ACQUITTED

In the County Court yesterday before Judge Huycke, George Tindle of Smith Township was charged with an offence against a young girl on the Ennismore shore of Chemong Lake on Sunday afternoon, August 27th. The evidence of the prosecution showed that the accused had taken the girl out in a canoe and that after arriving on the Ennismore shore had pulled her out of the canoe into the bushes where the offence took place. Under cross examination the girl admitted that she did not scream or cry and that she did not mention the matter until the following afternoon when she told her brother-in-law with who she was staying in Smith. The accused in the witness box absolutely denied the girl's story stating that they had never landed at the Ennismore shore at all. Evidence for the defence was also brought in to show that there had not been time on the trip for the incident described by the girl. Dr. W. H. Young ,called for the defence stated that from a medical standpoint nothing was shown in the evidence to substantiate the charge. A number of prominent Smith township farmers and Rev. MacGregor of Fraser testified to the good character of accused. Dr. M. Yelland subpoenaed by the prosecution sent a telegram stating that he was in Dunnvill and could not appear for Friday. He was severely censured by the Judge.

At 6 o'clock court adjourned till 10.30 Saturday. G. W. Hatton, K.C. assisted by G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P. acting for the family of the girl acted for the prosecution and Joseph Wearing and W. F. Huycke for the defence.

Evidence for the prosecution given by Provincial Constable George Cookman and License Inspector Stewart affirmed that when Tindle was first accused of the act he denied it entirely.

When the hearing was resumed this morning, Dr. M. Yelland, who had travelled all night from Dunville to be present to-day, and was called by the Crown, gave evidence which tended to show that the girl's story was exaggerated, with the result that Tindle was acquitted.

THIS FARMER USED HIS PITCHFORK AS WEAPON

Fined $20.00 And Costs In Lindsay Police Courts

LINDSAY, Sept. 23. — County Police Court presided over by Magistrate Moore, heard the details of an assault case, the participants in which resided in Somerville township

In the month of September, a Somerville township farmer was threshing, and several other farmers were assisting him. The two men in question were working in the mow, and got into an argument, persumably because one accused the other of not doing his share of the work. A scuffle followed, and one bit the other over the head with the handle of his pitchfork A charge of assault was entered and in court this morning, the accused pleaded not guilty. The evidence was heard, and the magistrate decided that the accused was guilty. A fine of $20 and costs, amounting in all to $46.80 was imposed.

RALLY DAY AT GEORGE STREET

Tomorrow will be observed as Rally Day in all departments of the George Street Methodist Church. A man with a message for youth, Prof. W. H. Greaves of Toronto, will preach morning and evening, and also address the open session of the Sunday School at 3 p.m. At the evening service Master Kenneth McCannon, the boy soprano, will sing, and the choir, under J. H. Renwick, will render special music at both services. A hearty invitation is extended to all, and in particular to young people to attend these services.

One-third of War Widows Re-Married

The Westminster Gazette says: "What is it that secures the widow a husband when there is still a heavy total of spinsters? Of the 236,000 women who received pensions from the Government because their husbands fell in the war, some 74,000, or nearly a third, have re-married. It is an interesting fact from both sides of the question. We are often informed that the bulk of women enter marriage as a vocation. But here are 74,000 who had some sort of allowance, and frequently the preference of employment, voluntarily abdicating their independence to be married again. They also surrender their pension on re-marriage, though they receive, as a gratuity, one year's pension. From the man's point of view the question is also puzzling.

FARMER INJURED CROSSING STREET

Struck by Automobile on Hunter Street—His Leg Broken.

While crossing Hunter Street in front of the Bell Telephone Office this morning, Edward Hunter, R. R. No. 7, Otonabee, was struck by an automobile driven by Stewart Foster, an employee of Edward Cooney, and was dragged along the pavement, suffering a triple fracture of one leg below the knee. He was given first aid attention by Dr. Bruce Marshall, and was removed to the Peterborough Clinic on Charlotte Street and afterward to the Nicholls Hospital in Belleghem's ambulance. Mr. Hunter was severely bruised apart from his major injury. Police Officers Thomas and Carey, who investigated the accident, reported contradictory statements as to who was to blame.

WILD GRAPES SPECIALTY ON LOCAL MARKET

Homebrewers Have A Chance To Stock Up At 50c A Basket—Poultry Plentiful To-day.

POTATOES 90c. TO $1.00

Prices on the farmers' market this morning receded under heavy supplies. Not even the crowds of buyers had any material influence in bolstering the quotations, and consumers found the plethoric offerings a decided advantage.

Potatoes ranged from 85c to $1 a bag, with nearly all the varieties of spuds represented. Apples were also plentiful, from 20c a peck up, and tomatoes were in large supply at 50 cents a bushel and thereabouts.

Buying was generally brisk, especially in garden stuff, which was abundant. Corn and wax beans were among the fresh vegetables that lingered from the early part of the season, and cabbage, cauliflower and other later products were shown in profusion and comparatively cheap.

Wild grapes at 50 cents a basket tempted those who believe in making their own wine, and the tame or garden kinds were sold around 80 cents a basket.

Mr. A. Stenson, of North Monaghan, had an attractive and large display of garden and orchard products, including a lot of home-grown grapes in three colors, blue, green and red. St. Lawrence apples found many buyers, and Wealthies and Snows were also shown in some of the trucks. The outdoor display would have done credit to the average agricultural exhibition.

Upstairs, butter was in active demand at 38 cents, chickens were piled high along the benches at 28c a pound down to 25c, and eggs were also plentiful and unchanged in price.

It is always a matter of wonderment that the market clerk or some other official continues to tolerate so many men, who appear to have nothing else to do but to snoop and stroll around the market hall, getting in the way, crowding the aisles, and generally making a nuisance of themselves. With the coming of the colder weather in another month they will cluster about the stoves, according to immemorial habit, instead of being invited to take the air and stay outside for keeps. The market is no place for curious or idle men who have too much leisure and don't know how to use it. The sooner an example is made in this respect the better for the women who buy and sell.

STILL SEARCHING FOR DAN SINCLAIR'S BODY

Thorough Patrol of Scugog Lake on Sunday

LINDSAY, Sept. 23.— There has been no let-up in the search for Daniel Sinclair, whose mysterious disappearance at Scugog Lake last Sunday night has cast a gloom over the community. Friends of the deceased have worked unceasingly in their endeavors to locate the body, but without success. It is not known how far or from what point the launch drifted, so that the place at which he met his death is as much a mystery as is the manner in which the tragedy occurred. If the searchers are not successful in finding the body before Sunday an appeal is sent out to all boat owners, as well as others, to lend a hand on that day in a thorough patrol of Scugog Lake near the Janetville shore.

TRADE CONDITIONS ARE IMPROVING IN CANADA

Creditmen's Report Shows Country Is Recovering From Set-Back Caused By Coal and Rail Strikes

IN THE PROVINCES.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press.)— The Canadian Creditmen's Trust Association weekly report summarizes conditions as follows:

"In the Maritime Provinces the wholesale trade is just about recovering from the temporary set-back due to the coal strike in Nova Scotia, more particularyy applying to dry goods, boots and shoes, and ladies 'and men's wear. Retail trade has only been fair, about the same volume as a year ago. Collections are somewhat slow.

In Quebec the wholesale and manufacturing trades are gradually improving while the retail trade reports better sales, especially in the ladies' ready-to-wear clothing and gloves. The exceptionally warm weather has somewhat affected fall buying. Collections are still somewhat slow, but improvement is looked for almost immediately.

Advices from Ontario indicate that the wholesale trade is holding up moderately well. A little more movement in the retail trade, collections only fair.

In Manitoba, the wholesale trade is quiet as usually expected this time of the year. Boot and shoe trade report orders coming in better than expected. Dry goods report business good but the grocery lines are not quite so brisk this week. Retail business is still quiet. Collections quiet, no improvement expected for another ten days.

In Saskatchewan the wholesale trade is reported to be fair, but slightly improving. The retail trade in the southern portion of Saskatchewan is still inclined to be slow, while in the northern part it is improving. Threshing seems pretty general and this is no doubt affecting collections which are somewhat slow as money from crop is not moving to any extent as yet.

Wholesale trade in Alberta is moderate. Retail business is rather quiet and collections have hardly started.

British Columbia reports in general wholesale business is fair though dry goods are suffering somewhat owing to the recent dry spells. Boots and shoes and hardware business good. Retail trade also shows a general improvement in most lines, but exceptionally fine weather has somewhat interfered with the sale of fall and winter commodities. Collections improving though hardware trade say not quite up to the mark.

CONDUCTOR NOT GUILTY OF THEFT

Defense by G. N. Gordon —Case Dismissed

At Uxbridge a G. T. R. conductor was charged before the Police Magistrate on Wednesday last with appriating sixty dollars from a purse which was accidentally left on the train Saturday morning, September 2nd. Mrs. Margaret Smith, a passenger from Toronto, laid the charge. She left the train at Uxbridge, leaving her purse, containing besides some small change and articles, three twenty dollar bills. When the purse was handed to her that night she found, on getting home, that the bills were missing. The purse was picked up by a little girl and given to her mother, who got on the train here and went to the same seat. Without opening the purse this lady gave it to the conductor. From the contents, he found the purse belonged to somebody at Uxbridge, and handed it over to the owner on his return at night. The conductor produced evidence that immediately after it was given to him he opened it in the presence of the brakeman, who swore there was no such sum of money in the purse. Officials of the G. T. R. gave evidence as to the character of the conductor, who has been in the employ of the G. T. R. for 25 years and without a record against him. The Magistrate dismissed the case. County Attorney Farewell, of Whitby, represented the Crown, and Mr. G. N. Gordon, of Peterboro, appeared for the defence.

WESTERN HARVEST NEARLY COMPLETE WITH GOOD YIELD

Reports From Various Points Show Threshing From 50 to 75 Per Cent. Done — Good Weather Prevails.

PLENTY OF HELP.

SASKATOON, Sask., Sept. 23. —(Canadian Press.)—Reports from the Saskatoon district say that there are more threshing machines at work than in any previous year and roughly 75 per cent of the wheat has been threshed. Conditions have been favorable everywhere during the last week and early completion of the work is anticipated. The quality of the crop is generally very good, though in some spots the yield is light.

EDMONTON, Alta., Sept. 23. —(Canadian Press.)— The farmers of Edmonton district have been blessed with perfect weather for harvesting during the past week and it is figured that nearly half of the crop has been threshed. Reports of yields vary, but in almost every case the grain is grading high. There has been no scarcity of help at any time during the harvest operations.

MOOSE JAW, Sask., Sept. 23. —(Canadian Press.) — Approximately 40 per cent of the threshing has been completed in the district surrounding this city. The yield in the district runs from 25 to 35 bushels per acre, the wheat weighing very heavy.

MEDICINE HAT, Sept. 23. —(Canadian Press.)—Wheat threshing is going full blast in this district with about fifty per cent of the work being completed. The yield varies, ranging from 40 bushels to the acre to practically nothing. The estimated average for the whole district is ten bushels to the acre. On the irrigated lands at Vauxhall ,the 5,000 acres under wheat are yielding an average of 30 bushels with some yields going as high as 45.

REGINA, Sask., Sept .23.—(Canadian Press.)—Owing to the exceptionally late seeding season approximately ten per cent. of the grain in the Regina district is still standing, according to farmers interviewed yesterday. Threshing machines are operating to capacity in practically every part of the district, but slightly less than half of the grain has been threshed. The weather this week has been ideal for the harvest and late sown crops have ripened rapidly.

BRANDON, Man., Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press.)—With the return of fine weather farmers in this district have commenced threshing again and it is expected that the harvest will be finished by the middle of next week. Over 75 per cent. of threshing has been completed with the bulk of wheat grading number one of good weight, although some wheat threshed during the wet period graded tough and of slightly lower weight. Much fall ploughing has been done and some fall rye sown.

STARVING PEOPLE IN OSSA DISTRICT.

OSSA, Republic of Bashkir, Sept. 23.—(Associated Press).—Grain is being eaten in this region by the hungry population even before it ripens, according to American Relief Administration Inspectors.

The Sarapool and Ossa districts were not officially declared within the famine areas until this spring, and since then the A.R.A. has established many feeding stations in an effort to relieve the situation. Out of a population of 300,000 in these districts, A.R.A. Inspectors estimate that at the present time there is an average of a hundred deaths a day from starvation. Since last fall it is figured that 31,000 persons died from lack of food in these parts.

FREIGHTER GROUNDED

QUEBEC, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—The White Star Dominion Line freighter Colonian, inbound from England for Montreal, grounded about six o'clock last evening on the north side of the Channel about half a mile west of Quebec.

The Colonian was only about fifteen minutes ashore for she backed off under her own steam and continued on her way. She did not give any signals or ask for assistance.

The third battalion of the Coldstreams Guards will leave Aldershot on Tuesday for Tilbury, where it will take a steamer for Turkish waters.

The second battalion of the Fusiliers and the second battalion of the Rifle Brigade are also under orders to move at short notice.

TURKISH FORCES ON CHANAK FRONT

No Acts of Hostility Have Been Committed--Troops Also Being Gathered at Ismid.

LONDON, September 23. Canadian Press. — The Kemalist forces are rapidly increasing on the Chanak frontier, but have not committed any overt acts of histility, says a despatch from Constantinople dated on Friday.

Reliable reports say that a still more serious concentration is occurring at Ismid, to which region Mustapha Kemal Pasha. the Nationalist leader, is proceeding, and there seems to be ground for believing the Kemalists will make Constantinople their objective rather than Chanak, innasmuch as larger quantities of supplies are available in the Ismid region while the the hostile population of Constantinople would cause trouble in the rear of the British.

PALE AND SICKLY GIRLS AND BOYS

Need All the Strength That Rich, Red Blood Can Give Them.

Youth is the time to lay the foundation for health. Every girl and every boy should have plenty of pure, red blood and strong nerves. With thin, impure blood they start life with a handicap too great to win success and happiness. Rich, red blood means health, full growth, strong nerves and good digestion. In a word pure blood is the foundation of health.

The signs of weak, watery blood are unmistakable. The pale, irritable girl or boy, who has no appetiteor ambition, is always tired out, short of breath and does not grow strong, is a victim of anaemia—the greatest enemy of youth. There is just one thing to do for these girls and boys—build up the blood with Dr. Williams Pink Pills. You can't afford to experiment with other remedies, for there must be no guesswork in the treatment of anaemia. Keep children healthy

Dr. Williams Pink Pills act directly on the blood, giving it the elements it lacks, thus developing strong, healthy girls and boys. Mrs. R. Kinch, Hepworth, Ont., tells as follows what these pills did for her daughter:—"I think it a duty to let others know the benefit which Dr. Williams Pink Pills have been to my daughter, and I hope this may be the means of inducing some other sufferer to try them. She was weak, nervous and badly run down. She took medicine from the doctor but got no benefit, and finally she was not able to walk to school. I was advised to give her Dr. Williams Pink Pills, which I did, and after taking them for a time she was restored to perfect health. I cannot speak too highly of these pills.

You can get Dr. Williams Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine,or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Wiliams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TOWN CAPTURED

CAIRO, Sept. 23.——(Canadian Press).—Amman, a Transjerdanian town on the Hedjaz railway line, southwest of Es Salt, has been captured from Emir Abdul's troops, according to a Jerusalem report. British infantry and planes are being despatched from the Palestine garrison, it is learned, to suppress any general uprising east of the Jordan.

BRITISH REITERATE DETERMINATION TO KEEP STRAITS FREE

Britain Seeks Nothing For Herself But Will Insist on the Neutralization of the Dardanelles.

THRACE SECONDARY.

LONDON, September 23 (Canadian Press). — The question of peace or war in the Near East seemed to turn last night first, upon whether the question of the future status of Thrace can be kept separate and distinct from the question of the neutrality and freedom of the Dardanelles, and second, whether the guns begin to speak before the negotiations between the Allied representatives in Paris have ended.

While there is not the slightest diminution in the announced determination of the British Government to uphold the neutrality of the Straits of Dardanelles, a very significant semi-official statement issued last evening seems to indicate some modification of the British policy and its attitude toward Greece in Thrace, which it may be assumed is the outcome of the Paris negotiations in which Lord Curzon, the British Foreign Secretary, participated.

This statement declared Great Britain was seeking nothing for herself, but that she would insist upon neutralisation of the Dardanelles and free passage of the waterway under the League of Nations or some other international organisation. All the other questions were secondary.

The negotiations in Paris have not yet been completed, but according to advices received last night from the French capital, Premier Poincare is hopeful that by to-day a formula will be found acceptable to all parties, and which will enable the Allies to send a collective note to the Turks suggesting a conference to arrange a peace between the Turks and the Greeks.

The Labour Policy.

One of the strongest charges made against Premier Lloyd-George's Near Eastern policy, especially by the Labour Party, has been its pro-Greek character. The Labour Party announced that it was unwilling to engage the nation in a war for the fulfilment of Greek ambitions. It has been commented upon as strange that after the Premier's conference with the Labour leaders on Wednesday no report of the speeches made were published by either side to the conference.

This silence, especially on the part of the Labourites, was considered in some quarters to indicate that some explanation or concession to the viewpoint of labour was made by the Premier.

A possible explanation of the silence was thought by some last night to be found in the authoritative statement made public during the evening, clearly intimating that the question of Thrace may be regarded as a secondary matter and susceptible of arrangement by negotiations.

According to Constantinople advices received here, Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist leader, demands within forty-eight hours guarantees for the evacuation of Thrace by the Greeks.

On the other hand, the Greek Government expresses the strongest determination to hold Thrace at all costs.

France is supposed to be willing to see the Turks back in Eastern Thrace, and if an agreement between the British and French Governments on this matter is reached, it is believed Greec would not be likely to oppose the views of a united Entente.

Report Unconfirmed.

The Foreign Office has no confirmation of the report that Kemal has fixed a time limit of 48 hours for the carrying out of the required guarantees, nor of any advance movement by the Kemalist troops.

The Government, however, is continuing its preparations for any eventuality, but at the same time declaring it has no desire to precipitate hostilities.

According to the view expressed in official quarters, the issue lies in Kemal's hands. There is no secret about the strength of the force the Nationalist leader is able to put into the field. No weight is attached to alarmist and exaggerated estimates of that strength.

While awaiting advices from Kemal regarding his intentions, Winston Spencer Churchill, Secretary for the Colonies, and Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, Secretary of State for War, held a conference last night with War Office officials to arrange for possible troop movements.

It is understood that the British liner Empress of India has been taken over by the Government to convey the Grenadier Guards to the Near East.

The War Office announces that a large number of former officers are volunteering for service.

The Colonial Office yesterday received a despatch from the Governor-General of New Zealand saying that although no call for volunteers had been made, more than 12,000 former officers and men had tendered their services.

Turk Guns vs. Navy.

There is considerable speculation here whether the Kemalists have guns of sufficient calibre to interfere with the British Fleet or drive it from the Straits of Dardanelles. It has been reported that the Turks long since provided themselves with heavy guns with the object of forcing all naval vessels from the Straits or for bottling up the Sea of Marmora and the Black Sea.

Second Growth Raspberries Here

A novelty in the fruit line that has come to the attention of the Examiner Editorial Staff, is a splendid crop of second-growth red raspberries brought in by Mr.Thomas Cronin, Elm street. The long stalks, with their fresh green foliage, are loaded with fruit, the ripened variety which, from personal experience, we can acclaim as being of very fine quality, and the partly ripened specimens; also last season the same phenomenon occurred in examples of second-growth fruit.

The injured were taken to nearby hospitals. Several may die.

British Statement on Near East Question

LONDON, September 23. Canadian Press. — An authoritative statement of the British Government's views on the Dardanelles situation was issued here last evening. It asserts that the Straits must be neutralized and open for free navigation to all countries of the world under the League of Nations or some other effective international organization. The statement follows:

"Curious misapprehensions exist as to what Great Britain wants. She is seeking nothing for herself and is pursuing no short-sighted policy of her own, nor one based on amour propre. Such considerations do not arise here.

"The supreme interest — no modification of which can be entertained—is the effective neutralization of the Straits and a full guarantee of free navigation for all countries under the League of Nations, or some other effective international organization.

"All other matters at issue are secondary and subject to peaceful negotiation between Turkey and the States more directly concerned."

KING AND CRERAR HOLD CONFERENCE.

OTTAWA, September 23. Canadian Press. — The Prime Minister yesterday had a long conference with Hon. T. A. Crerar, the National Progressive leader, relative to the situation in the Sear East.

After the meeting Right Hon. Mr. King intimated that he had invited Mr. Crerar to the Capital for the purpose of ascertaining the Progressive Party's views as to what steps should be taken in the Turkish crisis made it advisable to summon a special session of Parliament.

Mr. King said that formal statements dealing with the result of the interview and the understanding reached would be issued by himself and Mr. Crerar later in the evening. It had been agreed not to disclose any understanding at the present hour.

LIMBLESS HEROES FEEL A COLDNESS ON PART OF GOVT.

Resolution Asks For Grant of Capital to Permit Men to Engage in Business.

HOUSING SCHEME.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 23. —(Canadian Press.) — The men who lost limbs in the war and who are banded together as the Amputations Association of Canada, feel a coldness and indifference toward them on the part of the federal and provincial governments that is working a distinct hardship, it was indicated at yesterday's discussion of several resolutions requesting government assistance.

One resolution submitted by Norman Cape of Calgary, petitions the Federal Government to grant sufficient capital to enable amputation men to engage in business. In this connection Mr. Cape pointed out that an ex-Imperial soldier in Calgary was opening a business in Calgary as a result of receiving five hundred pounds from the British Government, realized from interest on what is known as the Prince of Wales fund. A. Hazeldon, Calgary, said it was almost impossible for an amputation case to obtain land from the soldiers' land settlement board. In connection with the resolution it was proposed that the interest accruing to the Canadian Patriotic Fund be used for this purpose.

The convention resolved to petition the Federal government to formulate a housing scheme to apply to disabled soldiers. This resolution was introduced by the Calgary branch.

In connection with unemployment it was decided to petition the Federal governments that in every office in their control where over ten men are employed regulations be made so that a certain percentage of their staff shall be men suffering from forty per cent. or over war disability with particular reference to amputation cases and that this regulation be made to apply to all firms who receive state contracts.

The Right Breakfast—Less than One Cent

IF you would finish the day right, you must start it right by eating the proper breakfast.

And the finest morning meal is the most inexpensive. Everyone should start the day on oats, the greatest food that grows, and the most economical.

The oat is more nourishing than any other grain food—it makes bone and brawn. But the maximum of oat nutrition, flavour and value is not found in ordinary rolled oats sold in bulk—it comes only in the Quaker carton.

We buy the very cream of the oat crop, which in turn we sift for the best grains. These rich, plump, perfect oats are milled into very thin flakes, and packed in sealed cartons. The Quaker package protects the Oats, preserves their original flavour, and prevents waste.

Perfect Oats—perfect milling—perfect packing—are the three simple reasons for Quaker's exclusive purity and wholesomeness.

Yet Quaker Oats cost less than a cent per dish.

Ask your grocer for the Quaker package. You can't get Quaker quality any other way.

OF DOUBTFUL VALUE.

The anxiety of labor organizations, not only in Canada but all through the British Empire, to avert a war in the Near East is easy to understand. The burden of suffering caused by war falls with full force upon the workers, and they have not forgotten the last terrible conflict.

The wisdom of their conduct at the present time, however, in loudly shouting their opposition to military action on the part of Great Britain is open to question.

Giving the Kemalist Turks the impression that the Empire is not united, and that the workers not only of the Mother Country and the Dominions will not support the British Government may be to precipitate the very thing that Labor is anxious to avoid.

It may be that the best preventative against a war with Turkey would be a demonstration that the whole power of the British Empire is ready to oppose a warlike move on the part of Kemal Pasha.

Resolutions protesting against Britain's entrance into hostilities might be the means of hastening war, rather than preventing that catastrophe.

PETERBOROUGH'S DUTY.

The anniversary of the signing of the Armistice which ended the World War nearly four years ago will soon be here.

It should not be allowed to pass without some definite announcement as to when and how Peterborough intends to honor the memory of her sons who did not come back.

Other communities have erected appropriate memorials, and the names of the heroic dead are preserved where the world may read them. Here in Peterborough we have left the remembering to those who remember all too well, to the friends of the men who sacrificed everything.

It is high time that a portion of our debt to the memory of the citizen soldiers who died fighting for the Empire's cause were discharged, and it is hoped that Armistice Day will be marked by an announcement that this solemn obligation will be speedily assumed by Peterborough.

In recruiting this city was a pace-maker; it will be a striking indictment of our sense of gratitude if we are among the last to erect a memorial in honor of our dead.

A SPLENDID CAUSE.

The splendid work carried on the Children's Aid Society in this district is so generally recognized that it seems scarcely necessary to enlarge upon the Society's operations in calling the attention of the citizens of Peterborough to the fact that the annual tag day is to be held a week from to-day.

The Children's Aid Society was the first organization locally to use this method of raising funds, and it depends upon it to secure the revenue necessary to finance its activities for the next twelve months. As the expenses are increasing year by year a substantial total will be necessary next Saturday, and the Examiner feels confident that it only requires a mention of this fact to ensure a liberal response.

The mission of caring for neglected and dependent children is not only a work of mercy but it is good business.

The child of to-day is the citizen of to-morrow.

In looking after the children we are developing what is, after all, the greatest asset that any county can possibly have, and if Peterborough's tag day contribution results in only one child each year being set on the path that leads to good citizenship, the campaign will not have been in vain.

The people of Peterborough are asked to remember the Children's Aid Society next Saturday, and to be liberal in their response.

A WASTE OF TIME.

The Associated Boards of Trade, at their convention at Owen Sound, passed a resolution calling upon the Ontario Government to enact daylight saving legislation.

Whatever may be the general opinion in regard to daylight saving, it must be admitted that the Associated Boards of Trade completely misunderstand the Provincial Government if they really imagine that there is any chance of their request being granted.

It was the hostility of the farmers that killed daylight saving both in Canada and the United States. The majority of the people in urban centres favor the new system, and many of them adopted it last summer as a local measure, but the agricultural interests have been solidly opposed to it since it was first mooted.

Ontario's Government, composed principally of Farmer members, can be counted upon to give daylight saving a short shift, and it is to be wondered at that the representatives of the Boards of Trade would waste time in deliberating over such a question or in drafting resolutions that can have no other fate than the waste paper basket of the Premier.

DEBENTURE DEBTS

The Ottawa Board of Trade, through President G. B. Greene is to ask the convention of Ontario Boards of Trade at Owen Sound to urge the Legislature to pass such laws as will make it difficult for municipalities to pile up big debenture debts. It is to be feared that the Ottawa Board is going at the problem from the wrong end, says the Ottawa Journal.

There are two ways in which municipal councils may contract debenture debts. First they may do so by procuring the assent of the electorate at the polls; second they may obtain the assent of the Legislature over the heads of the people.

If the contracting of a debenture debt is approved by the people at the polls, who can be blamed but the people themselves, and in such case why should the Legislature attempt to interfere? If there is one principle which should be fought for by municipalities it is the principle of home rule in civic government. The Legislature has many useful functions, but it should not attempt to dictate to the people of the cities, and towns, or the rural municipalities for that matter, how they are to spend their money, or how much or how little they are to go into debt.

Of course, where councils in their endeavor to sidestep the approval of the people at the polls, go direct to the Legislature, interference by the Legislature is not only proper but most desirable. But, unfortunately, experience has shown that the Legislature very seldom refers a council back to its people. Legislatures in general are made up of every human lements, who are subject to the flattery of council canvas, and so it comes about that the great bulk of council measures pass the Legislature. It is entirely unlikely that the Legislature would undertake to forego its privilege of approving of municipal requests. If the Legislature were to divest itself of such a privilege, the Private Bills Committee would be a very forlorn body, because the great bulk of its time is taken up in discussion of municipal requests. It is not likely that the Provincial Boards of Trade may hope for much relief from the Legislature.

The real remedy would seem to lie in such action as the people themselves may take in dealing with their elected representatives. If they think their councils are going over their heads too frequently they have an easy method of making their views known—and also means of making their views effective.

other words the whole remedy lies with the people themselves, and not in the seeking of restrictive legislation. It would be a most difficult problem for the Legislature to say just at what point a municipality should cease debenture expenditures. There are so many qualifying conditions. The people themselves should be qualified to say when the time for putting on the clamps has arrived. The real remedy lies in an awakening of the people civically.

A GAMBLE IN CHARCOAL PREFERRED

"During the last three quarters of a century, the Canadian people have permitted the destruction of a forest empire twenty times the size of the three Maritime provinces.

"There have been 4,000 forest fires in Canada this year, each one exchanging valuable public-owned timber lands for worthless wastes of charcoal and fire-weed. It is sheer business stupidity, as inexcusable as the exchange of pounds sterling for paper roubles.

"The Canadian citizen of 1750 and 1800 beheld a land wherein the forest was a no-account cumberer of the ground, a trespasser on agricultural soil. He had no lumber industry to speak of, no pulp and paper industry, no highly organized domestic business calling on the forest for its daily needs. But times have changed and yet the public mind refuses to bulge. Agricultural land is not now cumbered by forests, but instead the forest is very much cumbered by worked-out farms. There is more cleared land in Canada that should be put back under the forest than there is forested land that ever can be profitably cleared for agriculture.

"Forest conservation is not a matter of using less wood but of growing more. Eighty per cent. of the habitable area of the Dominion is unfit for agriculture and adapted only for timber production. The timber crop and minerals are the only possible magnets to new population, new towns, new industries over that untillable eighty per cent. To-day in the marketx of the world the crops of Canada represent a precise equivalent of new factories, new employment, new sources of wages. Every year, the market valuation on forested areas rises in direct ratio to the decrease in America's timber supply and the advance in public demand for forest products. And we, with this enormously valuable public resource owned by the people of Canada, distributing its benefits to every man, woman and child, we who boast of being astute business men are throwing into the furnace ten trees for every one we turn to use. We, the trustees of the Canadian forest, turned to ruin last summer the equivalent of a strip of timber one mile wide reaching from Halifax to Winnipeg.

"Slowly, but inevitably, Canada's forest resources must come under scientific management, but right now the peremptory call is to get busy and put out the flames. Why talk of redecorating your house while the dining room is chocked with smoke? Unless the present plague of forest conflagration is blocked by the conscious shouldering of responsibility by every Canadian citizen, another ten years will relieve us of all need for worry about the forest resources. But let there be no confusing of plain facts. We must choose between forest fires and forest industries. The two things cannot travel in double harness, nor live in the same pasture. We must choose one or the other and the choice must be made right now, for another few years an inert public will solve the matter quite thoroughly for us.

"Forest protection is not protection of a tree. It is an insurance policy on pay envelopes, operating industries, thriving municipalities and public revenues. It means a sense of self preservation and a partnership in upholding the rights of the future. It means that we admit and practise the gospel that we have no right to play the prodigal with a resource that cost us not one penny and that appears in the will of Providence as the common property of the generations that follow.—Canadian Forestry Magazine.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

WHO MAKES WAR?

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Allow me to add my voice to the protest of your correspondent, Jas. W. McGill, and the millions of workers throughout the Empire in being forced into a war which is purely for commercial purposes, and, win or lose, cannot be of any value to the workers.

Your correspondent seems to think that no country ought to go to war without a mandate from the people. Ever since our much-wanted, so-called civilization began, the ruling class have never asked the people whether or not they desire war. "There's not to reason why. There's but to do and die," is the slogan the ruling class have always adopted. When there is fighting to be done, it is the workers who have to do it. When there is hunger and starvation, 'tis the workers who hunger and starve. When there is work to be done so as to pay for the war, it is the workers who are made to work like galley slaves. But—mandate, referendum; hah! War is only for us, the master class to decide.

Now, as to the merits of this new "war to end war," General Townsend, the British defender of Kut El Amara, tells us that Britain has no right in Constantinople. The U. S. A. newspapers blames British and French imperialism for fanning the flames of war. Britain supporting the Greeks, whilst our former ally France supports the Turks. Whatever it is, it is well seen our ruling class are mad with the lust for blood and more territory to conquer. Ten million dead in the last war is not enough. They have given us a breathing spell of a year or two, and now for a few more million corpses.

I remain.

Yours truly,
B. MARKSON.
